Sea Cadets Hold Joint Church Parade

Trim in their natty "round rigs" members of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps, Belleville, Port Hope and Trenton held a joint church parade on Sunday.

Following the parade the "Quinte", "Sxcene" and "Trent" corps enjoyed a buffet supper served in the "Quinte" barracks with local ensembles.

Committee Will Visit Dept. With Respect to Sidewalks

A special committee of city council will interview the Department of Municipal Affairs seeking advice as to the procedure to be followed in the laying of concrete sidewalks built by the city or a Trenton contractor.

It was pointed out to council that sidewalks laid by Albert Defosse had deteriorated rapidly and a demand for additional work was before the courts.

Chairman Reid wanted to know the purpose of interviewing the department officials of a court action had already been started. "Such action should have been taken before the sidewalk was started," he maintained.

Mayor Bott disagreed that the city had instituted court action but city solicitor R. A. Pringle states the city solicitor, Mr. Defosse, who had entered a counter claim for $1,800 payment held back by the city.

Mr. Pringle said it was doubtful if the walks could be replaced under local improvements.

Objection was raised by Ald Moxam to the sale of city-owned lots in the Parkwood Heights district for $1,500 each. The price was far too low compared with prices in other subdivisions.

Ald. Countryman claimed, however, that the lots in question were not worth $150. He said the lots would cost purchasers only $1,500 when the lot improvement charges were paid.

Carson Elliott, resident of the west district committee, was granted permission to place rest rooms at certain locations in the city.

AUTHORIZE EXPENDITURE

Council authorized an expenditure of $600 to the city's share in the cost of a tourist booklet to be published through the local Chamber of Commerce. Purchase of 2,500 booklets "Industrial Opportunities" was authorized at 20c each.

Cannot Hold Hearing Before Option Expires

The Ontario Municipal Board will be unable to hold a public hearing before the option expires relative to the proposed purchase of the Foley Foundry property by the city, it was learned today.

The option expiry date of the city's option on the property.

Two weeks ago council voted to purchase the Foley property for $40,000 for the development as a municipal parking lot. Approval of the municipal board must be given before the purchase can be finalized.

However, at last night's council meeting a telegram from the municipal board was received stating that a hearing could not be held before March 31.

What is this, a deliberate plan to block the purchase?" asked Alderman Robert Temple, chairman of traffic, who was the main supporter of the move to create the parking lot. His conclusion is that it is trying to be stopped."

He said that when he had communicated with the municipal board regarding the Foley property he was given to understand that there was a possibility the hearing could be held in time.

ALDERMEN ASK QUESTION

Ald. Reid wanted to know if the property was being purchased by City Engineer Charles Mott, which indicated that only 38 cars could be accommodated instead of 90 as was indicated on the original plan.

"What is this a deliberate attempt to show the project up as a bad idea?" another councillor asked.

It was pointed out there was a 25-foot roadway allowance passing along the edge of the lot. Mr. Temple admitted this roadway was in dispute, but maintained 90 cars could be parked on the property without utilizing the roadway.

The council proposal is to turn the property into a parking lot at a cost of slightly over $40,000 which would be paid off from revenue from the parking lot.

No decision on the matter was reached, it being decided to again discuss the matter at the next traffic committee meeting.

BRIDGE STREET

Bridge Street grocery store owner, had a suggestion to provide parking space for several hundred cars in the downtown area without the expense of purchasing property.

Speaking to council Mr. Kellaway suggested that a bridge be built across the river bank just above the water level. Cars could use the bridge as a street except during the spring run-off.

Council Declines To Take Stand On Apartment Heat

The resolution asked that cities be allowed to pass a by-law requiring that a minimum temperature of 70 degrees be maintained in heated apartments.

Alderman Moxam, council member of Edmonton, commented Alderman Angus Duffy.

Alderman Reid stated that the suggestion was impractical.

Alderman Moxam asked if some control over the matter could not be obtained through by-law by the health department. It was admitted that this was one way of approaching some control.

Here the matter was dropped and the resolution was ordered "filed."

Red Cross Blitz Will Be Staged This Evening

Today is the campaign's blitz and this evening from six until 9:30, canvassers will be out in full force to conduct the house-to-house canvass.

Mrs. Herbert McCabe, residential area chairman, reported that team captains and canvassers are invited to a lunch in the Y.M.C.A. following the blitz this evening.

W. J. Morrison, campaign chairman, has requested city residents to leave outside lights on between the hours when canvassers will be at work in the residential area.

Property Com. Will Investigate Mayor's Request

Can office efficiency be improved through privacy for workers or can employees get more work done in an atmosphere of semi-privacy.

Belleville's Mayor John Bolh thinks that better supervision of city hall offices would be possible if partitions between offices were raised three feet off the floor with open space left at the ceiling. The city property committee will investigate and make a recommendation to council.

The mayor said it was normal practice in all large offices to have only low partitions between offices as this allowed better supervision. He thought the same policy would apply at city hall and would allow Clerk Comptroller H. D. Bateman to better supervise the staff.

"I've never yet seen a big organization with all private offices for employees like at the city hall," said the mayor, "if we expect efficiency from the comptroller then we must co-operate."

WANTS TO KNOW COSTS

Alderman Keegan wanted to know how much the necessary changes would cost, while Alderman Argue wanted a word from Alderman Thomas, who as former chairman of board of works had recommended, that private offices be installed for members of the city engineer's staff.

The mayor replied that whatever the cost the city would more than reap the benefit in greater office efficiency.

Alderman Thomas doubted this claiming that an engineer doing drafting or other figure work needed quiet. If he was frequently interrupted by noise longer time was needed to do the work and time cost money.

Alderman Duffy also said he was opposed to the idea. One of his objections was that of cost and the other was the necessity for privacy for people coming to city hall on business.

"One big office with low partitions may be all right if all employees are doing the same work but the mayor's thinking does not apply at city hall with its different departments."

The matter was turned over to the city property committee for investigation and report.

Rev. E. Williams Preacher At Special Services

"Security in a Changing World" is the general theme of the special evangelistic services which commenced in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church on March 10. The guest preacher for these meetings is the Rev. E. Williams formerly of Johannesburg, South Africa.

Mr. Williams' sermons have been centered around the Scripture, John 3:16—the love of God and what it means to us. He said that man has an extra eye that sees those things that we miss. He mentioned how beautiful God had made this world of His, but as there was so much sin in it, it is needed something. Therefore, He sent His Son, Jesus Christ to walk the earth and live a perfect life, then Jesus broke the curse of sin.

He went on to say that when we desire to satisfy ourselves, we hurt others, that are we putting first, our homes, our business, pleasure? By answer he quoted the familiar passages from the Bible, "What will it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul" and "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and

Waitress Stabbed

TORONTO (CP) — Mary Arnold, a 17-year-old waitress, was stabbed and beaten early today at the busy intersection not far from the downtown area.

It was reported that a crowd of onlookers gathered but watched apathetically until one, a 35-year-old woman, came to the girl's assistance.

Police arrested Earl Brown, 25, on a charge of wounding.

His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." God wants the world to come to Him as individuals as Jesus said "if you seek Me with all your heart ye will find Me." He also brought before us what the cross meant to Jesus and what it means to those who turn their backs on it.

PLEASE JESUS

Another of his points was that we are very anxious to please our employer, but are we as anxious to please our Heavenly Father? Are we willing to make known the fact that we love Jesus, by confessing to Him our faith. Jesus died for you, will you accept Him or reject Him? Will you take the way of life or death? He went on to say that Jesus was a Man of Sorrow—His greatest was on the cross when He bore the sins of the world. He was forsaken that you and I would never be forsaken. Then will Him today.

Special music has been provided at the three services by Rev. Keith Daniel, the choir of Cobourg Baptist Church under the leadership of Rev. A. G. McDowell and also by Mrs. R. Templer of Guelph.

The guest soloist for the Sunday services was Miss Lilee Moore, contralto from Toronto, who rendered three lovely solos, "The Lord is Mindful of His Own," "Love Divine" and "The Penitent" a very inspiring story in song of the "Prodigal Son."

To Check Figures On Fill Moved In Industrial Area

Ontario Land Surveyor J. T. Ransom of this city will be asked to check figures of the local city engineering department regarding contour of part of the industrial area where levelling was done last autumn.

Frank Huson, local contractor, contracted to move an estimated 13,000 yards of fill to level the 10 acre portion of the area. He claims that the city engineering department erred in its estimate of the amount of dirt to be moved and that actually 27,000 yards were moved. He is seeking payment from the city for the extra yardage moved.

Levelling of the ten acre portion of the industrial site west of the railway track was carried out on the recommendation of the city industrial commission. It was thought that levelling of the property would make it more suitable for location of industry.

Mr. Huson said figures of the engineering department erred when the estimation as to the amount of dirt to be moved was made. In one instance where the plan called for removing six inches, cuts of up to three and four feet were made. He said the extra work had been done with the approval of the department.

Contract price for the removal of dirt was 26c per cubic yard.

There was a lengthy discussion as to how the exact amount of dirt moved could now be determined. It was agreed that original figures of the contour plan made by the engineering department should be checked by an independent engineer to determine if there were inaccuracies. Cost of the check by Mr. Ransom will be borne equally by the city and Mr. Huson.

Assistant City Engineer Keith Cowan said he was satisfied that department figures were correct.

Chimney Fire Forces Three To Vacate House

TRENTON (Special) — A stubborn chimney fire forced three elderly Murray township people to vacate a frame dwelling four miles north of here early today. The thermometer was below freezing at the time.

Owner Matt Corbett was on his way to the barn to feed a horse when he noticed smoke curling up from the end of the house. He realized there was something wrong and went back to the house to arouse his wife and a brother-in-law, Jim O'Brien, living with them.

Neighbors living at the top of the hill were summoned and an alarm was turned into the Trenton Fire Department. Everybody pitched in and were clearing the house of furnishings and valuables when the firemen arrived. Remainder of the household effects was carried into the front yard, with assistance the firefighters helping while the others went about the job of fighting the fire.

In a short time the fire was under control but the insulation between the walls continued to smolder.

When the smoke finally cleared the occupants faced the task of cleaning up the mess and moving the furnishings back into place.

Damage to the building would run around $300.

He said Mr. Huson had been paid on the basis of engineering department figures.

Mr. Huson told council he was prepared to initiate court action to collect the additional money which he felt the city owed him.

GUATEMALA CHEESE EMBARGO

Guatemala has placed an embargo on the importation of cheese from the Netherlands for six months, and on chick cheese from the United States for the same period. The Minister of Economy in Guatemala imposed the ban when imports to protect the national cheese industry. There has been a sharp drop in the consumption of local production.

Not a very striking news item, is it? Not to you, maybe, but it is important to the cheese industry in Canada and more particularly to the cheese industry in Hastings and Prince Edward counties. And if this decree affects the cheese industry in Hastings and Prince Edward, it affects everyone in these counties and that includes you and me.

The cheese industry in Canada has been in desperate economic straits for the past two years and has had rough sledding since the end of the war.. These cheese producers ultimately suffered a $450,000 loss last October in order to clear out some cheese and gain whatever trading advantages there might be in the British market. Their plight is not relieved by any means and the precariousness of the industry can be toppled by many factors, including a cheese embargo of six months in Guatemala.

Where is Guatemala? How can Guatemala bother a Hastings County cheese factory? Well, Guatemala is a republic in central America bounded on the north and west by Mexico, on the east by Honduras and on the south and southwest by the Pacific ocean and is inhabited by about 3,500,000 people. And until now it has been buying cheese from the Netherlands. By shutting off cheese from the Netherlands, Guatemala will have to buy more cheese in coin of the realm in the cheese elsewhere. And since Great Britain has been in the past one of the Netherlands' best customers, and because of its proximity, it is natural to suppose that the Netherlands might try to sell its cheese in Great Britain now that the Food Ministry has released money for cheese purchases. Should the Netherlands put on a dumping of cheese in Britain, the money available to purchase Canadian cheese will be reduced by that amount. And the market will be reduced by that amount as well. And if the reduction in the money to purchase Canadian cheese be reduced then there will be less cheese sold and fewer dollars in the pockets of the cheese makers and factory patrons in Hastings county. The cheese makers and cheese makers and their patrons means reduced business for everyone in Hastings.

Exclusion of U.S. cheese might also result in increasing pressure on the U.S. cheese industry upon the American government to impose an even stricter embargo on cheese imports to the United States and the meagre quota now allotted Canada could be further curtailed.

Guatemala is not a large, powerful country with extensive trade relations. But in this day and age even the Guatemalan Republic has the power to open and close the doors of cheese factories in Hastings County without the Minister or the cheese maker being aware of each other's existence.

SCIENCE REACHES THE BEDROOM

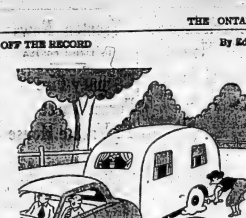
An announcement that textile experts in London are trying to design a quilt that will not only cut the bed in the home, but one of a scientific crusade to bring true efficiency and scientifically designed comfort to the bedroom. For years scientists have been responsible in everything in the house. Even the woman they have been reluctant to tackle the manifold problems presented by the personal disarray of the bedroom.



Living room decor has been given such a thorough treatment by stylists, interior decorators, furniture designers, color consultants and other experts that most people find themselves in the enviable role in an otherwise glass guaranteed environment and move into the kitchen where they can put their feet up. Or else they move right out to the neighborhood theatre. Devotees, of course, have restored the living room to its former glory in the domestic scene, but mainly because the lights are usually out and the scientific environment invisible.

The kitchen, of course, is no longer dominated by a big, wood-burning cast iron monster with a long black pipe sticking through the outside wall. Science has changed all that. Gas ranges, refrigerators, sinks, cupboards, washing machines, clothes dryers and ironing boards, plus fluorescent lighting, and sleek kitchen furniture have made the modern kitchen as scientifically functional as any housewife could wish. And the housewife, who formerly was burdened with the chore of basting turkey, and making sure that the oven was at the right temperature, with even temperature to brown pie crusts, simply flips a thermostat these days and waltzes off to the afternoon bridge club confident that a succulent bird is being browned to perfection by the inventions of the best brains in the world.

The dining room has been treated so scientifically that it has been eliminated in nearly scientifically that it has been eliminated in nearly acknowledged as an annex to a sterile kitchen or an extension of the living room. But the bedroom has still to be conquered.

It is surprising to think that scientists, clever fellows that they are, have sharpened their wits on lesser challenges before attempting the supreme test of the bedroom. The least of the problems being considered first with the invention of a "non-skid" quilt. Once this handy invention is perfected scientists will undoubtedly move on to "non-wrinkle" sheets; blankets that will not pull loose at the foot of the bed; and an automatic retriever of covers snatched away by a thrashing spouse. Handy disposal units for the day's soiled clothes might be devised to replace the hamper at the bed or the chair by the dressing table. A sling, under the bed for slippers that will position them correctly for a drowsy father when he has to get up in the night to see the baby, or junior a glass of water, but will hoist them out of the way when he comes stumbling into a darkened room, seems like the next advance.

That should be good for a starter. We hesitate to mention that a device to deaden other people's snoring would be an additional blessing". After all, more people spend more of their time in the bedroom than in any other single room anywhere, and it is heartening to learn that scientists are preparing to end their lengthy neglect of the bedroom. We look forward hopefully to the beauteous and entrancing results. We also look forward with enthusiasm to the efforts of clever landladies to advertise, subsequently, the comforts and conveniences of this bedroom of the future.

"No sir, there aren't many wives who can keep husbands like Dorothy."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What they call percentage leases have been established for some years in the United States and now are becoming increasingly popular in Canada. In percentage leases, you don't pay any rent at all. You pay a certain percentage of the business you do per annum. These leases are considered highly expensive down-town business properties, largely retail. The percentages range all the way from a low two and a half per cent to as high as ten per cent depending on what the nature of the business is. But there average is five to seven per cent of the gross sales. In our booming Canadian cities, percentage leases in down-town property for five to ten years are being signed with growing frequency. The element of gamble enters into business with this device. A property owner picks his man the way a horse player picks a horse. He forms an opinion of the man's track, and with an eye on luck. He tries to get the most aggressive man he can get his hands on. The more the tenant makes, the more the property owner makes. This is good for the tenant as well, because it gives him a landlord inclined to give him every help in running his store. It makes his landlord a partner in the business. The risk the landlord runs in case of hard times or declining business is no greater than he runs in any case, because the tenant pays what he can on a strictly business basis.

It will be idle if this percentage idea spreads to other fields, and I am not even inclined to be that day when rents of houses and apartments depended on a percentage of a man's income. No doubt some of our reformers have already got that figured out. However, I am told that a considerable number of down-town property owners still cling tenaciously to the old-fashioned rental system and that apartment owners probably belong to that old-fashioned group. The great majority of them aren't worth gambling on. A five to seven percent share of our gross income wouldn't hire a summer cottage for eight weeks.

DISCIPLINE

All games have rules to be played,
For every violation made
There's penalty that must be paid.

The rules are meant for one and all,
For each infraction, great or small,
The hurt of discipline will fall.

Well, life has various means and ways
To discipline each one who strays,
Who over-eats with suffering days.

Life's discipline is sharp and stern:
As children very quickly learn,
Who plays with fire their fingers burn.

Strict are its laws, and life's severe,
It favors none from year to year,
The cost of shame is always dear

"Letter to the Editor"

Voices Appreciation For Work of Firemen

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

May I, sir, express through your columns my sincerest appreciation to Fire Chief Gerald Vance and his entire staff of the Belleville Fire Department, for the efficient and correct in controlling the fire Saturday evening in the I.O.O.F. building on Front Street.

Police officers also helped in every way possible and I am indeed thankful to all who aided in this fire.

The firemen, I feel, should be especially commended on their courtesy and kindness not only in extinguishing the fire, but aiding those affected to return to business duties at the earliest possible moment. Proof of this same, sir, when I was able to return to business Monday morning at the usual hour, after a forty-eight hours after the fire

Sincerely yours,
S. H. Millard.

Engineers Lick Zippers

(Owen Sound Sun-Times)

Cartoonists have "made hay" for years out of jammed zippers. One press agent always arranged to have his latest pin-up client have zipper trouble charmingly in some public place. It never failed.

To young mothers living in climates where snowsuits are a necessity, the zipper is a tremendous blessing and trial. It's a wonderful gimmick, except when the child tries to unzip himself and snags a new undershirt in the metal teeth of the fastener. Sit on the child and use a pair of pliers and you can usually break the jam.

But many a mother is left ruefully contemplating a torn shirt front. The jammed zipper menace isn't confined to the younger population.

Comes an announcement which trumpets the development of a unjammer. Pressure on a little button, the item says, will spring open the jaws of the zipper, and there you are. This is an engineering miracle of no small significance.

Now on to licking the common cold, please.

Dawn In A Diner

(New York Times)

Off Times Square, just out of the garish, neon-lighted misery of light and noise, there is a diner that stays open twenty-four hours a day. It has its regular kind of customers: the dawn people, the lunch people, and the late-at-night people. The lunch people tend to be lingerers. On the other hand, dawn customers are gentler and more relaxed than the after-midnight customers. They don't hurry, night and, say, 3 in the morning, one is apt to find that those who have looked a little too long on the wine when it is red are more aggressive and there are more of them. Around dawn there is a subdued air of companionship in the diner, as if the night had shaken things down and left only the philosophers.

At dawn, certainly, no one would want to do anything else with his coffee but drink it and smoke a quiet cigarette. We so believed last night and 3. Once, sometime between those hours, there was a middle-aged man sitting quietly, eating some scrambled eggs and reading a newspaper. He was paying no attention to anything except his eggs and his paper. Two travellers, a woman sitting next to him sustained a long and low duet of life, dashed the coffee in the man's face, called him an unflattering name and left. They could appraise that happen at night. But lunacy or drunkenness in the morning is so rare, possibly non-existent. On another occasion, between midnight and 3, we watched another youth through the diner's plate-glass window. He was not drunk, but it was the sort of thing that the dawn customers would definitely have regarded as in bad taste. The midnight-to 3 customers, lamentably, appreciate such things.

It is a pleasure to discuss the dawn attitude. Plate-glass windows are not for pushing people through. Built for contemplating the quiet metamorphosis going on outside, they are for looking at the blue-grey to whatever the day turns out to be. The dawn attitude is one of reasonableness and humanity to man and beast. One of the nicest customers in the diner at dawn a short, plump man wearing steel-rimmed spectacles. He had no upper teeth and he slipped his coffee through them for his morning pleasure. He kept talking to the counterman about the baseball season, the weather, the paper, and he'd keep talking even when the counterman was far down the counter. He was talking mostly to himself. He covered the waterfront of everything, war, human relations and sports. Then he got on the topic of horse racing.

"The jockeys are brave to do that," he said. "Sure, sometimes they fall off and a horse steps on their face, knocks out a couple of upper teeth, his speech was soft and slurred. "See what they had to shoot a horse the other day? They got bunched up or something. I don't know. Ended up on somethin' and the horse fell down. Broke his leg. Had to shoot him. Too bad."

"No stuff", said the counterman, "I think I'll have to get a dentist."

"Yeah! Yeah! They shot the horse, 'cause he broke his leg. I don't see why they don't shoot people when they bust their leg. Why do they shoot horses?"

The counterman said, "They can't fix a horse's broken leg, they can't keep him from the point he so long."

"Well," said the little man, "it don't seem right, shootin' a horse. Couldn't they fix him with splints or somethin' like? They could amputate his leg and fix him up with a wooden one, couldn't they?" His voice was troubled. "They oughta do somethin' like that. It don't seem right. That horse layin' there, he don't know why they're shootin' him."

"It's better for the horse, to shoot him," said the counterman.

"No, sir! No, sir! The horse got three good legs and he ought to get wooden one, instead of shootin' him."

The man finished his coffee, put some coins on the counter, said "Good night," and went out in short, stiff legs. The rest of the customers went on absorbing their coffee and eggs, but undoubtedly they were thinking of some equine casualty on earth, where horses which had broken their legs in races could spend the rest of their days peacefully cropping grass on three good legs and a wooden one.

METCHNIKOFF WAS WARM

Dr. Brady

While milk, skim milk, separator milk (the part soma farmers feed to the pigs after separating the fat), buttermilk, sour, whole or skim milk, Bulgarian milk, acidophilus milk, Yoghurt, evaporated milk and dried powdered whole or skim milk are all excellent food sources of calcium and of vitamins A (sugar vitamin C which is destroyed by boiling).

Although Metchnikoff and contemporaries were not aware of it, people who consumed a pint or so of Bulgarian milk, Acidophilus milk, skim milk, buttermilk, Yoghurt or what's yours did get more calcium and more vitamins than people who didn't care for milk.

In the past fifty years more than ever before, the ordinary diet of Americans has been deficient in calcium and deficient in vitamins.

If you have followed this column even cursorily you must be aware that you are getting more calcium intake. For that purpose milk is your dish.

If you are fully grown up and feel that what we eat here is post-Tory days—humph, what do you know about Tory anyway?—you may nonetheless agree that is one of the richest food sources of nikoff's time we have acquired some new knowledge of nutrition, which enables us to watch more accurately the value of the various milk.

Metchnikoff recommended skimmed milk (not whole milk) for the preparation of Bulgarian milk. He boiled for several minutes, rapidly cooled to about body temperature, then poured in the Bulgarian lactic bacillus culture and left in a warm place to ferment or curdle for several hours.

Acidophilus was prepared from whole milk or from separator

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I MEET A POET

Being a lover of books, over the years I have accumulated many book friends, one of whom is Charlie Hooce, an Associated Press staffer, who used to collect books, but reads them and makes them his friends, so that it is a big day for him when he acquires a wife.

Recently Charlies and Emmaselia (what an intriguing name), the other half of his household, invited me to dinner, and I looked forward to meet a Canadian Poet by the name of Wallace Havelock Robbin, resident of Canada, near Kingston, Ontario. We were delighted to meet a poet in the flesh, face to face.

Many poets do not look the part, but Robb did. He was artistically dressed with a new sports shirt, its collar lavishly spreading out from the neck, and symbolic in more ways than one. The beading trimmed moustache and closely trimmed chin whiskers set him up in proverbial form, suggesting relationship with the painting art, but no, he was a genuine poet, as his books proved after I got to us some of his poems. His expert cooperation assisted me in my favorite American poet, Robert Frost.

We had a very happy talk with this poet and he told me about his home and bird psychiatry and of his love of nature. Did ever poet live who did not love every kind of bird, a brush, a dell, and rolling hills, populated by our songsters, the name of Wallace Havelock Robbin merited for inspired poetry?

Emmaselia, my wife, whom it was my gain to meet, didn't look as though he ever missed any meals. She was busy, however, at noon-hour lunch, but with a vibrating dressmaker's apron proved he uses his eyes which to see and his mind for expert interpretation. Poets are an asset in any country, and I congratulate Canada in having one in Wallace Havelock Robbi

OPEN THE FLOOD GATES

Before me in a magazine is the picture of a landscape with tremendous fields stretching into the distance. It is a part of the country I happened to know as a lad. Many times I rode over that section of the road but worth a few cents an acre. Today that same land is extremely valuable and fruitful to an extraordinary degree. The answer is to be found in another picture on the inside cover of the magazine. It shows a huge dam with its huge plunging through flood gates. There was always fertility in this land but fertility never comes to fruition without water. When the dams were built and the great sluices opened, the desert blossomed as a rose.

There are several billion people in the world today and there are untold millions whose lives appear as barren as the land of the desert. There are savages who live but little above the animals. There are poverty-stricken, sorrowful people in every community. There are sick people who wonder why it is that they have never had a happy hour. Yet every such person is created in the image of God. When the flood gates of God's Spirit are opened, then the fertile becomes fruitful. But it never becomes fruitful under any other conditions.

Investment In Humanity

(Windsor Star)

There has been a vast amount of money spent in Canada these past few years in the development of natural resources, such as oil, iron ore and other such assets. More will be spent in the next few years, in the building of the pipeline from Western Canada and the deepening of the St. Lawrence Seaway. All this will be of benefit to our people.

But all the great resources of Canada are not in the form of materials. And it is to be hoped that people are the most valuable resource any country has. Nature provided these can be maintained on decent standards, healthy, happy and prudent lives.

Health and Welfare Minister Paul Martin's address to the Congress of Canadian affairs to the Economic Club in New York. But that the best interests of his observations had to do with social measures undertaken in this country to the benefit of our people. He spoke of these measures as an "investment in vital human resources."

It is that indeed and, if we accept the view people are more important than things, we can find ourselves in the best investments in human resources.

Men's Shorts Are in Style

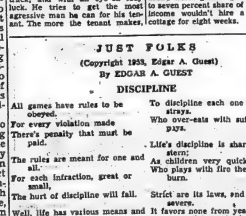
(Chicago News)

Shorts, it appears, are going to be with us in a big, if brief, way this summer. This substitute for trousers, worn almost only a few years ago except in the khaki or white drill of tropical military service, is coming up in the colors of the spectrum.



We think it's a fine thing. A pioneer who wore shorts when they were not fashionable was beery yard in them assures us that this garment is just as comfortable as it looks. There are times by then than honest if we did not point out that shorts have a serious aesthetic fault.

The masculine knee is no object of beauty, even when its owner gets past the first flush of youth and starts to grow bony or fat. But if enhancement of beauty were the object of ma's clothing, a lot of material of this could be said for any article of modern male dress.

And therein lies another promise of shorts, as the clothiers see it. Once you get man in shorts of fire-wagon red or robin's egg blue, you may be tempted what other, inhibitions against color will break down. It looks like a big summer for dark glasses.

Story of The Resurrection

By Fulton Oursler And April Oursler Armstrong

Promise Of My Father

CHAPTER 12.

In the remaining days of the forty that followed the resurrection, there were to be still other visits of Jesus. He next appeared to His apostles on a mountain in Galilee, to tell them more of the work the Church must do. The original remaining eleven waited for Him there, on the small plateau where long ago He had preached what has ever since been called the Sermon on the Mount.

And Jesus spoke to them, saying:

"All power is given to Me in heaven and earth. Go you into the whole world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

They knew then, if they had held any doubt previously, that the divine truth entrusted to them through three years of intimacy was nothing exclusive. Here was the final confirmation of the missionary duty of the Church that was, in these last days, coming into organic life.

"Going, therefore, teach all nations; baptizing them in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. He that believes and is baptized shall be saved: but he that believes not shall be condemned.

"And these signs shall follow them that believe: In My Name they shall cast out devils: they shall speak with new tongues. They shall take up serpents; and if they shall drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them: they shall lay their hands upon the sick, and they shall recover."

Their work was blessed and sealed with a heavenly promise for all men:

"Behold I am with you all days, even to the end, the consummation of the world."

The most vital instructions He reserved for the final appearance in the Holy City, just before the ultimate parting and farewell.

As they met together again in Jerusalem, He gave them the parting counsel:

"These are the words which I spoke to you while I was yet with you, that all things must needs be fulfilled, which were written in the Law of Moses, and in the Prophets, and in the Psalms, concerning Me."

For a long time he expounded to them from these three-fold Scriptures, "opening their understanding" as St. Luke phrased it. And He said to them:

"Thus it is written and thus it behooved Christ to suffer, and to rise again from the dead, the third day. And that penance and remission of sins should be preached in His Name, unto all nations, beginning at Jerusalem. And you are witness of these things.

"And I send the promise of My Father upon you—"

Here, Jesus referred to the great gift which the Father had promised, the coming of the Paraclete, the Comforter, the Holy Ghost. But He warned them to wait. They must not attempt to do the work of God without the aid of the Spirit.

"But stay you in the city of Jerusalem, till you be endued with power from on high."

"... Jesus the Son of Mary and the Son of God... departed from them... and vanished into the silver shelter of a cloud."

They would not have to wait long.

At the time of His going He led them out of the city, in the direction of Bethany.

This was to be the place of the Ascension.

The Ascension? Skeptics speak the word with disdain. But the Scriptures tell us just what the apostles saw on that glorious day when Jesus ascended to His Father.

The traditional site of the Ascension of Jesus into heaven is at the very peak of the Mount of Olives. As the agonied Garden of Gethsemane lies near the foot of that storied hill, so the place of triumphant farewell is at its crown.

Below the lofty summit lay a grand panorama, best of all views of the Holy City of David, on that Ascension Day, just as now. As He stood before the devoted assembly of His followers, Jesus could see the towers and domes of Jerusalem, the city that He had loved, the city of God's heroes and villains of past ages, and the seat of two Temples, the last of which, as He foretold, would soon be no more. Looking to the east, He could see the still waters of the Dead Sea and the mountains where Moses had been buried such a long time ago, as man must reckon time. And southwest, behind the Valley of Jehoshaphat was the other valley called Gehenna, the Place of Fire.

All the past of the chosen people lay within view, as Jesus lifted up His hands and blessed the followers who ringed Him round on the sunshiny, windy height. In intense stillness He raised His hands, the cruel wounds still clearly visible, above them all. With those nail-pierced hands still spread in benediction over their heads, Jesus, the Son of Mary and the Son of God, departed from them, and being raised up a little from the earth, vanished into the silver shelter of a cloud, which received Him out of their sight.

Jesus, true man and true God, had finished His mission and left the earth.

"The Lord Jesus was taken up into heaven and sits on the right hand of God"—so St. Mark states unequivocally.

St. Luke in his Gospel is content to say that "He departed from them and was carried up to heaven." But in writing The Acts, Luke spoke another matter.

"And while they were beholding Him, lifting up he heaven," he declares, "behold two men stood by them in white garments.

"Who also said: 'You men of Galilee, why stand you looking up to heaven? This Jesus Who is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come as you have seen Him going into heaven."

All the disciples, Luke continues, were seized with awe and adoration. With great joy they trudged down into the Kidron Valley and up the wedgelike rocky promontory on which Jerusalem was built. They went directly to the Temple, where now boldly, no longer in fear of martyrdom, they proclaimed their faith under the very noses of the High Priest Annas and Caiphas, his abominable son-in-law, praising and blessing God.

And young Mark, who was later to travel and work with both Luke and Peter and with him who was to be known as Paul, finishes the story of the Ascension in these words:

"But they, going forth, preached everywhere: the Lord working withal, and confirming the word with the signs that followed."

They journeyed over the country roads, through Stirling and back again to the Clancy home.

Foxboro School Holds 'Open House'

Open house was observed in the Foxboro School recently under the auspices of the Foxboro Home and School Association. A goodly number of parents availed themselves of the privilege of seeing their children's school books. It was interesting to see the different exhibits of the children's work.

Two tables were placed in the back part of the living room, one of which Mrs. W. S. Northcott poured coffee. The other table was graced with tempting looking desserts, to which the members and their guests helped themselves.

The meeting opened at 2.30 with the president, Mrs. W. H. Finkle presiding. Mrs. Finkle read a letter from Mr. C. M. Irwin, calling attention to a recital by the Albert College choir and Mr. B. Taylor next week in the evening in the Chapel of the College. Mrs. Finkle urged as many as possible to be present at the recital.

The program for the afternoon was arranged by Miss Jessie Tuite. The opening number was a delightful piano solo by Mr. William Connor, the "Quartet from Rigoletto". Before playing, Mr. Connor gave a short resume of the play, which helped his listeners to understand the music.

Mr. Murray Irwin, accompanied by Mr. Connor sang three solos, "Matty's Lament", "Silent Worship" and "Where's You Walk", all by Handel. Mr. Irwin's singing was much enjoyed.

The devotional period was in charge of Miss Tuite. Her topic was taken from an address to a group of college men at their graduation exercises, entitled, "Does Education Educate?"

The purpose of education it to prepare and equip students for the duties and responsibilities of life. The speaker opened his address by calling attention to the beautiful furnishings of the room in which the dinner was held. He spoke of the handsome table and the beautiful linen, lovely silver cloth, the fine china and silver, the paintings on the walls and the carpet on the floor. He asked: "Could any or you make this table", "Could you select the china", "Could you paint the pictures", "Could you weave this carpet?"

IMPORTANCE OF CREATION.

He wished to emphasize the importance of creative work and the dignity of fine workmanship. In academic training the value of material production is often forgotten, or considered of inferior value. Some of the men, whom he was addressing, would become captains of industry and he wanted them to realize, that men who create beautiful things with their hands make a definite contribution to the value of life.

The highest culture known to mankind is that which produces beautiful and useful things. Jesus Christ, Himself, learned to be a carpenter and Joseph's work shows the character of the workmen was Miss Madeline Young. Her subject was "Humor" and was taken from an article in an English journal, by the late Winifred Nash. Humor can not be defined. It would be just as ridiculous to try and interpret humor as to define a cobweb by geometry. Humor is needed in this age more than ever before, but in some cases the fine edge has been blunted by the exaggerated, so-called comedies of the screen and radio.. Audiences laugh at inanities; high school students do not know when to laugh and often, laugh at the wrong places.

To teach humor, one must teach understanding of life. English laughter is compassionate. It is from the heart and not from the head; and the English people can laugh at themselves. During the war, they laughed at danger, and so managed to survive. The "Cockney's" sense of humor is sometimes coarse, but it is irrepressible, and carried him through London's darkest hour.

DICKENS' HUMOR.

Miss Young referred to the robust humour of Charles Dickens as shown in the characters of Sam Weller and his father, in "Pickwick Papers"; to the subtle humour of Thackery and the whimsical humor of "Alice in Wonderland."

In Canada, Stephen Leacock and John Boldrick, have shown a delightful sense of humor in their writings.

American humor leans heavily on exaggeration. Mark Twain was the great American humorist. Miss Young read some passages from Harry Emerson's "Innocents Aboard."

In conclusion, Miss Young said "humor is a social necessity. When laughter is kindly, it makes friends and lightens burdens and much that St. Paul said of charity in his letter to the Corinthians, can also be said of humor. There is nothing in the world so contagious as laughter and good humor, so let us laugh together."

Mrs. Finkle thanked Miss Young for her splendid address.

In closing the meeting, Mrs. Finkle invited any of the guests who were present, and who wished to do so, to become members of the Guild.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE BELIEVED HE WOULD MARRY HER—HE NEVER WILL

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 24 years old, and for the past three and a half years have been going with a fellow nine years older than myself.

During the past year and a half years we have been having intimate relations with each other. He has been the only one I have ever been intimate with and, since I'm in love with him, I want to get married. When I bring this up, he always says he loves me and that I'm the only one he ever wants to marry, but to wait; one of these days he intends to marry me. He has been telling me this for the past year.

Do you think I should wait until he makes up his mind, or should I try to forget him? I have never been able to talk this over with anyone, and would appreciate any advice you can give me.—H.A.B.

Dear H.A.B.

What I gather from what you say is that you are just one more young woman who recklessly allowed herself to be persuaded into an affair believing it would lead to marriage, while the man in the case had no such idea.

This man is 33 years old, more than old enough to know his mind about marriage. You have been going with him for three years and a half and having an affair with him during the past two and a half. If he were sincere about marrying you, he would have done something about it long since. No honorable man would keep putting you off as he has been doing.

After all this time of associating exclusively with this one man it will, obviously, be a very difficult thing for you to break off with him and put him out of your life. But you had better do exactly that. If you ever want to have a husband and a normal married life, I am quite sure I am right in saying that no matter how long you wait you will never get this man for a husband, and I am also quite sure that the longer you do wait, the less chance you will ever have of finding one. Already, in having this relationship, you have put yourself under a matrimonial handicap that is likely to be hard to overcome. Why make everything harder for yourself by prolonging it?

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

WHAT'S YOUR MENTAL ATTITUDE?

Have you interesting work to do? Work in which you find real pleasure and exhilaration? If so, be thankful. Activity creates zest and a sense of well-being. If you don't believe it, take note of the idle women whose only occupation is time-killing. Usually they are bored to tears—and look it!

To women who take pride in their homes, who find that culinary achievements are a great satisfaction, housework is never a tiresome routine. They're never happier than when they have served an appetiting meal. They are the balance wheel of the home. They so plan and organize their work that they have time for a beauty routine and social diversions, too.

Other women, not domestically inclined, complain bitterly about the everlasting cooking, dishing, bed-making. They don't realize that they are becoming bitter, that their good looks will fade. It's all in the outlook.

It may not be fun to pound a typewriter all day, to stand behind a counter or to answer phone calls. But if one has to do these things in order to bring home the bacon and eggs, one might as well do them cheerfully. Individuals of sunny dispositions and courageous spirits are not only pleasant companions and nice to be with, but they're nice to look at.

If the job does nothing else it gets one out of bed in the morning and that's something. One never knows what interesting or exciting experiences the day may bring forth. The idle woman, with no interests other than self-indulgence, finds every day much like another. She can't read or play bridge or go to the movies all the time. And when night comes she can't say to herself, I have carried on; I have accomplished something worth while."

The career girl must have recreation and a certain amount of outdoor life for spiritual as well as physical health. There should be a balance of work and relaxation. If she maintains the right mental attitude her beauty problems will be few.

GOOD MANNERS

By: MRS. BEECKMAN

THE DIVORCEE'S PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a couple, married a short time, are divorced, and the husband (because of the wife's illness) has custody of the child, what name should the ex-wife register as for social contacts, and what form of name for business and legal dealings.

2. In the above circumstance, should the woman discard her wedding ring? — E.W.B.

1. A divorced woman should, correctly, drop her ex-husband's first name, and instead use her surname combined with his surname. For instance, Susan Webster Blake, divorced from Thomas Blake, should use the name Mrs. Webster Blake. This is the correct and furthright form of name, for it immediately informs of her status. If, for, any reason, it is important for her to indicate her first name, she may use Mrs. S. Webster Blake, but it is not correct for her, in her social contacts to use Mrs. Susan Blake.

Her business letters she should sign:

Very truly yours,
Susan Webster Blake
(Mrs. Webster Blake)

She signs legal papers as she is directed to . . . generally Susan Webster Blake, with (Mrs. Webster Blake) in parentheses under it, or possibly Mrs. Webster here names the "Mrs." in parentheses).

2. A divorced woman very often does discard her wedding ring . . . sometimes she wears it if she has a child . . . but actually she may do as she wishes about this.

If It's Good Do It Now

By Mary Moore

If you have an urge to do something helpful do it now. Do it while you are charged with enthusiasm."

That is the credo of a director of a large advertising firm who practises what he advertises.

You often feel an urge to visit a sick friend, but put it off because it might make you late preparing dinner. Or you want to invite a home-sick student for dinner but hesitate because you are not having a roast for dinner this night. Or feel you should give one of your Susan's outgrown dresses to the little poor girl in your Sunday School class, but don't because you don't know how her mother would react.

Don't put these things off! Life is not long enough. Do them in the spirit which moved you, and they will be interpreted that way.

I know a girl who was asked by her friends if she would go to a cocktail bar before a dance. She asked her mother if it would be okay with her if she went but did not take a drink. Her mother said "What do you think?" That question gave her enough pause to decide to say "no", and to her utter amazement none of the girls or their boy friends went either.

Don't underestimate your power just because yours is just one small eyes. One voice, the conviction and the faith of one ordinary housewife can work miracles . If you think a thing is right say so. Don't hide your light under a bushel.

You know well the story of the speaker in a huge stadium who asked that the lights be turned off. In the pitch dark he lit one match. All eyes were focused on it. Then he asked everyone in the audience to light a match or lighter after he counted 1-2-3. The hush, then the blaze of light was thrilling beyond words. He'd made his point, for 10,000 matches were really only a multiple of one.

I enjoyed this letter so much that I want to share it with you. Since I am giving it in detail I shall print the writer's first initial only.

"Dear Mrs. Moore: I have been following your column for a long time and like it very much. I tell you first something about myself I came to your wonderful Canada seven years ago from Holland. I married a Canadian soldier during the war. My husband was born in Scotland. I could not speak good English when I came here and I could not even cook potatoes. But I have a wonderful mother in law and she teach me a lot. Now we have five children all girls ages are 7-6-5-3-2 and expecting a boy we hope in April. We have a nice home in de coupty try with a yard and I have a small garden. I do a lot of my own sewing, and I put last fall about 200 jars of fruit, pickles, etc., up and we be eating this all winter, I have a tick vegetable soup one's a week as main course. I make a meat loaf in the pressure cooker. not a very good writer I hope you can read this and please don't laugh at my writing. My speaking is far better as my writing. —D."

Isn't that darling? "Don't you love "When they are all dress up on Sunday I am very proud!"

D., please see some pressure cooker recipes tomorrow, and I certainly did not laugh. Your letter was very good and interesting.

Mother Says Son Lied Astray By Man Who Was Murdered

BARRIE (CP)—Mrs. Margaret, Kingsley, mother of 20 children, told a court Monday her son was led astray by the man he is accused of murdering.

She said William Stephen Kingsley, 19, saw much drunkenness and immorality in the Toronto slum area where the family lives.

Kingsley is charged with 20-year-old Ian Robertson in the shooting of Frank Cameron, 50-year-old Toronto brokerage messenger whose bullet - riddled body was found in a ditch at nearby Stroud last Oct. 29.

The crown ended its case Monday after calling 30 witnesses. The trial, which started a week ago today, may go to the all-male Ontario Supreme Court jury late tonight or early Wednesday.

"KIND OF MAD"

Kingsley described how he and Robertson went for a drive in Robertson's father's car with the messenger was shot.

Questioned by defence counsel Norman Borins of Toronto, Kingsley said that between October, 1950 and August, 1953, he had been taken him to his room for homosexual practices.

On the night of the shooting, Kingsley said Cameron "got kind of mad" when he refused his advances. He added:

"I got out the car) and went to Ian, who was still trying to fix ded. the car, and told him Cameron was kind of sore. . . Ian went around and got into the car. Cameron grabbed him and pulled him out. They started fighting. Cameron was choking him and Ian was trying to punch him. I didn't know what to do, I thought Ian was going to get beat up good.

LOCKED IN TRUNK

"I remembered the gun in my pocket. It went off when I was pulling it out. The shot hit him in the neck. He dropped to the ground. We put him into the trunk and drove off. He started screaming. Ian stopped the car and unlocked the trunk and Cameron got out. Ian was standing in front of him and shot him a couple of times. Cameron fell and Ian shot him again."

Some time later, Kingsley added, Robertson pointed the gun at him and said: "Go put it in him. There's one bullet left. If you don't I'll put it into you."

Earlier Robertson was in the witness box. He described the night of meeting with Cameron and the drive from Toronto to Barrie, about 54 miles.

He said he and Kingsley intended to rob Cameron and took the gun along to "terrify him."

"When he tried to force himself on us for homosexual reasons, we were forced to use the gun to defend ourselves," the statement added.

Czar of Russian Culture to Be G. Alexandrov

MOSCOW (AP) — Georgi F. Alexandrov has been named the Soviet Union's new minister of culture, a ministry of higher education, dissolved after the death of Stalin, has been reorganized with Vyacheslav Petrovich Elyutin at its head, the government announced today.

Alexandrov, philosopher and warming propaganda chief of the Communist party, succeeds P. K. Ponomarenko, who recently was named first secretary of the Communist party organization of Kazakhstan. Central Asia. Elyutin was little known to the public before his appointment to the higher education ministry.

In the sweeping government reorganization following Stalin's death, the old ministry of higher education was dissolved and its activities incorporated into the ministry of culture. Now it is once again established as an independent ministry.

Alexandrov comes to the fore as the chief czar of the Soviet theatre, art and music, following a period after the Second World War in which he was roundly criticized and shoved into oblivion. He later fired as party propagandist because of a textbook on the history of philosophy he wrote in which he was accused of overemphasizing the role of Western European philosophers. He later was fired from his position on the editorial board of the important party ideological organ, Bolshevik, for supporting other philosophers which at the moment were in disrepute in Russia.

Since then, however, Alexandrov has risen gradually to the fore in Soviet political circles. He formerly headed the Institute of Philosophy and two months ago he led a Soviet scientific delegation at a meeting in India.

Local Bid Late, Kingston Gets Pooey The Skunk

By JOHN VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Fourteen-year-old Bev Stafford beat 16 other bidders from across Canada to get Pooey, the odorless skunk, is going to live with Bev in Kingston.

Pooey sedately arrived in a wooden crate Monday addressed to Bev. She left behind her job as appointed admirers—the W. E. Balcombe family who adopted Pooey about a year ago in Mayor Charlotte Whitton.

Pooey's 15-mile train ride resulted from a story carried by The Canadian Press. It told how the Balcombe family had to get rid of Pooey because of their jealous cat Mi-Mi, boss of the Balcombe house for 14 years.

The Balcombes adopted Pooey last fall when her former owner couldn't keep the skunk in an apartment.

The story brought letters from would-be skunk owners in Kingston, Gananoque, Paris, Brantford, Hanover, Belleville, Haileybury and Oshawa, Ont., Bridgewater, Middleton and Springhill, N.S., North Battleford and Saskatoon, Sask., and Brandon, Man.

The winner went to Bev because her mother, Mrs. C. M. Stafford, made the first offer of a home. The only cost to Mrs. Stafford is for Pooey's train ride.

Manitoba Liquor Laws Will Be Investigated

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Manitoba legislature was told Monday night that a five-man commission will examine the province's liquor laws and their effects to see if the laws need changing.

Attorney - General Ivan Schultz said the commission will investigate bootlegging and methods of control, treatment and rehabilitation of problem drinkers, methods and hours of liquor sale, licensing procedure, and serving food and soft drinks with beer.

In the Alberta legislature, Highways Minister Gordon Taylor said construction will start this year on Alberta's first divided, four-lane highway—a multi-million-dollar expressway on a 25-mile stretch of 40 miles north of Calgary on the Edmonton-Calgary highway.

CONSIDER PENSIONS

Members of the Saskatchewan house are considering voting themselves life pensions, with the province matching contributions. Only one other province, Nova Scotia, now pays pensions but limits them to cabinet members.

In Nova Scotia, Agricultural Minister A. W. Mackenzie told the province's Liberal government possibility of establishing a sugar beet industry in the province was "somewhat remote." There were too many limitations to ensure economic operation, he said.

FINDS EMERGENCY BRAWN

DETROIT (AP) — To 86-pound five-foot-two Mrs. Gloria Fair it was hardly believable that she had that much muscle. But she held back a driverless car rolling down her driveway Monday to keep it from crushing five-year-old Bobby Emerson, a neighbor boy. One rear wheel already had started over his body. Bobby was unconscious when removed but revived and was found not badly hurt.

SENATE BUILDING INVADED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capitol police reported Monday that safe-crackers invaded the Senate office building during the week-end and stole $250 to $700. A safe in the basement office of John T. Chambers, chief of the service department for the building, was opened by unbinging the door. Records are being checked to determine the exact amount of the loot.

ENTHUSIASM PUT TO USE BY FIRE CHIEF

Children's love of fires, fire-reels and "fire-fighting has been put to practical use, says Raul Sanders, fire chief of San Juan, Puerto Rico. He had a group of them outfitted in king-sized fireman's hats, red shirts and blue dungarees and gave them a course in fire-fighting and fire prevention.

That they are enthusiastic about the new thing is shown by the practice session above, with the youngsters, aged eight to 12, manning the high-pressure hose. Big event in the life of the young firemen—bonfires they're to go for a ride in the fire wagon.

Rebuilding Being Speeded Up In London

By DAVID SELLS

LONDON (Reuters)—Rebuilding of the City of London from wartime bomb damage is being speeded up after eight years of hold-ups and restrictions.

Works Minister Sir David Eccles has promised builders and planners his full support and his forecast that major reconstruction projects will be completed by 1960.

More than a third of the one-square-mile City was laid to waste. For raiding bombers, its maze of markets, banks, offices, warehouses and wharves along the River Thames offered an easy target.

The City still bears its unsightly scars. Acres of valuable land is covered with weeds and dotted with ruins. The ministry of public works, holding tight control over all building, has in the past given priority to major industrial and housing projects.

Successive lord mayors of London have lamented the slow rate of reconstruction. Sir Leslie Boyce commented in 1952 that Hamburg and other blitzed German cities were far outstripping the City of London in building achievements.

At the lord mayor's banquet last November Prime Minister Churchill himself said: "The City is a shocking sight and one can hardly think of a worse advertisement for British recovery and strength."

Chief emphasis in redevelopment is to be on large buildings. A maze of tiny streets and drab, overcrowded offices, a legacy of the medieval street plan, was blasted away by bombing. Twentieth century architectural ideas will get their chance, though so far nothing ultra-modern is scheduled.

SEES WEST TIES LASTING

GLASGOW (AP)—Norway's Foreign Minister Halvard Lange predicted Monday night that the close association of Atlantic powers will continue after the cold war is over.

He described the defensive alliance of the United States and, Canada and the countries of western Europe as "a decisive turning point" in the history of the Western world. He addressed the English-Speaking Union here.

Predict Small British Fighter To Play Big Role

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Air experts predict a small British jet fighter, yet to leave the ground, will play a big role in west European defence.

Officials of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors say the Gnat, a stubby, swept-wing plane which is smaller, lighter and cheaper than standard jet fighters, is being studied by North Atlantic Treaty Organization air authorities for service as a ground-attack and troop-support weapon.

They say the little jet, about the size of the Supermarine Spitfire of Second World War fame, fits recently announced NATO specifications "like a glove."

The Gnat, designed by William E. Petter, creator of the British Canberra jet bomber carries three 30-millimetre cannon, weighs three tons fully loaded and is expected to have a speed of 1,000 miles an hour to exceed the speed of sound in level flight in its initial dive.

Observers say, however, that the Gnat will not be considered for NATO favor from two other models. They report a new Avro light fighter with a speed of nearly twice the Barouder, may also meet requirements.

BIGGER ON FIRE-POWER

Most modern jets, such as the F-86E Sabre now in extensive service with the RCAF, RAF and Dominions Air Forces, are not between £70,000 and £100,000 and weigh more than eight tons. Each is expected to cost about £25,000.

The main argument offered against the Gnat is that it is not as well-equipped or heavily-armed as standard models. The Sabre carries six .50-calibre machine guns and 16 five-inch rockets.

Neither is the gnat equipped with the necessary radar apparatus which would enable it to operate, like the heavy planes, as a night fighter.

It is reported that NATO is prepared to order the light fighters for the right design. The Gnat builders estimate that, with government support, they would turn out 50 planes a month.

Conference Will Seek to Keep Highways Under Provinces

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is calling a federal-provincial conference for late April to work out means of keeping all highway operations under provincial jurisdiction.

The conference springs from a February judgment of the Privy Council ruling that the federal government has jurisdiction over traffic crossing provincial boundaries.

The federal government has stated it does not want to take over control of this transfer, hitherto a no-man's-land of jurisdiction, and that it hopes the two central and provincial governments can reach a common understanding to have the provinces take it over.

Invitations to a conference aimed at this objective have gone out to all provincial highways ministers and Transport Minister Chevrier said he hopes the meeting will be held here in the last week of April.

The minister, in an interview, described to discuss a possible agenda for the conference. It was understood a committee representing several government departments has been working on conference plans since the December 16 Commons Feb. 23 that the federal government does not want to move west on control of highway transport.

FOUGHT COURT RULING

The statement represented an apparent reverse from federal policy, since for about two years previously the central government had fought for a court ruling that it holds jurisdiction over interprovincial and international road traffic.

The provinces' right to control highways within their boundaries has been unquestioned. But the federal government for many years has contended that cross-border traffic is its field, though it has not actually put in controls in that field.

After the Privy Council judgment upheld the federal claim, Mr. Chevrier announced the government here feels "divided jurisdiction" between the provinces and Parliament would not be in the public interest. It was "reluctant" to get into the field and hoped for a general understanding that would enable the provinces to regulate all highway transport.

'Scrounge and Improvise' System Helps Expense Sheet

By JACK BRAZLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—The "scrounge and improvise" system of troops of Canada's 25th Brigade would warm the most cold - hearted treasury official at Ottawa.

In the opinion of Col. Harry Sterne of Brantford and Kingston, Ont., it's developing the highest degree of enterprise and ingenuity among the units. He was speaking particularly of his gunners of the 4th Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

Jack Brazley

Nothing is wasted in this land of scarce material. Tin cans have uses from light shades to warning rattles. Shell casings become everything from sewer pipes to candle-holders. Boxes become furniture or flooring for tents. Ammunition tins may turn up as radio amplifiers.

HANDY OIL DRUMS

There are scores of uses for oil drums, including company shower baths. One battery has a couple in his caravan which provide him with an excellent bath. It's fed by hot water from an arrangement of oil drums outside.

"This operation," said the colonel "has taught us not to waste a thing and made better soldiers of us all."

The 4th fought the tail-end of the Korean war as the 81st Field Artillery and was recruited largely in Winnipeg, Guelph and Montreal. Post-war reorganization saw it with the new designation and is scheduled to move back to Canada in April. It takes with it a battle record of three killed, four wounded and seven decorations including a Distinguished Service Order for Col. Sterne.

One of the regiment's proudest battle honors is the citation from the 1st Republic of Korea Division for artillery support during the last days of the war. The Koreans say the situation was saved on their front by the unit's accurate fire.

GOES TO MONTREAL

The colonel recently received word of his transfer to anti-aircraft defence with headquarters near Montreal.

He's a Royal Military College graduate and was a gunner through the Second World War.

The 4th will be relieved by the 3rd RCHA, formerly the 78th Field, and the newcomers—like the rebiefs for other home-going battalions—will find a tough pioneer job has been done in digging out comfortable quarters from the battle-marked hills of Korea.

The homeward and incoming formations will pass each other on the dockside at Inchon, with neutral commission inspectors keeping count to ensure Canada is not increasing her United Nations forces.

Each artillery supports an infantry battalion along the outer perimeter of the defence line.

One British light battery, the 42nd, also comes under Col. Sterne operationally. This battery served in Halifax in the early 1800s and is the only British unit in the area with a Canadian colonial service record.

CHUMMY SOLDIERS

The Canadian gunners are in the same area with British, Australian and New Zealand artillery men. Their exchange of visits is perhaps more regular than that involving any other large Canadian formation.

Neighboring U.S. Marine artillery also pay regular visits.

One of the gunners' projects is a big tent department store which has done up to $20,000 worth of business a month.

The profits contributed toward building a 26-piece band which operates under RSM. Herb Fournier of Kingston and Petawawa.

A big sign in the headquarters area proclaims "Come to church every Sunday" and this is popular because a gunners' choir of 15 under Capt. Jack deHart of Halifax with soloist Lieut. G. E. M. Ruffle of Wolfville, N.S., both MC winners in the Korean fighting, makes the services attractive with good music.

McCarthy Stories Going on Back Pages of Paper

MANHATTAN, Kan., (AP)—The Manhattan Mercury-Chronicle announced in a front page editorial Mon., it is putting all stories about Senator Joseph McCarthy on an inside page for a week.

"Joe has said he is tired of all the yakkety-yak," the paper said, referring to the Senator from Wisconsin. "So are we. So are most of you."

From talking to many readers, the Mercury-Chronicle's editorial said, the paper has decided McCarthy stories for the most part are being overplayed.

"Unless something unexpected develops this week, you will find McCarthy stories on page 3—just for a change of pace and as food of a damper on the 'yakkety-yak.'"

QUADRUPLE AMPUTEE DIES

TORONTO (CP) — Curley Christian, Canada's only quadruple amputee, died Monday of a heart ailment after a long illness. He was 69. Mr. Christian suffered the injuries which resulted in amputation of both arms at the elbows and both legs at the knees in 1917 at Vimy Ridge, while he was serving with the Canadian Army in the First World War. Survivors include his widow and a son, Douglas Christian of Toronto.

Red-Hot Battle For Second Place Between Leafs, Habs Joins Wed. Night

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

FETES AND TRUCKMEN

What should be a sizzling climax to a red-hot semi-finals series takes place in Kingston tomorrow night when the Peterborough Petes tangle with the Oshawa Truckmen in the first of the best-of-seven senior "B" finals. Yep, that's it. It's the Petes and the Truckies. The flaming scions of the Kawarthas eliminated the favored Orillia Pontiacs in Pembroke last night by an 8-6 count and advance into the finals thereby. It should be a hard-fought series with the Oshawans favored to take the round.

TAINT FAIR!

Local 58765342 TTPC (Toilers of Tail Piscatorial Tales), a subsidiary of the AA of AA's (Amalgamated Associations of Angling Asaniacs) has a beef.

For year by the yak and stretch method its members have dominated the field of big fish yarns. The louder the yak and the longer the stretch, the bigger the fish and a merit mark for the piscator.

Which means, in other words, the blake with arms the length of a human Gargantua and a tooth case that can house three sets of bridework, could easily knock off the championship of the AA of AA's.

Now, following a recent edict of governmental departments, which legislate fishing activities, the would-be champions of the brotherhood are unhappy.

It seems the edict extends the length of a twelve-inch monster to thirteen or fourteen inches, but nothing has been done to extend the length of the brothers' arms or excavate their word quarries.

The ruling from the seats of the governmental mighty states "for many years fish were measured from the tip of the nose to the centre of the fork in the tail. Length measurements hereafter will be taken from the tip of the nose, jaws closed, to the tip of the tail, lobes compressed."

Commenting on this, a stubby-armed, pucker-lipped member, probably somewhat jealous of his better-equipped brethren, jibed: "Huh, yuh wanta baffle head the fishes' nose. If some guys I know measure them. The fish will die ti themselves."

Apart from that, imagine the fun the boys are going to have closing jaws of a thirty-pound muskie, especially if it is a female. And if they let your measuring the lobe of the tail, the cussed thing might be tickled to death to develop curvative of the spine.

In any event the TTPC's are unhappy. They are seriously considering the use of hockey gloves when demonstrating the length of a fish, with baseball bats as a maximum. Or in the event of a record-breaking piscatorial wonder, fishing poles.

In serious vein, the Department of Lands and Forests state there has been an adjustment in the daily limits of speckled trout. Other game fish limits remain the same. Limits for the speckles are one and an additional 14 per day providing the additional 14, in the aggregate, weigh not more that 10 pounds.

Also under the new procedure maximum lengths are: Black bass 14 inches; yellow pickerel 15 inches and pike, no limit, except in Conseeon Lake, Prince Edward County, where it is 22 inches.

In addition to these regulations, the department states the family license for non-residents is no longer available. Adjustment has been made, however, in the case of a young fisherman privileged to fish without a license. In the past those up to the age limit could fish without a license providing they were accompanied with a parent who possessed one. The age limit has now been increased to 17 years under the same arrangement.

BASEBALL SHOW!

"If youse bums (are yuh listnin', Peave?) who like dose Flatbushers want to get inside dope on how the Gints operate, take a look at the pitcher now played at the Bella Thestre," remarks Louis the Lush, office private baseball eyebrow. "It's a grate baseball pitcher, which was filmed at the Florida training camp, and it shows all the Giants' big shots in action. Some of youse guys what like the yoks from the Governour might change your mind when you see the Lippers in action. It's a great baseball filium and stars Edward G. Robinson, Jeff Richards and Vera Ellen. Plays through to Wednesday night. Don't miss it. It's called "Big Leaguer."

THAT PRINTER'S INK!

It won't be the fault of our old newspaper pal, Harry M. Moore, formerly of Trenton, if the good burgers of Belleville east o' here, do not get the latest word on sporting activities on many fronts. Harry is writing a highly informative and interesting sports column for the Ottawa Valley weekly, besides using his prolific pen in the editorial columns. Nice going, m'boy. Keep up the good work.

SOCCER

Two important soccer organizational meetings take place this week in the city. Tomorrow evening the Bay of Quinte Football Association holds its annual at the YMCA starting at eight o'clock, while on Friday, the Eastern Ontario Football League will get together for the annual convocation at the same place.

Les Digby, who holds down the presidential chair of both organizations, expects good turnouts at both meetings. Associates as well as delegates of member organizations are extended a cordial welcome to attend.

TRAIN FOR PLATE

OSHAWA (CP) — Six horses owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor are in training for this year's $25,000-added Queen's Plate, Canada's richest racing classic.

The horses have been training on the straw of a covered arena at the Taylor-owned national stud farm here since January. With the coming of spring weather they will start training on the outdoor half-mile track before moving into Toronto's Woodbine Park next month.

The Taylor farm is trying for its second straight winner. Canadiana won the plate and the $30,000 guineas last year.

Canadians Take Point Margin Into All-Important Tussle; Star Goalies Duel on Sunday

MONTREAL (CP)—Four brass rings are still in the slot, all redeemable in cold cash and scarcest of National Hockey League campaign spins along on its final week.

Waiting to be grabbed are those prizes: second-place finish, goal-tending honors, fourth-place finish and the runner-up position for the individual scoring title.

Detroit Red Wings are already safe in first place and assured of something like $1,000 per player for getting there. The red-hot battle between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs is a matter of roughly $500 or $350 to each player, depending on whether his club finishes second or third.

With a one-point margin in their favor, Canadiens move into Toronto Wednesday for what promises to be a classic.

Neither team can afford to coast from there on. Canadiens must face Detroit Red Wings in Montreal Saturday and meet New York Rangers in New York Sunday. The Leafs entertain the Rangers Saturday and play in Detroit Sunday.

MEET IN DETROIT

The first-place standing honors, $1,000 to the winner and not a cent to the next best, may not be decided until the windup in Detroit.

They have two games left, while the Bruins have four remaining and need only two points, one win or two ties, to nail down the last playoff spot for the Stanley Cup series.

HAS BIG LEAD

If Gerda Howe and all the goalies in the league were suddenly kidnapped, Maurice Richard would be the one to take the point-scoring title. The Detroit right-winger has compiled 31 goals and 44 assists for 75 points and all but has the $1,000 award in his pocket.

The runner-up spot is worth $500, last yet second for Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal. Canadiens' famous Rocket, top goal-getter with 36, has 27 assists for a point total of 63 but Detroit's Ted Lindsay has been busy whittling into the Rocket's second-place lead and now has it down to three points.

There was only one positional change among the leading 10 scorers last week. Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal amassed five points, on two goals and three assists, to take over fourth place from Detroit's Red Kelly. Geoffrion now has 52 points to Kelly's 50.

Training Camp Notes

BRADENTON, Fla. (CP)—Milwaukee Braves, who gave away three top players in off-season trade deals, got solid hurling from three youngsters Monday as they subdued Detroit Tigers 7-1.

Rookies Joe Jay and Ben Johnson and sophomore Dave Jolly limited the Tigers to six hits, Johnson allowing only one safety in four innings.

TUCSON, Ariz. (CP)—Big Luke Easter, whose prolonged batting slump has him a spot in the minors last season, predicts that he'll start the season as a pinch-hitter and then take over first base for Cleveland Indians.

Easter, released by Buffalo batted .302 in 69 games last season, driving in 31 runs and hitting seven homers.

ST. PETERSBURG (AP) — For the third straight day, a player was injured in spring baseball. Ken Raffensberger, veteran Cincinnati lefthander, suffered a severely sprained right ankle Monday when he stepped on a rolling ball during practice. He will be sidelined for a week or 10 days.

Bobby Thomson of Milwaukee Braves broke his right ankle here Saturday and southpaw pitcher Bill Miller of the New York Yankees sustained a bruised left hand when hit by a batted ball Sunday.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — New York Giants won their fourth straight game by walloping the Baltimore Orioles, 13-8 Monday with home runs by rookie catcher Ray Katt, second baseman Davey Williams and outfielders Monte Irvin and Willie Mays.

Dave Koslo, starting for the Giants, suffered a badly bruised left wrist when Chuck Diering hit him with a hard grounder.

Star Milers Will Compete In Empire Games

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Three athletes who have flirted with the mythical four-minute mile will compete in the British Empire Games at Vancouver this summer. It promises to be the highlight event of the July 30-Aug. 7 games.

The "dream" race was made official Monday when Australian selectors at Sydney named world-famous John Landy for the games. His entry means he will run against Roger Bannister, Britain's brightest hope for the four-minute mile, and New Zealand's Murray Halberg who flashed into prominence with a 4:04.4 clocking Feb. 13 in Auckland.

Hopes that the games might attract the British Empire's four great milers were dimmed this month when Gordon Pirie of Britain said he would pass up the games. He figured the long journey and time involved made him for the European games in Switzerland in the August, but there still is a possibility he may be talked into going to Vancouver.

Heats in the mile classic at Vancouver are scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 3 with the final two days later. On their performances the "big three" and, if Pirie changes his mind, the "big four," are considered a cinch to meet in the final.

India Enters Empire Games

VANCOUVER (CP)—India Monday entered the British Empire Games here July 30-Aug. 7, becoming the 25th country to decide to send a team.

India originally planned to bypass the games here for the Asian games in Manila. However, a telegram from Patnabankiporae, India, signed by a Mr. Moimuhaq of the Indian Olympic Association, arrived Monday, saying:

"We have just decided to send a team number to be determined later."

India's entry brings the number of countries to be represented to 25 and 371 members of the games federation.

Gordon Pirie, Britain's Sprint Star Will Save 'Lean Frame' For Zatopek

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Gordon Pirie was on the right track when he elected to keep Britain's best-known set of running legs away from the Empire Games at Vancouver, says a newspaper poll.

Pro-Pirie sentiment was in the majority in letters published by the Daily Herald, which had asked its 1,864,514 readers what they thought about the Pirie decision. Gordon, 23, said he preferred to save his lean frame for the European Games at Bern, Switzerland, late in August, when he hopes to conquer Emil (the iron Czech) Zatopek in the 10,000 metres.

"It would be pointless of Pirie to go to Vancouver just to 'show the flag,'" said a typical sympathetic answer. "Surely any Canadian would be the first to acclaim a British win over Zatopek at the expense of the British Empire Games."

STRONG ENTRY

Beside the theory that "Pirie can do more for Britain in Europe than in Canada" was the argument that he won't be needed at Vancouver. Five great runners like Don Norris, Frank Sando, Chris Chataway and Roger Bannister, it is said, can't miss. "Pirie won't be missed at Vancouver."

Runner Norris said he felt the same way. His letter asked: "Why should Pirie go to Vancouver?" Since Pirie had planned to run in the mile, and Bannister and others could probably handle any opposition that was on hand, Norris felt Pirie should conserve his strength.

European competition will be "much tougher" than at Vancouver said Norris. "We cannot afford to have a tired man representing our country," he added, referring to the time gap between the Empire Games and the Bern event. The 20 to 30 miles in preparing te-Empire Games run July 30-Aug. 7 ward the Zatopek meeting.

and the European Games begin Aug. 25.

PERSONAL PROJECT

Among contrary views, one writer didn't doubt that Pirie can beat anybody, but he figured the lanky runner needs to convince himself that he can "take" Zatopek and that he is in danger of "beating himself with the terrific concentration on one event."

Pirie's latest training schedule reflects the advice he got from his German coach, who said Pirie's heart is immature. Pirie now plans only a couple of six-mile competitive runs before the European Games. Presumably, however, he will continue the daily canters of 20 to 30 miles in preparing te-

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

The National Hockey League race is over. It was when the four surviving teams plunge into the classic of the steel blades, the battle for the Stanley Cup, and the world championship of ice hockey, to be Canada's national game. Literally millions of people on both sides of the border will be in the rinks of four cities, or on their television sets, or will listen to the broadcasts of those stirring battles.

The border line that separates the two great nations of this continent is forgotten as the Stanley Cup battles rage. Since 1914, when the Portland Rosebuds defeated a team from Portland, Oregon, professional hockey has been international in its scope, played in the spirit of sport by clean and friendly neighbors. It was in 1914 that the first professional international Stanley Cup game was played when the Portland Rosebuds champions of the west coast came east. Each of the invaders were daily a fresh rosebud taken from a great basket. But the rosebuds weren't enough, and Montreal Canadiens, the first team in professional hockey won the first international Cup series.

It was inevitable that, sooner or later, the Stanley Cup must go to the United States. And the first team south of the border to take the prized emblem was the Seattle Metropolitans, who in 1917 had won the championship of a Pacific Coast League in which hockey's popularity gripped the west, three Canadian teams were competing, and only one Canadian entrant remained. Canada, against champions of the east, journeyed west, and lost the title. And it was the first time left Canada.

1919 was a year of tragedy in Stanley Cup annals. For after Canadiens and Seattle each had won two games, the series, played on the Pacific Coast, was abandoned. Practically all players on both teams were stricken with the deadly flue then raging, and stout-hearted Joe Hall, a star defenceman with the Habitants, died in the Seattle hospital.

That was the only unfinished series since the trophy became the prize for superiority among professional players. We spoke of the possibility of surprises. Many of these have dotted Cup history. Perhaps the most stunning of these came 16 years ago, in the spring of 1938, when the Chicago Black Hawks raced through to the title.

The Hawks, managed by Bill Stewart, only American-born pilot ever to achieve a Stanley Cup triumph, had finished sixth in the points standing of an 8-club league. They had scored the least goals of any team. Only one club had been scored on more frequently. They had won only 14 games of 48. But in the Cup series, they knocked out Canadiens and New York Americans, and in a stormy final, took three out of four from Toronto Leafs.

That's the drama of the Cup finals — the chance that the underdog will suddenly show his teeth.

Stratford Indians Pull Big Upset Oust Kitchener From Playoffs 3-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stratford Indians, who couldn't get into the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A final after finishing second last year, have done it this year with a fifth-place club.

The Indians pulled their first upset by eliminating Windsor Bulldogs from their best-of-five quarter-final 3-1. A larger surprise, however, was their play against Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, last year's Allan Cup champions, in the semi-finals. Stratford defeated Kitchener 4-2 in Stratford Monday night to win the best-of-five set 3-1. Kitchener, who finished second, were heavy favorites to take the series.

The Indians, who now have won six playoff games this year with only two defeats, eliminated

The TORONTO DAILY STAR

By SAM GORDON
The Jibitzer

People who live with bridge conventions should never throw fits if the answers are unnatural. Convention replies are usually of the unnatural class. Even to the simple double for takeout.

A double for takeout orders partner to bid something if the next opponent does not intervene with a bid. The responder is then forced to bid something even with nothing.

With nothing he uses the convention reply; a bid in the lowest ranking unbid suit; usually clubs. So, a takeout doubler must always look upon a club reply with suspicion or as a bust showing.

South opened the bidding with a heart. West passed with this hand:

♦ 4 3 2
♣ 6 5 4 2

North said one spade. East doubled. Since partner in west had not yet bid, this double is for takeout. When south passed, west was forced to bid with that bunch of rags.

What he had was not even good enough to wipe the floor. But he must use the correct convention reply; two clubs.

North came into the picture again with a three heart bid and east bid three clubs, which south doubled for penalty. Three clubs was a defender plenty. It was murder.

It east had apologized the incident would have been forgotten. But east jumped all over west for bidding two clubs with only three worthless cards in that suit.

Since west said if he should have bid and east could not discover a good answer for it.

The trouble was that east used the takeout double without any idea of what the bust response should be. Such a player should not use a convention until he learns how to handle the responses.

Watch your language, junior.

St. James' Church Holds World Day Of Prayer

TWEED—The Women's World's Day of Prayer was held in St. James Anglican Church, Tweed, with a good crowd of women present from the various churches.

Mrs. Charles Jeffery of St. James was in charge of the service with Mrs. S. R. Dafoe, Mrs. Brooke Clark, Mrs. Stanley Sinclair and Mrs. Roy Hall all taking active parts.

Mrs. Pace the speaker, took as her subject the verse from St. John's gospel, "Love come that they may have life and that they might have it more abundantly." She emphasized that the true Christian woman must be prepared to sacrifice and love in daily life if she is to obtain the richer blessing of a follower of Christ.

Mrs. George Ovens delighted with a solo.

The offering will be used for the distribution of Christian literature throughout the world.

Trenton Flyers Defeat Wellington In 1st Game Sectional Semi-Finals

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Taking advantage of the only penalty given to the Wellington team during the game, the Trenton RCAF Flyers scored two goals in 49 seconds half way through the third period last night to hand the Dukes from Wellington a 5-3 defeat in the first game of the TVIL-southern division semi-finals.

The Flyers had a 2-2 lead going into the final period and the Dukes were fighting hard to tie the score when Doug Bone was given a hooking penalty at the eight minute mark. The Trenton squad took command at this time and Boucher took a pass from Rochon to beat Letman at 9.10 with what proved to be the winner. Just a few seconds before Bone returned to the ice, Beatch notched their fifth goal with Rochon also setting it up. The Dukes scored once more in the dying minutes of the game but the two fast goals had clinched the Flyers' victory.

DUKES OPEN SCORING

Wellington opened the scoring in the first period when Brian Mulvihill fired a high slooper from the blue line that Dupaul in the nets did not see force partly caught and then dropped it in the cage.

The Cowick - Scott - Parnall line which was the best on the ice that night scored Cowick pulling the trigger on a nice three-way pass play and that's the way the period ended.

Racicot sent the winners to the lead after seven minutes of play in the middle stanza with both linemates Mulvihill and Scott Hatfield make it 2-2 at 13.09 with Cousins and Graham drawing assists.

Bowman scored what was perhaps the prettiest goal of the night when he picked up a loose puck at the Wellington line rushed and swept in goal with two of the Dukes close behind. He cut across in front of the net and flipped the disc over Letman's body as he slid across to block the open corner making the scoreboard read 3-2 in favor of Trenton.

Ray Carey was the marksman for Wellington at 19.34 of the final period but it was too late and too little to help the losers.

The 500 fans were on hand' up to par for playoff hockey with Wellington having considerable trouble clearing the puck from their own end. Both goaltenders played well with the first goal being the only one of the soft variety.

Dupaul, Bowman, Racicot, Parnall and Rochon were the pick of the winners while Graham, Mulvihill and Letman were the best for Wellington.

Referees Carson and Aquino handed out only two penalties, both in the closing period with each team getting one.

The second game of the series will be played in Belleville on Wednesday evening at this rink.

The teams:

RCAF — Dupaul, Boucher Vezina, Beatch, Bowman, Rochon, Stewart, Cowick, Parnall, Racicot, Gingras, Adams, Dickson, Daigle, Tardiff.

Wellington — Letman, Hurst, Yorke, Scott, Bryant, Garrison, Cousins, Mowat, Hatfield, Mulvihill, Carey, Wright, Bone, Greer, Graham, Parks.

Referees—John Aquino of Batawa, and "Red" Carson, Belleville.

Sport in Brief

A CRAMP PREDICTS

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Gunder Haegg predicts Britain's Roger Bannister will be the first to run the four-minute mile—"partly because he has brains."

"The four-minute mile will be run when it's long overdue," says the Swede, whose 4:01.4 clocking for the distance is the world record.

Haegg, who quit at 10 world records in 80 days, has retired from the track and now operates an exclusive millinery and women's dress shop in this Scandinavian capital.

Speaking through an interpreter, he listed the modern threats to his records—John Landy of Australia, Wes Santee of the United States, Gaston Pirie and Roger Bambuster of Britain, Josey Barthel of Luxembourg and Werner Lueg of Germany.

"Bannister has brains," Haegg said. "That's something you can't say about all runners. He doesn't overtrain the way many runners do. You don't see Bannister burning himself out running 20 and 30 miles a day."

NO BROADCAST

DUBLIN (Reuters) — Republic of Ireland — Irishmen living abroad won't be hearing the annual St. Patrick's Day broadcast from Emerald Isle this year. Wild shenanigans of their sports-loving fellow countrymen have led to its cancellation.

The broadcaster responsible for this sad state of affairs are fans of two rugged Irish sports—hurling and gaelic football.

When they learned that the state radio Eireann planned to include a commentary on a soccer game on Wednesday, broadcast they raised the very divil. They branded every switch originated in England—an "alien and imperialist sport" and demanded that the commentary be cut.

President M. V. O'Donoghue of the Irish Republican Athletic Athletic Association joined the donnybrook by calling the proposed soccer commentary "an insult to the nation."

Amongst the uproar over soccer, radio Eireann retaliated by deciding to scrap the weekly two-hour St. Patrick's program, which would have been beamed toward Canada, the U.S. and other countries.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Meet the most postponed actor in Hollywood —Dan Dailey.

The lanky hoofer hasn't acted in a picture since early last year, although he has been slated to reach the cameras time and again.

"It all started last June when I was suspended to start 'There's no Business Like Show Business' with Ethel Merman. I was going to be under the gun to direct the picture, fell ill and it was postponed a month. His contract with 20th Century-Fox, prove, and the studio wanted him to direct the film, the film was postponed indefinitely.

"One day I show up for work in Final Tights' which I was to make with Marilyn Monroe and Frank Sinatra. Frank had already been working a week. I appeared and waited for two hours. No Marilyn. I was told to go home."

After sitting around for weeks waiting for Marilyn to don her pink tights, Dan was pulled out of the cast and assigned to the try started "Show Business." Now it looks as though he's really going to work.

FAIR WHILE AT PLAY

Dan has no complaints about his plight. He has collected his weekly cheque for a few thousand dollars and done the things he likes best—riding his horses and skiing.

He has completed his resolve to read the "100 greatest books."

About his self-education chore, he said: "I swore I would do it, and I did. Some of the books were easy and a delight—like 'War and Peace,' which was fascinating. But some were rugged going. Kant's 'Critique of Pure Reason' was the hardest. I got through it, but it was like reading the telephone book."

Dan is one of the few players remaining at 20th Century-Fox. His contract will run until fall, and he has no plans after that. Unlike some actors who are not reluctant to quit, he can afford to be independent. Says he:

"Whenever I get into a beef with the studio, I always tell them, 'I can throw down my hat on any street corner in the world and make enough to eat on.'"

AT THE BELLE — Elizabeth Taylor is now playing at the Belle Theatre in "The Girl Who Had Everything". The companion treat is "The Big Leaguer", a story of baseball with Vera-Ellen, Edward G. Robinson and Jeff Richards.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, MAR. 17, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Tonight be well to slow down now in order to review plans, get a broader perspective. Stars indicate little, maybe no assistance. Do not consider new propositions unless fully informed.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This could be costly day for you ambitious, and sometimes impulsive folk. Your code should be: think first, then move—but cautiously! Some pressure now.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Exercise calm intelligence and judgment, especially in money and important business matters. Choose companions wisely, considering their habits, principles, etc. It could mean much later on.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some prospects at rather low level. This does not mean your chances are nil. It just means more and harder work, thinking. Take criticism, smarily; smile. Learn something from all suggestions.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Leo natives have accomplished a great deal despite adversity and lack of appreciation. Remember this. Recall only the best in the past; work confidently toward the future. You can achieve.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—The day, being somewhat dull, will give you a chance to think things over quietly, take stock. Have you discarded outmoded methods? Are you planning ahead?

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Whither are you going? Maybe you need to change your course or make some revisions in viewpoint. All problems or hazards can be bridged, especially with your pluck and ingenuity.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Stick to facts, not fancies today. Some unfriendly influences moving in—most likely around noon. Be keen, observing. Better to seek advice, saying, "I don't know," than have to say, "I'm sorry!"

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—It's not only what we think that brings results. It is what we do—and how intelligently. Resentment can be your worst enemy for it destroys judgment. Don't indulge moods; avoid fatigue.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—This is not an auspicious day for any of us, so good good ideas and resources rather than fight problems individually. Create good will; be charitable.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Advice to Capricorn also pertains to you now. Be considerate; think well before you act. Have no foolish illusions, but don't lose initiative or self-confidence.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—The knack of knowing how to maintain a happy medium in both action and thought will determine your progress today. Don't be too exacting with others, especially those who must "take it."

YOU BORN TODAY are of the idealistic type with a great appreciation of science and philosophical knowledge. You should be fond of travel, research and history, may devote much time to finding out the whys and wherefores of things past and to come. Though your nature is usually sympathetic, you can be indifferent at times. You generally like to do things in your own way, but you do reason well You are innately honest and honorable, can be appealed to through kindness and tact; are adapted to skilled and detailed work. Curb obstinance, worry.

MICROSCOPIC PICTURES ON TELEVISION

Carl Barkley, a scientist at Clifton, N.J., studies a living cell by television. Instead of analysis of normal and diseased characteristics. A standard TV camera (centre) picks up magnified image of cell from a microscope beneath camera. Picture of image is transferred to picture tube (left), where it appears as a luminous greyish— By studying pattern variations of light intensity, scientists hope to spot abnormal conditions in early stages. The Western Reserve University Medical school helped developed the technique. (Central Press Canadian.)

COBOURG (CP)—Johnny Anderson, 8, was rescued by his father Monday night after being trapped under several tons of ice.

The father and companions were playing in a cave formed by ice on a beach about 35 miles east of Oshawa when they lit a fire in the cave the ice collapsed. Johnny was trapped under the ice, supported by a length of timber in the cave.

One of his chums ran for Malcolm Anderson, the boy's father, who rescued his son. Johnny suffered a gash on his forehead.

Windsor Private Goes on Trial For Shooting

CALGARY (CP) — The murder trial of Private Clarence Joyce, 19-year-old army private from Windsor, Ont., opened in Supreme Court here Monday.

Clerpiax is charged with the Jan. 5 shooting of Corporal Robert Bilsey, 21, of Winchester, Ont., a fellow member of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry stationed at Currie Barracks here.

Mr. Justice Lloyd McBride said a question of the qualifications of one of the jurors created a situation which, in my 40 years of legal experience, is entirely novel.

The question revolved around whether George H. Craven was a salaried employee of the federal government and therefore exempt from jury duty.

It was decided that Craven, a civilian employee with the Royal Canadian Engineers at Currie Barracks, where he is employed by the hour as a painter, was not a salaried official or employee of the government in the legal meaning of the phrase.

Clerpiax's mother, Mrs. Anna Clerpiax of Windsor, is here as a witness for the defence. She is not allowed to hear presentation of evidence.

Back Province's Right To Levy Income Taxes

OTTAWA (CP)—Young Progressive Conservatives Monday asserted the right of provincial governments to levy income taxes.

A resolution asking for a federal-provincial tax conference was adopted at the annual meeting of the Young Progressive Conservative Association of Canada.

It said the conference should be convened to discuss provincial taxation rights and to restore to those provinces which desire it their right to levy provincial taxes."

Nearly 100 delegates at the meeting chose Harvey Galbraith, 24-year-old Calgary public relations consultant, as its president.

SAID ACTIVE AT 123

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — The oldest woman in Poland, Jozefa Stankiewicz, celebrated her 131rd birthday Monday according to the Warsaw paper Wieczorny. She still carries water from the well at Mistikowie village in the Garwolin district, the paper, received in Sweden, said.

MARMORA

Vandorf Loses Third Game In Overtime

MARMORA — Marmora's OHA Intermediate "C" tussel went into ten minutes overtime in the Dr. Hamilton Crawford Memorial Arena on Saturday evening before the homesters snatched a 5-4 victory to make their wins in a row against their opponents, Vandorf. The visitors came with a shortage of two men on their line-up, one of whom was Johnston, their flashy centre.

It turned out to be a ding dong battle from start to finish, worthy of a larger crowd than the forty hundred fans who viewed it.

Vandorf drew first blood with Ash Preston scoring from Mc-Glinis and R. Smith. Marmora soon retaliated and Pezzanite scored on Preston's pass, outwitted him and tied the score. Marmora took the lead at the end of the second.

After Legge had scored unassisted for the visitors, Maynes tied it up on assists from K. Trumble and Leonard, but before the period closed, Broughton got a single on McClelland and Gale.

Marmora tied the score again at 4.17 in the third. Trumble netting on assists from Jones and Brooks to make it even. The Vandorf team set up rushes in the overtime period to get the victory. It was at 1.21 when Lavelle, parking a supreme effort on an assist from Jones raised the cheers of the local fans by getting the final goal of the game.

In the last half of the game Weedon was taken out of goal, but the Marmora defence held. Vandorf had nine of the thirteen penalties issued. Teams line-up for the fourth game in Newmarket on Tuesday evening.

Teams:

Marmora — goal, Killish; defence, Leonard, Maynes; centre, Maynes; wings, Lavender, K. Trumble (capt.). Alternates, Parks, Jones, Doug Smith, Gray, Loveless, Brooks.

Vandorf — goal, Weedon; defence, Legge, J. Smith; centre, Don Smith; wings, Toms, McGrindle. alternates, Broughton, Ash, Preston, Mabbett; referee, W. Holway, linesmen; Eiseman, R. Moss, Marmora.

STREET-CAR COTTAGE

TORONTO (CP) — Street-car make ideal summer cottages, says a Toronto firm. The Toronto transit commission Monday sold 152 trams to Western Iron and Metal Company. The company plans to scrap them but offers to sell some, too, and says that "by spending $200, a street-car can be converted into a three-room cottage."

Little Benny's Note Book

I was watching ma mixing bis-kits in the kitchin, and the tele-fone rang, and pop annered it and came and stuck his head in the kitchin door, saying to ma, It's Mrs. Perdy, she wants to talk to you.

Oh dear, I've got both hands in the flour, ma said. Go and talk to her a while, William, I'll be there in a minute, so as not to keep her waiting. She gods, I hardly know the woman, what can I talk to her about?

Now William, there's such a thing as polite conversation without any particuler subject, ma said, and pop said, I know there is, I've heard women indulging in it over the telefone, but I've never been very good at languages.

But William, Mrs. Perdy is waiting, I told you I'd only be 3 minutes, ma said, and pop said, For Pete sake, 3 minutes is like a dec-lerine for a man dangling at one end of a telefone with nuthing to say, I'll tell her you'll be right there, and she'll thank me, and then I'll be right back, with only 3 seconds of the 3 minutes used up. Of course there's always the weather, but I've never been able to stretch the weather out more than 15 seconds, so that will still leave 2 minutes and 40 seconds, he said.

Oh, really, William, I meet, honestly, ma said, and pop said, I mita tell her a few jokes, but I never can remember any on the spur of the moment.

Hay ma, I've got an idea, I'll tell her some moron jokes, I know some awell new ones, I said. Do you want me to talk to her while she's waiting? I said, and ma said, For land sakes no.

And she quick washed the flour off her hands and ran and talked to her herself, starting by saying she was sorry to of been so long, and finishing about 20 minutes lat-er.

Accused Slayer Declares Victim Tried to Rob Him

ROUYN, Que. (CP)—Rolland Dumont, former Rouyn theatre manager charged with murder, said Monday he shot at Albert Bellisle on a district sidecad and drove away after Bellisle tried to rob him. He testified at his Quebec Superior Court trial that when he left Bellisle was sitting on the edge of a ditch, throwing gravel and cursing.

Dumont is charged in connection with the death of the Val d'Or farmer, who died in hospital Oct. 31, seven days after he was found lying in a ditch on a sidecad. He had suffered four bullet wounds and his death was attributed to them.

Dumont testified that after closing his theatre one night he drove to a nearby hotel and picked up a man.

IDENTIFIED MAN

Dumont said that, on his passing instructions, he drove to a sidecad near Granada. The man got out and told him to return in 15 minutes and he would have the merchandise.

Dumont said that when he got back the man pulled open a door of the car, pointed a gun at him and demanded his money.

He identified the man as Bellisle when shown Bellisle's picture by his defense counsel.

Dumont said he grabbed at the gun, and they wrestled for it. Bellisle fired two and ordered Dumont to drive away.

Dumont said he drove a little distance and then went back to get his coat which had dropped on the road in the scuffle. He stopped and Bellisle reappeared, demanding Dumont's money.

Dumont said Bellisle started shooting, and he shot back. Bellisle fell to the ground, Dumont kicked Bellisle's gun away from him and pocketed it.

Bellisle sat on the edge of a ditch, cursing him and throwing gravel, Dumont said.

BUILDING AID

Canada produced $30,731,000 square feet of plywood in 1953, about 31 per cent more than in 1952.

STREAMLINE SERVICE

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor residents may soon be able to dial the same onone number to report a fire, robbery or blocked sewer. Board of control on Monday authorized investigation of the possibility of establishing a central switchboard for city hall, fire and police departments. Mayor Arthur Reaume said the plan would help streamline city services.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both— Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)— For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months.

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only $1.10 a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember — if not satisfied with such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And your money will be refunded promptly. ®Trade Mark

Husband Had 'Good Reasons' For Disappearing

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Dyoll Prather Herman, 57, wants to withdraw the complaint against her new husband whom she accused of running away with $303,100 in jewels and cash.

The couple were reunited Monday through a lawyer for the husband, Percy William Herman, 49. The lawyer said Herman had "good reasons" for disappearing March 5 after his Palm Beach marriage was but a day old.

Apparently Mrs. Herman agreed. She chatted and laughed with Herman and said she wanted to withdraw the complaint she had filed in Richmond, Va.

Herman was held in $10,000 bail, however, until a check could be made in Richmond.

Herman's lawyer, Daniel Jacobson, blamed Herman's bad nerves for the mix-up. He said the automatic-closing mechanism failed on the couple's expensive new automobile, and they thought the first day of their honeymoon the window kept opening and closing by themselves. The groom became highly nervous after 20 hours at the wheel.

Leaving his bride at a motor court in Fredericksburg, Va., Herman went to hunt for a garage, but thought he was being followed by another car, Jacobson said. Aware of the money and jewels in the car, Herman kept driving. He left the car in Paterson, N. J. and took a train to New York, where he slept for 48 hours in a hotel.

On waking, he read in the newspapers that his wife had filed a complaint against him, the lawyer reported. The valuables, he said, were intact in safety deposit boxes.

Prime Minister Leaves Honolulu For San Fransico

HONOLULU (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent left here by air early today on his way to San Francisco. Returning home from his world tour, he is due at San Francisco at 10:30 a. m. PST (1:36 p. m. EST).

The Canadian leader, his six-week tour of parts of Europe and Asia almost finished, left shortly after midnight, Hawaiian time, after a two-day unofficial stop in this Pacific island group.

He has visited a dozen countries and talked with prominent world leaders. The tour began at Ottawa's Rockcliffe airport Feb. 4.

The U.S. stop is not an official part of his world visiting, so the Canadian leader had no formal calls to make in the California city. He planned to rest much of the afternoon and evening in preparation for Wednesday's last flight of the trip, which ends back in Ottawa in the evening.

TO MEET OFFICIALS

However, security officials of the United States state department planned to be on hand at the San Francisco airport to greet the Canadian leader, along with Christopher Eberle, Canadian consul-general in San Francisco.

Monday, last day of his stop in the Hawaiian islands, the prime minister toured the big U.S. Pearl Harbor naval base here.

Drew Sees Next Vote Depending Upon Youth

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative leader Drew Monday night advised young party members to seek support among those who will cast their first votes in the next general election.

He asked the association to gain the support of those still too young to qualify as voters. By the next election, 500,000 young persons would come of voting age. Life of the present parliament expires in 1958.

Many Canadians to Celebrate Feast of St. Patrick Wed.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Green ties and sprigs of the oulo shamrock will be worn by many Canadians as the feast of St. Patrick is celebrated Wednesday.

For the Irish themselves—there are roughly 1,500,000 of Irish descent in Canada—the day is essentially a religious observance followed by celebrations in honor of the great missionary who converted the Irish to Christianity in the fourth century, and became Ireland's patron saint.

Many other Canadians will become Irish for the day. Apart from religious and other observances across the country, the biggest public celebration will be at Montreal, where 15,000 loyal sons of Erin march in the annual parade.

Marking the 1223rd St. Patrick's Day parade in Montreal, the military procession at 3 p.m., will include 32 different groups with drum-corps, floats and several bands led by the grand marshal, P. G. J. Bolton, president of the Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name Society of Montreal.

OLD LEGEND

Legend has it that St. Patrick was born in Scotland in about AD 389, and died in 461. He was educated as a Christian but at 16 was captured by Irish raiders and sold into slavery. In Ireland in his youth, he became deeply religious, and then went to France and Britain to further his religious education.

Down cathedral at Saul in County Down stands on the spot where St. Patrick preached his first sermon after returning to Ireland in AD 432. Near Downpatrick are the ruins of Saul abbey, said to have been founded by St. Patrick himself. Down cathedral, from where services are broadcast every St. Patrick's Day, has become dilapidated with age—the last major restoration was undertaken 150 years ago—but still shows some of the magnificent workmanship of past centuries.

The modern observances in the Republic of Ireland are a far cry from the ancient days of uproarious celebrations when carousing frequently led to battles with the shillelagh. But St. Patrick's memory remains undiminished with the years.

Trinity Anglican church of the community of Bond Head launched the suit. Police said Savurdich must have been driving "well over 50 miles an hour" when he lost control. Appearing in Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow dismissed the charge.

French Defenders Of Fort Appear Near Big Victory

Vietminh Losses Are Heavy In Attack on Dien Bien Phu

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — French Union defenders of Dien Bien Phu, cutting down attacks after attack, appeased today to be well on the road to a big victory over the Communist Vietminh.

Rebel artillery opened another bombardment in the five-day battle for the strategic plain in the mountains of northwest Indo-China and it may be the prelude to another mass infantry attack tonight. Key French positions were in the targets of 105 and 75-millimetre guns.

The flash came from a vessel which was caught in a shower of radioactive ashes from an American island test in the Pacific.

Many customers rejurned fish. Others flocked to the butchers.

But the market opened again today after scientists, armed with radiation-sensitive geiger counters, gave it a clean bill of health.

Tokyo Fish Radioactive, Prices Slump

TOKYO (Reuters) — Tokyo fish merchants dashed their prices by as much as 50 per cent to recover some of the business lost when radioactive fish were found on their stalls Tuesday.

The fish came from a vessel which was caught in a shower of radioactive ashes from an American island test in the Pacific.

Many customers rejurned fish. Others flocked to the butchers.

But the market opened again today after scientists, armed with radiation-sensitive geiger counters, gave it a clean bill of health.

Borrowing On N.Y. Market Is Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government was criticized Tuesday for borrowing "hundreds of millions of dollars" in the United States markets.

Hon. Harry Nixon (L—Brant), opening the budget debate in the Ontario legislature warned the government that there "will be a day of reckoning when the payment has to be made in U.S. funds."

"Just now Canadian currency is at a premium. But the day is coming when the money is going the other way in repayment and we will find that to be a great change will go the other way—many 10 per cent against us, maybe 15 or 16 or even as high as 24 per cent."

He said if the bonds were sold in Ontario and Canada the province would find itself in a large and sounder position.

He moved an amendment to the motion that the house resolve itself into committee of supply to consider the estimates, by adding that the house "does not approve the policy of the government of borrowing hundreds of millions of dollars from the United States repayable as to the principal and interest in U.S. funds."

The opposition member suggested the government consider supplementary revenue by the general old-age pensioners and urged an early completion of the hydro power transmission line.

DEBATE REFORMS

The house also resumed the debate on consideration of the report of the select committee on reform institutions.

W. M. Nickle (PC — Kingston) called for an amendment to the Tiger Dunlop report, providing that a person convicted three times in one year for drunkenness be given an indefinite sentence to allow him time to be treated in a hospital, if he also urged an amendment to the Criminal Code, giving the Ontario parole board authority to fix terms of imprisonment for persons who are considered eligible for parole.

Tom Pryde (PC—Huron) lauded the industrial programs at Guelph reformatory. Dr. S. F. Leavens (PC —Waterloo-North) urged increased medical treatment in reformatories and J. S. Dempsey (PC—Renfrew South) urged that company parties that refused to give former prisoners work.

The debate will not sit today, out of respect for C. C. Macdonald (PC—Dundas), who died today. Many members left to attend the funeral in Brockville today.

MINOR MYSTERY

REDCAR, England (CP)—A fourfoot pole weighing 56 pounds was found dead in a ditch near this Yorkshire seacoast town three miles from the sea.

GOLD-MINING ASSISTANCE TO CONTINUE IN '54

Aid Intended to Be Of Temporary Nature

OTTAWA (CP)—The government will continue emergency gold mining assistance through 1954.

However, Mines Minister Prudham told the Commons Tuesday it hopes the mines can do without federal financial assistance after Dec. 31, 1954.

"It is the government's hope that this extension will enable the gold mines to continue their operations so that eventually they may be able to carry on without this emergency assistance," he said. "It is not the intention that the government's intention that this assistance should be only at a temporary nature."

Mr. Prudham introduced legislation to continue operations of the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act through 1954. The act provides financial assistance to mines under a subsidized formula to offset high costs of production.

Mr. Prudham estimated—that the government's extra income would cost the taxpayers about $15,000,000 for 1954. Payments for the first nine months of the year totalled $8,257,-132, and of this total paid since the plan was inaugurated amounted to $61,362,672.

SILVER PRICE

During the last few years gold mines had been squeezed between rising production costs and the limit's price for gold fixed at $35 an ounce in 1934. Costs in the past year have been aggravated by the increased value of the Canadian dollar in terms of a depreciated dollar.

The legislation would help the mines plan their operations for 1954 with a greater degree of certainty.

The Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit parties supported the measure.

Rodney Adamson PC—(York West) urged a return to the gold standard, stating this would result in a greater flow of gold to Canada. However, Social Credit leader Solon Low said Canada's economy is not suited to a gold standard monetary system.

DEVASTATION URGED

Joseph W. Noseworthy (CCF—York South) urged the government to establish a committee on economic mission to investigate the gold mining industry and devise a republican measures to improve its position in the country.

"The gold mine strike may be over," he said. "The trouble is not over. Something must be done to take to improve the position of the gold miners and avoid a repetition of the trouble experienced this winter."

Mr. Prudham said the legislation will help the gold mining industry but that "we cannot continue to help with a greater degree of certainty. Mines which are uneconomic may get is not eligible for emergency assistance. Only one mine had applied for help in the last session and in 1954 compared with five in 1953, and in 1952, a total of 56 mines applied for assistance in 1953.

Mr. Prudham said the emergency assistance to mines for the first nine months of 1953 totalled $8,-257,102, and that payments for the year would amount to about $11,-000,000, the total paid under the act amounted to $61,362,672.

Mr. Adamson said Canada should not return to the gold market irrespective of the attitude of the U.S.

"The same arguments that were advanced against the devaluation of the Canadian dollar are used against the establishment of a free gold market. It was said that we could not free the Canadian dollar because of the international financiers, the U.S. bankers and the terrific size of our southern neighbor.

"But on St. Patrick's Day—no politics.

"But after lying up to get their shamrocks and attending mass, the whole army was given the day off.

republic are closed on St. Patrick's Day.

And for uttering a "bogorra" it's the duty of the Irish to give the Canadian stuff in the new republic is frowned upon.

Elsewhere, the rule of many farms celebrates instead with a parade showing off tremendous strides in industrial development. Few politicians even get in the marching.

Some preliminary campaigning blasts have been fired, however, for the election set for May 31.

Progressive Conservatives Set Sights on Next Election

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Seven months after the last national election, the Progressive Conservative party has set its sights on the next one.

Its leader, Hon. George Drew, said Tuesday night the party "has struck its tents and is once more on the march."

He told the annual dinner of the Progressive Conservative Association of Ottawa that results of last summer's election fell "far short of our hopes."

However, a "great majority" of Canadians had the confidence in government. The Conservative party's job was to "press forward with logical arguments and with organization, which will bring to the support of our candidates in the next election a majority of people who believe in the things we believe as the one guarantee of democracy."

NEW PRESIDENT

The same theme was stressed by the new president of the party association, George Hees of Toronto, following his election.

Mr. Hees, a member of Parliament for Toronto Broadview, pledged himself "to revitalize our organization from coast to coast."

He told a press conference his goal is to help bring the party up to fighting pitch in three years, when the next election might be expected.

Life of the present Parliament expires in 1958, but the practice has been to dissolve it about a year before the five-year limit on the term of MPs.

Mr. Hees said he plans to visit each province at least once a year to develop the party's organization.

Mr. Hees was elected to a two-year term as president over Gordon Churchill, 53-year-old MP for Winnipeg South Centre. Figures on the vote were not announced, but it was understood Mr. Hees had a decisive majority.

He succeeds George Nowlan of Wolfville, N.S., MP for Digby-Annapolis-Kings, who has been president for four years.

A unanimous vote of confidence was given Mr. Drew shortly after the meeting began.

NO OPPOSITION

Mr. Nowlan, the chairman, told reporters that there was no opposition to the motion of confidence proposed by Murdoch A. MacPherson, Regina lawyer, and seconded by Wilfrid Dufresne, MP for Quebec West.

Today's meeting concentrates on party policy in a "all-day study of various resolutions submitted by constituency organizations.

Some 800 party members, the most ever to turn out to an annual meeting, are in Ottawa to mark the 100th anniversary of their party.

At Tuesday night's dinner, Mr. Drew charged that Liberal "centralization" policies threaten the survival of the federal system.

He said the two-party system is "the only safe system for democracy." Conservative leaders meeting are discussing more than the future of the party—it was discussing it in 1933, Mr. Drew reminded himself.

U.S. TO CONSULT CANADA BEFORE SELLING SURPLUS

Acting Prime Minister Howe Makes Pact

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Acting prime minister Howe of Canada says the United States has agreed to consult with Canada before embarking on any new programs for disposing of surplus food.

He told a press conference Tuesday night that agreement was reached at the first formal meeting of the Canada-U.S. joint economic and trade committee. The Canadian ministers met with four American cabinet officials in iron out trade problems between the two countries.

"We had a great day," Howe said as he outlined what took place at the conference, which is to be followed by another in Ottawa in six months.

RECOMMENDATIONS 'GOOD'

He said Canadian ministers received a review of the trade-controlling recommendations the U.S. administration will place before Congress, probably in the "next few days." The recommendations to Congress, he observed, "are pretty good."

These recommendations are based on the report of the presidential foreign trade commission headed by U.S. industrialist Clarence Randall. The commission favored that U.S. tariffs be cut by 15 per cent over the next three years, entangled American customs procedure be simplified and that the U.S. government's trade agreements act be extended for another three years. The act expires next June.

Howe and Douglas Abbott, Canada's finance minister and a member of the joint committee, met Canadian correspondents after the meeting.

Food-disposal, Abbott said, the committee concluded that Canada-U.S. "interests are not competitive."

Howe added that "neither country will do anything that will hurt the other."

TO CONSULT ON GRAINS

The U.S. plan with a big pile-up of wheat and other surpluses, has embarked on several programs to sell these products overseas for . local or "blocked" currencies, or give them away under the "food for peace" deals. President Eisenhower recently proposed that Congress vote $1,000,000,000-plus to provide overseas countries with American food.

This program, Howe said, has been worked out in detail, and Howe indicated he will talk it over in consult with Canada before implementing it. Canadian officials say it likely will be "done over the telephone."

Canada has large stocks of grain, particularly wheat, and the fear here is Canadian quarters is that the U.S. may, by her disposal programs, injure overseas markets for Canadian grain. Canada insists on dollars as payments for her grain.

DENNING A-BOMBER FORCE

LONDON (Reuters) — George Ward, undersecretary for air, Tuesday night rejected suggestions that Britain's future defence policy in a future war to the United States "must not spend money on an atom-bomber force. Britain is not building an atom-bomber but the V-bomber force which the told the House of Commons during a debate on the air force budget. Britain had a significant contribution to make because of the vast experience of the Royal Air Force in strategic and tactical bombing techniques.

Eisenhower Says Army Secretary Telling Truth

President Makes Statement During Press Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he has full confidence Army Secretary Stevens is telling the truth in his controversy with Senator McCarthy (Rep., Wis.).

The president told a press conference that if he didn't have confidence in Stevens' integrity, Stevens wouldn't be holding the job he does.

Eisenhower said it may turn out that Stevens has made some mistakes, but he added that so far as the secretary's integrity and honor are concerned he stands behind Stevens.

The question off who is telling the truth looms as the central issue for the developing Senate inquiry into the row between McCarthy and his chief counsel, Roy Cohn, on the one hand and army officials on the other.

All the principals are expected to be called to testify under oath when the inquiry gets under way, probably late next week.

McCarthy said that he was willing to let army lawyers cross-examine him.

PRESSURE ALLEGED

"The army should be entitled to have a full cross-examination on and all adverse witnesses," McCarthy said in an interview.

McCarthy has agreed to stand aside as chairman while the subcommittee looks into army charges that McCarthy and Cohn tried to apply improper pressure to the army's treatment of Dr. David Schine, a former unpaid sub-committee consultant who now is an army private.

To be investigated at the same time are McCarthy's and Cohn's counter-charges that Stevens and Brig.-Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, army general counsel, tried to "blackmail" them in an effort to get word of the investigation of alleged Communists in army ranks.

BARRIE (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury retired today to consider the case of two Toronto youths charged with murdering a 58-year-old man.

The Toronto youths have given conflicting evidence of what occurred on Oct. 28 when they went for a ride with Cameron in Robertson's father's automobile. Police testified they both participated in the shooting while Robertson maintained Kingsley fired all five shots into Cameron.

By JAMES P. KING

DUBLIN (AP) — St. Patrick's Day was always a big holiday today on the brink of a general election, but the politically-minded Irish, who like to be different, forgot politics.

Even that old fighter for Irish freedom, Prime Minister Eamon De Valera, was away in the west on the "blessing of the shamrock" among the Britons who once condemned him to death.

And any Irishman who has whooped it up in south Boston or along New York's third avenue knows that almost everybody in Ireland will appear over Ontario Thursday ahead of this celebrated sec.

Must Act at Once If Attack Made Says Eisenhower

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today any president ought to be impeached or "thrown out of office" if he does not immediately if the country were attacked by an enemy.

He said there was no radical departure from accepted military principles ub trather an effort to combine new weapons, developments, geographical factors and other advances in a modern military machine.

BACKS DULLES POSITION

The president defended the position taken by State Secretary Dulles Tuesday that it would not be necessary for the world executive to consult Congress in advance before acting to meet an attack.

Eisenhower said nobody could foresee every possible condition that might arise, but he was sure not backing away from the statement he made last week that the United States will not be carried into war without the approval of Congress.

Self-preservation requires quick reaction, he said.

Eisenhower discussed the military situation one day after the first official confirmation that the United States has a usable hydrogen bomb.

Woman's Paramount Duty Always Will Be 'In The Home' Says Queen

BRISBANE, Australia (CP)— Woman's paramount duty always will be "in the home" the Queen has represented to women's organizations at the City Hall here today.

The Queen said: "In an everincreasing degree since the war, and no doubt because of it, the influence of women is being extended beyond the home.

"This is right because there is a great deal that women can do in many spheres of public life, not only in the arts and in medicine and in education, but also in commerce and in the business of government.

"Indeed I do not think that there is any field of human activity in which the influence of woman cannot be joined profitably to man, for life and its problems are best together create a balanced attitude to life and its problems.

"But woman's paramount duty will always be in the home and in the family where virtues that make for human welfare and happiness have their origin.

"It is there that women are not only most useful but also find their truest fulfilment."

The Queen said that 120 bouquets of tropical flowers presented to her by women's organizations here were in the hospitals in Brisbane.

More than 2,500 women crowded the City Hall to hear the Queen speak.

The condition of Frederick Clarke, age 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Clarke, 40 Hillcrest Ave., seriously injured in a fall from a 4th floor window of a Syracuse hotel Saturday morning still remains very critical, it was learned this morning in a telephone conversation with the boy's mother.

The Clarke boy was in Syracuse with a party of 44 newspaper boys and girls as guests of the Ontario Intelligencer.

Serious internal and other injuries were suffered by the boy in the fall.

The best of medical care is being provided for the injured boy at the Onondaga General hospital where he has been since the accident.

Bowling Club Executive Meets

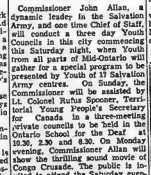
Spring is just around the corner because at an executive meeting of the Bowling Club at the home of the president, Alf. Gerald Hyde, plans were laid for another successful season of bowling.

A great deal of discussion was held on the several points that were brought before the members, the chief issue being the securing of new membership. Cec B. Colling, chairman of membership, outlined a plan that was adopted by the executive, the principal point being that on Opene Wednesday afternoon tournaments will be held so that the members, who do not attend the outside tournaments will have a chance to enjoy their favorite pastime. He volunteered to take over three of these tournaments, one to be played each month.



The twilight fitney will agin be attempted within the club with Orlo Smith and Gordon Watkin in charge. The two last were conducted last year were very popular with the membership and considerable revenue for the club was derived. It was also decided to give mixed fitneys a try on Saturday afternoon. This time has always been reserved for the men but the executive felt there were many women who would be available for bowling on Saturday afternoons.

W. B. Vandervoort was elected chairman for club tournaments, Percy Graham, club games, Orlo Smith as chairman and Gordon Watkin as co-chairman of fitneys and Cyril McBride, chairman of Saturday jitneys.

REPORTS RECEIVED.

In Toronto they were given and it was announced that Kingston has been allowed the July 1st date for a tournament for men's rinks similar to the Canada Cup in the city and in return the Belleville Club was given a Wednesday afternoon tournament. The schedule for this year will be drawn in the near future with President Gerald Hyde and Cyril McBride as delegates from the local club. The question of two auxiliary rinks on the top lawn was discussed but no action taken. Those present at the meeting were Gerald Hyde, president and Ray Grant, W. B. Vandervoort, Gordon Edwards, treasurer, Orlo Smith, Percy Graham, Gordon Watkin, Claude D. Tice, and Cyril McBride, secretary.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Gerald Hyde served refreshments.

COMMISSIONER JOHN J. ALLAN

Commissioner John Allan, a dynamic leader in the Salvation Army, and one time Chief of Staff, will conduct a three day Youth Councils in this city commencing this Saturday night, when Youth from all parts of Mid-Ontario will gather for a special program to be presented by Youth of 17 Salvation Army centres. ## Hiring of Assessor Occupies Attention of Town Council

TRENTON (Special) — "I'd rather have the devil you know than the devil you don't" declared councillor Gerald Weaver last night, claiming that a local man was better than an out-of-town person for the job of assessor for the town of Trenton. Mr. Weaver, who said "I interviewed one applicant and I think he's all right" was opposed to hiring former town assessor Charles E. York, now a resident of Wooler, and a businessman in that village.

Leading up to the appointment of a new assessor council decided to dismiss Charles Rogerson, who resigned the town last year using the Provincial Municipal Assessment as his guide. Town clerk O. W. Larry was instructed to advertise in city and local newspapers for applicants to fill the vacancy. Mr. Larry received 14 applications for the job.

NARROWED DOWN TO FOUR.

By a process of elimination council narrowed the applicants down to four names including a Cobourg resident, R. W. Alyea of Colborne, Mr. Hamilton, Ernest Fraser of Toronto and Charles E. York of Wooler. Council then decided to interview the applicants considered eligible.

Councillor Earl Armstrong, chairman of the Court of Revision voiced his views. "I recommend former assessor Charles York," he said. He pointed out that Mr. York had been assessor for the town for 12 years. He noted that the ex-assessor has had few appeals during his years in office. He and his colleagues understand that Mr. York with the assistance of a junior assessor would "soon pay" (he meant the taxpayers' money).

Councillor Robert Smithrim noted that Mr. York did not live in Trenton. He claimed that all previous assessors had been residents of the town.

Councillor D. J. McNair a personnel supporter of the movement to employ Mr. York noted that an assessor named Mogg had been a non-resident of Trenton. In reply Mr. Smithrim recalled that as Mr. Mogg had been hired for the special purpose of reassessing the town after the 1947 council decided against renewing Mr. Rogerson's contract. Mayor Ross Burtt observed: "No doubt he'll (referring to Mr. York) move back into town if he gets the job." Mr. Smithrim wanted to know what basis the council interviewed the applicants.

WANTED DECISION

Mayor Burtt appealed for a decision. "We have to get an assessor right away on account of these court cases coming up and I understand an assessor should be out assessing now." Mr. Burtt was referring to court actions arising from dissatisfied taxpayers appealing to the county judge for readjustments to their 1954 tax notices.

Mr. McNair offered a suggestion: "I don't see why it would be good business to entrust the business of the town to an out-of-town assessor. He preferred an assessor who had assessed Trenton property for a number of years." Speaking of Mr. York Councillor McNair remarked: "He knows more about council in those days wanted him to do it."

Mr. Smithrim questioned whether avoidance of appeals was better than equitable assessment. Mr. Smithrim was one of the two councillors who opposed discarding the Provincial Manual of Assessment.

FAVORS LOCAL MAN

Mr. Weaver agreed that it was difficult for an assessor to please everybody. He maintained that the people were the final judges concerning assessment methods. Answering Mr. Weaver Mr. Smithrim said: "I can't bring myself to believe that a local man is the best assessor for Trenton." He felt that there should be a proper basis for assessment procedure. Retiring councillor Weaver, Councillor McNair called for a motion and a vote.

Councillor James MacDonald was of the opinion that careful consideration should be given an applicant for the important job of assessor. Mr. Smithrim offered: "Why is York recommended in preference to Hall?"

Mayor Burtt gave council to understand that the decision depended on salaries. Councillor Smithrim wondered if salaries came ahead of suggested that some of the other applicants be interviewed before the final decision was made. The mayor suggested interviewing some of the applicants on Wednesday. Explaining that he would not be able to be present on Wednesday councillor Weaver remarked: "You certainly won't see me tomorrow." He figured that matter should be voted on forthwith. Councillor Smithrim was against hiring an assessor without interviewing the four applicants considered capable of handling the job.

In reply Mr. Weaver said: "I'll again reiterate that a local man is better than an out-of-town applicant."

"I think that at least we should have a full council to vote on an important a matter as that", councillor Smithrim remarked. Councillor Claude Graham was not present for the discussions last night.

The meeting of the Court of Revision suggested delaying the hiring of the assessor until all of the four applicants were interviewed by council. Saturday night at 8.00 p.m. was the date set for the meeting to further consider the applications.

Priest's Prophecy on Ireland Questioned by Local Man

A Montreal newspaper, in a front page story yesterday, carried a dramatic and shocking prophecy made by The Rev. Father F. C. McDermott, assistant pastor of St. Ignatius of Loyola parish in that city. Father McDermott prophesied that within 100 years, "there may be no Irishmen left to celebrate St. Patrick's Day."

In Belleville, this St. Patrick's Day, Irish born Frank Murray, assistant manager of radio station CJBQ, who recently returned from a trip to his native country, has taken exception to Father McDermott's gloomy prophecy.

The priest gave as his explanation for the decline of the Irish population, three major reasons: "Certain marriage taboos taught in the Irish homestead in past days; emphasis on not marrying young, and the declining population statistics," Father McDermott says are the three major factors responsible for what he calls, "a regrettable situation."

Mr. Murray admits the population has shown a decrease; that marriage taboos are still practiced and there is an emphasis on not marrying young. Mr. Murray also added that on his recent trip to Erin, he noticed many more persons of marriageable age and over are single and have no apparent desire for marrying.

Where the radio executive disagrees with the priest is in the matter of explanations. The Montreal priest explained the emphasis on not marrying young is a carry-over from a practice that was in force during the Irish famine. He stated that at that time there were likely substantial economic reasons for discouraging young people to marry. However, he added that there is no economic reason for not marrying today.

RESTRICTIONS BEING LIFTED

It is here that Mr. Murray disagrees with the pastor. During the war years, the Irish government imposed severe economic restrictions upon the population, many of which are only being lifted at the present time.

Mr. Murray also admits that the outlook of the Irish government in the past has been somewhat near-sighted. Ireland has made many mistakes in the past and in Mr. Murray's opinion, one of the worst was the country's attempt to introduce industry instead of emphasizing such natural resources as agriculture. "However," he said "from my recent observations of the country, there appears to be an increasing awareness of past errors and a genuine interest in correcting them."

He made reference to the Republic of Ireland's "Irish Land Commission" set up for the purpose of expropriating unused idle lands most of which is the estates of wealthy landowners deeply involved in debt through back taxes. After expropriation, the lands are being divided up into small farms and the Irish, who have lived for years on the somewhat barren and unproductive West coast, are placed on the farms. These people will eventually obtain ownership.

HEAVY PRODUCER

Ireland's main crop is not potatoes as often believed. Mr. Murray describes it as a "Bacon and Egg Country". Ireland is a heavy producer of dairy products, beef, cattle and pigs. Her natural market, right on her doorstep is England, who unfortunately purchases most of its dairy products from Denmark. The Republic of Ireland's campaign is being called for next month may be able to do something to improve this situation, Mr. Murray believes.

For the first time in years, Ireland has definite tourist promotion. "It began last year with what Mr. Murray describes as "a million-wide festival," lasting six weeks and occurring in the spring of the year. It will be held again this year.

Many of the Irish people is broadening, Frank Murray believes, they are beginning to realize mistakes have been made and must be corrected if Ireland is not to become a province of Father McDermott. With this new awareness, which Mr. Murray noticed when visiting Ireland, he has come to believe that the prediction is wrong; that there will be an Ireland and many millions of Irish in celebrate Paddy's day, 100 years from now.

NORTHERN HEALTH

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Mass x-rays of northern Labrador Indians and Eskimos will be extended this year by the Newfoundland Tuberculosis Association working with federal and provincial officials. Fifty thousand were examined in Labrador last year, and now, the program is being expanded by additional mobile units.

HAVE WE NO MESSAGE OF OUR OWN?

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent's world tour may result in Canada finding it has a major job of international interpreting to do.

So says a news story.

Interpreting is a responsible job. In any language there are delicate shades of meaning between similar, but not identical words. To preserve faithfully these small but important differences and translate them into another language calls for knowledge, skill and integrity.

The interpreter can make or mar an exchange of ideas between persons speaking different tongues.

So, if Canada is to play the role of interpreting "Europe to Asia, as well as North America to eastern millions" she faces a formidable task, on which the future history of the world may well depend.

But we are not entirely enamored of the idea that our country is to be cast in this role. For, for some many years, we have regarded Canada as filling the place of an interpreter between the United States and Britain. But this is a task for which we are, by geography and history, well equipped, as well as both British and American.

It is doubtful whether we possess the same equipment for interpreting Europe to Asia, and vice versa.

Anyway, the interpreter's role, though of vital importance, is a limited one. He only voices the views of others. Has Canada no views of her own which she wishes to make heard in the world's council chambers? Is it so very egotistic to believe that Canada can better serve the cause of peace and economic betterment for the peoples of the world by voicing her own message than by merely acting as a mouthpiece for the views of others?

CRIME — WHAT IF IT DID PAY?

Every so often one runs across a story providing new evidence of the truth of a familiar saying, "Crime does not pay."

We dislike the adage—or rather we dislike its continual use.

What if crime did pay? Would we then be justified in becoming criminals?

Every time we say "Crime does not pay" we are suggesting that the main reason why one should refrain from crime is that it is unprofitable.

Is not that a poor reason?

Is it not perhaps possible that one reason why crime persists is our unfortunate stress on the fact that it is unprofitable? Somebody is always being faced by a set of circumstances which make it appear probable that, this time, the way to handsome cash dividends.

If only thing which had deterred this individual from being a criminal is a belief that crime does not pay, these circumstances open the bars.

But if the individual has been taught that the reason why he must not steal is because stealing is wrong, then the barriers against his embarking on a career of crime remain intact, even though he believes that, this time, crime would pay.

THE WALKING ENIGMAS

Bert Couzens is a walking enigma. Correction please. Bert Couzens was a walking enigma. Now that does not sound just right. Let us try again: Bert Couzens is walking enigmas. Oh, well, anyway, Bert Couzens is walking, or has been walking, 200 miles all by himself.

Very many many, even a Yorkshireman, should want to walk 200 miles is beyond us. Enigma No. 1.

How any man, even a Yorkshireman, could do it without stopping is also beyond us. Enigma No. 2.

No. 3—How does a man of 54 walk 200 miles non-stop or non-non-stop, if you get what we mean?

No. 4—How high Bert got? After 57 straight hours—the 60 cups of tea he drank, the 70 cigarettes he smoked or the one sandwich he ate?

No. 5—Did he really mean it when he said: "Tired? Not a bit."

Prospectors in convention in Toronto had to break up their annual meeting as men dashed by car and helicopter to new strikes in the Sparrow Lake resort district 20 miles north of Orillia. The rapidly expanding mineral exploration in Ontario could hardly have been more pointedly emphasized if Edmonton oil men started drilling through the floor in the lobby of the Royal York Hotel.

Jack Cronin, former mace-bearer in Bermondsey, London, says that the mace-bearer's duties include "mixing drinks for tired mayors." We always thought that the mace-bearer carried the load but maybe in Bermondsey the mayor carries the mace-bearer, which would certainly tire him out.

One of the nicest things about the air age is its speed. For instance, the hangar for the RCMP's new sleuth at Fort Smith, N.W.T., is being shipped from Birmingham, England, to Vancouver. The 50 foot steel shed will be taken by rail to Alberta. It will be packed in from the railhead to Fort Smith by sled. Likely by the time it gets there a rocket launcher will be starting out from Birmingham with an ultimate destination—Fort Smith.

New hand signals for Ontario motorists may or may not be right, but a lot of male motorists following lady drivers will be left in ignorance as to whether the signal is right—or wrong.

Sea Cannot Swallow Oil

(BBC Bulletin)

For ages men have been using the sea as their refuse bin and sewage disposal. It has been used as a dump for sewage, unwanted high-explosive bombs, and — now we know — for radioactive waste products of atomic factories.

It can never be quite satisfying, keep it safely hidden, and everything we digest is in some harmless form. But not oil. Oil floats on the surface. And increasingly the oceans are full of oil, and particularly the North Atlantic — by being fetched in from the treasury scum that can be carried to the coasts of many countries by winds, currents, and tides.

So said Ivor Jones, BBC reporter.

Last Summer Britain's Minister of Transport issued a report saying that "the nuisance had become intolerable" and people living at the seaside knew only too well the great lumps of sticky oil found on their beaches. At one resort in the North of England the filth has been collected from the beaches at the rate of a hundredweight a day.

Pollution showed itself also as greasy film on the sea surface and one of the most tragic effects of this was that it killed birds of many varieties. Two organizations that made a six-months survey of these casualties estimate that between 200,000 and 1,000,000 birds are killed in this way every year around the coasts of Britain alone", said Jones.

The fouling of boats, fishing gear, piers and quays, damage to fish and the increased risk of fire in harbors are other disadvantages caused by this oil almost all of which came from ships.

Eighty-five percent of steamships are now oil fuelled by 1955, having more than 50 times as much as was used 40 years ago, and oil tankers wash out their tanks with sea water that carried waste back into the ocean and discharged muddy sludge from their tanks.

There are many other ways in which the sea is abused. A big tanker or liner can discharge 30 tons of oil in a single voyage. And that in a day or two is likely to spread over many square miles of sea.

Since 1922 it has been illegal to discharge oil in British territorial waters and Britain has now taken the initiative in a fresh approach to combat this menace. A bill to mediate step proposes that all ships registered in the United Kingdom should be forbidden to discharge persistent oils in a wider area extending west from the British Isles for some 1,300 miles into the Atlantic.

The government has now started an investigation of the currents and winds at sea, working with the Institute of Oceanography at the Royal Air Force. During the investigation 10,000 bottom paper tile envelopes are being dropped at sea and the finder one wastes ashore and found the institute will pay two shillings and sixpence or its equivalent in the currency of the country where it is washed up. Each envelope contains a stamped self-addressed card, printed in eight languages, and a request questionnaire which people are asked to fill in and return. The envelopes are being dropped along carefully chosen sea tracks and to make sure that they do not sink, or be pecked by large sea birds, the envelopes include wafers of cork.

A record is kept of the tracks on which the envelopes are dropped and when they are returned it will be possible to tell how they travelled, carried by wind and currents. The experiments will go on for a year with fresh drops every three months to provide a guide of how surface drift varies according to season.

The British Government has also set about calling an international conference on oil pollution.

Need New Deck In Name Game

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

There has been some natural speculation as to whether Canada will acquire or adopt the current United States recession. There has even been some talk of what would be whether we will acquire the colored title to boot. By and large, it is something we do not like to have to refer, of course to the Fear Deal, which seems to have emanated from the White House or nearby. To be specific, it appears to have been only Mr. Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, who first used it, rather than the chief executive himself. But the association is doubtless close enough for history to ensnarl Mr. Eisenhower as the third of the Poker Presidents—Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal, Mr. Truman's Fair Deal and now Mr. Eisenhower's Fear Deal.

If there is any progressive deterioration in these epigrams, it probably should not be laid to the President, but simply to the fact that the ideal pat hand is not easily or often come by. The New Deal had, on might say, everything—the whole deck rebuffled, with everybody "cutting" and the game he could afford. A Fair Deal is more static, which seems to be the way it looked by individual players. (Our own limited—and proportionately unsuccessful—poker hand for years does not seem to have included one, possible due to the fact that we have to do with it when we did get it, a fairly common complaint among them.)

But with all due esteem for Mr. Eisenhower's Fear Deal diagnosis is the feeblest of the three, utilizing a noun to modify another noun and thus creating a grammatical anomaly. As such, one might have expected it to hover over our borders and take root here—except that it already has.

Factory In a Swamp

(Wall Street Journal)

Businessmen who think they have it tough should consider the handicaps of operating a spot like the sulphur plant site at Garden City, Bay St. Louisiana.

All working and living areas had to be created by filling land driven 85 to 95 feet into the alligator-infested marshes. Pilings: that is, long wooden poles, support every structure.

"Fresh water for the plant is piped five miles from the Mississippi River, and there is billion-gallon reservoir.

Outside truckless delta area can be reached only by boat or seaplane. Plant supplies, its products and its 250 workers travel by boat to and from Port Sulphur, 55 miles up the Mississippi. The working crew is flown in from all parts and spends five days on the job, living in comfortable apartments. Then five days ashore takes over for the next five days.

Can She Fix Machinery?

(Ottawa Journal)

We do not claim that old, timetested qualifications have passed entirely from the contemporary picture. A prudent, perspicacious younger man often should differ with Cleopatra's decision that her skill with a pot roast, carefully checked her chocolate cake, and judge her mashed potatoes with critical eye and discriminating palate. In addition, one should know whether she wields a respectful, unless piercing, eye or pot water in rinsing dishes, and rebuilds a bed so the sheets won't look as if they had been and less one's toes exposed to dangerously cold night air.

But today, Son, you must go further. The least you should do is to look for an honor graduate of an approved engineering school. She should be familiar with a Force-ten tank at the rear and a warm-air flue in the mornlin. Finally she assures me that my teachings are helping a large number of people to better health. (Signed, etc.)

Last casual readers get the impression that I don't believe in vaccination. Nothing could be further from the truth. With a few cautions, I beg to state that I recommend the following:

1) Immunize every infant against diphtheria by an initial course of diphtheria toxoid at the age of 9 months and a second injection two months later. Make sure the infant has become immune by a skin test after an interval of six months.

2) Immunize against tetanus (lockjaw) by an injection of tetanus toxoid at the age of 9 months—along with diphtheria toxoid preferably — and a second injection of the same toxoid at the age of 18 months.

I do not advise attempts to immunize infants or children against whooping cough, measles, scarlet fever, mumps or typhoid fever. Only the family physician who is familiar with the environment can decide when attempt to immunize against any of these.

Every infant should be vaccinated against smallpox sometime in the first year. If the vaccination doesn't "take" the first time, it should be repeated after an interval of a month, and if the second vaccination doesn't take it should be repeated after another interval of a month. If no "take" after the third vaccination, with vaccine that has given good "takes" in other children, it is fair to assume the child has sufficient natural (inherited) immunity against smallpox, I think.

Whenever a child sustains a wound by tetanus or care of an animal or beak or talons of bird or fowl the wound should be immediately sterilized by surgery—not carefarfared with disinfectant with an "antiseptic" but converted into a clean wounded by whatever means seem most decent necessary. Purpose of this treatment is to make as sure as humanly possible that no tetanus germs have been left in the wound. I believe that the occasional instances of so-called rabies should be treated in much the actually cases of tetanus. So, in addition to immediate surgical sterilization of the wound, an injection of tetanus antitoxin must be given—not less than dose of antitoxin repeated in 5 to 7 days.

Police Decide To Be Careful

(Lethbridge Herald).

The Edmonton police force has decided not to conduct chases at high speeds except in the city limits unless the alleged crime warrants such action. This has been done so because it realizes that the risk to life and limb is not worth the game.

We heartily agree with the Edmonton police force. Every week we hear of police cars chasing criminals through city streets at such high speeds that in most cases even a minor mishap could cause death to one of the participants and to innocent citizens as well. While we agree that there may have been no alternative but to chase people accused of serious crimes at high rates of speed, we think that it unnecessary for them to risk injury by speeding after minor criminals.

Some may disagree with the decision, preferring to see all car thieves and reckless drivers caught, no matter what the risk entailed. As for us, however, we think the lives of citizens are far more important than the arrest of a person accused of a petty crime.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In a first class American hotel the other day I ran into the worst table cutlery I have ever encountered. Knife and forks, I used carving knives and forks for close to seven years of my life. These American knives were very generous art, very modern. The silverware companies for many years have been toying with one another in the production of patterns and increasingly modernistic designs.

The knife was bad enough: a long slender blade with a concave blade. But the fork was a monstrosity. Except for a very slight curve at the tips, the implement was perfectly flat. It lay on the tablecloth as flat as a flounder.

The spoons were the same ultramodern, styling, with an effectively slight fat handles, and to increase the impression of flat elegance the bowls were as shallow as it could be.

Until these utensils produced a feeling of awkwardness hard to describe. With the knife and its flattened tips, I found that you could not properly butter your bread. You had to cut it on, as though you were using a butter knife. With its straight handle giving hardly any grip, you could not cut your meat, you merely held it with the fork and then tore a chunk off with the silly little blade. And the fork had such slightly blunt tines that you could not spear a piece of food with it, you had to manipulate it by pushing sliding it under the food and conveying it to the shallow curved tines to the mouth.

But at the next table, a young man and his girl revealed to us the American way of employing these implements. Confronted by both ordered medium rare roast beef, and a crisp, beautiful thick slices the fat cut of the meat.

Holding the slice of beef down by the knife held in his right hand and shoulders then by the fork, which he held in his left, the young couple preceded calmly to cut or separate the whole beautiful slice of beef into bite pieces or twenty pieces, cutting criss-cross. Then, changing the feeble knife and transferring the fork to the right hand, they employed it, upside down, like a shovel, to carry the ready-cut bite to their mouths.

From now on I am carrying my own knife, fork and spoon when I cross the border.

Time Must Be Spent

(Boston Herald)

You can't take time and put it in your pocket to save it. What is left is nothing that can be kept or predicted, hoarded or counted on. It does not move to our desires, but we to its measure, inevitably. We know that and cannot change it. We wouldn't. We are not the victim of time's changes, but the beneficiary. And time can not be kept, each moment is therefore new. It is up to us what we make of it.

Kansas reader with three children asks Dr. Brady for Dr. Brady's (no irreverance intended, for I'm sure she accumbed to the temptation of Hippocrates) that she tell her about all of her interest ormed boys and only her eldest son has lost his tonsils—a procedure she advised me against in rinsing dishes, and rebuilds a bed so the sheets won't look as if they had been and less one's toes exposed to dangerously cold night air.

TODAY'S TALK

HEAVY EQUIPMENT

Familiar is that old adage: "It's the last straw that breaks the camel's back." Perhaps it is the last fact to mind for it is because of too heavy equipment in the way of worries, hates, resentments, jealousies, bitterness, and self-inflicted troubles, that our backs and spirits it can break down.

We travel with light equipment when we keep sending out words of hope and comfort to others. We travel unloading our troubles when as we seek to make less the problems of those who may be confused and worried. He travels furthest who helps another on, pointing out the way, and relieving him of his burdens.

Physical living is very simple if we travel each day with light equipment. It is when we forget the life work of the great thinker and naturalist, Thoreau, who refused life his simple necessities. He once said: "I have three chairs in my house; one for solitude, two for friendship and three for society." What could be more happily simple than that?

The soldier and sailor both cling to light equipment. My father, Civil War veteran, John Davis, traveled with but a single bag, and he covered most of the world. A friend of mine was given that battered bag, and showed it to me with pride, for it is one of his treasured gifts. It is habitual on the part of us all to carry too much unnecessary baggage when we take a vacation. We learn the fruitful of too much baggage, but how few of us ever take advantage of our folly!

How very little we need to carry us through life. We become obsessed with the notion that our garrets well testify. Garrets of the mind, too, never read about Lincoln's scant equipment of mind, his lack of education, without realizing that is the use he made of his natural gifts. But it was that love that he used to make him immortal!

ON BEING SUCCESSFUL

A national magazine recently published an article describing the business heirarchy.

It appears that in a great corporation when a junior-junior officer becomes a junior officer, must, if he follows the style, move to a new section of town, get a new automobile, join the clubs and swankier clubs, and drop his modest associates in the use he made of his natural gifts. But it was that love that he used to make him immortal!

Still a Question

If there is life on other planets there remains the question of how much time they devote to finding ways of destroying it.

Simon Called Peter

"He turned increasingly to prayer and silence, beseeching the Lord's help."

CHAPTER 12.

In the days following the Ascension, Simon called Peter walked out alone into the country, praying for guidance. This tall man he appointed to destiny tramped the hills and valleys in the Palestinian springtime; a big man all over he was, with a head round as a globe and with the prognathous jaws of a fighter—but the largest thing about him was his great loving heart.

Peter was abundantly aware of his own shortcomings, his rash temper, his impulsive emotional reactions to men and events. He knew that only the power of God could sustain him in the tremendous years of decision ahead of him, and he turned increasingly to prayer and silence, beseeching the Lord's help.

"Lovest thou Me?" Jesus has asked in that final lakeside hour of commission. And Peter had answered in truth, "Lord, You know I love You."

That love he sought to perfect now in prayer, he who had been privileged to walk and talk with the living God.

Simon, called Peter by the Son of God (In Aramaic it was Kipha, which meant rock; in Latin, Petrus. Cephas was, again, another way of saying that he was a rock, and Cephas Jesus had called him at their very first meeting, when Andrew, bringing Peter to Him, said, "My brother, we have found the Messiah.")

And what had the Messiah said to the fisherfolk fisherman? "You are Simon, the son of Jonas; you shall be called Cephas, which is interpreted Peter."

From that moment the renamed fisherman had followed the Lord.

Looking back, Peter could not disguise from himself the special place Jesus had invariably given him among the apostles; always he was present at any important event. With James and John, he witnessed the raising of the daughter of Jairus from the dead; with the same two, he was present at the Transfiguration; he shared with them their ignominious sleep during Jesus' prayers in the Garden of Gethsemane. From the prow of Peter's boat the Master spoke to the multitude, and when He was miraculously walking upon the waters of Galilee, He called Peter to come to Him; it was Peter He sent back to the lake to catch the fish in whose mouth would be found the coin to pay the taxes.

But most important of all, Christ had given Peter the keys to heaven When the Master and the twelve were walking near the town of Caesarea Philippi, Jesus had asked them who they thought He was.

Simon called Peter had returned the answer for them all:

"You are Christ, the Son of the living God."

And Jesus had answered:

"Blessed are you Simon, son of Jonas; because flesh and blood have not revealed it to you, but My Father who is in heaven. And I say to you: That you are Peter (Kipha, a rock); and upon this rock I will build My Church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give to you the keys of the kingdom of heaven. And whatsoever you shall bind upon earth, it shall be bound also in heaven; and whatsoever you shall loose on earth, it shall be loosed also in heaven."

All these things the anxious fisherman now reviewed in his mind. But remembering it all brought him still no clear knowledge of the work that Jesus meant for him to do. And how soon was he to get that promised guidance for which his whole being began to yearn?

Meanwhile, Peter well knew that the old enemies of the Master were aware of the return of Jesus. Caiphas of the perfumed beard had called that second rump meeting of the Sanhedrin, and paid out bribes to spread the fable that the disciples came in the night and stole the body away.

How illogical the high priests were! To say that the countrymen from Galilee, who at the first show of soldiers' torches, spears, and shields had fled the Garden of Gethsemane, leaving Jesus to His fate — that these cowards at Christ's arrest would have the courage to steal the body from under the very eyes of Roman guards!

Nevertheless, the tale was being spread. Immediate and strong-handed leadership of all the bewildered believers was imperative. And Peter had been designated as the leader. Yet he could not bring himself to act.

He had been wrong so often!

At the Last Supper, Peter had sworn to follow his Master to prison and to death. But Jesus knew better. He had predicted that before morning Peter would deny Him three times. And from the agonies of that weakness Peter still trembled whenever he thought of it, which was almost constantly.

And before that same last Passover meal, when Christ had set about washing His apostles' feet, kneeling first before Peter, the fisherman had protested vigorously. Offended by the very humility of his Lord, he had exclaimed in horror: "Thou shall never wash my feet."

Only when Jesus declared that otherwise Peter should have no part with Him did Peter submit, saying: "Lord, not only my feet, but also my hands and my head."

How many rash mistakes can one man make?

In the Garden of Gethsemane Peter slept through the hour of his Saviour's anguish of prayer. At the arrest of Jesus, Peter in an outburst of anger had drawn his sword and cut off the right ear of the high priest's servant. And again Jesus had reproved him: "Put up your sword into the sheath! The cup which My Father has given Me, shall I not drink it?"

Peter never seemed to do anything quite right. He was a big impulsive blunderer, and he was well aware of it. His own weakness appalled him. How then could he possibly be the leader of God's Church?

Would other men, in other years, find it hard to believe that such as he had actually been singled out as the leader of the Church Christ founded? Would they balk at accepting the idea that the all-powerful God would commission such a plain and human fisherman over all others? Peter scolded to himself as he wondered.

He had been chosen because he loved Jesus, heart, soul, and mind. But he knew from his mistakes that love alone was not enough. Without that, he would be nothing!

Japanese Bride Feels Strange, Little Afraid

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—Even after four months, Harue, Japanese bride of a Canadian soldier, felt strange and a little afraid of this bleak, foggy city. Then she found she had tuberculosis.

The eight months she had to spend in hospital were good months however, and the "doctors, nurses, all very nice." Looking back, Harue has no regrets. For the girl, tiny and delicate as an Oriental doll, it was a chance to make friends in a country whose customs and language were confusing.

Released in November, she is convalescing in the care of her husband, Sgt. E. C. Farmer, and his parents. Sgt. Farmer is a native of Halifax, and has been stationed at eastern command army headquarters here since he returned from the Far East.

LANGUAGE TOUGH

Though Harue misses her people and her country, she thinks she loves Canada and is struggling to master the language.

She has most difficulty with "R" and "R" sounds. Magazines are a bit beyond her yet with "hard words"—so she reads comic books for practice.

She has a way of grinning and knitting the brows of her bright eyes in a puzzlement before she speaks. She forms her thoughts into sentences, then speaks rapidly. "Canada not like Japan. Country, people, city, houses—everything—so big!" the 92-pound woman says. "Both nice."

The Farmer family has taken to the cheerful girl, but her illness has prevented her taking an active part in the household routine.

When she is a little stronger Harue will visit a 15-year-old Japanese girl who is studying at Mount St. Vincent College, just outside the city. The two are the only native Japanese women in this area.

Sgt. Farmer thinks, however, that a New Brunswick couple brought a Japanese bride home with him. If he can locate them, he and Harue will visit them.

Harue met her husband on a ferry ding a religious festival on an island near Kure, Japan. They were married in an Anglican chapel, and came to Canada in December, 1951. Although Harue has never renounced Shintoism, she goes to Church of England services with her mother-in-law.

Harue comes from a suburb of Hiroshima, and was there when the atomic bomb exploded. She is sad when she speaks of the city, once a Japanese show place.

Mrs. Louis St. Laurent quietly went on a reducing diet of her own making eight months ago. When Prime Minister St. Laurent left on his national tour, Mrs. St. Laurent moved into her Quebec City home where she visited old family friends who were prompt to note she had slimmed down. How did she do it? "No butter, no desserts," said Mrs. St. Laurent who lost 18 pounds. (CP Photo.)

St. Margarets' Guild Views Interesting Film

Twenty-one members of St. Margaret's Guild gathered in the church hall on Monday evening for their regular meeting. The president, Mrs. F. E. Moore, opened the meeting with prayer, and conducted the usual business period. Two new members were welcomed to the Guild.

Plans were made for a meeting the end of March, which would be open to the whole congregation. The guest speaker on this occasion will be Miss Norma Arkles.

The program committee took charge of the meeting. An interesting contest entitled "Famous People" was conducted by Mrs. L. Reid and won by Mrs. F. H. Clarke.

MICK FILM SHOWN

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of a film entitled "Refreshment Through the Years" by a local company, Mr. Don Charlton, who was introduced by Mrs. Don Allen, spoke briefly to introduce the film which was in color.

The history of the manufacture of carbonated beverages from early Colonial days to the present time was reviewed. The progress from manual labor to the complicated mechanical devices of today was amazing. Also shown was the making of bottles and bottle tops.

Mr. Charlton concluded by distributing "cokes" with the compliments of the company, and answering any questions the audience cared to ask. He extended an invitation to all to visit the local plant at any time and see one of the most modern plants of its kind in Canada.

Mrs. F. E. Moore conveyed to Mr. Charlton the appreciation of the Guild.

Coffee and sandwiches were served by Mrs. L. Reid and Mrs. F. Bradley.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ATTENTION FOR A WIFE OR HUSBAND!—DON'T LOOK HERE!

A few weeks ago a letter printed in this column, signed C.A.B., was from a man of 36 who was looking for a wife and said so frankly.

So many letters have reached my desk from women readers asking either for this man's address or enclosing letters of their own which they wanted me to forward to him, that I have decided to save time by answering them all at once.

A curious thing about this situation, incidentally, is that, in practically every instance, the women who wanted to be put in touch with C.A.B. said that they were regular readers of my column. What is curious about it is that anyone who has read my column regularly should have been under the impression that to make this sort of request. For I have consistently pointed out that it is never real fun or wise to try and introduce strangers through the mails. Despite this, however, and despite the fact that in my reply to C.A.B. in my column I told him I was unable to help him find a wife, these letters are still coming in.

Here are a few samples:

"I was reading about that young man who wanted a good wife. Well I am a lonely young woman of 31 and I would like for you to send me his address."

"I read your article on the lonely Argentinian and was impressed by it, as I am lonely myself. Would you please forward my address to him so that I may correspond with this lonely man?"

"I don't suppose you could put me in touch with some bachelor in your column, but I am a little bit interested in this man in yesterday's column. I certainly wouldn't hesitate to marry anyone sight unseen, but I am curious. He must be sounds like he might be a nice man."

Well, you see how it goes. Over and over I have stressed the fact that I never put men and women in touch with each other through my column, yet over and over, whenever either a man or a woman writes a letter similar to that of C.B., letter like these come pouring in.

Not only, apparently, does what I say on this point make no impression on anyone who reads it, but apparently also, no one wants to take the trouble to follow up the advice I give to lonely men and women in search of wives or husbands. I cannot, however, resist trying again to explain to these people that the search for a mate does not consist of sitting at home waiting for one to turn up, it consists of going out and mixing oneself with as many legitimate interests as he can find, through which one can meet new people. I have pointed out, and I point out again, that the best way to embark on such a project is to make a survey of all the activities in your own town in which men and women join together either to work for the community welfare or merely to have good times. Then, pick out two or three of these and join in the various programs with enthusiasm and zest. Enthusiasm is contagious, and the man or woman who is enthusiastic about anything usually finds a kindred spirit who becomes enthusiastic about him or her.

What it all reduces to is simply the making of as many friends as possible. Whether a man begins making friends through all-male organizations or a woman joins an organization of women is immaterial. Everybody has relatives—sons, daughters, brothers, sisters, nieces, nephews and cousins—and sooner or later you are bound to meet them through the friend you make.

So, all you lonely women who wanted to meet C.A.B., and all you lonely men who want to make the acquaintance of the lonely women who write me, read this over and over until it inspires you to get up and do as suggested. When we want anything in life, we go out after it.

A Pressure-Cooked Meal

By Mary Moore

All the blarney isn't in Ireland thank goodness. A pat on the back, a word of praise to someone who may be discouraged, could be the difference between success and failure. Learn a lesson from St. Pat today and make your corner of the green earth cheerier.

In yesterday's column was a sweet letter from a Dutch reader who asked for more recipes for pressure cooker.

I often give you a menu on Wednesdays and think, since there are plenty of our readers who use pressure cookers, I will make today's menu up of pressure cooked foods.

I have chosen shoulder veal for our meat, but chuck beef could be substituted if you wish. While I have given you a pressure cooked dessert too it would not be very practical to have both of these pressure-cooked foods at the same meal. After you have prepared it you don't want to be jumping up during dinner to watch a pressure gauge. You may decide to serve the veal one day and the dessert the next.

Veal, Country Style
Cole Slaw with Parsley
Steamed Apple Pudding
Lemon Spice Sauce
Coffee

VEAL, COUNTRY STYLE (Pressure Cooked)

Three lbs. veal shoulder cut in 1-inch cubes, 2 tablespoons fat, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 4 whole black peppercorns or 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 2 medium onions, 4 carrots, halved, 4 medium potatoes, halved, 1 can cream of mushroom soup (undiluted), 1-4 cup of water. Put fat in hot pressure cooker and brown the veal pieces all over in it. Add all remaining ingredients having prepared the vegetables by peeling or paring and cutting. Lock cover in position. When steady flow of steam emerges from vent, close valve, and after gauge registers 15 lbs. pressure, cook 15 minutes at this temperature. Release all steam to reduce pressure before removing cover.

NOTE—Above recipe may be used without pressure cooker, but time must be increased to 2 hours at boiling point, and water decreased to 2 cups.

STEAMED APPLE PUDDING (Pressure Cooked)

Four to six cooking apples (Spys are ideal), cinnamon or cloves or nutmeg, 1 cup flour, 1-3 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup milk. Wipe, quarter, core, pare and slice apples into buttered baking dish (metal, heatproof glass earthenware—even tin cans) Sprinkle apples with desired spice but not more than 1-2 teaspoon. If cloves are used, then sprinkle with the sugar. The remaining ingredients are mixed as for baking powder biscuit: sift flour, baking powder and salt together; cut in butter until fine, then quickly stir in milk. Roll out to fit bowl and place over apples. Cover tightly with lid, or 3 thicknesses of wax paper, or parchment paper or foil, tied on. Put 2 cups water in cooker. Stand pudding on rack that is tall enough to prevent water touching pudding dish. Steam with cover on but gauge off and valve open for 10 minutes, then close valve bring pressure up to 15 lbs. and pressure cook for 10 minutes.

LEMON SPICE SAUCE

One-half cup sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 1-2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon finely grated lemon rind, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, shake or salt. Mix sugar and cornstarch, salt, stir in water gradually until thick. Place over boiling water and cook 15 minutes, covered, stirring occasionally. Add all remaining ingredients and heat through.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THOUGHT MARRIED BROTHER COULDN'T BE BEST MAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is to be married in August. He has asked one of his classmates to be his best man. I wanted him to have his brother, who is married, as his best man. But he says that although he would love to have his brother as his best man, he has asked his friend and hates to make a change. Also he says he thought that because his brother is married it would not be correct. Tell me Mrs. Beeckman, is it proper to have a married brother as best man? Should we leave it as it has been arranged? If so, would it then be proper for the married brother to act as an usher? — Mother

If the groom has a brother, it is customary for the groom to invite him to be his best man. . particularly when (as I judge is true in this case) he is the groom's only brother. The fact that he is married makes absolutely no difference in this procedure, and it is not at all necessary that his wife be invited to be a bridal attendant. If your son really wishes to have his brother as his best man, it is quite simple for him to explain his misunderstanding to his classmate and not make a good impression.

Women's Activities

MASSASSAGA W.A.

The March meeting of the Massassaga W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Morley Davidson.

A letter of thanks was read from the "Joes family" for flowers and cards, sent to Mrs. Joan Sr., in the Belleville General Hospital. Also a card of acknowledgment from the family of the late Mr. George Ackerman.

An invitation was received to attend the rally at Burr's United Church on April 21.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Norman Salisbury and opened by singing the hymn, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross".

Mrs. Morley Davidson read the lesson the theme being. "The Way of the Cross", and followed with prayer.

Mrs. James Thomson introduced the two guests of the afternoon, Miss Clapp and Mr. Wright.

Mrs. Thomson thanked the visitors, on behalf of the W.A. for a very interesting afternoon. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Salisbury and her group.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

CARRIAGE OF SHOULDERS AFFECTS APPEARANCE

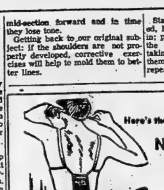
There are women of fifty—many even older—who are slender as saplings, regal of carriage and graceful in movement. And there are young girls and young women who have hunchy shoulders, who flatten their chests and let their abdomens protrude.

It's all a matter of posture!

With the vogue for bare-top formals still on the increase, it therefore behooves the beauty-seekers to consider their shoulders. The pose of the shoulders is an important factor where posture is concerned. They should never be held to a rigid manner for then the figure loses its sort, compelling lines. Throwing them forward is even worse for that causes collar bones to pop out, accentuates ungainly lines.

By keeping the head level, and the head level, and the chest lifted, the shoulders will fall easily and naturally in place, and the movements of the arms will be pleasing.

The way a girl moves will affect the lines of her figure because of the effect it has upon the muscular system, which should be strong and resilient. When you stoop to pick up an object on the floor, bend at the line of the hips. To bend at the waist line sends the fibres of the mid-section forward and in time their lose tone.



Getting back to our original subject: If the shoulders are not properly developed, corrective exercises will help to mold them to better lines.

Stand tall, spinal column extended, head balanced, tummy tucked in: Place the hands outspread over the chest, extend them upward, taking a deep inhalation. Lower them, exhale through the lips and repeat.

Interesting Talk On Pioneer Church Given at W.A.

The March meeting of the Plainfield Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Wesley Bradshaw. Mrs. Charles Beatty presided with 16 members present. Roll call was answered by the paying of fees. The offering taken amounted to $2.82. A financial statement was read by the treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Hall, reporting net proceeds from the banquet of $173, which brought the total on hand to $282.48. A buying committee of three, Mrs. C. Marshal, Mrs. C. Dickens and Mrs. Garfield Hall was chosen to buy supplies for catering at Scott's Sales barn on March 30th. Programs were mapped out for the years' meetings.

The president advocated a suggestion box for the next meeting to be contributed to by W.A. members, with the object of arousing and maintaining interest in the work of the W.A.

The devotional topic, "Life's Pattern", was taken by Mrs. Grant Kerr, followed by prayer and the Scripture lesson, Romans 15:1-7, read by Mrs. Garfield Hall.

HAY BAY CHURCH.

Mrs. Harry McCreary gave an interesting and informative talk on "The Hay Bay Church," which stressed the rich heritage left by pioneer forefathers, many of whom on account of an unswerving loyalty to Great Britain, the mother country, were forced after the revolutionary war of 1776, to leave their homes in the United States and migrate to Canada. Five ship loads of these people came to Quebec and thence to the township of Adolphustown, where they courageously hewed new homes out of the virgin forest and after only four years built the now historical old Hay Bay Church. To make way for a new church, this quaint little two storey church with its gallery and highly elevated pulpit containing many relics of early days was eventually sold and fell into disrepair, but was finally re-bought and restored by means of a grant from the Bay of Quinte Conference.

Yearly through the months of July and August this old site is visited by tourists, who also view with interest the cairn near by, erected to the memory of Sir John A. Macdonald, who, as a boy lived there and worshipped with his father in the old Hay Bay Church.

Women's Institute

IVANHOE W.I.

Ivanhoe W.I. held its March meeting at the home of Mrs. E. Haggerty with a large attendance. The president, Mrs. E McMaster, opened the meeting by a reading "Hints on Health," written by Miss Ethel Chapman. The president extended a warm welcome to Mrs. E Sine, of Rawdon township, and all visitors. The secretary, Mrs. J. Wright read "Thank-you" letters. It was decided that the Institute would give a donation toward relief in Greece. The "Extension Service for the Homemaker" was dealt with, also a request that all conveners of the standing committee have their reports ready to hand in at the April meeting.

Miss Edna Tanner, convener of "Home Economics and Health," took charge of an interesting program. Mrs. A. Gray, in keeping with the motto, gave two splendid suggestions for a menu for a Sunday dinner, which some will try out in the near future.

Mrs. E. Colden delighted all with a solo, "Galway Bay"; she was accompanied by Mrs. R Haggerty at the piano. Mrs. G. Wood gave a paper, "For People Will Talk," which was selected by Mrs. C. McIlroy.

Miss A. Tanner introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. E. Sine, who based her instructive talk on "Health." First, the need of being educated on the services of health organizations, also the need of sufficient rest and sleep, sanitation in the home, the work of medicinal health officers in the schools, the Victorian Order of Nurses giving instructions on child welfare and mother care, the need of education on the first symptoms of community diseases, the help hospitalization plans have brought to the sick in the community, also the work of the "Health Security Council," and last, but not least, Mrs. Sine asked if the Institute had planned to give blood to the hospital bank in case of emergency for, perhaps one of its own members.

Mrs. McMaster, the president, extended hearty thanks to Mrs Sine for her information on such an important subject. Mrs. E Haggerty led in a sing-song, "Irish Eyes are Smiling" and "Peggy O'Neil." Miss E. Tanner had charge of a contest. Mrs. C. McIntyre thanked the hostess.

A social half hour was enjoyed with sandwiches and tarts being served by the hostess and assistant hostesses.

United Church S.S. Purchases Projector

FRANKFORD. — The Frankford United Church Sunday School decided at a meeting held recently to purchase a new film strip projector and have obtained one at a cost of $88. The Sunday School hopes to obtain a few films of their own in the near future.

The showing of a missionary film with the use of a borrowed machine was received so favorably, that it led to the purchasing of the new machine. It is hoped the machine will prove a valuable aid to the classes, and that it will be used frequently.

March Meeting Eggleton WMS

MADOC JUNCTION—The March meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A., was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Warren Harlow. Mrs. Fitchett presided over the program which had been prepared by Mrs. Milton Reid. After the opening hymn the worship period was conducted by Mrs. M. Reid.

Roll call showed 14 adults and 2 children present.

During the business period Mrs. Wm. McMullen offered her home for the April meeting, with a potluck dinner at the noon hour. Mrs. Bert Reide will prepare the program.

The secretary was requested to write to the missionary-for-prayer, Miss Isobell McCauley of Winnipeg so the W.A. could become better informed of the work she is doing.

A poem was read by Mrs. W. Clarke. Mrs. Maurice Clancy then gave the chapter from the Study Book. Miss Joyce Stapley contributed a piano solo. Mrs. C. Sills gave a splendid paper on Rev. Charles Gordon (Ralph Connor) telling of his work, and also a list of the books he had written.

You'll discover a great difference from the moment you take the wheel

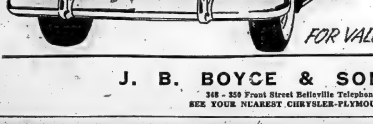
First, you'll discover new and wonderful visibility. You have a clear, close-in view of the road ahead over the lower Plymouth hood. Driving is safer and much more enjoyable.

Then, the steering wheel is below eye-level. You look over the wheel—not through it. Plymouth Chair-High Seats let you sit up comfortably so you see all round. You don't get tired and cramped as in ordinary, lower seats.

Try how easily a Plymouth handles—there's an amazing difference. Drive it around curves and feel it actually cling to the road. No outward sway—no sense of strain of "holding" your car.

The Plymouth-Balanced Ride using Oriflow shock absorbers, has been widely accepted, but test the original. Feel how it eliminates pitch, roll and jounce . . . how it smooths out the roughest roads, makes pavements feel level as a table-top.

You've an extra value, too, in peace of mind. Plymouth Safety Rim Wheels, exclusive with Chrysler products, afford extra protection in case of sudden tire failure, because the Safety-Rim feature holds the deflated tire on the wheel while you make a straighter, safer stop.



You have the all-time protection of constant-speed Electric Windshield Wipers—they won't slow down when you climb a hill or accelerate to pass as you've seen vacuum-operated wipers do.

You have balanced braking. Plymouth has two brake cylinders in each front wheel brake where extra braking effort is required—not just one like most other cars. Cycebond rivetless brake-linings last much longer—no rivets to score brake-drums—greater surface contact area for more efficient braking effort.

If you like the extra ease of Power Steering*—remember, Plymouth's Full-Time Power Steering is on the job all the time, from the moment your engine starts.

Report Accused Admitted Killing Fellow-Soldier

CALGARY (CP)—A witness testifying Tuesday at the murder trial of Pte. Walter Clerpiax quoted the 21-year-old Windsor, Ont., soldier as saying "I killed him. He won't torment me anymore."

Clerpiax is charged with the murder of fellow-soldier Pte. Robert Bilow, 21, of Winchester, Ont., shot to death Jan. 5 in a washroom at Currie barracks here.

The trial opened Monday in Supreme Court.

Pte. John Thomas Gatherall quoted Clerpiax as saying following Bilow's death: "I've killed him. He won't 'bug' me anymore." Under cross-examination, Gatherall agreed the word used was probably "torment" rather than "bug."

Pte. Zane George Shepherd said Clerpiax handed his service rifle to a lance-corporal and said: "I told him to leave me alone but he kept picking on me."

Both Bilow and Clerpiax were members of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

PHOTOS INTRODUCED

Police photographs of Pte. Bilow after death were shown the court.

The photos were identified by Det.-Sgt. Andrew Little, head of the city police identification bureau, first witness for the crown. They showed Bilow with a bandaged head and a bullet hole in the left breast.

Throughout the morning session, the accused's mother, Mrs. Anna Clerpiax, was in attendance. She was not permitted to sit in court Monday as she was scheduled to give evidence.

The court waived the rule Tuesday, however, when crown prosecutor L. A. Justason submitted that her presence "would have no material effect on the course of the trial."

Dressed in a dark fur coat and brown hat, she sat slightly to the right and behind the prisoner's dock. She leaned forward attentively as exhibits were shown, but otherwise betrayed no emotion.

Clerpiax sat in the box in an indifferent attitude.

Commando Expert Seeking Pardon For Old Crime

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Bert (Yank) Levy, Canada-born master of the "quick, quiet kill" who once taught Allied soldiers the art of commando warfare, asked the Pennsylvania pardon board Tuesday to remove "the only real blot" on his record, a hold-up conviction 27 years ago.

Harley Rubinson, Philadelphia lawyer who carried Levy's plea to the state pardon board, said the 51-year-old soldier of fortune is crippled by arthritis.

"Yank Levy is a penniless, helplessly crippled man who wants nothing more than to wipe out the only real blot on his record that he might live his few remaining years in peace," Rubinson told the board.

Levy, a native of Windsor, Ont., attracted wide attention in the 1940s as an active instructor in guerrilla tactics for both the British and United States armies. A book he wrote still is considered one of the most authoritative manuals on the subject.

Recalling that Levy fought as a free - lance in Palestine, Jordan, Mexico, Nicaragua, and Spain, Rubinson said:

"This man never asked for decorations or medals from the countries he served so valiantly. Yank never screamed 'the world owes me a living.' Yank comes here before the board with bowed head to ask that you forgive him for his one trespass against his fellow man."

The board took the appeal for a pardon under advisement.

LIBEL AWARD $250,000

CHICAGO (AP)—A jury Tuesday night awarded $250,000 damages to a Pennsylvania antique dealer who had accused a Chicago publisher of libelling him. John H. Chamberlain of Delaware Water Gap, Pa., charged in his suit against the Lightner Publishing Corp. that his professional reputation was damaged by an article in its May, 1949, issue of Hobbies magazine, published by Lightner. The article said the article represented Chamberlain's antiques as reproductions rather than originals.

St. Laurent Back In North America After Long Tour

SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent back in North America after his six-week round-the-world goodwill tour, prepared to take off today for Ottawa and a report to Canada's Parliament.

His RCAF C-5 transport is due at Ottawa's Rockcliffe airport at 3:30 p.m. EST and Ottawa sources say he may tell Parliament about his trip Thursday.

If the prime minister does not report to parliament Thursday he may put off the speech till next week, giving him an opportunity for a rest and more time to prepare it.

NO FORMAL VISITS

He rested here Tuesday night after his arrival from Hawaii. At his request, there were no formal visits or ceremonies at the only U.S. stop on his tour.

He told reporters on arrival here that he found the people of Asia concerned with domestic affairs than with the international situation. Asked if he thought the cold war is being won in Asia, he replied that "I don't think they want to have their affairs run by the Kremlin or any other totalitarian organization."

He had found a good deal of confidence in Asia, and Europe too, that the cold war "is not going to be a hot one."

Pedigreed Cat Spends 11 Cold Weeks on Island

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Donnerville Dum Robin—a pedigreed siamese cat who answers only to the name of Sandy—is back home today after 11 cold weeks on Pelee island in Lake Erie where he lived off field mice and wild birds.

The ordeal knocked his weight down from 11 pounds to less than four and the tips of his ears were frozen off.

Sandy escaped at Christmas when his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hosack, took him with them on a visit to relatives on the island. Dogs chased him into the woods and Mrs. Hosack searched for a week in vain. Before she left for home, she offered a $10 reward for Sandy.

Residents said they saw Sandy several times stalking food but he fled when they approached. Early this week, Mrs. Douglas McCormick of Pelee island heard a noise in her chicken house and found Sandy.

Returned home, the cat has been eating royally on roast beef and gravy and "everything in the house," said Mrs. Hosack.

Sandy now won't let her out of his sight.

Margarine Issue In Prince Edward Island's House

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prince Edward Island's Liberal government was told Tuesday that it should either amend regulations prohibiting sale of margarine or permit sale and manufacture of the butter substitute in the province.

Harvey Douglas, a Liberal, said some of the raw materials used in the manufacture of margarine would be supplied within the province, where the main industry is agriculture.

In Alberta, Premier E. C. Manning said a greater percentage of provincial towns have water and sewer systems than have towns in "old established" provinces such as Ontario and Quebec.

Mines Minister M. A. Patterson of Nova Scotia told the legislature that the province's coal industry is in "critical condition."

PRODUCTION DECLINE

Mr. Patterson reported a production drop of 117,000 tons for 1953 and urged a "firm federal coal policy" to help the industry.

Premier D. L. Campbell told the Manitoba legislature he had "no doubt at all" that expenditures earmarked for hydro-electric power development will assure industries intending to settle in the province a "firm power head."

Japanese Fishermen, Burned By Radio-Active Ashes, Will Be Given Top Medical Care

By JIM BECKER

TOKYO (AP)—The United States today offered top-flight medical aid to 23 Japanese fishermen burned and blistered by radioactive ashes from a super-secret U.S. nuclear test in the Pacific.

The U.S. ambassador to Tokyo, John Allison, also proposed a joint Japanese-American investigation of the March 1 incident in the Bikini-Eniwetok test region.

Only one sailor was considered in dangerous condition when their boat arrived Sunday, but all now are in hospital. Three were added today to the "serious" list, but doctors said they expect all 23 will live.

WERE 80 MILES AWAY

The intensity of the burns—which caused their skins to blacken and their hair to fall out—and their story of the fishermen's speculation that the March 1 test may have been a thermonuclear explosion touched off a scientific sensation.

The crew's report indicated they were about 80 miles from the blast centre.

The U.S. embassy said a team of three American and three Japanese doctors associated with the atomic bomb casualty commission in atom-bombed Hiroshima will treat the victims.

Kyodo news agency said the Japanese foreign office intends to take up the matter officially, and will ask compensation for the victims.

In Washington, Representative W. Sterling Cole (Rep. N. Y.), chairman of the congressional atomic energy committee, said it was possible the fishermen were spying, but said he has no official report.

("We don't know whether the fishermen were in the area deliberately or accidentally," he said.)

The U. S. has said only that the March 1 explosion was an "atomic device."

MORE DEADLY BLAST

Physicians here have said that effects on the fishermen indicate a much more intense and deadly explosion than the first atomic bombs exploded at the end of the Second World War.

Dr. Michihiko Hachiya, an expert on atomic ailments, said he doubts any serious physical effects will be felt by persons who ate radiation-contaminated fish which reached the market from the fishing boat.

Most of the catch was buried, but a few hundred pounds are believed to have been eaten.

Newspaper Executive, H. Gagnon, Has Retired

QUEBEC (CP) — Retirement of Henri Gagnon, vice-president, director-general and for 30 years a director of the board of the company publishing the daily newspapers Le Soleil and L'Evenement-Journal, was announced today.

The announcement was made by Le Soleil Limitee, in a front-page statement tracing highlights in the career of one of Canada's most prominent publishing executives who was associated with the founders of The Canadian Press, Canada's national news-gathering co-operative.

St. Patrick's Day Finds Republic At Crossroads

By MILTON MARMOR

DUBLIN (AP) — St. Patrick's Day, 1954, finds the Republic of Ireland at a crossroads.

The government of Prime Minister Eamon de Valera wants to change the historic forces which for 100 years have bled the land of its youth. It wants to modernize and industrialize the "auld sod."

In 1841 there were 8,131,000 people in Ireland. By 1901 the population had shrunk to 3,321,000. Now there is 2,960,000 in the Republic of Ireland.

In the last five years, while the population increased slightly, 120,000 Irish emigrated. Why?

Eighty or working class members of Irish consider life hard. They seek in other lands more comforts, more luxuries, more opportunities and a future need of the gnawing fear of unemployment.

And they seek an earlier chance to marry. Ireland is unique in the world in late marriages. The average man weds at 40; the woman at 25. They can't afford to marry earlier. More than one out of four Irish women never find a husband —even though Ireland is a country with the true proportion of more men than women.

CAUSE IS ECONOMIC

The reason Ireland, a country of large families, became a land of bachelors and old maids is basically economic. On the farm, the custom is for the eldest son to get the property. Younger sons and daughters must leave if they intend to wed. Two-thirds of the farms cover 50 acres or less and there is no room for another family on the small holdings.

So they go to the cities. There, industries are not yet developed enough to absorb the influx. The next step is to emigrate.

The government's answer is a campaign to develop an export market and to bring in capital investment for new or enlarged industries. Another proposed solution is to electrify the farmlands to make the countryside modern, and life less rugged.

Drive out past Dublin airport. Overhead, the newest of passenger airliners of the turboprop class, the Viscount, is coming in for a practice landing. It will go on regular passenger service next month for Irish Air Lines (Aer Lingus).

IRISH EAT WELL

The four-engine plane swoops low over the prairie, thatched-roof farmhouse where the Carberry family has lived for at least 300 years. Here, on about 10 acres, the Carberrys keep cattle and sheep and do some tillage.

Monica Carberry, a widowed mother of six, shyly welcomed strangers inside her two-story home. A few months ago electricity reached Mrs. Carberry's door.

"It's a marvelous improvement," she said simply. "We seemed to have been left out of it. It was a case of a bit of a job to get them (the government) to do it, I think."

Ireland eats well. The per capita calory intake ranks sixth in the world. The meat consumption per capita is fourth after the United States, Canada and France.

The government is working hard to do something about housing. New projects are going up around Dublin.

Premier de Valera's deputy, Sean Lemass, is pushing the industrialization drive. Lemass is viewed by some observers as a realistic leader who looks forward instead of backward at Irish history.

AT THE CROSSROADS

In a half-hour interview he did not once mention partition, perhaps the most popular conversation piece in the republic. As everyone must know, Ireland wants the six northern counties which are now part of the United Kingdom. They are the industrial areas of which Belfast is the capital.

Lemass said, "Our economy is sound but it is sound at too low a level . . . There is no denying our unemployment situation is serious.

"We are at the industrial crossroads. The crisis point has been reached. We must begin to break out of the home market and get substantial foreign sales."

The immediate hope to crash the dollar market, says Lemass, is the development of specialty products. An example, small at the moment, is the fat shipment by a Dublin fishery of Dublin bay prawns to smart restaurants in New York and Paris.

It is not a matter of days or years before the Irish, thinks Mr. Lemass feels. "It will take a generation."

MOBILIZE PARADE

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Paddy will sit in a fine car with the sprig of shamrock in his lapel on the St. Patrick's Day. For the first time the parade for this provincial statutory holiday will consist of 100 shiny cars. No more marching up the hilly streets.

It's Conservative Party Says Opposition Leader

OTTAWA (CP)—It's the Conservative party, Opposition Leader George Drew said Tuesday night.

The party adopted the designation "Progressive Constructive" in 1942 at the insistence of John Bracken, former Manitoba coalition premier, who gave way to Mr. Drew in 1943.

For a year or more, Mr. Drew and other party spokesmen have been talking of their group as the "Conservatives." But there had been no official change in the party tag.

Tuesday night, in an address prepared for delivery at a banquet of the party's national association, Mr. Drew made a statement on the name. And in his text the word "progressive" always carried a small "p."

CHANGE MOOTED

Several proposals to drop the word "progressive" from the title have been made by constituency associations and the question may be discussed today at the party's annual meeting. If the meeting accepts the proposals, its decision would go as a recommendation to the newly elected executive. A top party official said such a decision probably would be adopted officially.

Mr. Drew's text read:

"There has been some discussion about the name of our party. It now is 100 years since Sir John Macdonald said that he should be formed in Canada a progressive Conservative party. As long ago as 1854, the founder of our present party emphasized the progressive aspect of true Conservative principles.

"For long years, it was officially known as the Liberal-Conservative party. I seldom heard any speaker on the platform describe it by that double-barrelled name. The correct name of the party in Britain is the Unionist and Conservative party. I have never heard any speaker describe it by that double-barrelled name there.

"Our party is the Conservative party. It is progressive. It is liberal in the best meaning of that word. It is democratic. . . ."

ALWAYS CONSERVATIVE

In the body of his 3,000-word speech, Mr. Drew referred 13 times to his party in various ways. He invariably called it "Conservative."

In delivering his speech, Mr. Drew added that Sir John had written that the name should be the progressive Conservative party but the name was not then officially adopted.

"Whatever the official name may be, the name of our party is the Conservative party . . . the name Conservative is a good name in every way."

RAF OFFICER MUM

TORONTO (CP) — Viscount Portal, marshal of the Royal Air Force, arrived here Tuesday night but declined to comment on the purpose of his three-day visit.

Prime Minister May Report On Tour Thursday

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent may report to Parliament Thursday on his 11-country world tour.

He is scheduled to arrive back in the capital at 6:30 p.m. tonight in the RCAF aircraft in which he left for his "bridge-building" mission Feb. 4.

Trade Minister Howe, No. 2 man in the cabinet, is expected back from Washington in time to greet Mr. St. Laurent.

Also on hand to welcome home the Prime Minister will be Mrs. St. Laurent, who returned Tuesday from their home in Quebec City, other members of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps, members of Parliament and other members of Mr. St. Laurent's family. The airport will be open to the general public.

Mr. St. Laurent will have had four days to prepare his report to Parliament on his trip. He said before he left that he hoped to build a bridge of understanding between Western and Asian democracies. He said his major point of call would be India, and he spent a week there.

It was not known definitely whether Mr. St. Laurent would make his report to Parliament Thursday, but it was believed likely. However, the report might be postponed until next week, giving him an opportunity to take a brief rest and spend more time preparing it.

The opposition parties have made it plain that the points they want the prime minister to discuss particularly are:

1. Recognition of Communist China.
2. The Commonwealth attitude on the "retaliate instantly" speech of John Foster Dulles, United States secretary of state.
3. French ratification of the European Defence Community.
4. Surplus Canadian farm products for India and Pakistan.
5. U.S. arms aid for Pakistan.

Little Girl Had $1,411 to Pay For Candies

WINNIPEG (CP) — After much thoughtful study the little girl went up to the grocer with a bag of candy and a couple of cheap toys. He wrapped the purchases and the four year old asked hesitantly:

"Is that enough mister?"

The grocer's eyes popped.

She had put down a roll that would choke a horse—$1,411. There were 14 $100 bills and 11 $1 bills. The lot and two young boys who were with her said they had found the money on the street.

Police went to the spot and found another $100 bill and a woman revealed that the four-year-old son of a friend had also found a $100 bill.

An elderly man later reported he had lost the money and it will be returned to him, said police, who didn't release any names.

Parcel of Quebec Wilderness To Become Nerve Centre Of Vast Hydro-Electric Project

By BERTRAND THIBEAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LABRIEVILLE, Que. (CP)—The town of Labrieville has risen within a year from a nameless parcel of Quebec wilderness north of the St. Lawrence river to become the nerve centre of a vast hydro-electric project.

Where surveyors pitched their tents only a short time ago will rise a huge power plant. Scheduled for completion in 1961 at a cost of $225,000,000 the Bersimis river power project will produce 1,200,000 horsepower, ranking second in Canada only to the 1,320,000-horsepower project now under construction at Kitimat, B.C.

The real geographic name of the river to be harnessed, one of the most important of those flowing into the St. Lawrence from the highlands of northeastern Quebec, is Betsiamites. The people of the region, however, have named it the Bersimis because of a small stream with the same name which runs nearby. The usage has become general.

4,000 WORKERS

Started in 1952, the gigantic project 250 miles north of Quebec city employs some 4,000 men.

Machinery, building materials, all had to be shipped from Montreal, 300 miles up the St. Lawrence, to Forestville. From there it was trucked through 97 miles of bushland.

The Quebec hydro-electric commission, in charge of the project, has granted contracts to six construction companies.

At Lac Casse, on Broken lake, 12 miles of here, almost 1,000 men are excavating for a dam 250 feet high. A hill will form the centre section of the 2,500-foot-long dam with concrete barriers stretching out like wings on either side.

The dam will hold back an estimated 339,000,000,000 cubic feet of water and will flood 300,000 square miles of forest-covered land. Mountains will become small islands when the flooding is complete.

A pulp and paper company has undertaken to salvage as many of the trees as possible.

EIGHT-MILE TUNNEL

The dam will back water into a tunnel almost eight miles long to a subterranean power house built under a mountain. Some 1,000 feet of the 31-foot-wide tunnel have already been dug. Work on the tunnel is expected to be complete in 1955.

When the power plant is in operation, the electricity will be divided in three ways. Some 400,000 horsepower will be sold to Shawinigan Water and Power Company, 700,000 will go to Montreal and 100,000 to the copper mines in the Gaspe peninsula.

Gaspe's power will be carried to Manicouagan peninsula, 85 miles southeast of here. From a transformer station on the north shore of the St. Lawrence it will be carried under the river in a cable 31 miles long to Les Boules, 40 miles east of Rimouski. Another 154 miles of transmission line will carry it to Murdochville in Gaspe.

WORK NIGHT AND DAY

Tunnel-digging is carried on in two 10-hour shifts. At the Lac Casse excavation, work is in three eight-hour shifts. Night work goes on under powerful outdoor lights.

Mechanical drills and explosives are the main tools for excavating rock and soil from the tunnel. Four 2,500-pound charges of dynamite are fired daily and men are excavated from the tunnel a half-hour before each blast.

When completed, 4,000,000 cubic yards of rock will have been moved, an entire mountain practically levelled and a raging torrent will have been turned into a gentle stream.

Bandsmen Doing Terrific Job For Morale With 25th Brigade

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP) — The smart bandsmen of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, providing most of the music for the 25th brigade's ceremonial and recreation, may be a bit left-handed in soldiering, but they're certainly right-handed as musicians.

"So what, if they salute left-handed or tip their hats to the brigadier," said a staff officer. "They're all Jack Brayley musicians and artists. They're doing a terrific job."

The signals band of 40 musicians is one of the army's new musical formations reinforced by the best professional musicians of Britain and Europe. The signals band, organized in 1952, is composed of 17 Canadians, 20 Netherlanders and 11 Britons.

Bandmaster is Capt. Bernie Lyons of Kingston, Ont., who has been in the army for 25 years.

FINE CONCERT PARTY

The band is a self-contained concert party in itself. It can be broken down into several units: Salon, clarinet, brass, reed quintet, 17-piece dance band, Dixieland band and soloists. Several bandsmen are composers and arrangers and the programs often include their original works.

S. Sgt. Ted Crary of Peterborough, Ont., is a solo saxophonist with the dance band, master of ceremonies and gag man extraordinary for the troop concerts.

S. S. C. Jack Perks, a recent English import, is concert master, and does violin solos. He's a clarinetist for band numbers.

Capt. Lyons says that while Canadian troops like all popular music best, they also have a surprising appreciation for popular classical material. He tries to divide his programs and the troops can hear anything from Sgt. Hans Nieboer, a Netherlander, playing the "Warsaw Concerto" to Sgt. Sheldon Richardson of Peterborough leading his own jive composition, "The Imjin Jump."

CHUMMY WITH SCOTS

"We have everything," said Capt. Lyons, "but a soft-shoe number."

They're even combining with the sword dancers of the neighboring and famous Royal Scots, another regiment in the Commonwealth.

The band's record includes a TV performance in the United States, a key spot in Ottawa's Coronation program and a command performance for the American troopship that brought them to Korea and finally a hastily improvised all-Japanese program for Japanese officials and citizens of Kure.

They were buried under flowers for this last show which included a final complimentary gesture when S. Sgt. Crary made his last announcement in Japanese after studying it hard through the concert.

They have bumped over the rutted roads of Korea in their 30-ton trucks keeping as many as four engagements in a day. When they finish their hitch in May they'll have done more than 400 concerts and shows in less than six months.

Bringing Up Baby
Mrs. Dan Cushing
(Mother of 3)
Young children's eating habits are, to say the least, unconventional. But it doesn't pay to fret about it. When baby grabs and dabs at food it's reassuring to remember that, in spite of the mess, baby's learning hand-to-mouth coordination in his own way.
Easy does it! Don't make baby eat everything down to the last crumb. A child's appetite is usually a good guide to the amount of food he needs. Little appetites do vary from day to day, even as yours and mine.
Variety review. Appetite interest can usually be kept alive if you serve baby a variety of foods. Knowing the importance of variety, Gerber's offer 23 tested Foods . . . including Fruits, Vegetables, Meat-Soups, Desserts, and Orange Juice. All have the special, smooth consistency baby's so good on delicate tongues . . . all have the trusted, time-tested goodness little ones find so appealing.
• • •
New use for an old favorite . . . and a delightful dish for baby's family.
HONEY-LEMON BEETS
1 container Gerber's Strained Beets
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ teaspoons honey
¼ teaspoon salt.
Combine ingredients, heat and serve.
• • •
Temperature tip. To give baby's delicate woolens longer life, always wash in lukewarm (never hot) water. It's the heat that causes shrinkage, and detergents work just as well in tepid water.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THE SIVENTEENTH IT IS!

Pathrick Francis O'Hoole Flanagan was talking. The grey thatched- ould printer who kicked the dust of Killarney from his brogans these years back, he did, had a bad dose of nostalgia. Sure and isn't today the Siventeenth of Oireland, bejakers, and who's the laddybuck that would stop an ould omadhaun like Pathrick from talkin'?

"Ah, me, 'tis a cruel wurruld," sighed Pathrick. "'Tis me that's away from the hurlin' and the hootin', the bussin' o' the colleens, the jigs and reels, and the sports av it on the greensward av me ould home in Cork."

"And tis sports ye're interested in, it is," said Pat. He blew the collar from his fourth beaker and sighed: "Ah, me, good man, 'tis me, it is that can tell ve av some of the greatest sporrts ovints that iver took place. Roomin including!"

"Take Pin McCool, he was wan of the greatest athletes that iver soured a leprechaun. Jim Thorpe? Pin could have trun him so far across the ocean, that the Indian laddybuck would av landed in Hong Kong widout stopover in the United States. Why, me ould grandbiddy used to tell us young spalpeens that Finn trun the divil himself out of Oireland, and still a bit of the divil has his seen in Erin since."

"And didn't the great Fin rabe down the Giant's Causeway to leap clear across the Orish Sea to Scotland, when some kilted banahee, bad cess to him, made some nasty remarks about Fin's grandaddy."

"Ah, thin was a great family, thim McCools, they was. Ould Fin whom he was ninety years old, was playing tossing boulders weighin' 56 pounds over the top av of a forty-foot barn. His younger brother, Pat, 85, was on f'ather side catchin' the boulder and tossin' 'em back."

"Soon a cousin rides up to Fin and sez, sez he: 'Where's the ould man, Fin. The English want him. Fin kept tossin' the stones. 'Tell 'em', he roared, 'me ould man's over in the shtt county playin' this game wid me grandad'."

Now, take huntin', there's a sport that has yez football lookin' like a plain lay party," said Pathrick. "Sure 'tis thousands of years of age, it is, and was and is played wid a stick. Sure, in the ould days the sticks was shillaghahs. But take the Orish football. Now there is a game that was made for the Orish by ould St. Pat himself, although they say 'tis a new way av knockin' a noggin."

"How it wi played? You mix this soccer wid a spot of this new-fangled basketball, yez do, forget the rools and you've got it. In the ould days it was played between parishes, S'was. The boundary of two parish was a road, and vice versy. The first team to score won the game. That was the only rool."

"The byes had a grand time they did. Heads were bashed and bones were mashed. 'Twas a grand ould fight. Then came the English—may they foind lumps in their oatmeal—and banned the game from Erin. That did it, bejapers. The sport soared in new heights, it did. The laddybucks still play it."

Pathrick squinted a bleary eye. "I hear, my bucko," he asked, "that these Roosians claim, they do, that they invinted nearly all the sporrts, your hockey inclusive.

"But did ye notice?" the old fuzzy squinted again: "That the roosians haven't come up wid a boxing champion? 'Tis an ould legend in Erin, that St. Pat, God rist his soul, held an illuminatory contist wid all the animals in Oireland. The snakes pulled themselves red, so they could mix in the Orish blood and not be noticed. Now ain't it the truth? St. Pat kicked the omadhauns out of Oireland and where dye ye supposes they landed. Ould Pat was a prolit. They Moscow," he roared."

The ould hiney chuckled in his beer. "Git it, laddy."

Sure, and I'm bettin', I am, that today was a great day in the Emerald Isle. An' speakin' of borin' reminds me of wan of the greatest, now what is that wurruld, ogsy-zamblin'—

"Would it be optimist?" we intruded.

"That's it, it is. And saints be praised, it proved that way. It happened on the siventeeth of Oireland quite a few years back. A light heavy, wan of those fine colored chaps, it was, Battling Slki, was his name. He was, bejapers, wan of the greatest optymists that ever lived. He fought an Orish gentleman by the name of Mike McTigue for the light heavyweight championship of the wurruld."

The fought took place in Dublin on March the siventeeth."

"The result? Lissen, me laddybuck, any wan fightor, American, Sudanese, or take any wan from any part av of this wurruld who would foight an Orish champion in Dublin on the Siventeeth and have any hopes of winning is an optimist bar none.

"Ah, wirrah, Molke beat him all right. 'Twas a clane knockout. But, the saints be praised, 'twould have been the grandest go av them of all, had the benegolese wan over Molke. Slki knew it, bejapers. He was a grand fighter, but he had bad cess. Later he was found in a back alley of New York, stabbed to death."

BUSY BEES FROM MARMORA

They probably should have called the Marmora intermediates (also Trent Valley) the "workhorses" instead of the "Millionaires". We do not know their financial status, but we are informed the boys have been bears for hockey work. And they have compiled quite a record.

Last night they defeated Vandorf 10-7 to take the Intermediate "B" playdown round four straight games. The victory marched the Marmorians tenth in a row. They eliminated Hastings in the Valley playoffs in three and have taken three in a row over their current rivals from Havelock.

Clint Nichols, who roused this department at the unsodly hour of four a.m., today said that Glen Lavender and Killiam, the Marmora goalie, were the heroes of the game. Lavender sparked the club scoring several goals after the boys were down 4-0 at the end of the first period.

National League Champions Skid To Third Straight Loss; Sawchuk's Trophy Hopes Fade

By The Canadian Press

Are Detroit Red Wings dying? Will it be the same as last year? Those were a couple of questions being kicked around the National Hockey League today after the Detroiters, one of the greatest teams in big-league whistory, dropped a 4-2 loss to Boston Bruins Tuesday night.

The Red Wing loss, in itself, wasn't too bad. But the fact that it was their third straight defeat, something that hadn't happened all season, gave indications they could end up in the Stanley Cup discards like last year when—the Bruins beat them do—the semi-finals.

The loss also put the skids on goaltender Terry Sawchuk's bid for his third straight Vezina trophy.

The Bruins made sure of a playoff berth and left New York Rangers no hope of catching them in the stretch run. The league's 7-game schedule ends this week-end.

It was the only game of the night and the victory was Boston's longest mark of the season. fifth consecutive, equalling the all-time record set by the Wings. The Bruins now have gone nine games without a defeat.

NEVER IN TROUBLE

The Bruins were never in trouble. They scored once in the first period, twice in the second and then were outscored 2-1 in the final. Centre Milt Schmidt started them in the first session with the 20th goal of his big-league career. The others were scored by Leo Labine, Johnny Bucyk and Dave Creighton. Johnny Wilson and Alex Delvecchio tallied the Detroit goals.

Sawchuk now has three goals behind Harry, Lumley of Toronto Maple Leafs in the goaltending race. He has 122 goals against him. Each has three games to go and the trophy and $1,000 goes to the winner.

Only one game is scheduled for tonight. Montreal Canadiens, in second place with a one-point edge, take on the third-place Maple Leafs at Toronto.

Canadian Skiers Return Home

OTTAWA (CP) — Skiers Anne Heggtveit and Art Tommy returned here Tuesday night after competing for the last two months in tournaments in Europe that included the world ski championships at Are, Sweden.

Anne, a petite 15-year-old who chalked up an impressive record abroad that included winning the ladies' giant slalom race at Norway's Holmenkollen ski festival, said the competition was "good experience" and that she definitely planned to continue competitive skiing.

Tommy, 19-year-old competitor who made the best Canadian showing in the world championships, said "people in Europe were very nice" and that the Canadians had made a lot of friends.

Marmora Defeats Havelock 4-3 In Playoffs

MARMORA — Another thrilling game of hockey between Marmora and Havelock on the former's rink on Monday evening was won by the former by the narrow margin of 4-3. It was played under protest by the homesters on account of Havelock including Floyd of Peterborough in its team.

Marmora got the better of end to end rushes in the first period. Lavender scored first on Maynes' assist, following which E. Trumble and Brown added goals on solo rushes. Within 15 seconds of the start of the second period, Kane scored for Havelock in a melee in front of the Marmora goal; Doris and Wootton getting assists.

Halfway through the period E. Trumble got Marmora's final goal. He netted on Farnault's assist. In less than two minutes Havelock were again successful; S. Brooks beating Killian on assists from F. Mortimer and Hannah.

Early in the third Doris got a neat goal for the visitors on an assist from Floyd.

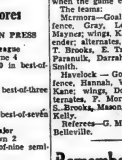
Nichols, the Havelock goalkeeper was pulled out of goal and twice a race to effect a score proved futile.

A noticeable factor in the score being kept down was the performance of Killian and Nichols in their respect've nets. About 800 gala admissions kept the rafters resounding as they cheered their respective teams.

The date and venue of the fourth game of the four-of-seven series to decided the northern-section champions of the Trent Valley League was not decided on when the game ended.

The teams:

Marmora—Goal, Killian; defence, Gray, Leonard; centre Maynes; wing, K. Trumble; Lavender; alternates, Jones, Mantle, T. Brooks, E. Trumble, Brown, Parsnuik, Darrah, Loveless and Smith.



Havelock — Goal, Nicholls; defence, Hannah, Wootton; centre Kane; wing, Floyd; alternates, F. Mortimer, Vitarelli S. Brooks, Mason, Rutan, Laing Kelly.

Referees—G. McFaul, V. Goyer, Belleville.

Remember When

By The Canadian Press

St. Patrick's Day 48 years ago was the day Lester Patrick won a Stanley Cup for Montreal Wanderers by scoring two goals in the last two minutes against Ottawa Senators. Ottawa won the game 5-3 but Montreal won the total-goal round 13-10.

Cullen Wins Junior Scoring Title Sets Records For Total Points, Goals

TORONTO (CP)—Final statistics for the 1953-54 season, released by the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league, showed that Brian Cullen of St. Catharines TeePees won the scoring championship by 40 points.

Cullen, the 175-pound centre from Ottawa who set both a total-points record and a record for goals, played in all 48 games this year. It was his third and last season with the TeePees and he didn't miss a game in the three years. This year he scored 68 goals—three more than George Armstrong, now with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League. Armstrong's total was later tied by Jack Bownass, now with the NHL Chicago Black Hawks.

In addition to his 68 goals Cullen also picked up 53 assists for a total of 121 points. His linemate Hugh Barlow was second in the scoring parade with 121 points on 48 goals and 73 assists. Barry Cullen, Brian's brother and the third man on the line, was fifth with 62 goals and 45 assists for 107 points. It was Barry's first season in the league.

Bob Attersley of Guelph Biltmores was third with 116 points and Jim Robertson of Barrie Flyers was fourth with 114 points.

TOP MARKSMAN

While the TeePees were the highest-scoring club with 328 goals of which 178, more than half, were notched by the Cullen-Barlow-Cullen line, the second-place Toronto Marlboros were the best defensive team. Opposing snipers could score only 160 goals against the Dukes and Johnny Albani, who played 29 games for Marlboros was the league's top netminder, with an average of 2.48 goals a game scored against him.

Bob Senior, who was in the Marlboro nets for 28 games, was next best with a 2.87 goals-against average.

Gord Stewart Named 1954 President Belleville, District Softball League

With Gordon Stewart in the presidential chair the Belleville District Softball League will operate under new executive management this year.

Stewart was named 1954 head of the organization at a meeting held in radio station CJBQ last night. He succeeds past president Cy Barriage, who tendered his resignation some time ago.

Ken Fox, chat of vice-president and treasurer was created with last year's secretary Bill Scrymgeour being named to the post. In the secretary's chair will be Jim O'Brien.

Last year's directory were re-elected with Mike Whalen of Point Anne, added to the roster. The other directors include Alderman Claude Tice, Lloyd "Red" Doran, Jack Devine and Lee Bradshaw.

The advisory board consists of Fire Chief Gerald Vance, Harry Rollins, George H. Carver, Bill Vanlaarhoven and OASA representative past president, Don Lee.

The meeting was well-attended with representatives of Northern Electric Bobcats, Belleville Juniors, Bayside Flyers, Point Anne and the CNR, present. The Frankford team sent word it would forward an entry.

A minute's silence was observed by the members in the memory of the late Harry Knott, former OASA executive member and Dick Cornell, well-known grounds keeper, both of whom passed away last season.

President Stewart in a brief inaugural address said he would ask for the election of auditors for the coming season. Later this was done with Bill Parry and Joe Agnew named to the posts.

The president said he would ask for a set of league by-laws by which the loop will be governed. He outlined several points most of which were in line with the OASA constitution.

Some discussion was raised over umpires' fees. It was suggested that the fees be given a considerable boost, but this met with strong opposition from some team representatives. They argued that teams could not meet the raise with their limited finances. The matter will be threshed out at a future meeting.

Don Lee was appointed the league representative to the Ontario Amateur Softball Association annual convention being held in North Bay over the Easter holiday. It was agreed that the league pick up expenses.

President Stewart set April 15 as the date for the next general meeting with the executive getting together on April 6th. May 1st was set as the deadline for entries.

With The Minors

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The underdogs are putting up a great battle in the bantam and peewee sections of the play-offs as can be seen by Saturday mornings results.

In bantam action we find the Aurora Jr. B's are semi-finalists as the Black Hawks who finished in second place and only lost three games all year. The Bruins ended the season in fifth place with only two wins in 13 games and now they are leading the Hawks by a 3-2 score. Saturday morning's victory was their third straight in the playoffs, more than they won all year in the regulation play.

If the Bruins beat the Hawks, they will meet the Maple Leafs for the title and that should be a battle royal. The Leafs were held to a tie the last time the two clubs met.

In all fairness to the Hawks they put up without the services of their best defenceman, Gary Lewis who suffered a concussion he was too old to play bantam hockey.

They did everything but put the puck in the net against the Bruins in the first half of the game with Barclay leading the way. In the year turning back Rowbotham and company. While Coach Collican may hold his head in dismay everytime one of the Hawks missed an open net, the Hawks have a God chance to pull the series out of the fire yet.

In the peewee division it's also the Beruins who are setting the league on fire. They beat out the second place Rangers two went on to eliminate the Canadians in the semi-finals and are leading the Black Hawks 6-5 after the first game of the money series.

The Bruins closed the season in third place with a so-so 6-5-2 record.

The hopefuls for selection on the peewee team that will go to Lindsay near the end of this month held a practice Saturday morning and fifteen more were cut from the squad after it was over. This leaves 22 still fighting it out for the 15 coveted spots.

They are: T. Hook, L. Smith, C. Duggan, M. Hunter, G. Ethier and H. Foinster of the Black Hawks; Jim Petts, Larry Rowbotham and Dave Whitefield for the Canadians lineup; J. Boulier, L. Westfall, W. Wickett and B. Gelsthorpe of the Bruins; Edward Keller, D. Archer, B. Valcamp and J. Graham from the Maple Leafs while the Rangers have B. Latimer, B. Fidell and W. Hull and the Red Wings representatives are Paul Brown and Jim Sheridan.

These players will hold another workout at seven o'clock Saturday morning.

Four games are on tap for this week with the possibility of six. On Thursday night the bantams take the ice at 6 o'clock for a semi-final game between the Hawks and Bruins then at 6:45 the midget semi-finals get under way with the Robb Royals meeting the Moose Lodge squad. If both coaches are in agreement the teams may play a double header so as to complete the playoffs one week earlier.

Saturday morning the peewee all-stars take the ice at 7 for a practice to be followed by the last game of the year for the championship between the Bruins and the Black Hawks. The Maple Leafs of the bantam division open the finals at nine o'clock against the winners of Thursday night's semi-final fixture, either the Bruins or the Black Hawks. There is a chance that the two teams will play a double header to complete the year.

The Oshawa Kiwanis bantams had a great deal more success with the Kingston Vics than did Belleville, so much more in fact that they won 4-3 in the first game and then took the series in easy fashion with a 8-2 victory last Saturday.

Oshawa have now defeated Peterborough, Barrie and Kingston and will be in the All-Ontario finals against either St. Kitts, Guelph or Sarnia.

St. Mikes Whip Teeps in 1st Playoff, Marlies Defeat Kitchener Kids 4-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto St. Michael's College Majors had a full line-up for the first time in a month Tuesday night. Maybe that accounts for the outcome of their game with St. Catharines TeePees in St. Catharines.

The Majors, who were beaten 7-3 by the TeePees in Toronto Sunday in the schedule's final game, turned the tables on St. Catharines as the playoffs started. The Collegians scored a 5-2 victory to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven semi-final. Next game is in Toronto Sunday.

In the other playoff game, this one a quarter-final between Toronto Marlboros and Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts in Toronto, Marlboros tk a 4-2 victy. The win gave the Dukes a 1-0 jump in the best-of-five set. The next game is scheduled for Kitchener Thursday.

St. Michael's, who finished fourth in the regular schedule, were in front all the way over the favored TeePees. St. Catharines, who finished first, tied the score twice before fading away.

Paul Knox sparked the Irish attack with two goals. Singles went to Jim Logan, Bill Chirlin and Lee Duff. Barry Culley and Hank Ciesla counted for St. Catharines.

In Toronto the Greenshirts took the lead first. But Marlboros tied the score before the first period ended, and went ahead 3-1 in the second. They counted their final goal in the last period before Kitchener wound up the game's scoring.

Eighteen-year Gerry James got two goals for the Dukes. Dave Reid and Wally Maxwell added singles. Greig Hicks and defenceman Beryl Klinck divided Kitchener's total.

Stirling will meet Kincardine in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association juvenile "C" finals.

Kincardine entered the championship series by virtue of an 8-4 victory over Port Dover on Monday night. Port Dover won the first game of the goals-to-count series 4-3 but lost the round 11-8.

No dates have been set thus far for the tiudar series. If it is to be a home-and-home affair with goals-to-count, Stirling will make all efforts to have the second game played here.

Meaford Knights Register 29-Straight Wins

MEAFORD (CP)—The 3,500 residents of this little town on Nottawasaga bay are boasting loudly these days about their hockey team.

The Meaford Knights, an Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A team, have chalked up 29 straight victories this season without a loss.

It is the first time in 15 years this Georgian bay district town has had an intermediate team.

Manager Gord Johnston attributes the Knights' success to team spirit. He said one player had donned snowshoes and walked five miles to get to a game when roads were blocked.

Coached by Charlie Macdonald, 22-year-old former Americas League player, the team has four sets of brothers.

They are Charlie and his brother John Macdonald, Ray and Frank Wheeler, Alex and Gordie McNeil and Carl and Norman Bell.

American Tracks To Copy British Many Will Institute Grass Racing

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Horse races on grass courses, a new spectacle in sport, are the latest rage at major tracks in the United States.

They said development in two years marks one of the most remarkable developments in U.S. thoroughbred racing during the last half century.

There are several reasons for all the excitement. Shipment of horses by plane has proved safe. U.S. racegoers are seeing equine stars from overseas more than at any period in the history of the sport.

Third, U.S. turf courses stakes are an attraction for the runners from other lands, but it will work the other way. Alfred VanderbiIt is talking about flying the sensational Native Dancer to England for races this year.

Foreign horses are used to racing on grass and have shown to a disadvantage when raced on dirt tracks because flying sand and stones often sting their faces.

Grass racing is not new in the United States. Hialeah at Miami revived turf racing in 1933, first since the early 1900s at the old Sheepshead Bay course in Brooklyn. Arlington and Washington Park in Chicago also have pioneered a return to the turf.

Now at least 14 of the greatest tracks have or are planning such races. These races are not to be confused with steeplechase races Belmont, the many years at Saratoga, Pimlico, Aqueduct, Delaware Park and elsewhere.

As a rule, turf races staked are longer than the usual U.S. race. The popular distance on the dirt is six furlongs, or three-quarters of a mile. The race is over in a minute and 10 or so seconds.

Most of the turf stakes are from a mile and an eighth up to a mile and a half. The crowd not only sees a race that lasts around 2½ minutes, but watches the horses pass in front of the stands a couple of times.

Such racing has its limitations. Too many races cannot be held on the turf, or the pounding of hoofs soon would ruin the course.

Kingston Leads Team Events In Bowls Classic

TORONTO (CP)—Kingston Aliens continue to lead the men's team events in the Ontario bowling championships at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show.

Although St. Catharines-Welland Millers rolled 4,112, the highest score Tuesday night, the Aliens still lead by 277 pins. Toronto West Kodaks are third.

Helen Clarke of Toronto East rolled 985 to move into the lead in the ladies' singles. Bill Heuff of Toronto leads the men's singles with 2,646.

Dufferin Track

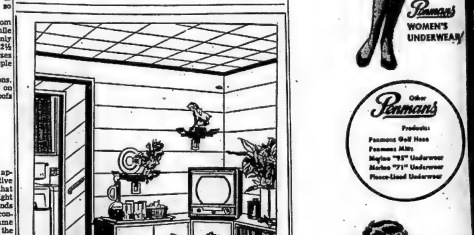
TORONTO (CP)—The Bachelor, owned by Farm Brothers of Mitchell, and Just Byron, owned by A. Grenier of Rouyn, Que., divided honors in the class A trot, top attraction at the Dufferin harness races Tuesday. Each won a heat.



Mrs. Mildred Williams of Picton, the only woman owner-driver racing at Dufferin Wark, drove her Ginger Chips Belle to a double heat win in the fourth event, a class B pace.

Dukes, Flyers Clash Tonight

The Wellington Dukes, who appear to like to have their collective backs to the wall are in their familiar position again. Tonight they face elimination at the hands of the Trenton Flyers who conquered them 5-3 in the first game of their sectional semi-finals the other night. The teams clash in Memorial Arena this evening in what might be the Dukes swan song. But they're a fighting squad with fine comeback qualities, so tonight's tilt should be productive of some standout hockey.

The Kibitzer

Booby Bob in his bonnet has been. He must boost every hand that he sees. Every time he bids slam he expects to find hams and some playing tricks growing on trees.

You could get all "bet up" about the tournament deal shown here:

NORTH
♠A J 10 3
♥A K
♦7 4 3 2
♣A Q 5

WEST
♠Q 7 5
♥Q 10 9 8 6 5
♦K J 10 9

EAST
♠8 4 2
♥J 7 3 2
♦Q

SOUTH
♠K 6
♥K Q 10 7 6
♦A K 5
♣A 4 2

At some tables the bidding went like this:

| South | North |
|---|---|
| 1 H | 1 S |
| 2 H | 3 NT |
| 5 NT | 6 H |

Four no-trump is the aces and kings asking signal. Five no-trump in reply is my conventional signal for showing one ace and three kings. Slam in hearts is what north had aimed at.

North had his nerve to trap south into a respdine that would shove them into a slam. Because at no time had he discovered the 12 tricks needed for a slam bid.

You see, an opening one bid shows five tricks. Each raise in number shows another. Thus, the south two heart bid indicated six tricks there. North, with his own count of five, sees only 11.

However, he hoped south could develop a 12th trick in some way. And it so happens that two finesses in the black suits helped out. Also a chance to stuff two south cards.

With the help of these breaks the small slam was easy despite the east trump volume that would ordinarily kill an easier contract. But there is another surprise in this deal.

The opening west lead was the ten of diamonds which dummy won with the ace. A break when east had to play the queen. After that, one declarer found a way of taking all 13 tricks with hearts as trump.

See if you could.

AT THE CAPITOL — A white god-dess who lives in the Florida Everglades, played by Carole Mathews, falls in love with Steve Cochran during his perilous journey down the dangerous Shark River. The adventure film "Shark River," in vivid color by Color Corp. of America, opens Thursday at the first showing of the same program MGM's biggest western "Ambush" stars Robert Taylor, John Hodiak and Arlene Dahl. Also on the bill on our new wide curved screen.

AT THE BELLE — The beautiful Elizabeth Taylor comes with her widely-applauded talent to the title role in MGM's vibrant new drama, "The Girl Who Had Everything" in which she co-stars with Fernando Lamas and William Powell. The companion feature, "The Big Leaguer," finds romance and excitement for Vera-Ellen and Jeff Richards. Both features play for the last times today at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE McCARTHY — Humphrey Bogart and Jennifer Jones co-star in the new John Huston comedy-adventure film, "Beat the Devil," which opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre through United Artists release.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Filmland follow-ups:

Now that he has married off his daughter, Jack Benny is getting back in work to pay off the wedding bills. (I think the Benny vault can handle them, however.)

Benny, one of the few big stars to keep up with radio, says he might give up his radio show next season. "I like my present role of doing a TV show every three weeks," he told me, "but my sponsor wants me to do more. If I do, I don't see how I can continue in radio."

This summer Jack plans to take his vaudeville show on tour, and has also considered doing "Seven Year Itch" on the stage.

"It's a demanding role and would require me to be on-stage all the time. It present a challenge; I've never done a legitimate show before. It might open up a whole new field for me."

Red Skelton is looking to new fields at the age of 60. One thing he is not considering: A return to films. "That I don't need," said the comic, perhaps recalling that horn blowing at midnight.

Harold Lloyd is still mulling the return of some of his old classics like "The Freshman" and "Welcome Danger," which are running today as they were when released.

"But I have certain problems," the bespectacled comedian said. "We have had test showings and the younger people, for the most parts, once they are exposed to them, the problem is how to get them into the theatres.

"Anybody under 30 doesn't know who I am. And the kids under 24 make up the bulk of the movie audience."

Frank Sinatra says he doubts if he will be in town for the Oscar event, in which he's favored to win the supporting actor award for his work in "From Here to Eternity."

"I am a saloon singer," he says modestly; "I've gotta go where the work is." I'll wager he'll arrange to be here.however.

Incidentally, Frank was up to his oldtricks at a recent party, telling off a newspaper man for something that had been printed. He should take a lesson from the crooning master, Bing Crosby. Recently a press agent showed Bing a clipping concerning his TV plans "Nice story," Bing nodded.

"Is it true?" the flack asked. "Nope," Bing replied, sauntering on his way.

Grimm Not Grim Over Loss Of Bobby Thomson

By GAYLE TALBOT

BRADENTON (AP) — Considering the extent of their loss, both manager Charlie Grimm and coach Lou Perini of Milwaukee Braves are taking it in humorous stride. Neither concedes that the temporary loss of their great outfield star is a body blow to their chances of beating Brooklyn for the National League race.

The break in strength added by the club since last season will make it possible for him to stay in the battle for the six weeks he expects to be without the services of the flying Scot, Grimm firmly believes. He feels his club is too solid to collapse even partially through the loss of one man.

"Sure, we'll miss him," Charlie said. "Any ball club misses such a player. But the outfielder who takes his place—say that it's Jim Pendleton—isn't going to burn up Pendleton played a lot of fine ball for the last years, and there are a couple of other good ones, too. Then, when Thomson is ready to play again, we'll have him, too That's the way to look at it."

The player who may benefit most from Thomson's bad luck is Henry Aaron, 20-year-old Negro batting sensation who has not yet played higher than class-A ball and is not even on the official Milwaukee roster.

WON HITTING HONORS

Playing his second year of pro ball, the youngster from Mobile, Ala., hit .362 for Jacksonville last season and was named most valuable player in the South Atlantic League. He led the league in every hitting department except three-bagger and home runs, and he was runner-up in those.

"I never saw a player of his weight (170 pounds) get as much power behind a ball," Perini said. "Maybe he needs another season out, but you can safely say he'll be with me when the race opens and that he will be given a real chance."

Grimm also is taking great enjoyment in watching his other new beauty, Danny O'Connell, perform around second base. Many baseball players shortstop for his previous masters, Pittsburgh Pirates, there is no question in Grimm's mind that he will be equally brilliant at second.

Cornwall Ties Matane 3-3 In Series Opener

CORNWALL (CP) — Cornwall Colts and Matane Red Rocks played to a 3-3 tie here Tuesday night in the first game of a best-of-five series for the Quebec Senior Hockey championships.

Colts, champions of Quebec Provincial League, opened the scoring in the first period on a goal by Clint Connolly. Matane, ex-pat St. Lawrence League winners, tied the count when Jerry Flamondon, playing coach, scored in the last minute of the period.

Matane took the lead in the second stanza with Bartlett scoring but Bernece made it 2-2 about 10 minutes later. Matane again went ahead in the third period on a tally by Nadon. Cornwall tied the contest forcing overtime on Savard's goal at the 11-minute mark.

Each team received one point for the tie. The first team to collect six points wins the series. Winners of the series meet the Maritime champions in the eastern Canada semi-finals of the Allan Cup.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 18 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A more relaxing period than you've been having, but not entirely favorable for financial transactions. The aspects are better for interests pertaining to home, family, friends. Concentrate on these matters.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Stop to figure out your chances. Are your deductions right? Are plans elastic enough to suit all conditions? Some obstacles likely—perhaps in the A.M.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — A moderately encouraging outlook in both personal and business matters. Some unusual changes of a beneficial nature may occur. Be ready to take advantage of them. Watch for defects in contracts.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Appear a little better but still not stimulating. Much depends on your attitude; approach and final course. Check to avoid domestic complications in early hours. Be diplomatic, discreet.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You may have to show a keener, more alert attitude to get by today. Be shrewd, on guard against schemers, smooth talkers. Start with tact in early hours. No inertia.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — You can do all right by yourself if you follow your best instincts and use your versatile talents wisely.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—This is no "marvelous" period but it's not really as hard as it may at first appear. It may entail more study and some quick

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Combine your innate courage and vision with reason and you have the recipe for success today. Some close analyzing of financial matters is in order. Use tact in dealing with others.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Success today will be a determination not to overestimate your capacities. Use individuality and assert yourself to bridge doubts and difficulties.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Today's indications are not wholly favorable to matters pertaining to money, buying, concerns. Single out vital issues, concentrate there, and don't be afraid to ask help.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Some tricky spots today. Don't take things as they come or listen to all kinds of advice. Think carefully and don't let any good things "go by the boards."

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Know the facts, seek the truth, and be most careful about tying in with wrong deals or people. Face tasks confidently and it will be easier to achieve top goals. Romance rates now.

YOU BORN TODAY have some uncommon characteristics, including subtleness and humanitarian desires. Although sometimes restless, you also have a positiveness which may be used with great success as peacemaker, doctor, teacher. When aroused to anger, you can not only cool down quickly, but can feel deep and long regret for what you have said or done. An excellent arbiter, you also have a progressive mind in business, and should be associated with people who are enthusiastic over original ideas. Birthdate of: (Stephen

St. Laurent Says Chances of 'Hot' War Have Receded

Arrives Home Wednesday From Trip Around World

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A weary Prime Minister St. Laurent came home from his world tour Wednesday night with encouraging words.

He told a press conference soon after his arrival that he has "more confidence that the cold war is not going to be converted into a hot war."

Mrs. St. Laurent watched the prime minister's drawn face anxiously as he told reporters that he had been "in some pretty hot spots and cooler spots." He had come back convinced about world peace and he did not expect another global war within his lifetime at least.

Proicoul flew away with the chilly wind sweeping across the mammoth Rockcliffe airport as high dignitaries and the general public joined in a tumultuous welcome. As soon as the prime minister came down the ramp, the crowd broke about him, started pushing and shoving to get handshakes and to kiss the premier's hand.

Cabinet ministers and photographers were jostled aside by the throng in the melee which swarmed around the prime minister as he made as he stepped from the aircraft ramp.

There were cries of "Hi, Louie" from the crowd and Mr. St. Laurent looked pleased with any outstretched hand.

MOVED BY WELCOME

As the big RCAF C5 aircraft rolled to a halt in front of the terminal at 8:30 p.m. EST—right on schedule—the prime minister stood at the open door waving his homburg and carrying his overcoat over his left arm.

Obviously moved by the welcome the 72-year-old prime minister stood at the top of the ramp while the RCAF band played "O Canada." Then he came down the ramp, kissed Mrs. St. Laurent and draped the lei around her neck. The band struck up "Auld Lang Syne."

Trade Minister Howe was the official greeter. But his words weren't heard by the throng. The minister of justice was among those rounded as the crowd surged forward. Defence Minister Brooke had the same fate. It was minutes before he was able to get close enough to shake the prime minister's hand.

Mr. St. Laurent, standing before television cameras and radio microphones, said he was happier than ever to be a Canadian. "We have not much to envy about the other nations," he said, speaking in French.

PARLIAMENTARY REPORT

He is scheduled to be in the Commons today to make a preliminary report on his trip, but he said it will take him some time to collect his thoughts before he can make a complete report to the House.

One of the first questions asked at the Press conference concerned recognition of the Chinese Communist government.

Mr. St. Laurent said he might have used an "unfortunate" phrase in the Far East when he said Canada would recognize Peiping.

He explained that Canada cannot necessarily deal with the kind of government it would like but with the kind of government actually in control as the Chinese mainland. He reiterated that Canada has "to be realistic" about the problem of recognizing countries, whether Canada likes it or not, the Communists are the government of China.

Two Youths Found Guilty Of Manslaughter

BARRIE (CP)—Two youths accused of the murder of 37-year-old Fred Cameron have been found not guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter. They will be sentenced Friday.

An Ontario Supreme Court jury returned the verdict Wednesday night against Ian Robertson, 20, husband of a 17-year-old girl, and William Kingsley, 19. Both are from Toronto.

The all-male jury deliberated 8½ hours.

The eight-day trial was laden with conflicting evidence and denials of statements the accused were alleged to have made to police.

Cameron, a Toronto brokerage messenger, was shot five times and his body dumped into a ditch near here Oct. 30. Robertson and Kingsley said he was a homosexual.

LONG, DIFFICULT CASE

The crowd showed no emotion when the jury foreman announced the verdict. Said Mr. Justice H.A. Aylen:

"This has been a long and difficult case and I feel you have done your utmost. I feel you have carefully considered all the evidence and the conclusion you have reached is what you think is honestly the proper conclusion.

"I don't think it is for me to comment on your verdict because it is your verdict and not mine."

At the trial Kingsley and Robertson accused each other of firing one or more of the five shots that hit Cameron. A former Scottish professional soccer player for St. Mirren of Paisley, a police statement read in court said Kingsley admitted firing the last shot but that Robertson had fired the only two.

Police said Kingsley admitted in statements after his arrest that the robbery was the motive. During the trials, however, Cameron's body was shot in a struggle when they resisted his homosexual advances.

Given 20 Years For Shooting

ROUYN, Que. (CP) — Roland Dumont, 37-year-old bingo hall manager, today was sentenced to 20 years in prison for manslaughter in the death of Albert Bellisle, Val d'Or farmer who died in hospital here from gunshot wounds Oct. 24.

A jury had returned the verdict of manslaughter Tuesday night. Dumont had been tried on a charge of murder.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis — This morning, central Ontario sits in a calm between two storms, one situated near Newfoundland and the other centred in Nebraska. Ahead of the western storm, warm dry winds are sweeping due from Texas and Oklahoma as far north as Lake Superior, while in the east, strong northerly winds are pushing cold air down across eastern Quebec and the Maritimes.

Ontario will be affected by the western disturbance tonight and Friday.

GOVT. WILL NOT INCREASE PRICE OF GOLD

No Intention Becoming Banker For World

OTTAWA (CP)—The government hopes the United States some day will increase the price of gold, but has no intention of taking the step itself and becoming the world's banker.

Minister Prudeaux made this statement in the Commons during debate Wednesday on a government bill to continue operations of the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act, which says the subsidy is designed to provide financial assistance to Canadian gold mines to enable them to meet high production costs.

He said the government is doing "everything possible" to persuade the United States to increase the price of gold. At present the U.S. pays $35 an ounce in American funds for gold, including the Canadian product. However, because of the Canadian dollar's worth more than the U.S. dollar, gold mining companies in Canada on March 8 received $33.79 in Canadian funds for an ounce of gold.

HE SAID HE SAID

Mr. Prudhan opposed a suggestion by Rodney Adamson (PC—York West) that the world should tread the world by increasing the price of gold.

He said:

"I do not believe anyone who gives the matter serious consideration would advocate that we (Canada) should go it alone and try to let us say, $50, and be prepared to purchase all the gold that would flow into this country from all parts of the world. Fifteen million people certainly cannot become the bankers of the world. We hope that the United States some day will see fit to raise the price of gold, but we do not know when it might be, and there is no indication of it."

The bill to extend emergency assistance to the mines received second reading several in principle—and was supported by all parties.

EXCESSIVE PROFIT

During the debate Mr. Prudhan said the gold mines are not making excessive profits or using the emergency assistance to mine low grades of ore.

PC Member Of Legislature, J. D. Nault, Dies

OTTAWA (CP) — J. D. Nault, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Russell since 1948, died early today. He was 59.

Mr. Nault, in ill-health for some time, died during the current session of the legislature because of heart trouble.

His death was the third among Progressive Conservative members of the Ontario house since the present session began. Funeral services were held Wednesday for George MacOdrum, 66, member for Leeds who died Monday. On March 4 Dr. Ernest Cass, 70, member for Nipissing, died in Toronto.

Native of Ottawa, Mr. Nault was first elected in the Ontario election of 1934. He was re-elected in 1951.

His death cut Progressive Conservative strength in the 90-seat house to 87. There are also 3 Liberals, 1 CCF, one Liberal-Labor and one Communist Labor-Progressive. Three seats are vacant.

Conservatives Inject New Blood Into Party Echelon

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservatives have injected new blood into its top party echelon and given party leader George Drew a vote of confidence.

Those were the main decisions emerging from the two-day annual meeting of the party's national association which ended Wednesday.

The vote of confidence in Mr. Drew came shortly after the meetings started. The same day saw the election to the council, the 30-year-old member of Parliament for Toronto Broadview, as the association's new president.

The twin themes of party reorganization and renewed efforts to win the next general election, expected in three or perhaps four years, ran through most of the speeches and decisions.

Mr. Rees promised "to revitalize our organization from coast to coast" and set a target of election preparedness in three years.

MAY GET ORGANIZER

The association moved Wednesday to back his efforts and adopted a resolution to appoint a national organizer, if needed, to work with him.

Reds Release Two Canadians Who Crossed Armistice Line

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists today released two Canadian soldiers after holding them overnight in a bunker, an Allied spokesman announced.

The Canadians are Pte. Douglas Grant Phillips of Kitchener and Pte. James Aubrey Mowrey, husband of Mrs. Betty Doreen Piercey of Toronto.

The Communists took the Canadians prisoner in the neutral zone Wednesday.

Eleven Jews Are Massacred As Arabs Ambush Israeli Bus

BEERSHEBA, Israel (Reuters)—An official inquiry began today into a roadside ambush in which 11 Israeli Jews were massacred last Wednesday under a hail of Arab machine-gun fire.

Officials of the United Nations and the Israeli government arrived to visit lonely Scorpion pass, 12½ miles from the Jordan border, where the massacre took place.

They interviewed Arab survivors, including a Dutch woman who pretended to be dead. The Israeli tents methodically shot those who had escaped the first fusillade.

Another survivor was a five-year-old girl, saved by an Israeli soldier who sheltered her body with his own. Her mother was killed.

The mass shooting was the latest in a series of bloody incidents in southern Israel, long the scene of border strife between Arab and Israeli forces.

Glen. Vagn Israeli statement laid the blame squarely on Jordan and described it as a "warlike act." Premier Moshe Sharett in Jerusalem regarded the statement as "almost an ultimatum."

Thames Valley Authority Wants Govts. to Assist

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Upper Thames Valley Authority has decided to ask the federal and provincial governments for almost $1,000,000 to help finance flood control projects in seven areas along the upper Thames river.

The new conservation scheme will cost about $9,264,000 and the federal and Ontario governments will each pay 37½ per cent. The remainder will be paid by the municipalities affected.

The plan would be spread over perhaps 15 years and would include flow control dams and reservoirs and two channel improvement schemes.

Channel improvement at St. Marys and Mitchell and a new dam at Wildwood east of St. Marys were expected to be among the first projects tackled. The dam would be a 53 feet high and would store about 15,000 acre-feet of water in a lake about six miles long.

Fifty-two members of the authority, representing 26 municipalities, attended the Wednesday night meeting. Reeve Lorne Cousins of London, re-elected chairman, said although flood control was second the most spectacular part of the authority's work, the real work of conservation is the control of soil on farms within the watershed.

The authority's plan of flood control projects will require from $350,000 to $100,000,000 but they will pay for themselves in value of prevention of floods as Fanshawe (dam near London) has already done in the last few weeks."

Experts have said a recent flood in the Thames would have run over the banks into London west if Fanshawe had not held the water back.

Vietminh Guns Heavily Shell French Fortress

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Chinese - supplied Vietminh guns heavily shelled the Isle of Dien Bien Phu early today, apparently in preparation for another massive assault on the blistering French fortress in northwest Indo-China.

Despite the heavy rebel barrage, the French continued to pit in and out of Dien Bien Phu, evacuating the wounded and parachuting fresh troops and war material into the heart of the fortress.

Throughout Wednesday, the Vietminh steered shy of further rushes toward the barbed-wire entanglements of the strongpoint as French command post in the centre.

The French, in the five days of battle so far, already have killed or wounded 3,000 Vietminh and wounded 9,000 others, casualties estimated by the French.

LOSSES "APPRECIATIVE"

The French conceded their losses were appreciable, but released no figures.

The French made ready for more furious assaults with the possibility that Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, Communist commander of the Vietminh army, would shortly try to crush French resistance by throwing in all of the 30,000 troops it is estimated he has left in the hills and jungles around Dien Bien Phu.

French Army spokesmen were calmly confident today that the fortress fortress, exclusively built up by, airlifts, would be able to hurl back anything the enemy could.

SCOTLAND YARD PROBES THREATS TO KILL QUEEN

Spanish Embassy Sure Gibraltar Notes Hoax

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard said today it is investigating a series of anonymous letters threatening to kill the Queen if she acts foot on Gibraltar.

A police spokesman said the inquiry has not yet determined whether the letters are from a crank or from a real desperado.

Talking no chances, the Yard tightened security arrangements for the scheduled visit of the Queen and Prince Philip to Gibraltar May 10 as part of their world tour.

The letters, about 12 in all, were written in red ink and signed "Antigua Espanola" — apparently intended to mean the Spanish fascist organization. They were posted in London in the last days to a number of members of Parliament, including former prime minister Attlee, and at least two London newspapers.

THINK LETTERS HOAX

A Spanish embassy spokesman in London said: "We are quite certain that the letters are a hoax. If they were genuine, the signature would be 'Arriba Espana' or 'Viva Tradicionalista y de Las Jons'" (Labor Association for Trade Union in Spain).

"No Spaniard would have signed it 'Antigua Espanola.' That is all wrong."

Spain has protested against the Queen's visit to Gibraltar, claiming the rocky outpost guarding the Mediterranean entrance is rightfully Spanish.

The Queen also is investigating a letter threatening Lady Churchill, wife of the prime minister. It was received at 10 Downing street earlier this week.

30 CPR Engineers Refuse to Pay Certain Dues

TORONTO (CP)—Thirty Canadian Pacific Railway engineers from Toronto, some of them with more than 40 years of service, face dismissal Saturday because they have refused to pay union dues for the past 10 months.

The men, former railway firemen promoted to engineers, said they cannot afford the extra. The unions would amount to $15.95 in some cases.

The men are members of the Queen City Lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and wish to retain their membership in the union but keep in force union insurance policies that range from $1,500 to $1,500. If they dropped their membership they would have to accept the cash surrender value of their policies.

They have refused to pay an additional $6 a month dues to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers recommended in an agreement signed with the railway last January. The agreement combines all men working as engineers to pay dues to the engineers' union.

Spirit Willing But Ectoplasm Weak, Juliet Can Only Wiggle Ouija Board

By DON BESS

HOLYWELL, England (Reuters) Just after midnight Wednesday, 600 ghost-hunters waited tensely in the ancient Ferry Boat Inn for a glimpse of Juliet Tewsley, 19, who banged herself on the head in 1658 as a young woodcutter jilted her.

At the bar, seven psychic research workers fiddled with the latest ghost-catching gadgets but the only spirits to materialize were the ones in the bottles.

Juliet's spirit was willing, but her ectoplasm was weak.

Members of the London Society for Psychic Research insisted she had made a date to meet them at midnight, and he gave the folks some tense moments. He set up a table bearing a pack of cards, letters of the alphabet around its edges. Four believers put their fingers on a wine glass, and, lo, the glass moved to letters, spelling out answers allegedly from the great beyond.

The ghost hunters went home disappointed. Not so the barkeeper. He couldn't remember such a good night for business.

U.S. State Dept. Says Puerto Ricans Plan Assassinations

Henry Cabot Lodge Named As One Marked For Murder

NEW YORK (AP) — A cryptic state department warning that Puerto Rican Nationalists planned to kill "important" persons, including Henry Cabot Lodge, United States ambassador to the United Nations, sent 200 extra city police on special guard duty early today.

Although Lodge was the only person named in the emergency order, officers were rushed to residences of prominent national, state and local officials.

The FBI had no comment on the alert. Further information from the state department was not immediately available.

Lodge, who stays at the Waldorf-Astoria Towers, retired shortly before midnight.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey, in town for the St. Patrick's Day parade, left his Roosevelt Hotel apartment late Wednesday night for his farm home in Pawling, N.Y.

Special protection was given Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem., Mass.) who is mentioned as a Vice-Presidential possibility.

The guard at Gracie Mansion, official home of Mayor Robert F. Wagner, was increased.

GIVE ADDED PROTECTION

The homes of several federal judges and other officials got special protection and the Communist supplementary police orders dealing with public order and safety in case of a west side. Among them is Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt (Dem., N.Y.).

The shooting of five congressmen on the floor of the House of Representatives in Washington more than a year ago touched off an intensive hunt here for fanatic Puerto Rican Nationalists.

Search Called Off, Police Say Story is Hoax

HAMILTON (CP)—The search throughout nearby Stoney Creek for the body of a man "with a knife in his back" was called off Wednesday night after police had learned their informant—had been hoaxed.

Saltfleet police started the search after Hamilton city police received a note saying the body was located in an old shack.

The note said: "I have tried to keep this to myself but I can't live with it any longer. I'm called off it."

Wednesday night, a woman who identified herself as Mrs. Kabal, Hamilton, telephoned police with the story behind the notice.

She said her daughter, Maxine, 15, and another girl, Patsy Rowe, 16, went driving one night last week with three youths who entered a shack in Stoney Creek and returned to tell the girls of finding a body.

The woman said Miss Rowe believed the story and sent the unsigned note to police.

There was no body in the shack.

C of C and Merchants Offer To Be Arbitrators in Dispute

TRENTON (Special)—Directors of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce and executives of the local Merchants Association have proposed to arbitrate between the Parks Board and the Trenton Council. The majority of council are in agreement with their offer. The move for appeasement came in a letter signed by H. B. Smith, secretary of the Chamber. It read: March 16, 1954. His Worship the Mayor and Council, Trenton, Ontario. Gentlemen:

"We, the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce together with the executive of the Retail Merchants Association, respectfully request that council's decision re the appropriation of land north of the Skinner wall, located in the Sensel Estate Park, be held in abeyance for the following reasons:

1. We, the undersigned, are of the opinion that, granted a little time, our representatives can work out a satisfactory solution to the existing problem, which we are sure will be in the best interests of both council and the parks board.

2. As business men and taxpayers we feel that the present situation can be ended satisfactorily in the courtrooms and lawyers, expenses, that our already overburdened taxpayers will have to shoulder, to say nothing about the length of time such action may take.

If council will consider the above request, we will gladly devote our time and effort to present a solution acceptable to both parties concerned."

WELCOMES OFFER.

Commenting on the chamber's letter executive member Bill Hall explained that he welcomed the offer and suggested a meeting of the management and council get together to discuss the matter, "before anything ahead with proceedings," he insisted. He felt that a meeting of the affairs suggested, when two town bodies could not see eye to eye would straighten out matters. Councillor N. A. McNeil also welcomed the intervention of the chamber. Councillor James MacDonald indicated that he had not discussed the matter with the question. He proposed that the town carry out expropriation proceedings on that part of the land in the dock area. He wanted to see a public park squared off that would accommodate 50 cars. The proposed expropriation plan would affect land owned by the Bank of Montreal, Frank Filion, W. H. Grandfield, Cecil Gerrard, the Bywater estate.

Mayor Bush sided in with general feeling of his councillors. He voiced approval of Councillor MacDonald's plan suggesting that council representatives approach the private land owners in the dock area with a plan to clean up the land for parking. Mr. Bush mentioned the names of Senator Fraser and W. H. Ireland among those who worked to secure pieces of property that now make up the park area held by the parks board in perpetuity.

WANTS EARLY REPLY.

Councillor Gerald Weaver suggested that council have a report on the chamber's progress. "If they are going to bring it in we should let us know by April 1 or the middle of April", he said. Mr. McNeil said he was willing to wait until May 1.

Councillor Smithman again offered his views on the matter, "I would suggest we call on the Chamber of Commerce. I think they will have to bring council and the parks board together. Councillor Weaver held for a specific date and council set April 12 as the date for the businessmen to advise on their progress.

Councillor MacDonald, a pensioned cattle of the Parks Board, highly commended the board on their recommendation to transform the north side of Quinte Street into a paved parking lot. The move on the lawn during the finance committee, who propose to approach owners of the land between Embleton's and the Quinte Cleaners. When they find out what the cost to make the conversion they will report the figures to council. The finance board comprises Joe Gould (chairman), Hall, Weaver, Jack Goldberg, Claude Smith, Tibbie Spear, Gerald Ross, Reeve of Murray Township and the clerk, Cecil Hall, member ex-officio.

The Planning Board pointed out that the revenue from meter installations in the proposed parking area would pay for the capital investment of the renovation in 10 years. They also indicated that the property would be under the control of the town during that period and if needed for other purposes would be available.

POLICE BLOTTER

A self-styled fire investigator who demanded accommodation at a local motel even when the proprietor said he was all "filled up" was successful in getting a room last night.

The man got his room, but the accommodation was at the police station and not at the motel.

Sensing that the man in question was under the influence of liquor the motel proprietor called police who booked the "investigator" on a drunk charge.

Belleville and provincial police received requests to locate missing relatives. Provincial officers were asked to locate an 11-year-old girl who was said to be missing from her home on Bridge street. They believe the girl left for Hamilton to be with friends.

City police were asked to locate a 15-year-old local boy, who was believed to be in Toronto with friends.

Some thirty non-commissioned officers of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment RCA (AL) and the 27th Technical Logistics RCEME were guests to as many officers of the units at a post graduate "Mess Night" in the regimental sergeants' mess on Tuesday night.

A feature of the party was the presentation to Warrant Officer 1 Howard Kokeah of the artillery regiment of the Canadian Forces Decoration Medal. The award was made for twelve years efficient service with the army. The presentation was made by Major Gordon Clarke, second-in-command of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment. Major Clarke also represented Lieut.-Col. E. R. Warwick, commanding officer, who was unable to be present.

Darts and other games, which included a wheel, with a dashing display of volleyball rounded out an enjoyable evening. A buffet luncheon was served at the fourth o'clock.

Regimental president WO 2 Gerry Scott extended the official welcome to the guests. Arrangements of the party were in charge of a committee headed by Sergeant Gordon Carter.

Longines Symphonette Heard In Final Community Concert

By EUGENE LANG.

One of the most renowned and popular instrumental ensembles of the North American Continent, the Longines Symphonette, appeared before a capacity audience in the Collegiate Auditorium last evening to present the fourth and final concert of the 1953-54 season of the Belleville Community Concert Association.

This orchestra is perhaps the best known and most frequently heard of its kind in Canada and the U.S. today. It first was heard on the air back in 1941. Since that time it has been heard literally thousands of times by hundreds of millions of people through its network broadcasts on both the NBC and CBS. Since 1946 it has been a station, by both leading music critics and musical publications, as the foremost orchestra of its kind. This, besides being chosen by the National Federation of Music Clubs for its "outstanding services to music", by the Canadian Government in 1951 for its goodwill tour of Canada, the network of 166 stations, and the programs have been carried by the Armed Forces Radio of the U.S. throughout the world.

The Longines Symphonette is a full symphony orchestra in miniature of 40 men except numerically, the essential difference being that this orchestra under the direction is greatly reduced from that of the full symphony orchestra. The woodwind, brass, and percussion sections of this orchestra contain all the instruments of the large orchestra, with the exception that the instruments are handled by one person instead of by three musicians.

OPEN WITH MOZART.

Mozart's ever popular vivacious overture to "The Marriage of Figaro" opened the concert by this renowned orchestra. Then in the same size as that Mozart himself used in his day. Then Conductor Eugene Ormandy's transcription of the Bach choral prelude "Sheep May Safely Graze", in which the string and brass choirs fused their component parts into a fine and mellow soneness of tonal balance enhanced by the interweaving counterpoint of the woodwinds.

The Symphony No. 5 in E flat of the American composer, Gillis was given a lively and spirited performance by the orchestra. This symphony, in smaller proportions than usual, is one of unbridled melody and fun, that was fully realized by the Symphonette in its rendition. The second movement of the four movements is to be taken as a parody on the latest fad (as the titles imply) and is quite delightful as played and as the audience on hand proved by their hearty applause from this idiomatic symphony of lively rhythms and brilliant orchestral combinations.

Samuel Barber's very lovely and tranquil "Adagio for Strings" was given an impeccable rendition by the Longines string choir orchestra. This is a work that has the harmonic depth, yet evocative texture of Mozart's music. Its individuality of emotion and progression that stamp it one of the finest works from any modern American composer. The strings did a superb job on it in every respect.

VIOLINISTS PERFORM.

An unusual oddity was the fact that in the finale of the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto, not one violin was used, but four—yes, here Mr. Ormandy, the conductor, showed his prowess on the violin, (he was formerly concertmaster of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra for a great many years), along with three members from the string section of the orchestra. The four violinists in unison tossed off this difficult movement as though it was child's play, thus showing that each was a virtuoso in his own right, which might be said for practically every member of the entire orchestra. For an encore the four fiddlers glided through Francois Schubert's short and carefree "The Bee."

Following intermission Mr. Sidney Stafford, staff pianist of the orchestra, became the center of attraction, as he very commendably played the first movement of Edward Grieg's very popular and melodious Concerto in A Minor. This was the first time that this listener has ever heard a piano concerto performed on a Belleville stage—with the necessary orchestral accompaniment and it was thrilling to say the least. The entire audience was "taken" completely by this number.

"Suite for Amber" a clever suite of four movements was the last and gave its premiere performance by the orchestra. Although not music of great emotional import, nevertheless the composer, Nicholas Flagello, has written music that was pleasing in its orchestral sonorities and diverse rhythms describing the antics of a mischievous and cocker spaniel in musical phrases. Exceptionally clever was the treatment of the instruments of the last movement. We liked it, Mr. Piastro.

OLD FAVORITES PLAYED

Two old favorites of Rimsky-Korsakoff, the "Song of India" and the "Flight of the Bumble Bee", joined forces with the extraordinary applause of the audience by favoring the hearers with four encores. First, "Jumping Bean" by the Canadian composer Robert Farnon, then Richard Strauss' "Blue Danube", the orchestra's radio theme (first movement of the Moonlight Sonata by Beethoven) and finally the "Clear Track Polka" by Eduard Strauss. All were given with unbounded applause of the audience by the Symphonette under the direction of the permanent conductor, Mishel Piastro.

One final thought. Why, oh when, is the local audience ever going realize that you do not applaud between movements of a concerted composition like a symphony or sonata. On many occasions concert-goers have been known to tell an audience to quit showing its ignorance by doing just this. If Belleville audiences are ever told to desist from applauding by an usher or concert-goer they have only themselves to blame. Read your programs—movements are always listed—and applause comes after the final movement, not after each separate movement.

New Mexico Dust Tinges Skies At Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dust from New Mexico and other southwest states tinged the skies of northwestern Ontario today but a gradual clearing was in progress in Manitoba.

The dust crossed the border Wednesday, drifting northeastward in a high-altitude current. Pilots returning from northern Manitoba reported the haze extended 280 miles north of Winnipeg by late afternoon.

The weather office said that the haze was "quite a bit thinner" today with a northerly flow sweeping the skies clean.

Paper Believes Churchill Will Not Retire

LONDON (AP) — A newspaper published by one of Sir Winston Churchill's close personal friends says today "the strong presumption must be that Churchill intends to stay" as prime minister.

Lord Beaverbrooke's Evening Standard in a 500-word editorial sharply criticizes some other newspapers which have urged the 79-year-old Churchill to step aside for a younger man.

The Standard says that "on health grounds there is no need for him to retire at all" and adds "Churchill's resignation would weaken Britain and damage the prospects of world peace."

Police Say Man Wed Three Times Since 1949

WELLAND (CP) — Donald Herbert Smith, 23, arrested Wednesday on a bigamy charge, is said by authorities to have just gone through three marriage ceremonies since 1949.

The chief said Smith went through a form of marriage with another girl in 1953. Placed on probation on a bigamy charge in Toronto last June, the chief said, Smith wooed and won a 20-year-old girl from Tisdale, Sask., with tales of "Korean exploits" and went through a ceremony with her last Saturday.

Smith was arrested in the presence of the girl. He will appear in court March 24.

IMMIGRATION—NEW STYLE

A little item from the United Kingdom Information Office at Ottawa provides food for thought.

It reports an English nurse as saying that four of her friends have come to Canada as nurses "and I've had such good reports from them that I made up my mind to go too."

That is good news for Canada. We need more nurses. But is it not possible that it may be disturbing news for Britain?

A similar trend in emigration exists between Canada and the United States. Just recently there has been a controversy at Toronto over the standard of pay offered internes. It has been stated that young doctors can get so much more money in the U.S. that many of them are leaving Canada for that country as soon as they complete their university training. This, of course, is not a new development. The emigration of young professional men from Canada to the U.S. has been the cause of concern in some quarters for a number of years.

It may well be that we have here the first symptoms of what may prove a major problem for the world during the next few decades.

The greatest need of the under-developed countries of the world is an adequate supply of trained men and women to direct their efforts to improve the economic lot of their peoples. But these men and women cannot hope to receive as great a financial reward in their homelands as they can in nations already more highly developed.

If they follow the example of British nurses who emigrate to Canada and of Canadian doctors and engineers who move to the United States, the people who are being trained in under-developed lands are not going to assist their homelands to improve their lot.

Incidentally it might be noted that this present-day trend for key personnel to seek employment in the most highly developed lands is a reversal of that colonialism which took civilization to the jungles of Africa and to the virgin forests and plains of the Americas. These earlier emigrants went to, instead of coming from, under-developed countries. There were probably three main motivating factors in their emigration, a desire for wealth, a love of adventure or a missionary zeal. Rather obviously we cannot hope that either of the first two factors will help to keep trained personnel at home in the under-privileged countries. But perhaps they will display the same zeal for the task at home as, in other years, missionaries have shown for the work in far climes.

We must hope so. For if they do not, it would appear probable that the countries which have trained them and which need them will be tempted to erect barriers against their departure, further impairing the already decaying tradition of the right of the individual to freedom of movement.

THREE IMPORTANT STATEMENTS

George Hess, the newly-elected president of the Progressive-Conservative Association, says that he plans to visit each province in Canada at least once a year, to develop the party's organization.

This statement is in conjunction with two statements by two other Canadian politicians, touches on a vital point.

At Ottawa Hon. George Drew said that the two-party system is "the only safe system for democracy."

In Peel, Hon. Walter Harris, Minister of Immigration in the Liberal government, said that the opposition in the House of Commons is splitting its sectional groups.

The statements by both Mr. Drew and Mr. Harris need to be qualified. A three or four party system is not necessarily dangerous. It is only when it has become dangerous, as events in France and Italy, for example, have clearly shown. The opposition groups in the House of Commons have supported the government on all the important issues, as Mr. Harris said, sectional.

In the main the statements are true. Consider them together and it appears obvious that nothing which Mr. Hess may have to do during his term as national president of the Progressive-Conservative party can be more important than his plan to develop the party's organization in all the provinces of Canada.

ONE MAN'S MEAT . . .

One man's meat is another man's poison.

Hon. Farquhar R. Oliver, the House leader of the Ontario Liberal Party, says that he is "happier today with the prospects of the Liberal party than I have been for a long time."

The reason? He is confident that Liberal hopes for an election victory will grow as a result of government mistakes he expects to be revealed by a select committee's investigation into irregularities in the highways department.

This prospect may make Mr. Oliver happier. It will not make most Ontario residents happier. Some of the province's staunchest Liberals will be among those who will feel that this event would be more poisonous to the taxpayer than it would be nourishing to the party.

MAN AND THE ANT

An ant hill seems a busy place
As in and out its tenants race,
But neither what they do nor why
The slightest notion of have I.

Look to the ant, the sages say,
And be industrious as they;
I've often looked, but tell I can't
Why man should imitate the ant.

I've seen him struggling with a twig
That was himself three times as big.
He had some reason, I suppose,
But what it was nobody knows.

Were I a hint for youth to pen
I would be apt to tell them: Look to men!
Observe the good and truly great
And try their ways to imitate.

Why are weak and others strong,
How best your life to shape and plan,
Forget the ant and look to man.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

MARCH 18, 1934.

Mrs. Mary Rose of Bloomfield, Prince Edward county, will observe the 100th anniversary of her birth quietly at her home with a few friends today. She was born in a log cabin which was built in a clearing near Belleville a few months before Belleville was made a police village. Bears and wolves were numerous and the younger members of the family never ventured into the clearing. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rose, and was the second child in a family of seven. The Minaker family was noted for its longevity, there being three now living in addition to Mrs. Rose; they are Charles Minaker, 85, of Picton, Rodney Minaker, 86, of Saskatchewan, and Mrs. Sarah Harris, son, 83, of Quesy. All but two of the family lived to the age of 80 years and three lived to the age of 90 years. Mrs. Rose married Peter Rose, who became a justice of the peace, and died many years ago. Mrs. Rose has five children living, they are Dr. Andrew Rose of Toronto, Philip Rose of Bloomfield, Edward H. Rose of Pasadena, California, Mrs. Frances Shaver and Mrs. Florence Grimmon, both of Picton. Mrs. Rose, although she recently lost both sight and hearing and is confined to bed, enjoys having friends and likes to talk of interesting happenings in her pioneer days.

Story of The Resurrection

By Fulton Oursler And April Oursler Armstrong

The Drawing of Lots

"He who drew the larger lot would be the one God had appointed."

CHAPTER 14.

The history of the coming of the Holy Spirit is told in the New Testament in a book called The Acts of the Apostles. The book was written by St. Luke, who was not one of the apostles, but a physician from Antioch, an early convert who left his thriving practice to work for Christianity.

His is the only contemporary account of the first years of the Church. Written in Greek, about thirty years after the Resurrection, it is a sequel to his first manuscript, the Gospel which bears Luke's name.

From The Acts we learn of the first time that Peter asserted his leadership in the Church.

After Jesus rose to heaven from the top of Mount Olivet, His followers returned to Jerusalem, and to the Cenacle. Here were gathered at that time Peter and John, James the Greater and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew, Simon, Zelotes, James the Less and Jude Thaddeus. All these men were persevering in prayer, with one mind, with the women and with Mary, the mother of Jesus, and all His relatives and friends.

Nightly more men and women knocked for entrance at the Cenacle door, former disciples of Jesus, men and women who had heard Him teach, had been healed by Him during His lifetime, and had believed. Soon the house was full to the lintels with a crowd that waited and prayed for the promised signs.

To them Peter made his first official speech, facing about one hundred and twenty men and women in the historic room of the Last Supper, to announce a radical decision.

He began by recalling to them a prophecy from the Psalms of David,

"Men, brethren," said Peter, "the Scripture must needs be fulfilled, which the Holy Ghost spoke before by the mouth of David concerning Judas, who was the leader of them that apprehended Jesus, who was numbered with us, and had obtained part of this ministry. And he indeed has possessed a field of the reward of iniquity, and being hanged, burst asunder in the midst; and all his bowels gushed out.

"And it became known to all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the same field was called in their tongue, Haceldama, that is to say, 'the field of blood.' For it is written in the book of Psalms: 'Let their habitation become desolate, and, let there be none to dwell therein. And his bishopric let another take.'

"Wherefore, of these men who have companied with us all the time that the Lord Jesus came in and went out among us, beginning from the baptism of John, until the day wherein He was taken up from us—one of these must be made a witness with us of His Resurrection."

Someone must be chosen to take Judas' place among the twelve! To this pronouncement of Peter's the assembly agreed. But when the vote was taken two candidates were tied — one was Joseph, called Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and the other was Matthias.

And facing the tie, all of the company began to pray;

"You, Lord, Who know the hearts of all men, show which of these two You have chosen to take the place of this ministry and apostleship from which Judas has fallen by transgression, that he might go to his own place."

And guidance promptly answered that earnest prayer. Let them try lots! He who drew the larger lot would be the one God had appointed. The other would be rejected. The two men, Joseph Barsabas and Matthias, with that prayer for divine guidance still on their lips, stepped forward humbly. The lot fell upon Matthias.

Judas was gone, but the eleven apostles were twelve once more, as the months are twelve and also the tribes of Israel. No one knows anything of the history of Matthias' life or ministry. He was chosen because he had "companied" with the other disciples and was therefore competent to witness to the works and teaching of Jesus. Some of the earliest authorities believed, for one reason or another, that Matthias was a new name for Zacchaeus, that wealthy but midget tax collector who once climbed a sycamore tree, to get sight of Jesus on His approach to Jericho.

But only as Matthias we know him surely to have been chosen just in time for twelve apostles to be present at one of the greatest events in the history of the world — the descent of the Holy Ghost at the time of the Pentecost.

MARSH HILL

'What is Time?' Interesting Talk At Harmony Club

MARSH HILL — The members of Marsh Hill Harmony Club met for their March meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Reid on Friday night.

Mr. David Mollinger, president, opened the meeting. In the absence of the secretary, Mr. Basil Kuglin fulfilled the duties of the office.

During the business, it was decided to make a donation to the Red Cross.

Mrs. John Brown was program convener and chose as her theme "Time".

Mrs. Berson Mills read the Scripture reading and Mrs. Brown gave a few thoughts on it.

Mr. Fred Campbell favored with a solo, "Dear Spirit Saviour Divine."

"WHAT IS TIME".

Mrs. Brown gave an address, "What Is Time?" What is time? There is a mystery about time which has ever fascinated the world's best thinkers. It was expressed by St. Paul when he wrote to the Ephesians: "Look carefully then how you walk, as wise, making the most of time."

"It is our God-given duty to make the most of the time allotted to us. There was no feverish hurrying about Jesus, and He knew His earthly working days were short. He was fulfilling a life and to fulfill our lives, we must live our days to the full.

"Moments with God help us to save time and give us power to keep going toward our goals. Make our leisure hours count for something.

"Decide in advance what you most want to do. We can always make time for a thing if we desire it enough.

"We are not limited to our own little span of years. Some of us will go on living in our children and grand children. Then let us improve each passing moment, but also remember that we can make added time by extending our lives into lives and causes which will be going on far beyond our years."

Miss Mary Lou Reid favored with a piano solo, "The Old Rugged Cross." Miss Barbara Brown gave an interesting talk on "Where There's a Will — There's a Way". taking as an example the life of George Washington Carver. "When someone asks us to do some task, don't refuse, you may only be dodging a good cure for your own weaknesses. Confidence in oneself and the feeling of satisfaction in your heart after the task, regardless of its size, has been successfully completed."

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Kuglin conducted a contest on Hastings County and a spelling match.

The hostess, assisted by the lunch committee, served refreshments.

Soroptimist Club Donates Hearing Aids to Students

The monthly dinner meeting of The Soroptimist Club of Belleville held at Laziness' Town Room on Monday, was highlighted by three special events. First, two hearing aids were presented to two needy students of the Ontario School for the Deaf. President Lazletta Stirland made the presentation and Mr. J. G. Demeza, superintendent of the school, accepted the gifts on behalf of the students—John Fossum and Rosemary Burnadz, Mr. Demeza briefly outlined the histories of the two students. Rosemary, 17 years old, is a native of Sudbury. Three years ago she came to the school and is now in her third year, taking a business course. Prior to coming to the O.S.D. she had attended a public school but her hearing was so poor that she was getting very little from her lessons. The hearing aid will greatly help Rosemary and will be a great asset when she does seek employment at the conclusion of her course.

John is 13 years old and Fort Arthur is his home town. He has been a student at the school for nine years. He has considerable hearing one one ear but insufficient to have phonic speech. At present he is in his last year of intermediate school. Next year he will begin vocational study devoting one third or his time to his chosen profession and the balance in continuing his academic training. At the end of two years he will be ready to seek employment and the hearing aid will be most helpful to him. Both students thanked the club personally and were greatly moved by the gifts. The club members were greatly impressed with the fine work the Ontario School for the Deaf is doing with these handicapped children and were proud of the opportunity to help two such brilliant and deserving students.

DANCE NUMBER GIVEN

Little Miss Victoria Margaret Wheeler delighted her audience with a fine Irish dance number. Mrs. Mary Quinn accompanied her on the piano and "Vicki" was adorable in little pleated white skirt and green tunic.

Mr. N. A. Beach, director of guidance at Albert College, was guest speaker. Being also a specialist in psychology, he chose as his theme "The Young in Heart" based on H. A. Overstreet's book "The Mature Mind". Introduced by Mrs. Theo Wheeler, his address was a most interesting one. Mr. Beach had time to pin point only a few of the highlights of the book. He said psychology was very much overrated and that people were inclined to think it a new kind of science—a sort of cure all for what ails you. In reality it has been going on for thousands of years. Modern scientists have advanced new theories but it all boils down to maturing mentally as well as physically and that when man stops developing mentally then he stops maturing. "The Young in Heart" is not being critical of what goes on around us but rather living with the times and becoming a part of it" and the community in which you live.

Gladys MacDonald thanked the speaker for his most interesting and provocative speech. The meeting was then brought to a close by president Lazletta Stirland.

100th Birthday Celebrated By Mrs. Urenna Pinner

MRS. URENNA PINNER.

A handsomely decorated birthday cake bearing 100 candles was cut today by Mrs. Urenna Pinner, formerly of Marmora, who celebrated her birthday at the Hastings county home.

Wearing a special corsage for the occasion the little old lady entered enthusiastically into the spirit of the occasion and smilingly greeted friends and relatives attending the party and offering congratulations.

Born at Springbrook just a century ago, Mrs. Pinner is the former Urenna McWilliams and has spent most of her life in the village of Marmora where she moved when 15 years of age. A brother, the late Gordon McWilliams was former operator of the Royal Hotel at Marmora.

Until little more than a year ago Mrs. Pinner was amazingly active and assisted with daily tasks at the county home. She fell and broke her hip about a year ago and is now confined to a wheel chair. But her eyes still sparkle and her hearing is better than that of many persons half her age.

One of Mrs. Pinner's proudest moments was when she was chosen to cut the ribbon at the opening of the New Plaza Theatre at Marmora.

Mrs. Pinner's husband, George Pinner, died in 1915 and since that time and until she came to the county home in 1950, she and her son Fred made their home together at Marmora. The son died in 1951.

The little lady has outlived six of her seven children. One daughter, Mrs. George Hartley lives at Marmora. She has grandchildren living in Toronto and in Fort William. Miss Ann Rayburn, of Tweed, is a niece.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHOULD THEY MARRY BEFORE HE GOES INTO SERVICE?

Dear Mrs. Fairfax:

I have been going with a certain girl for about two years, and I have asked her to marry me, but one thing is holding me back from pressing her for a decision. That is, that I am going into the service some time next month, and I am wondering if we should get married before I go, or wait until I come back. Four years is a long time to wait.

F.A.P.

Dear F.A.P.:

If you had told me how old this girl is with whom you have been going, it would be somewhat easier for me to advise you. I can guess at your age, which is probably something under 20, so perhaps I would not be too far wrong if I assumed that your girl was about this same age.

In general, I feel that a marriage on the eve of a young man going into service is apt to be unwise, as so many marriages are impulsive and consequently start out under a handicap. However, since you and this girl have been going together for two years, each of you should know enough about the other to be able to tell whether or not you are really suited to each other and ready for marriage. Under such circumstances, I would think if you are mutually eager to marry before you go into service, it would be quite all right for you to do so.

You are certainly right when you say that "Four years is a long time to wait," and you must be realistic enough to understand that a lapse of four years between a marriage and the time when husband and wife can settle down together to normal living puts a great deal of strain on a young wife and a young husband. Consequently, both of you had better consider this whole matter very carefully before making your decision, in an effort to determine, so far as possible, whether or not your feeling for each other is deep enough to withstand the strain that the long separation will put upon you.

If you both feel that it is, go ahead and marry, for it will mean a lot to you both to have this bond between you. But if either of you is in doubt on the matter, I advise you to wait. It would be difficult enough if a break-up should come during your absence if you were merely engaged, but it would be far greater if this should happen after you had married.

INDEPENDENT, GIRLS?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We are two girls of 16 who are going steady with two boys of 17 and 19. While we like the boys very much, we don't really want to go steady, but they just don't understand. We have tried to tell them that while we like them very much we also want to go out with other boys, but they told us that if we stop going steady with them they would never go with us again, because they are so crazy about us.

We don't want to stop going with them altogether, so can you please help us with this problem?

C.A. and C.C.

Dear C.A. and C.C.:

Why don't you two show a little independence and do as you please? If the boys are really so crazy about you, it's hardly likely they would never go out with you again. Boys who are actually your friends wouldn't give you an ultimatum that easily. They're just trying to scare you into doing what they want you to do.

My personal opinion is that it's very foolish indeed for teagers to have such exclusive friendships that it leaves no room for them to have dates with whomever they please. I also think that the girls who show a little independence and hold out for their right to have dates with any boys they like are the ones who win out in the long run. Certainly they are much better prepared to chose the right "steady" when the proper time comes, than those girls who give themselves no chance to learn, through many different friendships, how to judge personality and character.

If you do decide to have dates with other boys, and these particular two carry out their threat to break off with you, you won't be losing anything much. And you'll soon find new friends to take their places.

The Dressing For Daily Salad

By Mary Moore

Next Sunday is the first day of spring and my thoughts lightly turn to salad greens.

After writing this column for over twenty-five years you might think I'd know what recipes I would click with you. But I still don't.

Back in November of 1953 I gave you a recipe for Creamy Mayonnaise because Mrs. Arthur M. asked for it. Since than I have received dozens of letters asking for copies of it or a repeat in the column.

I will give you that today because I feel we should emphasize salads in our meals more than ever for in this north country we have to depend on storage vegetables to a large extent, and their vitamin content is lowering by the minute, as each winter day passes.

Give your flair for salads full reign right now. Serve generous green salads every day—for your own and your family's good health.

Watch how eagerly they reach for the salad bowl. But, if your family does not have the salad habit, make individual salads and put them at their places as a first course. Then they will satisfy their first hunger with salad, and you take no chances on a half-emptied salad bowl being returned to the kitchen.

CREAMY MAYONNAISE
(Repeated by request)

In top of double boiler mix together 1-2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon each sugar, salt and dry mustard. Slowly stir in 1-2 cup milk, vinegar and 3-4 cup boiling water and cook over boiling water, stirring until mixture thickens. Cook covered 5 minutes, stirring twice. Remove from heat and cool. Add cold bowl. Beat in with rotary beater 4 egg yolks thoroughly. Chill 2 hours in refrigerator. Chill also 1 cup salad oil 2 hours. Now begin to very slowly beat into the cooked mixture the salad oil, 1 teaspoon at a time, until all oil is used, being sure oil is incorporated before you make another addition. Chill again, covered. This may be made more creamy by the addition of a little heavy cream or whipped cream when you take some of it from the jar to add to your daily salad. A little more sugar may be added to the first mixture if desired—up to 1 tablespoon.

Quite a few requests are on my desk for a repeat-of-quick method for making a little heavy and I have room for the recipe today.

WHITE BREAD
(For method using skim milk powder.)

Soak 2 packages of granular yeast in 1-2 cup lukewarm water for 5 minutes. Stir just before adding. In a large warm mixing bowl put 2 1-3 cups lukewarm water, 1-2 cup skim milk powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon salt and mix together. Add the soaked and stirred yeast. Stir until yeast is well incorporated. Add 2 tablespoons soft shortening or cooking oil. Mix in 7 or 7 1-4 cups sifted bread flour. Up until the time you add 4 cups flour this can be stirred in. After that use your hands. When the dough begins to leave sides of bowl turn it out on lightly floured board and knead by folding dough toward you, then press down heavily with the heels of your hands. Give it a quarter turn and repeat until dough is smooth and squeaky and elastic and does not cling to board. Transfer to greased bowl, brush top with shortening or oil, cover with damp cloth and let rise in warm place until doubled. When pressed with finger indentation remains when dough has risen enough. Punch down in bowl and turn over. Cover and let rise again and until almost double, in warm place. Mold into two loaves, making top smooth and let rise in greased loaf pans until double, in warm place. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes. Remove loaves from pans, and let cool on rack, or tipped sideways in pans. Brush tops with melted butter if you like a soft crust.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR BEAUTY ROUTINE

It won't do to chase beauty ruinbows. It is the steady plodder along the pulchritude path who finally gives the laugh to Father Time. She is no stop-and-go girl. She wins rewards that never come to her misguided sister who keeps up with her beauty routine with wild enthusiasm for a short period then neglects it for an even longer period.

These are usually the same girls who will make a date at the beauty shop, getting the whole works—facial, scalp massage, shampoo, wave set and manicure—promising themselves that this will be their pleasure every fortnight. But they don't. They go back only occasionally and don't even do their "homework" except for an occasional shampoo and pincurl set.

Finding time for professional attentions isn't possible for some of us these busy days. But every woman can spare a half hour at bedtime in the cause of beauty.

The most important rule is to take a clean face to bed with you. All day long your face is subjected to the menace of atmospheric dust. Remove it and your make-up with a thin cream or cleansing oil. Use soap and water freely, flufting up rich suds; go over the flesh briskly to bring a glow. Wash your lips and eyebrows. This advise is addressed especially to young girls who are much too casual about facial care.

Older women should rinse away the suds with tepid water, use a soft towel with gentle pats and apply a heavy cream suitable for massage that should remain on overnight. In the morning a cold rinsing will suffice.

Get out the hair brush. Give your locks a thorough grooming. Then a five minute scalp massage to stimulate circulation.

A cuticle cream should be massaged into the finger nails and the surrounding flesh every night so hangnail will not appear.

GOOD MANNERS

By: MRS. BEECKMAN

A SHOWER FOR A RELATIVE'S NEW HOUSE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister-in-law and her husband have just moved into their new house. It took them some time to get it, and for this reason no one has given a shower for her. It is proper to have a shower for her now, after they've moved in? If so, is it proper for my other sister-in-law and me to give the shower? If this isn't proper, please offer some suggestions as to what is customary. — E.D.

The customary way to do is for the new householders, hostess and host of the new home, to welcome their friends "over the threshold" by giving a Homewarming as soon as is convenient to them after they are settled. This pleasant and welcoming party is usually given on a Saturday or Sunday afternoon, 4-7, or 3-6, or 5-7, which hours are considered most convenient for the majority of guests.

If the hosts don't want to plan this Housewarming for their relatives and friends, a group of their intimate friends may give them a shower, which is usually a surprise shower. As with all other showers, it is very much correct for members of the family or close relatives to give a shower — then too-too obviously the shower looks like a promotion for presents, and of course a promotion-for-presents is just what is is, and is meant to be!

MOST UNUSUAL PLAN. . . 3 BEST MEN!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are planning a wedding at which there will be 75 guests, relatives and friends. There will be 3 best men, 2 bridesmaids, a maid of honor, flower girl, and ring bearer. The bride's father will give her in marriage. One best man will of course enter with the groom at the front of the church. Then what would be the proper order for the Processional?

G.

I wonder if you really mean three best men. . .this would certainly be most unusual. Don't you mean one best man and two ushers? Wouldn't you need at least two ushers? The Processional: first the two "best men" or ushers, walking together. Next, the two bridesmaids, walking together. Next, the maid of honor, walking alone. Then the flower girl and ring bearer, walking together. Then, if you prefer, the flower girl, alone, followed by the ring bearer. Last, the bride and her father.

CORRECT FORMATION OF RECEIVING LINE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell us what the usual formation is for the receiving-ing at the wedding reception.

Bridal Mother

As hostess of the wedding, you, the bride's mother, stand first in the line, then the bride and groom, the bride's father next, if he wishes to be in the line (very often he prefers to perform his duties as host by mingling with the guests, making introductions, and so forth). The groom's mother stands next in the line (the groom's father stands with her, if he wishes to be a member of the receiving-line). Then the bride and groom, the bride at the right of the groom. The honor attendant next (maid of honor or matron of honor), and last the bridesmaids. The best man and the ushers are not a part of the receiving-line.

WHEN NAME ON CHECK IS MISSPELLED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have recently started a checking account in my bank. I have a first name which is unusual, and is very often misspelled. If it should be misspelled on a check I want to deposit, how should I endorse it?

J.L.S.

First endorse the check exactly as your name is written on it, and write your correct signature directly below.

Wellington on the Lake

DREAMS OF AN IRISH EMIGRANT.

O Erin, mavourneen, 'tis of you I am dreamin'
As my thoughts wander eastward across the blue foam;
And I think of the hills and the lakes of Killarney
And of the wee cabin that once was my home.

It is not of this land in my sleep I am dreamin'
Though fair are her hills and her valles and her streams,
'Tis the old sod where the shamrock is gleamin'
The dear land of Erin I see in my dreams.

May God bless my country, dear Erin, mavourneen,
And slip from her songs the sad minor strain,
And may the glad harp so long tuneless and broken
Shed forth its sweet sounds through old Tara again.
—HELEN B. ANDERSON.

March brings St. Patrick's Day, when loyal Irish hearts turn to the Emerald Isle, for one of the marked characteristics of the Irish people is a love of the homeland. We recall this in the lines of the poet Goldsmith, who after years of wandering, wrote of his native village, "I still had hopes my long vexations past, here to return and die at home at last."

Here in the village of Wellington we have a large brick residence built by an Irish pioneer. He late Archie McFaul, and named Old Tara Hall after the home of the early Irish Kings. Mr. McFaul also helped in the building of the Catholic church here. Rev. James Holland, Toronto, writes of the old Tara Hall in Ireland as follows:

"Now sounds no harp o'er Tara's old walls
crumbling walls,
Like Tyre and Nineveh in dust it sits.
The plaintive curlew o'er it sadly calls
And the gray hat above its ruins flits;
But when the midnight wind shakes mournful sigh
Then ghosts of mighty heroes gather nigh."

PIONEER HISTORY.

Letters from readers commenting on the poem, "The Old Hay Bay Church," published recently in The Toronto Star, reveals the growing interest in the history of our Ontario pioneers. A retired minister of Owen Sound who encloses his long poem on the pioneers, and a lady resident of Midland interested in historical research, have written me letters of appreciation on the following poem:

THE HAY BAY METHODIST CHURCH.

It stands a structure, plain, enduring, strong,
A symbol of the sturdy pioneers,
Whose lives, devoid of laughter and song,
Endured the hardships of the early years—
Men to whose loyalty and fervent fire
We still may cling and steadfastly aspire.

Here in the days when this Northland was new
When scarce upturned the fresh and fertile soil,
This church was built of timbers staunch and true,
An edifice in which to worship God.
Then fathers' God who led them by the hand,
To build new homes in this far forest land.

Still strong it stands, its weather-beaten face,
Now bears the scars of all the passing years.
But oh! a spirit fills the hallowed place,
The spectral presence of the pioneers—
The spirit of those noble lives is felt
In this old chapel where they prayed and knelt.

O strong old church, so plain and commonplace,
You bring us dreams and visions of the past,
Visions of a loyal, faithful race
Of men whose influence in this world shall last;
On this new land where first their footsteps trod
You stand a monument to their faith in God.
—HELEN B. ANDERSON.

Snappy Batt. of Black Watch Takes Time For Spit, Polish

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Black realism marks the training of the Black Watch guarding a section of the Canadian 25th Brigade's line in snappy battalion Korea, but this snappy battalion also takes time for spit, polish and ceremonial.

Jack Brayley

With battalions of the Royal Canadian and Royal 22nd Regiments, the 2nd battalion, the Royal Highlanders of Canada (Black Watch) form the advance guard along the demilitarized zone separating North and South Korea.

The RCR and the Royal 22nd are soon to be relieved by the Queen's Own Rifles and the 4th Canadian Guards. The Black Watch has been in Korea only since October.

REALISTIC TRAINING

"The urgency of our training which has to be carried out with practical realism makes the men as keen as mustard and its a comparison at all to training in a non-operational theatre or home," said Lt.-Col. Richard M. Ross of Montreal and Ottawa, commander of the unit.

Col. Ross at 44 is ram-rod straight. He had previously commanded the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa in European action. His new command, whose depot is at Aldershot, N.S., is made up of men from several highland battalions, mostly the North Nova Scotia Highlanders, the Seventh Highlanders, the 48th Highlanders, Canadian Scottish and of course the Black Watch.

The Black Watch practice patrols are "practically the real thing," said the colonel.

"They go out at night with their faces blackened, wearing balaclavas and with their equipment tied so it won't rattle. And they're prepared to shoot at any infiltration they meet coming from across no-man's land of the cen-

"This possible emergency gives a purpose to the whole program and because we're actually on guard against any infiltration, our troops are on their toes and it's fighting trim right now," he added.

Another part of the battalion's training is rehearsal of the role they'll take if the Chinese violate the armistice. "We can do it now

Colorful Career

Pte. Ed Buckl, 32-year-old Pole of Vancouver, now with the Black Watch battalion guarding a section of the Canadian 25th Brigade's line in Korea, has had a colorful career. A Polish cavalryman, he was captured in 1939 and sent to a Mongolian slave labor camp by the Russians, escaped twice and served with the Polish army corps in the Second World War. He came to Canada after the war and joined the Canadian Army. — (CP from National Defence.)

Too Many Students

KITCHENER (CP) — School boards may have enrolment problems but pity the Kitchener police department.

It's safe-driving school isn't slated to open until April 6 but it has 600 would-be students.

First of its kind in Canada, the school was aimed at traffic violators but scores of "volunteer" pupils have appeared.

Drivers in a score of fleets will be taking the course, including taxi firms and the reserve army.

with our eyes closed," the colonel declared.

The spit and polish came in when the regiment is off operational duty. To foster pride and tidiness is an important necessity. A shave a day is mandatory except for men of the pioneer company who, by tradition, can wear long beard.

The colonel, as authority on military dress and ceremonial, hopes to have a representative pioneer soon attired in the traditional white leather apron and carrying the symbolic ax in parade.

Twice weekly the battalion observes a ceremonial quarter-guard ceremony at which the pipes and drums under Pipe Maj. Duncan Rankine, a Scot from Ottawa, play the traditional and regimental airs.

QUITE COSMOPOLITAN

Like the other battalions in the line, the Black Watch has nearly 100 Korean troops integrated in the various companies for training. They look odd with their Balmorals, but the colonel said it isn't unusual for the old Montreal unit which for years has had a big proportion of French - speaking troops.

"I guess we're about the biggest mixture in the brigade," he added. We have Gaelic-speaking Scots, English, French, Koreans and even a Pole and a Norwegian."

A tour of the battalion showed Sgt. Ken Montagano of Ottawa and Windsor busy keeping a record of the sighted movements of Chinese troops across the demilitarized zone. A company under Capt. Harry Rust of Toronto was drilling in mortars. This company includes Sgt. Sandy Young, a mustached giant from Toronto, who's probably the only NCO in the Canadian Army with a Cambridge degree.

Another company was doing an operational patrol of the border area under Maj. Gordon Donaldson of Calgary. A third company, under Maj. David Dodge of Winnipeg, had finished watching some training films and had gone to work on a fieldcraft exercise. In this company is Cpl. Jack Kirsvasz of Huntsville, Ont., who ran a weekly paper at Burks Falls and Sundridge, Ont., and is just starting one for the battalion.

Capt. Hugh Power, a former Gurkha officer now living at Lancaster, N.B., was drilling the quarter-guard for its duties that day. Sgt. Art Chipman of Port Alberni, B.C., a former prisoner of war in Germany, was making sure of the spit and polish.

POLISH SNIPER

One of the battalions' snipers is back in territory not too unfamiliar to him. Pte. Ed Buckl, 32-year-old Pole from Vancouver, spent two hitches as a Russian war prisoner in Mongolia, which he says is something like Korea.

Buckl was a Polish cavalryman when he was captured by the Russians in 1939. He was packed off to a Mongolian slave-labor camp. He escaped after four months but was recaptured.

He escaped again in 1941 and finally made his way to Iran where he reported to the British for service with the Polish Army Corps.

Buckl accepted the Canadian invitation to take up farm work after the Polish Corps disbanded. After a hitch as a civilian he decided to go back to the army.

"And here I am almost back where I started in 1941," he said.

The biggest kick Buckl gets out of his exploit was the day he sat down in Israel and wrote the Russian camp commandant that he was free and happy.

"He had told me after my first escape that I'd never make it again—I hope he got my letter."

Consumers of Steel Reduce Inventories

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel consumers in the United States are slashing inventories to the bone, confident that when they need steel they can get plenty of it. Iron Age, national metal-working weekly, said Wednesday.

Some consumers who originally planned to reduce steel stocks to a 30- or 60-day supply now are aiming at 30 days' inventory or even less, the magazine said.

American steel-making operations dropped another point this week, down to 68 per cent of the industry's new capacity.

Experts Treat Jap Fishermen For Atom Burns

By FOREST EDWARDS

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese-American team of radiation specialists today began treating 23 Japanese fishermen showered with radioactive debris from history's mightiest man-made explosion in the Marshall islands March 1.

The six doctors from the atom bomb casualty commission at Hiroshima—first city hit by an A-bomb—worked today with four sailors still in serious condition in hospital here.

The Japanese government decided to delay a protest or demands for compensation pending a joint investigation.

Public furore continued at a high pitch. Spokesmen for the fish-industry were quoted by Kyodo news service as saying the industry had been dealt a "near-fatal blow" by discovery that some fish from the radioactive boat had been sold.

TUNA PRICES SKID

Tuna were begging in many markets, and prices continued to skid.

Kyodo said eight other fishing boats arriving in port from central Pacific fishing grounds were found to be slightly radioactive, but none of the fish was contaminated and crew members were uninjured.

The radioactivity presumably was picked up from contaminated sea water.

The 23 men aboard the Fukuryu Maru estimated they were 80 miles from the blast described in Washington as a thermonuclear (hydrogen) explosion. They insisted they were outside the danger zone prescribed by the United States.

Japanese scientists said the sailors were showered by pulverized coral hurled into the air by the blast, described by some experts as at least 600 times more powerful than the explosion which destroyed Hiroshima.

One of Hartley Twins Takes Turn For Worse

PETERSBURG, Ind. (AP)—The weaker of the Hartley twins, born three months ago with two heads and four arms attached to a single torso, took a sudden turn for the worse Wednesday night and the family doctor said the babies might have to be taken to hospital.

The weaker twin, the left one named Daniel Ray, is suffering from a circulatory ailment.

Dr. Joseph W. Elbert, who has been out of his own pocket for oxygen administered to the left twin, said the baby boys would be brought to Indianapolis Riley Hospital today if the ailing half hadn't improved by then.

A circulatory defect to the left twin has left him considerably weaker than Donald Ray, the right twin.

Dr. Elbert began administering oxygen Tuesday to Daniel Ray.

The twins, sons of Mr. and Mrs Cecil Hartley, have been at home several weeks.

Terrorists Wound Three Service Men in Zone

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egyptian terrorists have wounded three more British service men in the Suez canal zone, bringing the total British casualties in the last 36 hours to two dead and five wounded, it was announced Wednesday.

Latest victims were two army signalmen, raked with automatic fire while they were returning to camp in the Fayid area, and an airman attacked by a terrorist armed with a pole while riding a bicycle in the area.

Meanwhile, prospects of a resumption of negotiations between Britain and Egypt on the future of the canal zone base remained confused.

Salah Salem, minister of national guidance, said Egypt is not seeking to resume the deadlocked discussions. An earlier denial was made by the deputy premier, Lt.-Col. Abdul Gamal Nasser.

In London Tuesday the foreign office said that Egyptian authorities had made approaches aimed at getting the Anglo-Egyptian talks resumed.

The conference broke down last October over the terms under which Britain would withdraw from the base.

MISSING BOY FOUND

GALT (CP) — Search by helicopter, river launch and police cars, for Carl Gallant, 7, of Preston ended late Wednesday when he was found outside a Galt house. The boy, who vanished after school Tuesday, said he had spent the night huddled in frigid temperatures outside a Galt factory. He gave no reason for running away.

Beneficiary Will Not Get Interest

TORONTO (CP) — Lt.-Col. Edward Murray Dalziel McNaughton, 32, who changed his family name to Leslie to qualify as a beneficiary under his aunt's will, will not get the interest of about $9,000 which accumulated before a trust fund was set up.

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, asked to interpret the will of the late Ann Gertrude St. John Leslie of Kingston, also ruled that Mrs. Leslie's Cadillac limousine was not included in property willed to the army officer.

Leslie, a son of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Second World War Canadian Army commander and now chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, changed his name last April 27.

Mrs. Leslie, who died May 19, 1952, willed the income on $250,000 and her family home at Kingston to Col. Leslie providing he would perpetuate the Leslie name.

Chief Justice McRuer said interest did not accumulate in Col. Leslie's favor pending fulfilment of the condition. The trust fund was not set up by the trustees until the name was changed.

The chief justice also ruled that accumulated income of any amount left after $10,000 legacies are provided for the Kingston General Hospital and Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, will be divided among remaining residuary beneficiaries.

If there is not sufficient residue, what is left will be divided in equal proportions between the two hospitals, Chief Justice McRuer said.

The main residual beneficiaries are: Mrs. Leslie McNaughton Sykes and Mrs. Christina McNaughton McDougall, both of Rockcliffe Park, Ottawa; Capt. Leslie Addington Colne, Wiltshire, England, and Capt. G. L. Cooper, Sudbury, Suffolk, England.

FAMED CRICKETER

Herbert Sutcliffe, famed Yorkshire cricketer, scored more than 1,000 runs in each of 21 playing seasons.

STOMACH YIELDS PINS

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Letha Dells Overton, charged with mailing poison candy to a group of church workers, was operated on Wednesday night for removal of a large assortment of pins from her stomach. After an operation of 2½ hours, her condition was reported to be "fairly good." A surgeon said he removed four open safety pins, four needles, six straight pins and 45 bobby pins.

Is First Man 'Outside Family' To Become Editor of 'Punch'

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Malcolm Muggeridge, who went to Canada shortly on a speaking tour, is known as the first man from "outside the family" to become editor of Punch, the humor magazine.

Punch, almost a national institution, was founded in 1841 and in 110 years had only seven editors, all of whom grew up with the magazine. Then Muggeridge joined the penny weekly from his newspaper job in Fleet street, bringing with him some of the pace and bustle of the daily press.

He replaced Kenneth Bird Jan. 1, 1953. Soon readers noted changes. Punch lost some of its anonymity, carrying regularly bylined articles by Cyril Connolly, Lord Dunsany, John Betjeman, Elizabeth Bowne, Geoffrey Gorer, John Pudney, Marten Lever, Lionel Hale and William Samson.

MORE PUNCH IN PUNCH

Muggeridge, convinced objectivity in journalism is largely an illusion, put more opinion, and more punch, into Punch. He insisted on stop-press topicality, upsetting time-honored printing schedules. A magazine noted for an almost languid approach to news saw layout changes made at the last minute.

A wounded-fox story has it that the new editor asked a printer recently whether the magazine is funnier now. The printer answered:

"Don't know about the paper, sir—but you've made the printing much funnier."

Muggeridge leaves for Canada by air March 19 to address the annual dinner of the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, organization of privately owned broadcasting stations at Quebec March 22.

In Punch and other publications he has fought for commercial television and against control of TV by the state-owned BBC. His recent acid remarks on the BBC—made on a BBC program—caused some eyebrow-lifting.

FOUGHT STATE CONTROL

Muggeridge carried to Punch the fight against state control after his six years as deputy editor of The Daily Telegraph. On The Daily Telegraph, leader of Britain's anti-Socialist daily press, he worked in an atmosphere where the cause of commercial freedom was paramount.

Typical of his attacks in Punch on commercialized broadcasting is this one, in satirical vein:

"If only, for instance, Shakespeare's works, before being published, had been subjected to the careful scrutiny of someone as cultivated,' as nice in his judgments and as concerned for the public good as Lord Reith, (most famous BBC director-general) we should have been spared those passages of violence, lechery and incoherence which mar otherwise admirable plays; . . . "

Muggeridge, who will celebrate his 51st birthday in Canada—he was born March 24, 1903—is a Cambridge graduate who entered journalism with the Manchester Guardian after a hitch as lecturer in Cairo. He later worked for the Calcutta Statesman, The Evening Standard and The Daily Telegraph.

GIFTED WRITER

He has written novels, a play, a life of Samuel Butler and edited the diaries of Italy's Count Ciano. One book "Winter in Moscow," mordantly records his disenchantment with Russia.

Muggeridge's father was a popular Labor member of Parliament and his wife is a niece of the late Mrs. Beatrice Webb, a Fabian pioneer. The new editor once described himself as "very much excited in socialism" but in later days he has moved to the right.

He is handsome, kindly-looking, with a twinkle which has been called deceptive. He can hit hard in speaking or writing, a habit one whose favorite authors include satirists Jonathan Swift and George Orwell.

Punch was founded July 17, 1841 by Ebenezer Landells and Henry Mayhew. It first achieved international fame with a tragic poem by Thomas Hood, "The Song of the Shirt," about underpaid needlewomen. One of its classic jokes was its advice to persons about to marry—don't.

During his visit to Canada Muggeridge will also make a series of speeches on behalf of the Association of Canadian Clubs, visiting among other cities Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver.

Plan Campaign Against Lampreys

PORT WILLIAM (CP) — Lands and forest department officials in this district are planning a campaign against sea lamprey which kill thousands of lake trout stocks in the Great Lakes annually.

A survey will be made to discover streams in which the lamprey spawn.

Later the department hopes to establish electrical installations or mechanical barriers to keep the lampreys from their favorite spawning streams.

GOVERNMENT

Joseph W. Noseworthy (CCF—York South) said there is evidence that the subsidies are being used to increase the profits of mine owners and stock speculators. Charges had been made that neither the miners nor the mining communities was benefiting.

Mr. Noseworthy also said there is evidence that some companies are using the subsidies to mine low-grade ore, leaving higher grades in the ground. He said he had been told by miners "that some mines at least are selling off high-grade ore."

The act originally was designed to assist marginal producers and enable them to continue operating. However, only one Canadian mine is not accepting assistance today, he said.

NO NEW MINES

The government has no indication that excessive profits are being earned by the mining companies, Mr. Prudham said. The best evidence of this was that six mines were closed last year and none opened. In addition 40 mines had closed since 1948 and 13 of the 27 opened since that year had ceased operations.

Gold mining was a co-operative effort involving the operator and the investor. If there was to be risk capital to launch mining ventures there must be a reasonable opportunity to make profits. There would be no development if risk capital dried up.

The government was confident that no mines had closed high-grade sections in favor of low-grade areas to take advantage of subsidies.

It was not possible to beat the provisions of the act. The government was confident that no company had beaten the act or that any company was trying.

YIELD STEADY

Mr. Prudham said the gold content of ore mined by companies receiving assistance has been fairly steady since 1935. The average recovery per ton of ore mined was .390 ounces.

Mr. Noseworthy said that the Hollinger and McIntyre gold mines in 1952 received $1,390,000 of the $10,350,000 paid in subsidies and that the remaining $9,000,000 was divided among 20 other companies. Mr. Prudham said the two mines received 13 per cent of the subsidies in that year, but produced 19 per cent of the gold eligible for subsidy payments.

In reply to a question by Mr. Noseworthy, Mr. Prudham said the mines cannot receive financial assistance during the period of a strike. If a mine was not producing there was no gold eligible for assistance.

Mr. Prudham turned down a suggestion by Mr. Noseworthy that a committee or royal commission investigate the industry and recommend methods to improve its position in the economy. He said development of natural resources is a provincial responsibility.

Mrs. Ann Shipley (L—Timiskaming) said there is no foundation to any charge that the subsidies are used to increase profits. Many mines were paying more in wages and taxes than they received in subsidies. The wage increases were not due to larger payrolls, since the number of miners had decreased.

Mrs. Shipley said Kirkland Lake Gold Mining Ltd., would have lost $75,817 in net profits before taxes in 1953 if it had reduced its ore grade five per cent.

PROFIT MOTIVE

The only object in gold mining was profit. This was done by keeping the grade of ore high and the costs of production low. One of the main problems of the industry was to find high grade ore for continued operation.

Armand Dumas (L—Villeneuve) said the subsidy assistance has benefited miners and gold mining communities. Increases in wages and salaries by the companies from 1948 to1951 was equivalent to 20.7 per cent of the total assistance paid during the period.

"The total assistance paid to the industry during that period amounted to $41,404,000 while the increase in wages and salaries totalled $41,381,300. During the same period the industry paid $26,-666,000 in federal, provincial and municipal taxes, which alone represents 64.4 per cent of the total assistance received by the gold mines."

In reply to questions by two Progressive Conservatives, Davis Fulton, Kamloops, and Donald Fleming, Toronto Eglinton, Mr. Prudham said he hopes the assistance will be needed for this year only.

BRIGADE WIVES LAND

Sen. McCarthy Does Not Care Whom He Is Making Unhappy By His Red-Hunting Methods

By JOHN CHADWICK

CHICAGO (AP) — Senator McCarthy today challenged critics of his Red-hunting methods, from President Eisenhower down, to name any Communists they have exposed.

The controversial Wisconsin Republican chairman of the Senate investigations sub - committee, cheered on by a St. Patrick's Day dinner gathering Wednesday night, pledged a no-quarter fight to dig out "Communist traitors."

In the face of indirect criticism from Eisenhower and other top leaders of his party, McCarthy bluntly said he didn't give "a tinker's dam" if people in either the Republican or Democratic party, no matter how high or how low, were "unhappy" about his methods.

"This fight is going on as long as I am in the United States Senate," he said, touching off a burst of applause.

Eisenhower, in a press conference Wednesday, deplored the effects of "unwise investigators." He also said recently that in the fight against communism "we are defeating ourselves if . . . we use methods that do not conform to the American sense of justice and fair play."

NO ALTERNATIVE

McCarthy, in the first of four speeches in a quick swing through the mid-west, said there are some who say it is right to dig out Communists "but, oh, we don't like your methods." He said critics of his sub-committee's methods have not, however, suggested any effective alternative.

"When you hear them crying that they don't like the methods," he added, "I suggest that you ask them when and where they ever exposed a Communist by their methods."

McCarthy also carried on his flaming controversy with Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens.

Referring to Stevens, the senator said "I didn't start the fight, but I think maybe I'll have to finish it."

McCarthy also quoted from what he called the "main report" to the national conference of the American Communist party last September, saying it urged Communists to promote fights between him and Eisenhower in the hope of destroying them both.

OFF THE LIST

WESTCLIFF-ON - SEA, England (CP)—Mrs. Ellen Evans, then 86, disappeared from her home in this Essex town in 1937. Now the probate court has ruled her legally dead—at 102.

Mayor Lamport Host to Mayors At Coliseum

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Allan A. Lamport Wednesday played host to a number of mayors, controllers and reeves from a number of cities, towns and villages.

The group toured the exhibit areas of the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show, visited the International Motor Show and the Boat and Marine Show and attended the stage and water revue in the arena.

Among the group were Mrs. Bernadette Smith, Woodstock; A. L. McRae, Welland; F. N. Bauer, Waterloo; Herbert Bonate, Sault Ste. Marie; John Smith, St. Catharines; J. W. Naylor, Oshawa; Merle E. Dickerson, North Bay; Donald Weber, Kitchener; Harry Worton, Guelph; William Autry, Galt; Reginald Cooper, Brantford; Jack Bolin, Belleville, and Ernest Stamp, Kearney.

Floe Ice Forces Sarnia Ferry To Stop Running

SARNIA (CP)—Floe ice which has jammed the south end of Lake Huron for the last week started moving down the St. Clair river Wednesday, forcing the Sarnia-to-Port Huron ferry to stop running.

Movement of the ice, however, is expected to allow navigation to start earlier here.

The Huron Transportation Company cement carrier S. T. Crapo left Detroit Wednesday for Lake Huron but was expected to tie up for the night at one of the river ports if the ice floes became too thick.

Boilers have been fired at most of the Imperial Oil tankers wintering here and one or more are expected to leave Wednesday and Goderich Monday if conditions are favorable.

Navigation lights on the St. Clair river are expected to be installed within the next 10 days.

Large Number Attend Funeral Former Member

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Charles Gordon MacOdrum, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Leeds, was buried here Wednesday after a funeral attended by Premier Frost and other legislature members.

Mr. MacOdrum, a Brockville lawyer elected to the legislature in 1951, was to have headed a committee study of redistribution of Ontario ridings. He died Monday at the age of 46.

The funeral was held in First Presbyterian church, where Mr. MacOdrum's father had been minister for many years.

Included in the Ontario government representatives were L. P. Cecile, George Doucett, W. Collings, C. H. Challies, A. Kelso Roberts, Peter Manley, Rev. John Foote and R. W. Pickle. The funeral was conducted by Mr. Foote, Progressive Conservative member for Durham.

WINS OATS TITLE

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—James T. Brown of Newcastle Wednesday was awarded the championship in oats at the central Ontario spring show. Mr. Brown, show president, won with a laraie entry.

Further Remanded

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Five former Ontario department of highways employees facing charges of fraud and conspiracy will be remanded another two weeks when they appear in magistrate's court here Thursday or Friday, crown attorney W. J. Ibbotson said Wednesday.

The five are facing charges as a result of alleged irregularities discovered at the department's Port William, division, last October.

Mr. Ibbotson said the further postponement is being granted because C. L. Dubin of Toronto, special crown prosecutor in the case, now is busy with another case at Ottawa.

PLAN NEW YORK DEBUT

The event is the two-day stand—April 27 and 28—of Toronto's Mendelssohn Choir, conducted by Sir Ernest MacMillan, with soloists Lois Marshall, Jon Vickers, James Milligan and Margaret Stilwell. ## Naguib Urges Women to Take Proper Course

CAIRO (Reuters) — President Mohammed Naguib Wed., urged Mrs. Doris Shafik and her "Daughters of the Nile" to end their hunger strike for women's votes and "resort to the proper channels."

The president told reporters after a cabinet meeting: "I do not know why they are hunger-striking. Have they submitted an official demand to me and been neglected?"

"If they wish to advertise themselves let them continue their hunger strike, but if they wish to serve the feminist cause let them call off the strike and resort to the proper channels."

WOMEN WEAKER

Doctors attending Mrs. Shafik and her eight supporters said Wednesday sixth day of the demonstration—that they were "considerably weaker." They have been nourished only by fruit juices and water and by injections of glucose.

Mrs. Shafik indicated she will continue to fast despite a threat of police action.

The proprietors of the Cairo Press Club, where the women are staging their demonstration, have stated that unless they get out police will be called to oust them.

"Let them come," commented Mrs. Shafik.

Murder Victim's Movements Are Being Traced

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Hitchhike murder victim Fern Henkell of Woodstock, whose partly-clothed body was found Saturday in a Maidstone township ditch, was seen shortly before midnight Friday by a taxi driver in Hamilton, police said Wednesday.

They said the driver took Miss Henkell from downtown Hamilton to the intersection of highways 2 and 8, just west of Hamilton. The young woman told the cabbie she was hitch-hiking to Windsor.

This latest clue as to the woman's movements fits in well with the coroner's report that death had occurred from 12 to 18 hours before the body was discovered Saturday afternoon.

SEEN IN BLACK CAR

Police have established that Miss Henkell was seen in Tilbury at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and was observed leaving that town in a black automobile. She had announced she was on her way to Windsor to get a trunk she had left there in 1951.

LANDS 251-POUND MARLIN

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (Reuters) Harold Hopkins of California has claimed a world record at the Bay of Islands here for landing a 251-pound striped marlin with a light tackle after a five-hour struggle. Hopkins, whose tackle had a breaking strain of only 18 pounds, travelled 16 miles in his launch while playing the fish.

Centenary

CENTENARY — Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Edmondson were recent Toronto guests of the former's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sills returned home on Wednesday last from a trip to New York.

Mrs. Sanford Hubble, Belleville, was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh MacLeod Thursday, and attended the W.A. and W.M.S. meeting held at the home of Mrs. Harold Hancock.

A sale of much interest to those in the community, took place recently when Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher purchased the home of the late Mrs. Ray and expect to take up residence in the near future.

Centenary lost one of its best known and well-liked citizens recently, when Mrs. Ida Ray moved to Belleville. She will be greatly missed, but it is hoped she will return whenever possible.

CENTENARY W.A., W.M.S.

Mrs. Harold Hancock was hostess for the March meeting of the Centenary W.A. and W.M.S. CM.

The president, Mrs. Hancock, was in charge of the W.M.S. meeting. A quilting will be held March 31 at the home of Mrs. Edgar Ray. Mrs. Fred Alkins and Mrs. H. Hancock were appointed as delegates to the Belleville W.M.S. Presbyterial being held this year on March 24 in Grace United Church, Napanee. An invitation from Ormsteele W.M.S. to join with them in their Easter Thank-Offering meeting April 13 was accepted. Mrs. Reg. Edmondson was in charge of the study book, assisted by Mrs. E. Hart and Mrs. W. Shortt.

W.A.

Mrs. Elwin Hart presided over the W.A., which opened with the theme song followed by the ever popular twenty-third psalm. A pie social to be held in Wilke's church, March 19 was announced. Mrs. Dave Thrasher, Mrs. Stanley May and Mrs. Harold Garrison contributed to the birthday box, and 'Happy Birthday' sung.

Thank you letters were read from Mrs. Lawrence Slingerland, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carleton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell, and the Walter Harder family. Mrs. Byron Harder gave a personal thank you for cards received in the passing of Mrs. Walter Harder.

Mrs. Charles Skinkle was in charge of the devotional. A scripture reading was read by Mrs. Douglas Holton; followed by prayer given by Mrs. Albert Christopher. A most interesting reading, entitled, "Now", was given by Mrs. Fred Alkins, and Mrs. B. Harder gave an Easter reading. Rev. R. W. T. Middleton gave the closing prayer.

Mrs. Ida Ray was then called to the centre of the room and a lovely corsage of spring flowers was pinned to the front of her dress by Mrs. F. Alkins, who also read a letter of farewell to Mrs. Ray, who recently moved to her home in Belleville.

Mrs. Bernard May and Mrs. D. Holton, on behalf of the Centenary W.A. and W.M.S. presented two attractively wrapped gifts to Mrs. Ray, who graciously thanked the ladies for remembering her with the lovely gifts of a while chenille bedspread and automatic coffee pot.

The hostess and helpers served refreshments, and a social time was spent.

Red Cross Aids Those in Need Here or Abroad

When you support the Canadian Red Cross you are providing the financial means for Red Cross to carry on its essential services for you and your neighbor. The work of the Red Cross is community work. Public-spirited men and women give their time, their talent and their energy in the service of their neighbors through the Red Cross.

Millions of Canadians of every walk of life are associated under the symbol of the Red Cross. Workers in more than 1,300 divisions from the Atlantic to the Pacific share the many humanitarian obligations which are a heritage of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Through your Red Cross you are there when help is needed by people beyond the seas. When fires, floods and famines sweep foreign lands, your Red Cross supplies emergency needs for the less fortunate.

Your Red Cross maintains such services as blood transfusion; international relief; outpost hospitals and nursing; veterans services for the Armed Forces; health and casualty services; sick room supply loan cupboards; Canadian Junior Red Cross; hospitals for crippled children; swimming and water safety and the Canadian Red Cross Corps.

This month the Canadian Red Cross is appealing for $5,422,850 in Canada—$2,144,600 must be raised in Ontario. Every penny will be accounted for—every penny will be needed to carry on the work of mercy.

MADOC

Trinity United Jr. Choir Takes Part In Music Festival

MADOC. — On Thursday evening the members of Trinity United Church Junior choir accompanied by some of the parents and friends, their leader, Mrs. B. McCoy and pianist, Mrs. V. Reid ,motored to Peterborough to take part in the Kiwanis Musical Festival. This was the Junior choir's first appearance in competition and was a splendid experience. Their standing was only a matter of six points below the winners. They were compli-mented by the adjudicator for the splendid manner in which their presented the musical number. The boys and girls came home much pleased and are planning on taking part in the festivals to come. Miss Marilyn Devolin was the soloist for the musical number.

SPECIAL W.A. SERVICE

At the Sunday morning service in Trinity United Church, the members of the Woman's Association had charge of the service. The pastor, Rev. C. F. Lane, had charge of the opening devotions and the members carried on from there. Mrs. Albert Empey offered prayer and the order of service was continued with the ladies' choir (W.A. members) singing an anthem, "I Do Not Ask". The story for the boys and girls was given by Mrs. Brintnell and the Junior choir sang "Father At Thy Throne We Bow".

Offering was taken by Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. A. Parks and Mrs. Holmes and dedicated by Miss Annis Holmes. Miss Anne Nickle sang a solo "The Lord is My Light and My Salvation."

The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Percy Bronson and Mrs. R. C. Jackson, president of Madoc W.A., delivered the address, giving a brief resume of the work and aims of the association pointing out that the W.A. was to the church what the mother is to her home and family, and chose as her text the story of Lydia, "the seller of purple and fine linen," as written in Acts 16:14. Mrs. Jackson pointed out that although Lydia was a wealthy woman and had much of this world's goods, she still was a seeker after Christ and became a Christian through the preaching of Paul. She opened her home as a church and received the people into her home, she being one of the first converts in Europe.

Mrs. Jackson gave an interesting and thoughtful story keeping always in mind her theme, "What Can the W.A. Mean to the Church."

The pulpit platform had several potted plants of daffodils and hyacinths kindly given for the service by Mr. and Mrs. Drinkwalter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bristol, of Toronto, visited Miss Luella Bristol, during the week-end. On Sunday accompanied by Miss Bristol and Mr. Eric Bristol, they motored to Brockville to visit their mother, Mrs. Austin Bristol, who is a patient in the General Hospital at Brockville.

Mrs. Sinfield of Bellleville, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. James Burns.

Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Courneyea and Miss Gwen Stockster are in Toronto, attending the Hairdressers' convention being held at the Royal York.

Hastings County Farm Forum

The five formus met Monday night, March 8, to talk about "safety on the farm"; Brookdale (14), at George Burkitt's; Hazards (30), at home of Stan Moorcroft; Foxboro (10), at home of Fred Campbell; Melrose (17 and 5 visitors) at the home of Will McMechan; and River Valley (16) at the home of John Kane.

Some of the reasons why the tractor is the greatest single cause of accidents on the farm:

1 The tractor is the most used machine on the farm and is not always used for what it is meant;
2 Speed is the cause of most tractor accidents;
3 Carelessness;
4 Fatigue from long hours;
5 Passengers;
6 Children driving;
7 Filling with gas while hot or running;
8 Adjusting machine while in motion;
9 Ignorance of power of tractor;
10 Lack of proper training in handling;
11 Driving too close to ditch banks;
12 Poor mechanical condition of tractor.

What can be done about it:

1 Keep tractor and machinery in good condition;
2 Operator properly trained;
3 Proper shields and guards on machinery;
4 Don't use tractor for any job where it can't be used safely;
5 Discussions on dangers at Junior Farmers' meetings;
6 Keep the safety plate clean from dirt and grease, so you can read the safety rules;
7 The driver should use common sense;
8 Stress need for care at all times by means of safety talks and films;
9 Those who drive must be more safety-conscious, don't take any chances;
10 Safety switch wire attached for driver's use;
11 Have brakes working evenly.

Some projects suggested for forums to work on this spring:

1 Study electrical installation and care of electrical equipment;
2 First aid courses;
3 Safety operation of machinery on farm;
4 Keep stove pipes clean and in good repair;
5 Keep medicines out of reach of children;
6 Have fire equipment handy;
7 Sponsor a campaign for safety first;
8 A film on fire protection — safety devices.

River Valley had Mr. B. G. Service of Frankford Rural Operating Area of the H.E.P.C. as guest, showing slides on hydro equipment and its use and answering questions.

Hazzards had their Hydro inspector and a farm machine salesman speak to them. As a result the forum members have asked to have all their farm wiring re-inspected.

The farm forum "Spring Round-Up" for Hastings County will be held in Marsh Hill school on Monday, March 22 at 8.15 p.m.

Our provincial secretary, Mr. Cliff Wallis, will be guest speaker Mrs. Kuglin will report on the County Health Unit. Each forum is to have a report on their year's activities or accomplishments. Bring lunch, sandwiches or cake and also bring someone outside your forum who would be interested, in farm forum work.

TWEED — A special Evangelical rally of United Church laymen from the Tweed district was held at St. John's United Church, Tweed, on Thursday evening, March 11.

The rally was preceded by a banquet, prepared and served by the ladies of the W.A. There were over 100 laymen and a number of ladies in attendance from seven pastoral charges in this district.

Mrs. Grant thanked the ladies of the W.A. for the wonderful banquet they had served.

At 8 o'clock the congregation assembled in the auditorium of the church, where Rev. H. A. Mellow, of Oshawa, was the guest speaker for the evening.

The choir under the leadership of Mr. S. H. Connor, with Fred Porter at the organ, led in the singing of the hymns, and gave two anthems, one by the junior choir, which were greatly enjoyed by all present.

On Wednesday night, March 17, Rev. W. K. Pace, pastor of St. John's United Church, Tweed, will be preaching at the Laymen's rally in Trinity United Church, Napanee. Other rallies are being held through the district.

Slighting Remark Made by Bilow Says Witness

CALGARY (CP)—An army witness at the murder trial of 17-year-old Pte. Walter Clerpiss of Windsor, Ont., said Wednesday that just before a Jan. 5 shooting in a Currie barracks washroom, Pte. Robert Bilow had said he would "put Clerpiss in the hospital for six months."

Clerpiss was charged with murder after Bilow was fatally shot with an army service rifle.

Pte. W. B. Crogie said he was in the washroom when Bilow, 21, from Winchester, Ont., made the remark. He added that Clerpiss was also there, and that it was immediately after that the shooting took place.

Pte. H. W. Howard testified that Bilow was standing with his back to Clerpiss before the shots were fired.

Pte. Edward Unger said he had gone into the washroom to "clean up" when Clerpiss walked in.

"Clerpiss walked in and shot Bilow," he said. "I was looking in the mirror and saw him walk in." He said no words were spoken immediately before the shooting.

Commission's First Public Hearing on 'Loss Leaders'

OTTAWA (CP) — Retail "loss leaders"—sold below cost to pull customers into a store—will be the subject of the first public inquiry by the restrictive trade practices commission.

The commission has had the loss leader question under inquiry in business for more than a year, and Wednesday it announced it will supplement its information with an evidence taken openly.

The commission, which reports to parliament on matters involving alleged breaches of the Combines Investigation Act, said it hopes to open hearings here in early May. Hearings will be held in other cities, not yet designated.

The loss leader practice has been prevalent in Canada for years Most complaints of its opponents it was understood, have involved the grocery, hardware and electrical appliance businesses.

A wide variety of articles is used as loss leaders. A particular one was mentioned in Parliament Wednesday when Justice Minister Garson said, in reply to a question concerning cigarets, that sub-normal prices on them in some stores will be investigated.

The commission, set up in 1952 after a revision of the combines act, is departing from previous practice in holding public hearings. Normally, it receives the findings of T. D. MacDonald, director of investigation and research under the act, and rules on whether the act has been breached.

In this case, the commission said, Mr. MacDonald presented a statement of information after more than a year's study, and it intends to hear representatives of consumers and various segments of trade.

Graham Defends Signed Article In Newspaper

LONDON (Reuters)—Evangelist Billy Graham, packing 12,000 persons nightly into Harringay Arena here with his "crusade" Wednesday night defended a signed newspaper article which has landed him in hot water with the British press.

The article, published this week in a New York newspaper, alleges that drunkenness, sexual immorality, robbery, juvenile delinquency and divorce are all on the increase in Britain. His figures were challenged by British newspapers.

In a statement the evangelist stuck to his allegations. He gave as the source of many of them a leaflet by a London Salvation Army major published in 1950, hitherto unchallenged.

Graham quoted from his original article: "Drunkenness is also becoming a national menace, with thousands of alcoholics, though the Britishers do not drink to the same excess that Americans do."

He gave no figures but quoted at the meeting a government survey of 1952 and claimed that six cities showed that drink influenced crime which rose in Britain from 20,545 cases in 1946 to 31,298 in 1951.

He cited the "gister-general's" statistical review to support his contention that the British divorce rate was rising rapidly.

ENGINEER DIES

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Edward F. McMahon, 80, a past president of the Hoisting Engineers' Association, died Wednesday. He was a former hoist engineer with Ontario Hydro and had worked on many big construction jobs in Canada.

HISTORIC HOME

COCKERMOUTH, England (CP)—The national trust, which has charge of historic sites, is renting a 12-room early Georgian country house in this lake district village at £50 a year. The tenant will be required to show visitors the gardens and parts of the house where the poet William Wordsworth was born in 1770.

RCA Lieutenant Hitches Ride Home on Huron

HALIFAX (CP)—Join the army and see the world—on the navy. At least that's what Lieut. Bill Howe of Sudbury and Simcoe had to do before realizing a boyhood ambition.

Lieut. Howe was aboard the destroyer Huron when she arrived here Wednesday from her second tour of duty in Korea. He served in the navy during the war but never got off the Atlantic.

In 1950 he joined the Royal Canadian Artillery, was sent to Korea and there hitched a ride home on the Huron by way of the Suez canal. He is possibly the first Canadian soldier to circle the globe by hitching a ride with the navy.

How did he like it? The strapping 29-year-old ex-navy lieutenant said: "Fine. Better than I really expected, but it wasn't all fun. The navy put me to work.

"I held a second officer of the watch's post, except when I was playing bridge and I usually was given a duty watch fast, if I won."

Lieut. Howe, the father of two girls, Julia, 8, and Jane, 4, is on his way to Simcoe to see his family for the first time in 15 months.

CRASH VICTIM DIES

HAMILTON (CP)—S. Virgil Hopkins, fruit farmer of Burlington, died in hospital Wednesday, fourth victim of a two-car crash Feb. 28 at the intersection of the Queen Elizabeth Way and the Guelph line. Three other men were killed in the crash which occurred when their car smashed into a tree after colliding with Mr. Hopkins' vehicle.

Destroyer Huron Home After 11 Months' Service

HALIFAX (CP)—The destroyer Huron steamed home from 11 months of Korean service Wednesday and got a rousing welcome from 300 wildly cheering relatives and a harassed navy band jammed onto her dockyard jetty.

The Huron, fifth Canadian warship to circle the globe, is commanded by Cmdr. T. C. Pullen of Oakville. Her second tour of Korean duty was marred by a grounding on a Korean reef and four months in a Japanese dockyard.

Cmdr. Pullen, who took command of the ship last September, had praise for her crew. He commanded the Huron on two cruises in Korean waters following her return to duty in October.

For the crew the arrival home means at least a two-week leave and for some, two months.

Prospectors Start Young

Even the kids in Geraldton, Ont., jump-off point for the mineral rush to Manitouwadge, have the prospecting fever. Since the rush began last November more than 6,000 claims have been staked. Every Saturday school holiday groups such as this hike into the woods to see their fortunes "just like dad." — (CP Photo.)

Millionaire Prospectors

Canada's three newest millionaires, Bill Dewildewich (left), Jack Forster (centre) and Roy Barker, plan their next prospecting adventure and hope it's as good as their discovery of a base metal property now valued at millions of dollars. For one group of claims at Lake Manitouwadge, near Geraldton, Ont., each man received $38,000 cash and 102,000 shares of stock valued at around $10 a share. — (CP Photo.)

Story of Newest Mineral Bonanza Now Being Written

GERALDTON, Ont. (CP) — The story of Canada's newest mineral bonanza is being written in northwestern Ontario today in a thousand square miles of snowshoe tracks.

Looking from the air like some strange form of hieroglyphics, they fan out in every direction from Lake Manitouwadge, 55 miles south west of Hornepayne, a divisional point on the main line of Canadian National Railways. There, in wild and rugged country, some 400 prospectors, geologists, drillers and engineers are chasing a pot of gold at the end of a copper rainbow.

The snowshoe tracks tell a story of privation and sudden wealth, courage and foolishness as intense as anything written since the Klondike. In the past few months three men have become millionaires over night, a score have won tidy nest eggs and hundreds have endured hardship in the hope that they might share fast riches.

In the process they have discovered mineral deposits which mining engineers say may be the biggest base-metal find since Sudbury and Noranda.

THOUSANDS OF CLAIMS

D. J. Cross, mining recorder for Thunder bay district, estimates that more than 6,000 claims have been staked since the rush began last November. One property—Geco, on the site of the original discovery—is regarded as almost certain to reach the production stage. Mining history suggests that other producers will come into being.

Born in a gold rush 20 years ago, Geraldton now finds itself the jumping-off point for a staking stampede. This time the lure is copper, not gold, but the fever is more intense than at the height of the gold-rush days.

The first major strike in Manitouwadge was made by three Geraldton prospectors. Now Geraldton has become a principal base for aircraft service to and from the area.

Some 15 aircraft operate from two sheltered bases on Little Long Lac, shuttling across the 65-mile route to Lake Manitouwadge. Hundreds of men and thousands of tons of equipment have been ferried to the new mining area since the rush began.

LIVE IN TENTS

Other prospectors go by train to Stevens and Caramat from where they can drive into a timber camp over 20 miles of good bush truck road before striking out on snowshoes to seek their fortunes.

Everyone in the field lives under canvas. Many have been on the ground for weeks, with only a tent and a stove between them and temperatures as low as 47 below zero.

Claim staking in the Manitouwadge area is no job for a tenderfoot. Severe temperatures, blizzards and the snow itself try the skill and endurance of the hardiest men and the rugged terrain presents a constant physical hazard. Ravines and ridges run from east to west and must be crossed twice each time a claim is staked.

In theory, a mining claim is staked by driving in four posts, at each corner of a square with sides a quarter mile long. No. 1 post is always on the northeast corner. The prospector then moves in a clock-wise direction, setting up his No. 2 post on the southeast corner, No. 3 on the southwest and No. 4 on the northwest.

In practice, however, the prospectors look for the No. 1 and No. 2 posts of a claim already staked and set up their No. 3 and 4 posts directly alongside, "lying-in" with the claim. Then they pace off the 440 yards north to fix the location for their own posts No. 1 and No. 4.

RAPIDLY COVER AREA

The biggest problem confronting new arrivals is to find open ground for staking. More than 700 prospecting licences have been issued at Port Arthur since Jan. 1 and 6,000 claims staked to date are spread over an area of more than 1,000 square miles.

"The only thing to do is to keep on hiking till you find a stretch of country with no snowshoe prints," one frostbitten old prospector advised. "Then you know it hasn't been staked. So you prowl around until you find somebody else's No. 3 or No. 4 post and then you're set to begin.

Prospectors who staked before the snow came at least know there are surface indications of ore on their properties. There are still long odds against any individual claim eventually becoming a mine. But for the vast majority of prospectors, sheer speculation and the mine-hunter's unquenchable optimism are what keeps them going. Staking claims that lie beneath four feet or more of snow leaves everything to lady luck.

"It's just like playing stud poker, where the house rules say you have to bet on every card and can't look at your hole card," said one man.

When the snow disappears there may be ore underneath or only rock. A few may find the main "break" passes through their claims and realize small fortunes by selling out to development companies for small amounts of cash and large amounts of stock.

FULL RECORDS

VANCOUVER (CP)—History of Vancouver is more complete and better preserved than that of any other Canadian city, according to Maj. J. S. Matthews, head of the civic archives. In an address he noted the archives include 10,000 photographs.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WELL, LOOKIT THIS!

The Two-Gun Petes from Perdueville proved last night they are as much at home in the wide open spaces of the Kingston Community Centre as in the home corral in the Liftlock City. The Jim Ellis crew is definitely uneluxatrophobic, as has been proven in their home games and they are equally at home in arenas where they have to use semaphore flags to signal the bench.

Mr. Michael J. Rodden's now famous statistics to the contrary, it seems the flaming buckaroos from the Kawartha range are not the least bit fussy where they play as long as the herd comes up with the dashing style of hockey that characterized their display against the Oshawa Truckmen last night in Kingston. They not only came from behind to tie the pastime at five-all in overtime, but, observers state, they should have copped the laurel wreath.

In effect it was a moral victory for the Petes for they now stand even-stephen in home and away games. Ergo, there is much nozzin-scratching in the Truckmen's camp this morning. The Blair boys figured this one was in the bag albeit they agreed it would be a close battle. It was a fast exciting battle with the never-say-die Petes coming from behind twice to knot the count. Nearly 2,200 saw the fray and the Petes band-box should be nigh bustin' come Saturday night when the teams resume the senior "B" finals series. They're back in Kingston next Monday.

ALL-EVEN

Brian Meiwhill, who may have a statue of himself erected in Wellington's Memorial Park come spring, again proved himself the hero of the piece in the Dukes battle with the Trenton Flyers here last night. The Dukes won the second game of the best-of-three Trent Valley western section semi-finals to even the count at one-all thanks to the third-period goal-netting wizardry of Maiden Meiwhill. The Duke mighty-mite slam-shot home three of the teams four goals in the final heat while the village squad held the flyboys scoreless to win the game 7-4. The teams play the third and deciding game in Memorial Arena on Friday night.

In the meantime Earle Anderson's Point Anne squad is champing at the bit and rarin' to go in their finals series with the winners of the Wellington-RCAF affair. The Ox Pointers have been spectating lately and will be at full strength when the series gets under way next week. Anderson and Manager Les Bradshaw had the squad going all out under a full head of steam last week-end, and it is going to take a mighty strong team to nudge them for the sectional title. Marmora Millionaires should take the northern section honors as they have a 3-0 game lead over Havelock in their best-of-seven series.

"WHERE IGNORANCE. . . ."

The most-amusing bleat of the season comes from the typewriter of a Detroit hockey "expert" who yaks loud and long in a column about Canada's disappointment in the defeat of the Lyndhursts by Russia in the recent "world series" in Stockholm.

This border character who apparently has seen nothing but National League hockey or a few kids battling a hunk of wood on frozen ponds around Detroit, says "And all that talk about Canada having sent across a fifth-rate team to do battle. The Russians were quick to spot it as a desperation stint by a 'dreamed democracy' in an effort to explain off the defeat to the citizens back in the Dominion."

"Otherwise" he yaks on, "Pavel Korotkov, chief puck carrier for the Kremlin, never would have slickhandled out with the statement about wanting the best available Canadian team to barnstorm in Russia.

"Korotkov (grab your hankies for this one, kiddies) is a wise one and he knows that already he's seen the best Canada can offer."

It might not be a bad idea for somebody to sponsor a tour of the Canadian "slicks" for this writer. It is painfully evident that his hockey education has been sadly neglected especially as far as the Canadian kind is concerned.

Hold your sides for this one, too. Says the American "Mr. Hockey", "last season they liked Canada was no reason for the Soviets to get so grabby. It should be called to their attention that the best team in hockey is in the United States (Strike up Sousa's well-known march at this point, Mr. Conductor) the Detroit Red Wings."

From the recent performances of the "Best team in hockey" it would appear the much maligned Lyndhursts would give them a real battle.

He goes on to say, "The horrified roar which followed the Stockholm deal was louder than if a new atom-spy scandel had been uncovered."

Shades of Senator McCarthy!

That "horrified roar" did not equal by an stretch of imagination the bleats of the American sports press who scrapped the alibi barrel dry when beardless Australian tennis aces taught "the best the United States could produce" the art of playing the net game.

For his information the "horrified roar" did not resound because the Lyndhursts were defeated. True it was a disappointment but the real reason was, as is well-known on his side of the border at least, because we did not send the best amateur representatives the country could muster.

Ho hum, betcha that guy think Lundy's Lane is a cow-path in the Canadian woods.

If he thinks the Russian "experts" from the Kremlin have seen Canada's best, we would suggest he team up with the Popsiclsky and tour the Canadian hinterland. The duo would soon know where plays like Howe, Lindsay, Rebel, Sawchuk and th crest of the "United States" champion Red Wings learned the game.

Spot Habs Goal in 1st Period, Sloan Gets Winner in Third, Lumley Nudges Vezina Trophy

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Every time Harry Lumley kicks out a shot he gets that much closer to $1,000 and hockey's greatest goalkeeping honor.

At the rate he was going Wednesday night, Lumley has a good chance of taking the Vezina trophy, awarded to the National Hockey League's top netminder and something that has eluded Harry in his 11-year career in the big time.

He was sensational as Toronto Maple Leafs took over second place with a 3-1 victory over the tough Montreal Canadiens. Harry turned back 22 Canadien shots.

That left Lumley two goals ahead of Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings, winner of the Vezina for the last two years and favored to take it again this season until Lumley caught fire.

Harry has been scored on 120 times in 68 games. He has two games to go and unless the Leaf defence falls apart he should have little to worry about. Sawchuk, on the other hand, has three games to go.

The race might go right down to the wire. The Leafs and Red Wings meet in Detroit Sunday in their final game of the 70-game schedule.

Lumley didn't have too much work Wednesday night. A Maple Leaf Garden crowd of 14,572, largest of the season in Toronto, saw Canadiens open the scoring early in the first period and then fall under the Leaf attacks.

GOALIE PULLED

Leafs tied it 1-1 before the first period was over and added single goals in the second and third periods. The last counter was tossed into an empty net by Rudy Migay as Canadiens tried to tie it up.

Eric Nesterenko and Tod Sloan scored the other Leaf goals. Bernie Geoffrion tallied for Montreal.

Goalkeeper Jacques Plante handled 21 Leaf drives, 10 of them in the third period.

The Leafs' two points lifted them over Montreal into the second-place spot.

Only one game is scheduled for tonight. The Bruins meet the Red Wings in Detroit.

Jim McKenzie Still Second

TORONTO (CP)—Helen Clarke, Toronto East, rolled 1,218 to win Wednesday's five - game scratch event at the Ontario bowling championships at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show.

Millie McCabe, Toronto West, was second with 1,205 and Bea Ross, Peterborough, third, 1,128.

Irene Atkinson, northern Ontario regional champion who held the lead in the ladies' singles division Monday, and Ruth Grant, Windsor, were eliminated in Wednesday's play.

In the men's singles division, Bill Hoult, Toronto East, continued to lead with a piled up a score of 1,373. Jim McKenzie, Belleville, is second with 1,318.

Four Bookies, Gamblers Go To Jail For Cunning Horse-Switch Bet Plot

By RANALD MacLURKIN

LONDON (Reuters)—Four men were sentenced to prison Wednesday for a horse-switch betting plot fit for the pen of the late Damon Runyon.

For five weeks, race track figures crowded the sombre Old Bailey courtroom to give their version of just what happened in a race at the Bath track last summer.

The judge took three days to sum up the evidence and an unknown but fleet horse being switched at the last moment for a slow nag. One man was acquitted and the other defendants were sentenced to terms ranging from nine months to three years.

Convicted were:

Harry Kateley, 42-year-old London bookie, named the ringleader of the most sensational racing coup of the century. He was sentenced to three years.

Burly William Maurice Williams, 47, a professional gambler, and Conrad Charles, 46-year-old Welsh bookie, who were both jailed for two years.

Victor Dill, 56, retired army colonel. He was sentenced to nine months.

William Rook, 57-year-old mechanical engineer, was found innocent.

Williams and Charles—the wealthiest of the convicted quartet—were also ordered to pay between £4,500 and £5,000 towards the cost of their own prosecution.

All five had pleaded not guilty to conspiring to cheat the Bath Three Course Corporation in western England by running a swift horse named Santa Amaro for a plodder named Francasal.

So ended the turf scandal which began one day last July when a horse, supposed to be Francasal, an unimpressive French nag, flashed past the winning post. Railbirds were surprised by the win because Francasal was never known for speed. Their suspicions were further aroused when race course police found that the phone cable linking the course with outside bookies had been deliberately cut just before the race.

The wire-cutting job kept the odds on Francasal high. Otherwise bookies would have reduced them, for Kateley, Williams and company had backed the horse heavily.

The conspirators had hoped to win about £60,000—but they never collected. Payment was suspended and Scotland Yard detectives were called in.

Russ Want Britain's Famous Gunners For Home-And-Home Football Series

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Among the pile of invitations received by the Montreal football clubs is one for a visit to Russia next August. Indications are that the Russian bid will be given priority.

The Russians have asked the English Football Association to send Arsenal for a home-and-home series, although the Gunners, the glamor boys of international soccer, are considering more than half a dozen requests from other places including North America.

The FA are anxious to meet the Russian "new look" in international sport at least in one way. It has said it is delighted at the proposition.

CLUB HAS PROBLEMS

Following custom, Arsenal authorities are reserving decision on their tour offers until the present season is more advanced.

One reservation might be the showing of the club this year. By Arsenal standards, based on seven league championships and a chronic tendency to be around when the Football Association Cup competition ends, this season has been a thin one.

The team got off to a bad start and now is down in the table, although it is well out of relegation danger. Another factor might be the clash between the Russian and English soccer seasons.

Here, soccer is played through the winter. In Russia it goes on during the summer, and a visit in August would tend to pit a shaky team against one in peak form.

On such state visits, however, the game still tends to be the thing. And Arsenal, the most sought-after club in English soccer on these occasions, has a wealth of tradition and team spirit to uphold.

RUSSIANS WON LAST TIME

The last England-Russian soccer meeting occurred in 1945 when East-West relations still glowed with wartime warmth. The Moscow Dynamos appeared in Britain, and beat Arsenal 4-3. They trounced Cardiff 10-1.

Chelsea, the first division club which probably will play in Montreal and Toronto this year during a Canada-United States tour, held the Russians 3-3.

Regarded as European soccer teams who have visited Russia recently indicate that any English team can expect a better time off the field than on. Hospitality is lavish, say Italian and Austrian clubs.

Austria sent its crack team recently. The Russians provided travelling and accommodation expenses. Players were given more pocket money than they could spend.

The Austrians lost 4-0 against Spartak, the Russian team of the moment, but beat the Dynamos 2-1. More than 180,000 persons watched the two games in Moscow.

Chicoutimi Has 4-Point Lead Over Royals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicoutimi Saguenens played to a 4-4 overtime draw with third-place Ottawa Senators in the Quebec Hockey League Wednesday.

The league leading Saguenens now boast a four-point margin over second-place Montreal Royals.

Valleyfield Braves moved into fifth place by one point by defeating Sherbrooke Saints 3-1.

In Quebec, tail-end Springfield Indians beat the Aces 7-5.

Bucky Buchanan, Lou Sneke, Norm Dussault and Jimmy Moore scored fifty Chicoutimi; Dusty Blair and veteran Al Kuntz tallied two goals each for Ottawa.

Jean-Paul Bisaillon scored the hat trick for Valleyfield, with veteran Ritoute Jeannette and Bruce Cline adding two more. Bert Gigeroff scored Sherbrooke's lone goal.

Springfield's Ed Leier tallied three times for the Indians, with Hugh Currie, Delphis Franche, Jerry Horvath and John Jobenic accounting for the remaining Springfield goals.

Roy Kelly tallied twice for the Aces, with singles by Larry Regan, Jean-Guy Talbot and Michel Labadie.

Ed Leier, their hold on fourth place far from firm, play their final scheduled game at Ottawa Saturday.

Spectator Will Be Able To See 61 Per Cent of Games

By DON MATHESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The "want-to-see-everything" spectator will be able to watch 61 per cent of the action at the July 30-Aug. 7 Empire Games here. With energy, ambition, money and fast footwork, that is.

The other 39 per cent is scheduled while he's watching something else.

The 61 per cent includes track and field events, swimming, cycling, boxing, wrestling, weight-lifting, rowing, fencing and lawn bowling. The spectator can see every event during the eight-day sports spectacle, but not all of every event.

Let's put it another way. Of 36 periods of athletic endeavor for which tickets will be sold, the ambitious track-and-field spectator can watch 18 throughout, and most of the shorter-events for 20, which works out to 61 per cent.

SCHEDULE AVAILABLE

The information comes from the calendar of events attached to a ticket application form now out. The heavy, although fairly detailed, may be changed, depending on the number of entries, not certain by 31 July. The games federation sports committees must also approve.

Opening ceremonies Friday, July 30, at 1 p.m., officially get the show rolling. But the bowlers are scheduled to beat the gun—they start at 9:30 a.m.—and the track will get again at 2 p.m.

Track and field events are held in the 35,000 - capacity Empire Games Stadium Saturday, July 31, Monday, Aug. 2 and Thursday, Aug. 5 at 3 p.m. and Saturday, Aug. 7 and 8 at 2:30 p.m. Boxing then precedes the final track and field program, with closing ceremonies following.

Daily, starting Saturday, July 31, for only the first Friday, Aug. 6, swimming holds the spotlight at the Crystal Pool at 2:30 p.m. for 11 miles across town from the stadium.

So the ambitious spectator will probably watch track and field events Saturday, July 31, and Aug. 7, and swimming Aug. 2, Aug. 3 and Aug. 6—which pretty well takes care of the afternoons.

48 MILES AWAY

If he's a rowing fan, he'll want to make the trip to Lake Buntzen canal in the Fraser valley, 48 miles east of here on Saturday, Sunday, Aug. 3 and Aug. 4, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. If he does this, he will miss the cycling on Aug. 3 and one swimming session.

Boxing is more a bit more complicated. Weight-lifting continues Aug. 2-Aug. 4 at 11 a.m. Boxing at 8 p.m. Both will be held in the exhibition grounds, near the stadium.

Fine, but cycling runs Aug. 2, Aug. 3 and Aug. 4 from 9 a.m. at the new track three miles south of the stadium, with wrestling about the same time Aug. 3, Aug. 4 and Aug. 5.

The best bet here looks like wrestling July 31, cycling Aug. 2, weight-lifting Aug. 3 and boxing finals Aug. 5 and boxing finals Aug. 6.

Fencing and lawn bowls will have to come in the mornings. Bowling is scheduled daily at 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. and fencing at 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. July 31-Aug. 6.

Or course, there's no charge for the 100-kilometre cycle road race through city streets Aug. 7, starting at 9 a.m.

Cost? Standing in the stadium, general admission to three events, and the least expensive seats everywhere else, the week will cost the eager spectator $22.50 plus travelling expenses. The same week costs a top of $55.50 in the reserved seats.

Bobo Collects 40 Per Cent Gavilan Take

CHICAGO (AP) — Middleweight champion Bobo Olson will get a 40-per-cent cut of a gate that may top $300,000 when he defends his title against welterweight king Kid Gavilan, in Chicago Stadium April 2.

Olson and Gavilan today were to sign a formal contract for the 15-round bout.

Olson also will receive 40 per cent of the expected $100,000 television deal. The Chicago arca, stretching as far as Milwaukee, will be blacked out. The fight otherwise will be televised nationally to home viewers.

Gavilan's share of the gate and TV proceeds will be 20 per cent. Gavilan said he will return to New York today to continue training, returning to Chicago March 25. Olson was to open daily sparring drills at Chicago's Rainbow Arena.

Wellington-Flyers Series All Even Dukes Score 4 in Third to Win 7-4

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Behind 4-3 going into the third period, the Wellington Dukes, inspired by terrific goal keeping by Letman and their 3-3 record high-scoring line of Mulvihill, Carey and Scott, rapped home four unanswered goals to skate off with a 7-4 win over the Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers.

The Dukes now hold the P.V.L. southern division, semi-finals at one game each. The deciding game to be played here Friday night.

Brian Mulvihill was the triggerman on three of the Dukes-third period goals with the first coming from a here-set after the Dukes had 1.21 to knot the count at 4-4.

Ray Carey took Mulvihill's assists less than two minutes later to drive it by DuPaul and then the Flyers took command. They outshot the play into the Wellington end and held it there for two and three minutes at a time, blasting pucks at Letman. He turned aside everything that had will in it by the 10.04 mark with Rochon and Bowman beating Letman.

Doug Bone put Wellington to front again with two seconds left in the period, Scott and Mowat getting assists and the stanza ended with a 3-2 score for the winners.

Penalties were costly for the Dukes in the middle period and it looked like Monday night when the Flyers scored twice with a man edge to win.

Parnell made it 3-3 with Scott off for hooking at the 8.16 mark and then Stewart dented the twine behind Letman on a screen shot from close in at 12.51 with Bone off for slashing. Wellington was given four penalties in this period, three of them coming in quick succession while the Flyers had two.

Mulvihill was the top point getter for the night with three goals and two assists while Scott had three helpers. Bone claimed a pair of goals. Parnell was the only two-point man for the Flyers with one and one but Rochon, Cowick, Bowman, Racicot and DuPaul all played well.

Two penalties were handed out with Wellington drawing seven of them as the 518 spectators were treated to a typical play-off game.

The teams:

R.C.A.F. — DuPaul, Boucher, Vezina, Beach, Bowman, Rochon, Stewart, Cowick, Parnell, Racicot, Gingras, Adams, Maggio, Tardiff.

Wellington — Letman, Hurst, Yourk, Scott, Bryant, Garrison, Cousins, Mowat, Hatton, Mulvihill, Carey, Pettingill, Bone, Greer, Graham, Parke.

Sport in Brief

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australia will be undermining the British Empire Games if it does not send a larger team to Vancouver in July, William T. J. Uren, general manager of the Australian 1938 Olympic Games, says.

Uren, also a member of the organizing committee for the 1956 games in Melbourne, said:

"We are the champion nation of the British Empire. At Helsinki in 1952 Australia won 24 gold medals while the rest of the Empire won six between them. Australia will send a team for the Olympics in 1956, and unless it is prepared to spend more on a larger team than to Vancouver it cannot expect other nations to send large teams to Australia.

"We are proposing to send a team of 38. We have to do a lot better than that if the games are to be a success."

Plans are already being made in Australia to raise money to enable the team to meet the cost of three athlete from Australia is estimated at $181,000.

LONDON (AP)—Irish Lizard and Coneybarrow remained the 9-1 co-favorites Wednesday night at 5 o'clock in the Grand National Steeplechase to be raced at Aintree Friday.

The odds were quoted by bookmakers at the Victoria Club for Britain's classic, the course with the 30 jumps. Ranking just behind the favorites was Royal Tan at 10-0, with Churchtown at 100-8 and Tudor Line, 20-1.

Other odds included Mont Tremblant, 100-6; Ordnance and Dominick's Fort, 33-1; Gentle Guys, 28-1; Queen's Taste, Saperion and Wyndburgh, 40-1; Sir Ivanhoe and Southern Coup, 40-1. Odds on other horses in the field of 35 were not quoted.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union have announced the signing of three more Canadian players, one a newcomer, from Queen's University.

Defensive end Tom Harpley, 25, former Toronto Argonaut and tackle Don Mazur, 21, both signed for their second season.

Halfback (Slug) Paulson, 21-year-old 210-pound tackle or guard last year with the Weston Wildcats of the Manitoba-Saskatchewan Junior League, also signed with the Bombers.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Only an earthquake can do financial damage to the 1954 British Empire Games here July 30-Aug. 7.

Executive members decided Wednesday to insure from loss an estimated $400,000 in gate receipts. Loss of revenue from such hazards as fire, windstorms and theft, will be insured.

But they turned down earthquake insurance without a tremor. Possibilities of a quake severe enough to cause loss at the game were deemed remote.

Johnson Wins Split Verdict Over Andrews

CHICAGO (AP)—Harold Johnson No. 1 light-heavyweight contender, bounced up from a first-round knockdown to gain a split 10-round decision over ninth-ranked Paul Andrews at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

Johnson, aiming for a summer shot at Archie Moore's 175-pound crown, had to lean on the pressure with right-hand blasts to gain his 12th straight victory and his 40th victory against five defeats.

Referee Frank Gilmer voted for Johnson 94-90 and judge John Bray called it for Philadelphia's Harold 95-88, while judge Franklin McAdams saw it a 93-93 draw.

Johnson weighed 176 and Andrews, making his first 10-round start, 179.

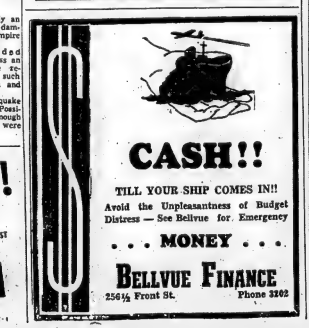
Second-place Hershey held on to a one point lead over third-place Cleveland Barons. The Bears beat Syracuse Warriors 6-3 in Hershey.

In Pittsburgh, the Barons shut out the Hornets 3-0, moving five points ahead of the fourth-place Hornets.



Gerry Couture's goal less than three minutes before the end gave Providence their win over Buffalo. Ken Davies and Zeilo Toppazzini tallied twice each for the Reds. Don Marshall scored two goals for Buffalo, Harry Taylor and Ken Hayden getting the others.

In Hershey, Dune Fisher scored three times for the Bears. Other Hershey marksmen were Skip Teal, Murray Costello and Norm Corcoran. The Warriors' goals, all by a last-period rally, were by Hartley McLeod, Mike Nardussi and Eric Pogue.

Referee Reigle had one goal for the Barons and Jackie Gordon tallied twice against Hornets.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Edmund Purdom used to be somewhat concerned about being typed as the man who mouths Mario Lanza's songs. It turns out he needn't have worried.

Purdom is the hottest young actor in Hollywood today. His schedule for 1954 contains the most diverse roles imaginable.

The English lad felt heir to "The Student Prince" when Lanza took a powder, leaving behind his song recordings for Purdom to deliver. Next, Ed profited from another walkout, being loaned by MGM to 20th Century-Fox for the role vacated by Marlon Brando in "The Egyptian." Brando left nothing behind, so Purdom's interpretation of the role is strictly his own.

As soon as he finishes that, tosses off his desert costume for the tweeds o' a proper Bostonian lawyer in "Athena." After that he expects to do "A Real Swashbuckler" called "The King's Thief," and is scheduled to appear opposite Ava Gardner in a biblical drama, "The Prodigal."

CANDID ABOUT SUCCESS

It's hard to describe Purdom. He is sort of a combination of James Mason and Errol Flynn with a touch of Brando. He says pretty much what he pleases and can come up with some remarkable remarks. He views his present success with candor.

"I have instructed my agent to try and get me a raise now. If I wait until these five pictures come out, the public may get sore at me and I'd get no raise whatsoever."

When he did a bit on the Fox lot in "Titanic" before he was signed as Principal, his salary was $300 a week. Now Fox is reported to be paying him $100,000 for his services in "The Egyptian."

Gene Tierney is again working in Hollywood after a two-year absence, during which she made pictures in Europe and romanced with Aly Khan.

The actress is still cagey about her relations with Aly. She admits that marriage has been discussed, but concerning whether they will wed, she replies: "Relations are as good as mine—and I mean that."

I found her a symphony in green for her role in "The Egyptian"—even green nail polish and green fingernail polish. Those Egyptians were pretty gay characters.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Ribbiter

Hidden in the hearts of deals are tricks you seldom see. Even with all your hands in sight there will be extra tricks that are not easy to pick out. So is it in the tournament deal shown here:

NORTH
♠A J 10 7
♥A 8
♦J 4 3 2
♣A Q 5

WEST
♠Q 7 5
♦10 9 8 6
♣K 7 10 8

EAST
♠8 4 2
♥J 5 4 3 2
♦Q
♣9 6 3

SOUTH
♠K 6
♥K Q 10 7 6
♦A K 5
♣C 4 2

Several south players were shoved into a small slam contract of six hearts. This was made with reasonable care when finesses in both black suits were successful and south shuffle were had.

This much can be seen with a little study. But what is not so apparent is how south took 13 tricks with hearts as trump. It seems even more difficult when east is found with five trumps.

Opening lead from west was the ten of diamonds. At the table where 13 tricks were taken, the jack did not cover. Instead, dummy ducked the first trick and led to the queen on the second trick.

East played the queen. With dummy's ace in sight, east's play of the queen on the west ten warned south that the east diamond was a singleton. He took particular notice of this.

From this it was suspected that east had numerous trumps. So, a trump went to dummy's ace. The return eight spot of trump was taken with south's ten when east ducked. This told the dummy story.

South led the club deuce which was finessed by the queen and things began to look up when it held. A small spade from dummy went to south's king. The return spade was won with the successful dummy ten finesse.

The spade ace was cashed and west's queen dropped. On this trick was thrown the small south diamond. Then the spade jack was cashed and this was fired the south to prevent a loss in that suit.

Dummy now held the jack with two more diamonds and the club ace with one small. That left the south ace with one more trumps and two clubs. South had three trumps and two clubs. West had two clubs and three diamonds.

The lead is still in dummy. Play to lose no tricks.

Wife Gets Mitt For Christmas Gift Helps Pitcher Hubby Get Arm Ready

by GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Deo Harshman thinks she might be the only woman ever to have been given a big league catcher's mitt by her husband as a Christmas present.

The gesture was not entirely a sentimental one on the part of her husband, Jack Harshman, who is being counted upon to bolster the Chicago White Sox pitching staff this season. Jack needed a receiver to help him keep his arm limbered up in the back yard during the winter, Mrs. Harshman just happened to be handy.

She is not the type one would pick out in a crowd as a catcher, being slender and blond and extremely pretty, but this apparently is no great handicap. She gained her proficiency, by starting young and having a number of brothers.

"Don't misunderstand," she cautioned. "Jack doesn't throw with all his speed or is no any breaking stuff. He just limbers up. He forgets now and then, though, and cuts one loose on me. One of them knocked me flat on my back and I told him any more of that and he'd have to find himself another catcher."

TRYING TO CATCH UP

Harshman has been pitching seriously only the last couple of years after a not-too-brilliant career as a first baseman, and feels he has a lot of catching up to do in a hurry.

"We'd keep going to the giants camp every spring and they'd keep sending us down," Mrs. Harshman recalls. "We could see we weren't getting anywhere at first. Jack had been watching the pitchers and he could throw hard, so we thought why not give it a try."

The Giants had something like $100,000 invested in Harshman during the five years he knocked around their farm system as a first baseman and a pitcher. After last season, when he burned up the Southern Association with a 23-7 record at Nashville, they let him go to the White Sox for cash and players estimated at another $100,000.

HIS 8 GREATEST!
This is the only album of music from the new film performed by Miller and his band. And what a fine parade of old favourites it includes:
American Patrol, In the Mood, Tuxedo Junction, Pennsylvania 6-5000, String of Pearls, Little Brown Jug, Moonlight Serenade and St. Louis Blues.
These are the songs that will bring back memories of the eventful '40s. These are songs from the days when the big band was "king" — and the Miller theme set all Young America swaying in tempo.
You heard them on the radio, you danced to them, you collected the records. Now they're on the way back — more popular than ever. No matter how many Glenn Miller records you already have, you'll want to add this compact hi collection.

AT THE BELLE — Deborah Kerr departs from the straight dramatic roles of such hits as "The Prisoner of Zenda," and "Quo Vadis" to play a glamorous modern girl in "Dream Wife," the new romantic comedy with Carey Grant and Walter Pidgeon now playing at the Belle Theatre. Glenn Ford and the glamorous Ann Vernon form a new screen team in the exciting drama "Terror on a Train," which is the companion feature today, Friday and Saturday.

This is one of the many exciting sequences from the adventure film in color, "Shark River," which will open tonight at the Capitol Theatre through United Artists release for its first Belleville showing. On the same program MGM's biggest western "Ambush," stars Robert Taylor, John Hodiak and Arlene Dahl. See both hits on our giant wide vision curved screen.

AT THE McCARTHY — Tough guy Humphrey Bogart is his usual terse self as an adventurer in "Beat the Devil," the John Huston film now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre through United Artists release. Starred with him are Jennifer Jones, Gina Lollobrigida and Robert Morley.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 19, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Friendly rays for you who will seek and work for what you want. However do not make useless drastic changes or hasty decisions, especially in work, investments, home.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — In all occupational effort — especially you who are on your own—go slowly but surely today. Writers, advertisers, promoters of worthwhile projects among favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — This is not a day in which to expect that you will easily achieve or be pushed toward success. Work, study and plenty of patience will be essential. But you can advance some.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your affairs will require good management and economy now—not to a point of worry, however. Just be sensible. You might check on health, especially diet. Moderation is the word all around.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — An opportune time to develop new ideas, scan future possibilities for business, to analyze your drawbacks and capabilities. Plan to use only the best.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Your chances of succeeding today are greatly increased by favorable rays from Mercury. But you must be practical. Profit by past experiences.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Along the line today don't miss the big point: friendly relations with associates, customers, clients, patients. Kindly understanding always pays well.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Today's aspects suggest clear, calmer judgment, closer attention to necessary details, and patience in all you do. No last-minute rushes, please! Maintain a steady pace.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Similar tendencies to Scorpio now. Be economize where you can, but don't stint on essentials. Good work consciously done will bring lasting benefits.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—You cannot afford to be indifferent to sound advice. Often our tasks are made easier when we listen to the voice of experience. You can make this day a profitable one.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Your planet Uranus one of the few favorably situated, so the unusual (if workable) could prove advantageous. New ideas, use of new medicines and methods, etc. could be profitable.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Innately you are ingenious, imaginative, clever. Today invites the use of these gifts to better the quality of your efforts, talents, activities.

YOU BORN TODAY possess charming qualities and, if living true to your Sign, can succeed in a profession, as a trade, a religious calling, in science. In whatever occupation for which you have a liking strive for study your education fits you. You may have to urge yourself forward, so that others may know your possibilities and talents. Study, keep improving, associate with intelligent cheery, honorable people, and always pray when confused or wrongly tempted. You can advance in new businesses, often work harder and better after middle age. Birthdate: Wm. Jennings Bryan, famous Amer. statesman, orator.

House Library In Ottawa Catches Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament's old library wing caught fire a second time in as many years Wednesday. But unlike the 1952 blaze this one caused only minor damage.

Firemen blamed an electrical short circuit for the fire in the copper-sheathed dome of the stone wing which still is being reconstructed inside from the August, 1952, fire. A similar reason was given for the $1,000,000 blaze two years ago.

The flames were extinguished with portable fire extinguishers before they did any damage in the lath and woodwork about 40 feet above the library floor. Firemen said if it hadn't been caught quickly flames could have swept through the exposed lathwork.

MEMBERS UNAWARE

Both the Commons and Senate were sitting at the time but apparently neither was aware of the blaze. Two fire trucks arrived and a small army of firemen climbed the wing. Occupants of offices on the north side of the centre block were ordered from their rooms.

The library wing is the only part of the centre block of buildings saved of the worst of three fires on Parliament Hill—that in 1917 which left in shape only the Gothic style it overlooks the Ottawa river.

The two most recent fires both started in the copper sheathing of the dome. However, Wednesday's blaz was about 20 feet below where fire broke out in 1952.

Queen Leaves Queensland For Adelaide

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Some 70,000 people lined the dockside route from the city to Brisbane airfield today to bid farewell to Queen Elizabeth and Duke of Edinburgh after their nine-day visit to Australia's second state.

The royal pair took off in their Constellation from the airfield for their longest flight of the Australian tour—more than 1,000 miles to Adelaide in South Australia.

They are stopping at Broken Hill, the Australian "silver city," on the way, to meet some of Australia's top industrialists and see for themselves the huge zinc corporation mines.

France Hopes U.S. to Help Buy Indo-China Peace

By PRESTON GROVER
PARIS (AP)—Despite the stern words coming from Washington, France hopes and expects that at the Geneva conference next month the United States will help buy Chinese Communist support to end the Indo-Chinese war.
If that U.S. help isn't forthcoming, some French officials say, the result might well be a new French government that would turn its back on U.S. plans for defending Europe, particularly the proposed European Army.
The French know they have nothing to offer that China wants seriously. French recognition of Peiping wouldn't ripple a Communist hair. What China will want France expects, is some indication that it will justify Peiping's joining in a five-power pact to bring peace in Indo-China.
Just say some form of the war won't do. In French eyes, a deal must be worked out with a firm Communist France to stay in Indo-China long enough to assure that the French-sponsored governments of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia won't collapse, can be taken over by the Communists.

GENEVA PROBLEM

French government officials know this will pose a problem at Geneva.
Any concessions made by the U.S. to China would have to be balanced by a Chinese concession to the West, the French say. What concession can be made to China that will run the west? Certain French officials frankly believe it would be necessary for the U.S. to recognize Red China. They believe also, however, that China can be bought with trade.

Northland Train Is Derailed

KENNEY, Ont. (CP) — Twenty-four cars of a northbound Ontario Northland Railway freight train were derailed near this railway community 40 miles north of North Bay Wednesday night.
An official of the railway, owned by the Ontario government, said no injuries were reported. Cause of the derailment of the diesel-hauled train was not known.
An ONR official said it will be about 3 p.m. today before the line is cleared. Scheduled trains of several freight and passenger trains will be cancelled, he added.
The freight was carrying general merchandise. The line runs from North Bay to Cochrane.

Bersimis River Power Project Will Take 7 Years to Complete

By BERTRAND THIBAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LABRIEVILLE, Que. (CP)—The whirr of electric food mixers blends with the distant crunch of explosives from the mountains.

Red letters scrawled on a sign decorated with mooses antlers proclaim the town of Labrieville, capital of the $225,000,000 Bersimis river power project. The project, to be finished seven years from now, harnesses one of the most important of the rivers flowing into the St. Lawrence from the north-eastern Quebec highlands.

This town 250 miles north of Quebec City is the administrative centre for the 4,000 workers on the widespread project. A few miles away dynamite crews blast through rock to dig an eight-mile tunnel that will carry water to generators sprouting 1,300,000 horsepower.

BUILT FOR WORKERS

Named after Msgr. N.-A. Labrie, Roman Catholic bishop of the gulf of St. Lawrence, and peopled now by a temporary population, Labrieville was built to house the workers who will man the power station when the Bersimis plan is finished.

The 2,000 inhabitants of the town, most of them workers, live in dormitories, eat in two huge cafeterias. Two thousand other workers at nearby camps have similar arrangements.

Scattered about the town are a church and presbytery, a hospital, a school for 50 pupils, Quebec hydro-electric commission administration buildings, a bank, tavern and three-cell jail, as well as private homes.

Menus for all camps are prepared a week in advance. Food is kept in cold-storage warehouses here.

HUGE FOOD SUPPLIES

One day's grocery list would stagger the average housewife. It includes 5,000 pounds of meat, 2,200 loaves of bread, 1,100 pies, 130 cakes, 600 dozen eggs, 500 pounds of butter, 25 bags of potatoes, hundreds of cans of condensed milk.

Trucks make daily deliveries to the outlying cafeterias where main dishes are cooked. Bread and pastries are baked in Labrieville.

A French - language menu is posted daily in each cafeteria. For $10.50 a week a worker gets lodging and all the food he can eat.

The tavern is open for two hours in the afternoon so two in the evening. "Beer costs 25 cents an imperial," workers queue up for two-bottles of beer each. They can have more but must go back to the end to be served.

At night, Labrieville's population is swelled by hundreds of workers from the other camps. There are hockey games between the camps, movies, amateur shows and wrestling.

BIG PAYROLL

On fortnightly pay-days as much as $1,000,000 in wages is deposited in the bank. Each worker's payless board and laundry, is put into his personal account and he gets a statement of his net earnings. He may withdraw any amount. The bank also pays any allotments he may make to his family. A bank employee makes a weekly tour of the outlying camps.

Minimum wage at the project is $45 a week, or 90 cents an hour for unskilled labor. Carpenters and truck drivers earn about $1.20 an hour, and miners between $1.15 and $1.50.

The 12-bed hospital, staffed by two doctors and four nurses, has modern x-ray and operating rooms. There are first-aid units in each camp.

Besides the nurses, 60 other women work in the camps, mostly in offices and cafeterias. They live in a special camp supervised by Mrs. Georgia Hamel of Quebec City.

A 15-page stencilled French-language newspaper with camp news in English, Trait d'Union (literally The Hyphen), is printed monthly. It carries local news, editorials, a sports column, comic strip and a crossword puzzle.

Rev. Cr. E. Robitaille, parish priest who writes a religious column for the newspaper, makes it a point to eat every day with the workers in one of the cafeterias. Another priest, Rev. P. Gagne, has charge at Robertsonville, a smaller camp nearby.

Father Gagne celebrates mass in the cafeteria at Robertsonville because like all the outlying camps it will be dismantled once the project is finished. Only Labrieville has a permanent church.

Church Board Wants Red China Recognized

TORONTO (CP) — The United Church board of evangelism and social service has reaffirmed its belief Canada should recognize Communist China if and when China accepts the conditions of the United Nations charter. It first made the suggestion in 1952.

In a letter to External Affairs Minister Pearson, the board said prospects of improved trade relations with China, better treatment of missionaries and the hope of further relaxation of East-West tension depend on a realistic approach to Canada's relationship to China's 460,000,000 people.

CPR Denied Leave To Appeal to Court For Rate Increase

Eight Provinces Win Fight On Freight Rates Issue

OTTAWA (CP) —The Canadian Pacific Railway today was refused leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada from a freight rate judgment denying it higher tolls.

The decision was a victory for eight provincial governments.

The CPR had contended that the board of transport commissioners failed in the Dominion in June, Feb. 15 against a CPR proposal for a new basis for setting freight rates.

Eight provincial governments—all except Ontario and Quebec—argued in reply before the Supreme Court March 12 that the company was trying to get the court to take over the rate-making functions of the board.

The transport board in its Feb. 15 judgment turned a CPR application for a radically new method of establishing rates down flat in Canada. Opponents suggested such a method could result in freight rate increases of up to 50 per cent.

Abbott Will Present Budget Tuesday Apr. 6

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians will learn Tuesday, April 6 what's in store for them in federal taxes during the coming year.

Finance Minister Abbott will present his ninth, and almost certainly his last, budget at 8 p.m. EST, but there is little chance that he will bow out with tax cuts.

While tax changes in the budget are kept secret, all indications are that the general level of taxes will stay about the same, though there may be some shifts in the way the money is raised.

The 54-year-old minister will be budgeting for record peacetime, for non-war years, but this is not expected to call for higher taxes. Forecast increased national production might cover additional tax revenues without raising the current rates.

The budget, outlining the government's money-raising and spending program for the fiscal year starting April 1, will be the means of getting revenues to meet spending of at least $5,000,000,000, perhaps as much as $5,000,000,000.

RECORD LAST TIME

The peacetime record budget was $4,462,000,000 for 1952-54 which Mr. Abbott tabled in the Commons Feb. 18, 1953. The all-time high of spending was in the war year of 1943-44 when $5,695,000,000 was spent.

So far in the current fiscal year that closes with the end of this month, the government has sought authority from Parliament to spend $4,423,000,000 of the total in the Abbott budget. This total will be boosted by supplementary estimates later this month.

For the coming year, government estimates, requests to Parliament for authority to spend money for specified purposes, amount to date to $4,403,791,900. These also will be increased later.

SUSPEND FORMER HIGHWAYS DEPT. CHIEF ENGINEER

Also Seizes Records Of Three More Firms

TORONTO (CP)—Suspension of the former chief engineer of the highways department and the seizure of the books of three more contracting firms were announced Thursday in the Ontario legislature.

Highways Minister Doucett said that C. H. Nelson, chief engineer who resigned last fall and has been under fire since March 1952, was suspended "for failure to cooperate with the provincial auditor and other officials in charge of the investigation now under way".

Attorney-General Dunlop disclosed the provincial police seized the books of the Kilmarck Construction Company Ltd., of Cochrane, Standard Paving Ltd., of Toronto, and the Fort York Construction Ltd of Toronto.

Mr. Dunlop said the number of companies whose books have been seized since the investigation began last October.

Nelson was the eighth member of the staff to be named in the investigation.

WILL INVESTIGATE

Premier Frost announced last week the government intention of appointing a royal commission of the legislature to investigate the alleged irregularities which sprung up originally in the Fort William division.

The 65-year-old Nelson joined the department in 1919 and in September, 1951, was named chief engineer. His present whereabouts is not known.

Preliminary hearing will open April 1 in Fort William in the cases of A. M. Mills, division engineer charged with breaches of trust, division clerk Douglas F. Cutting, clerk Donald T. Gandier, principle clerk Graham W. Turner and Thomas L. Arres, superintendent of the department's asphalt plant, all charged with conspiring to defraud.

Donat Dubeau, patrol chief of the Ontario provincial police, suspended Feb. 10 for alleged irregularities involving the use of departmental materials in the construction of two homes, D. S. Paterson, district signal engineer at Huntsville was suspended Feb. 14.

Only 2 Mistakes to Make on Pleasure Cruise, Don't Have Fun, Leave Ship

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)— Taking a pleasure cruise? Here are two mistakes you can make on such a trip are: (1) to fail to have fun, or (2) to jump overboard.

The first rule on a cruise is: Relax. Everybody else does, or will, before long. Here are a few general tips, more or less applicable, for those planning to take their first cruise:

1. My husband would like to go on a cruise, but hates to dress up. What should I tell him?

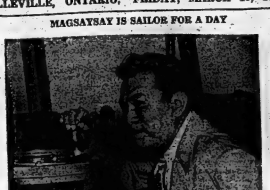
A. Tell him to shut up—and dress up. He should wear a tux every evening except the first and last nights out and nights the ship is in port. But after lying out on deck all day under the warm sun, he'll really feel like sprucing up.

Q. Should a man wear a white dinner jacket on a cruise?

A. Any color will do. If it is anything but white, it will not show a telltale grey when he gets back. Tell him not to bother about shirt studs. Flab shirts with a clip-on bowtie will get him by.

Q. My wife is afraid she will get bored on a cruise. Will she?

A. Not unless she can't keep herself entertained on a cruise ship. Tell her to read instead of sleep in Government House.



Q. Is food the first down to them daily from south Australia and Victoria?

A. The royal couple to shake no hands.

4. No one to come closer to them than six feet.

5. The royal couple to fly to Albany, on the south coast of western Australia, 240 miles from Perth, instead of direct to Perth. This would cut crowd sizes.

6. School children to line the routes as thinly as possible.

Two Toronto Youths Given 20 Years For Manslaughter

BARRIE (CP) — Two Toronto youths today were given 2-year penitentiary terms for manslaughter in the shooting last October of brokerage messenger Fred Gutterson.

A jury Wednesday reduced the charge from murder.

Ian Robertson, 20, married and the father of a 10-month-old child, and William Kingsley, 19, were brought from the jail for sentencing by Mr. Justice H. A. Ayles of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Crown attorney W. M. Thompson said the jury had been lenient in bringing in the manslaughter verdict. He asked for a sentence of life imprisonment.

But Mr. Justice Ayles said that, in view of the youth of the two accused, he would give them a chance for the future to reclaim themselves as fit members of society.

Robertson and Kingsley, looking thin, held school caps as they faced the judge, took the sentence calmly.

The parents of both youths were in court, together with Robertson's 21-year-old wife. Kingsley's mother burst into tears and was comforted by her husband.

Cameron, 37, was shot five times Oct. 29 and his body left in a ditch near this town 54 miles north of Toronto. Robertson and Kingsley said he was a homosexual who tried to take liberties with them.

An all-male jury found the youths guilty of manslaughter but not guilty of murder after an eight-day trial.

MADE STATEMENTS

There was much conflicting testimony and statements at the trial. Police said Kingsley and Robertson had admitted in statements that they shot Cameron, a former Scottish professional soccer player in the R.C.M.P. at Paisley. At the trial, Robertson denied firing any of the shots.

When the jury foreman announced the verdict, Mr. Justice Ayles said:

"I don't think it is for me to comment on the verdict because it is your verdict and not mine."

Think U.S. Unlikely to Try To Buy Indo-China Peace

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — French hopes that the United States will try to buy peace in Indo-China by making concessions to the Chinese Communists seem destined to end in disappointment.

A check of official opinion indicated that the U.S. has no intention of holding out to Red China at the forthcoming Geneva conference on Far East peace problems under the prospect of recognition or the lure of trade agreements for peace.

There have been news reports from Paris that at least some responsible French leaders believe only such U.S. inducements can offer any hope of an end to the Indo-China fighting.

U.S. officials do not necessarily agree with this point of view. There is no indication that the Reds at Peiping care about U.S. recognition or are enough interested in trade with the U.S. to give up their Indo-China bid.

DIFFERENT APPROACHES

The real difficulty between Washington and Paris however is their different approaches to the problem of Indo-China peace. The French are said to feel under pressure to get peace in Indo-China at some price. But the U.S. has been willing to consider only a settlement which would secure the military gain against new Communist aggression.

Diplomatically the French and U.S. governments have handled the problem gingerly.

Crew of Plane Were Guests Of St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP) — The 16-man crew of the RCAF C-5 plane which crashed in Greenland early in March and around the world were guests Thursday night at the prime minister's residence.

Hosts at the cocktail party were Mrs. Louis St. Laurent and daughter Jean-Paul St. Laurent, daughter and son of the prime minister who accompanied him on the tour which ended here Thursday night.

Also invited to the party were wives and other close relatives of the crewmen.

Members of the crew included Group Capt. G. R. Beaubier, Toronto; Wallerville; Cpl. F. Moore, Kingston, and LAC. K. D. McKitrick, Carleton Place.

Alter West Australian Road To Protect Queen From Polio

ADELAIDE, Australia (CP) — Arrangements for the Queen's tour of western Australia are to be altered because of the polio epidemic in the state, it was decided today at a meeting of members of the royal household with government officials.

Federal government leaders were reported in favor of calling off the seven-day tour of the state but western Australia's premier, Albert Hawke, vigorously opposed the idea.

The changes in the tour are to be announced shortly by Eric Harrison, minister in charge of the tour. The measures are designed to protect the Queen but to avoid as much as possible large gatherings.

A high government official said the meeting considered included:

1. The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh to live and eat aboard the royal liner Gothic instead of in Government House.

2. Fresh food be flown to them daily from south Australia and Victoria.

3. The royal couple to shake no hands.

4. No one to come closer to them than six feet.

5. The royal couple to fly to Albany, on the south coast of western Australia, 240 miles from Perth, instead of direct to Perth. This would cut crowd sizes.

6. School children to line the routes as thinly as possible.

Doctors Hopeful X-Ray Photos To Show Cause

INDIANAPOLIS (CP) — Physicians were hopeful today that x-ray photos taken of the Hartley twins will show the cause of their breathing and circulation difficulties.

The three-month-old twins have two heads and four arms attached to a single torso. The circulatory system appeared only in the left twin, Daniel Kaye Hartley.

The x-rays were made after the boys were brought to the James Whitcomb Riley Children's Hospital in Indianapolis from their home in the north Indiana town of Hartley, Petersburg, Ind.

The hospital said today the twins' condition was fair, although they still are on the critical list. Oxygen has been administered frequently.

ISRAEL PREPARES DEMAND FOR U.N. ACTION ON RAID

Claims Slaying of 11 Jews Organized

By TED LURIE

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel today prepared a demand for United Nations action after the Israeli slaying of 11 Jews on a desert bus, blaming neighboring Arab state of Jordan for what it termed an organized attack.

Jordan promptly denied any responsibility for the assault, which occurred Wednesday 12 miles from its border at Scorpion pass in the barren Negev desert. Jordan's man at Amman, the Jordan capital, said his country is ready "politically and militarily to meet any developments that might arise."

The incident was the most serious in Palestine since the UN Security Council censured Israel for the slaying of 53 Arab men in October in the Jordan border village of Kibya.

REPORT TROOPS MOVING

Tension mounted amid unconfirmed reports of Israeli and Arab troop movements. Lebanese newspapers said that Israeli troops were massing at the Jordan frontier. Travelers today reported at the Beirut line that they had seen military equipment moving southward through Damascus toward the Israeli border.

The Arab and Jewish states were technically still at war although an uneasy cease-fire ended the fighting in 1949.

In Wednesday's incident, a woman and child were the only survivors on the bullet-riddled bus.

Nine men and two women were killed. They received a ceremonial funeral today.

Two UN observers, accompanied by Israeli officers and blood hounds, trailed the attackers for 20 miles in the direction of the Jordan border along a dry river bed, and today resumed the hunt.

Vietminh, French Continue Violent Artillery Duel

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — The Vietminh, Red-led rebels today kept up their violent artillery duel with French forces in Indo-China as no resumption of massed rebel infantry charges trying to overrun French defenses in Colonel Langlais' northwest Indo-China fortress.

Under a full moon and a starshielded sky and on into the morning the rebels launched heavy French fire strikes on the Communist-led rebel positions kept up around the clock.

But a French Army spokesman Thursday night said the Vietminh still were rushing supplies by bicycle and truck to the area where ecoile train and truck to the area where possible another mass assault in the offing.

British Officer Killed by Sniper In Suez Zone

2 Trucks Machine-Gunned, Grenade Tossed at Another

CAIRO (AP) — The British embassy announced today that Egyptian snipers wounded two British medical corps officers in the Suez canal zone and that one of the officers later died.

The embassy said Maj. W. R. Burhill died of bullet wounds in the stomach and that Capt. I. Wilson was wounded in the shoulder.

The attack occurred at El Ballah airport, north of Ismailia.

The two incidents were reported today in the disputed Suez, where two British soldiers were killed earlier this week, three others were wounded and two are missing. Earlier, an Egyptian policeman was slain.

In the incidents today the embassy reported: (1) Five Egyptian first class guns at two British military vehicles in Fayid, but no casualties were reported; (2) Fifty rounds later an Egyptian threw a hand grenade into a British military truck, but only a passenger tossed it out before it exploded.

Struck by Auto Girl, 6, Smothers in Snowbank

KAPUSKASING (CP) — A six-year-old girl, one of a group of children playing in a sledding car Thursday night, was buried into a snowbank and suffocated to death there before she was missed. One of the other children told police.

Dead is Diane McLeod. Her body was discovered by Yvon Dezury, 17, of Smooth Rock Falls, driver of the car, as he attempted to dig his car from the snowbank 20 minutes after the accident.

Diane and her brothers, Gene, 8, and Keith, 10, and the three children of Mrs. Edna Dezury, Simone, 13, Lillian, 8, and Muriel, 6, were struck on the roadside shortly after they went out to play.

Simone was taken to hospital here suffering shock but was later released.

CHARGES LAID

Dezury told police he was blinded by the lights of an approaching car and did not see the children until it was too late. No charges have been laid against the driver.

The car went into a skid when Dezury applied the brakes and knocked all the children into the snowbank. Dezury and his friends took the children to the Kapuskasing hospital and later moved to hospital in a taxi.

It was not until then that Diane was found her mother, Mrs. Edward McLeod, began a search of the children and when she went back to dig out his car and found the little girl's body beneath the ice in the snowbank.

The body was face down in seven inches of water.

Kapuskasing is 290 miles north of Sudbury.

Prince of Belgian Congo Turns Out To Be Plain Fred Williams of St. Louis

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— "Prince Congo and the Wonderful Belgian Congo"—star of a five-year song-and-dance hoax and offbeat television shows and a movie—has been exposed as plain Fred Williams of East St. Louis.

But Fred refuses to abdicate.

"I think a black face should be somebody," the middle-aged son of a laborer said today.

Before Williams and his colored partner Lucky Starr, said they often were hungry. The pair insisted it was so much easier for a royal dane team to find work than for two ordinary dancers.

The Williams' swheduled appearance at Memorial Auditorium here April 5 has been cancelled.

"It was a bit unfair of the immigration people to reveal this now, just before our concert," he complained, "I haven't payed off my debts yet, but anyone, the people have got their money's worth from our shows."

People have been seeing Fred and his wif on tours of the Belgian Congo and on television; in the movie "King Solomon Mines" and ballet Fred and his wife.

Williams was exposed because the Belgian consul-general here couldn't understand why a Watusi prince who'd been here for days hadn't used an official call. He queried the immigration office.

Williams later told reporters:

"Princehood was conferred on me by the chief of all African tribes in New York." He insisted he still be called prince.

British Polish Premier Quits to Become Party Secretary

WARSAW (AP)— Boleslaw Bierut, the Communist leader in Poland since the end of the Second World War, has resigned from the premiership to become first secretary of the ruling United Polish Workers (Communist) party, it was announced today.

Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz who held the premiership until the government reorganization of November, 1952, was restored in his old post as premier.

Western observers in Vienna believe the switch in the Polish leadership was made to relieve Bierut as part of a general Kremlin plan to end the "cult of heroes" that prevailed in the Communist world during Stalin's time, replacing it with dictatorships by "government by committee."

The changes were the first official Polish news since the new central committee just elected by the party at its second post-war congress meeting in Warsaw. Aside from these changes the party's personnel politburo remains virtually the same.

The announcement said Bierut resigned from the premiership because he could not, hold that post and be party secretary at the same time. He proposed that Cyrankiewicz take his place and the central committee concurred.

WORK ON PART II

(A Warsaw radio broadcast of the shake-up, heard in Vienna, said Bierut had written a letter to the central committee to be relieved of his post as premier so he could concentrate his energies on party work.)

Bierut was president of Poland from the end of the war until that office was abolished in a major government reshuffling in the fall of 1952. He then took over the premiership from Cyrankiewicz.

In the new regrouping, the post of president, held by Bierut, has been abolished. Stefan Manszewski, chairman of the Polish-Soviet Friendship Society, was dropped from the party politburo but was named a member of the party's revisions commission.

MORE CIGARS

Six Charged For Driving With Old Plates

City police cracked down yesterday on motorists found driving with their 1953 licences with no less than six drivers being charged. In some instances drivers had neither the licence plates nor driving permits and were charged for both offences.

Police said the fine and costs was $13 for each offence.

Provincial Police were a bit more lenient, however, and said that only warnings were given yesterday. Motorists found driving with last year's licence plates were told to get them fixed at once, and were told if they were stopped a second time charges would follow.

Les Digby Will Head Football League Again

The Bay of Quinte Football Association held their annual general meeting in the Y.M.C.A. in Belleville on Wednesday, March 17th at which time they elected their officers for the coming season.

Mr. L. W. Digby, last year's president was re-elected in that office, while the other officers elected were, Mr. N. Carter, vice president; Mr. F. Jones, secretary treasurer with Mr. A. Rukkis and Mr. L. Meiyer executive members.

It was proposed at the meeting that, instead of operating with the W.O.F.C., as we have done last year, that the Bay of Quinte League be composed of "B" teams to encourage the younger players to participate as well as to take up any surplus players from the W.O.F.C.

This will be a mid-week league as it is felt the players who attended up on the week-ends play also.

So far three teams have accepted, they are Northern District, Batawa and Trenton with possibility of teams from R.C.A.F. and Deseronto.

The association decided to give a grant to the Batawa Football club to help defray the cost of the annual banquet.

Technicolor Film of Argentina Enthusiastically Received

Argentina, second largest country in South America, stretches 2,000 miles down the Atlantic coast from Buenos Aires to Terra del Fuego and every inch is photogenic. Nicos Smith's entrancing technicolor production "Argentina" was enthusiastically acclaimed by a capacity audience in the Bay Shore theatre on the dilettorian last evening as the Kiwanis Club's World Travel and Adventure series presented its sixth and last picture of the year.

From Buenos Aires, a magnificent, bustling city of 3,000,000 people, to the solitary grandeur of the pampas and the leisurely life of the great estancias; from the resort temperature of the north to the sub-Antarctic icefields of Terra del Fuego and the playgrounds of penguins; from the wide, sunny beaches and holiday resorts on the Atlantic coast to the cold, wind-swept Andean passes on the Argentina-Chilean border, Mr. Smith's beautiful photography and precise narration presented the essence of a land of infinite variety

MAGNIFICENT CITY

Buenos Aires, largest city in South America, emerged as a truly magnificent city of huge buildings, wide avenues, great parks, and historical landmarks. Beautiful Cordova with its alabaster cathedral and cloisters of Jesuit College; Mar del Plata, home of the world's largest gambling casino, and the great ranches of Argentina were depicted in some outstanding colour photography.

Argentina's fabulous livestock was seen with their glistening hair; shots of prize winning Hereffords and thoroughbred race horses.

Glaciers, glacier, snow-capped mountains, arid deserts, and the enormity of Iguazu Falls, nearly 270 individual cascades along a two and a half mile precipice makes it the world's largest waterfall, were all captured by Mr. Smith in their universal glory. Outstanding pictures were shown of the Argentina lake country and autumn in April.

PEOPLE SHOWN

However, despite the variety of natural wonders, Mr. Smith did not slight the people. His warm intimate pictures of the gay and gaudy gauchos, and of the lively dancers in the port of Buenos Aires, were fitting preludes to the spectacle of the annual grape festival at Mendoza. In addition to pictures of the vineyards that produces some of the world's finest wines, Mr. Smith showed the festival parade and the grea' illuminated night fiesta, highlighted at which a "Grape Queen" is chosen from one of the beautiful beauties in Argentina.

The entire picture was a treat to the eye and Mr. Smith's narration was the proper blending of history, facts and humour.

"Argentina" was a worthy climax to an outstanding series of the travel talks and pictures.

Four Packs of 'Match-Less Cigarets' Are Found by Crew Wrecking Store

Unicum No. 2, th "match-less cigaret," is no longer with us. And it is difficult to understand why because Unicum No. 2 seems to take care of all the cigaret smoker's more urgent necessities.

For instance, Unicum No. 2 not only came in a handy, shirt-pocket package, but the cigaret was equipped with a sulphur tip. Sandpaper on the back of the package provided a rough surface for this match-tipped cigaret. No matches were required to do was buy Unicum No. 2 brand and his problems were solved.

Of course, Unicum No. 2 couldn't cope with all the cigaret setters but why this all-purpose smoker should worry is a bit of a mystery, unless latter day smokers found that first sulphurous inhalation somewhat fatiguing.

This unusual brand of cigarets returned to light early this week when men on the wrecking crew at the site of the former McFee and Rose optometrists.

To date four packages of these cigarets have been found. Clarence Dafoe and Stanley Murray found some packages early in the week, and subsequently E. G. Clark and Arnold Knight found the remainder. The men are employed by Brown's Wrecking of Picton, who are engaged in pulling down the old building.

The package is printed in blue ink and an ancient looking engraving on the package shows hands and a package of Unicum No. 2, with a hand holding the package while the other hand strikes a cigaret against the sandpaper on the back.

This novel cigaret was patented in 1882. The advertising writers of that time, obviously, were not concerned with the smoker's health, but with the effect the nicotine content of their product, Alongside the ad was a notice to assurance that this "self-lighting process is warranted not to affect the aroma."

One thing that has not changed except in amount, from that time is product is the excise stamp of the U.S. Department of Internal Revenue. In 1882, DeWitt Clinton was scowling over his moustache in impressive fashion from the excise stamp.

Perhaps Mr. Clinton could be the unique product. It could not have been excise stamps because they are still with us and it could not have been the subject of a patent verifiable as he believed as infallibility as one believes the advertising of modern cigarets.

Dog Fish Dying On The Beaches Of Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The shark-like dogfish, described by fishermen as the devil in disguise, is dying on the beaches of Newfoundland. Fisheries officials are not sure why.

Dog fish, like all members of the shark family, have a big head for the warm ocean depths during winter months, but this year beaches of the northeast coast are covered with thousands of the leathery-skinned fish.

Fishermen, who say the only kind of dogfish they like is a dead one, are enjoying the scene. They admit, however, that a good thing can be carried too far.

Several reasons have been given for the unusual number of dead dogfish. The most common seems to be that the fish, themselves in cold water, head for shore and surface water, which though warmer than further offshore, is not as warm as certain ocean depths. The fish either get caught in too shallow water or perish and drift ashore. The scaly appearance of ice along the north-east coast is also thought to be a factor. The matter is still under study.

Dogfish meat and liver oil are processed on the Pacific coast. Here, however, although the meat is edible, no use is made of the fish apart from the few that are fed to dogs.

Oil processing was tried in Newfoundland many years ago, but was given up as unprofitable.

The dogfish, about 18 inches long is not an oily fish. The rough skin is less back with a spike projecting from the top into each dorsal fin. The fish also eat fish already in the nets.

Municipalities To Pay 50 P.C. More by Bill

TORONTO (CP)—Municipalities will pay 50 per cent more for hospital treatment of indigent persons under new legislation introduced in the Ontario legislature Thursday.

Health Minister Phillips, who presented the amendment to the Public Hospitals Act, explained outside the house that the increases will make the handling of the indigent sick more "equitable" and will lessen the "penalty" some cities pay because of fine hospital facilities.

The increase for the 13 grade A hospitals in the province will be $2 per indigent patient day—from $4 to $6.

Other schedules: Grade B (more than 100 beds but not "teaching" hospitals) from $3.50 to $3.25; grades C and D (10 and fewer beds) $3 to $4.50; grades E, F and G (convalescent hospitals) $2.50 to $2.75.

Premier Frost Pays Tribute

Resume Traffic On North Railway

KENNEY (CP)—Railway communications into northern Ontario were resumed Thursday night, 30 hours after the freight cars of a northbound Ontario Northland Railway train jumped the derailed bear Kenney, 49 miles north of North Bay.

The derailment caused no injuries but ripped up 1,200 feet of track and ties. Cause of the accident was attributed by ONR officials to a broken arch bar on one of the cars. The arch bar is part of the freight car wheel assembly.

Fifteen cars of the 56-car train were loaded with merchandise for northern communities. The derailed cars were on the tail-end of the train, bound for Englehart, 46 miles north of the accident.

Nova Scotians Drank 10 Gals. Of Beer Per Person Last Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Each "black" of a bottle of beer got a bootleg around in the Nova Scotia legislature Thursday as Nova Scotians were told they drank 10 gallons of beer last year for every man, woman and child in the province.

J. J. McNeil, deputy chief commissioner of the provincial liquor commission, said the strongest drinkers in the land are Halifax and is 10.86 proof. The lowest, also brewed in Halifax, is 8.33 proof.

Mr. McNicol told the Liberal government's public accounts committee that the strong Halifax brew is stronger than a popular "strong" ale imported from Scotland which is 9.81 proof.

Harley Spence, Progressive Conservative for Lunenburg, disagreed.

"There's an awful big difference in the kick of it. There's no comparison between the two," he said.

Said Education Minister Henry Hicks: "I don't drink beer."

Govt. to Assist Business Wishing to Trade With Reds

OTTAWA (CP) — John Dickey, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, told the House Thursday the government will give "every assistance" to Canadian business men wishing to trade in non-strategic materials with Communist countries.

He made the statement in reply to Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative spokesman on trade matters, who asked in the Commons what government policy is on the issue.

"This is a free-enterprise economy," Mr. Dickey replied. "The government doesn't do business with Russia or any other government as a matter of course."

"The policy of the trade department and of the government is to give every assistance to Canadian business men in normal business in Russia or behind the Iron Curtain in non-strategic goods."

The assistant minister during study of s-bill continuing for three months controls over imports, exports and imports, especially shipments of strategic materials to Communist countries. The House approved the principle of the bill and then began detailed study of various clauses.

Mr. Fleming referred to a recent statement by Trade Minister Howe that all exports to iron curtain countries are subject to government permits and that, except for strategic materials, the trade department would consider the application of any Canadian firm to ship on average trade with Soviet Russia.

As a statement of government policy, Mr. Fleming said, Mr. Howe's remarks were "evasive."

"It doesn't say at all that Canada seeks more trade with Soviet Russia or Communist satellite countries."

Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) noted that Prime Minister Churchill recently told the British Commons that the British government is hoping for a substantial reduction in the goods listed as strategic.

Mr. Dickey said Canada's objectives are the same as those of Britain. A co-operative review with other countries is being carried on concerning the list of strategic goods. The aim was to keep the list within the bounds of national security and from being unnecessarily broad.

CNR Employees Will Not Get Pension Boost

OTTAWA (CP)—The government does not plan to boost the pensions of retired CNR employees, Transport Minister Chevrier told the Commons Thursday.

"The government feels it should not take action at this time," he said, in reply to opposition criticism of the pension plan of the government-owned line.

Mr. Chevrier said the CNR does not feel it should increase its free $25-a-month pension. Employees had been able to increase that amount under an annuity-purchase plan and CNR pensioners now were in a better position than those of many other railways and private industries.

Councillor Blames Merchants For Financial Position of C of C

TRENTON (Special)—Some of the directors of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce are dismayed over some of the town councillors' attitude toward granting the businessmen's group a sum of money to carry on.

Before the council meeting on Monday night the directors of the Chamber believed there would be a strong recommendation for a subsidy to the Chamber of $100 a month and free office accommodations. At the meeting on Monday night however councillor Cowan indicated the reason the Chamber was short of funds. He blamed merchants who should be mostly interested increasingly failing to pay memberships. "If merchants won't support the Chamber then it's not up to the taxpayer," Mr. Weaver maintained. Councillor James MacDonald made known that he agreed with Mr. Weaver's viewpoint.

When councillor Weaver was informed that 20 per cent of the original members had recently dropped out of the Chamber he remarked: "If they resurrect his membership then I would suggest we consider giving them assistance." Councillor Reg. Armstrong commented: "I would like to see them function." Councillor Robert Smithrim pointed out that the Chamber of Commerce can be a useful purpose in town. Councillor N. J. McNair figured that the Chamber's policy of a graduated fee should be changed back to the practice of one fee for everybody. Mayor Ross Burtt talked about rumors that the Trenton Recreation Commission was seeking a grant of $8,000 and the Trenton Memorial Hospital was expected to ask council for a grant of $10,000. "Where is it going to end," asked the mayor.

NON-COMMITTAL

Not convinced that a full membership would solve the Chamber's problems Councillor Weaver said: "If a small grant will keep them afloat maybe we should try that." Then some sort of help." He was non-committal however, saying he won't say either way." Councillor MacDonald declared that the chamber was actually trying to benefit the whole town. He expressed his view replying to Mr. Weaver's question: "Is it fair t tax a share of the homeowners' taxes to support the Chamber of Commerce?"

Acting as spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce Director Jack Goldberg pointed out that with a grant from the town the Chamber could do very effective job for Trenton industrial wise and tourist wise. He straightened out Mayor Burtt's understanding that the chamber had received before approached the council for a grant. Explained Mr. Goldberg: "I remember coming to council twice and both times got a fury down."

H. B. Smith, secretary for the chamber, advised council that $200 a month was needed to operate the chamber. "If all factories and members paid up what would the total amount be?" asked Councillor Weaver. Mr. Smith reported that the membership netted $2,700 last year. Discussion brought out that the annual return had been much higher other years.

Although one councillor was of the opinion that there was a definite lack of interest on the part of the people most concerned council was in agreement that a note be made of the chamber's request and would be considered when council was striking the budget.

Vandals Mark Policeman's Car

TRENTON, (Special) — The Toronto vandals who marred the finish on Constable Bruce Westcall's new car with a sharp pointed object on Wednesday night better stay out of the road of the husky Trenton policeman.

Constable Westfall attended the Sportsman's Show this week. He parked his car outside the Coliseum. After an enjoyable experience he came out of the exhibition intending to start out for home.

Some hours later after considerable inconvenience to the constable finally headed for Trenton.

In the meantime he had to jack up two wheels and take them off so that he could have the tires pumped up. Fortunately he located a garage some distance away. He found the valves had been removed from both tubes, causing the tires to go flat. Later he noticed a series of deep scratches along the one side of his vehicle and one deeper slash on the trunk.

Chas. Rogerson Reapplies For Assessor's Job

TRENTON (Special) — Charles Rogerson, former assessor for the Town of Trenton dismissed on February 1, has reapplied for the job and he will be interviewed by council along with three other applicants in the town hall this Saturday night. Mr. Rogerson, who held office as Trenton's assessor for three and a half years, applied the Provincial Manual of Assessment to his reassessment of the town last year. Some of his notices brought appeals for readjustment. Some of the new councilmen called for his dismissal immediately they took over office in January. Mr. Rogerson was let out on 30 days' notice, with pay.

Appointed town assessor in 1950, Mr. Rogerson replaced Ed Davis, now assessment commissioner for the City of Peterborough. He has been a resident of Trenton for 10 years.

Wax Explosion Starts Fire In Woodland Cheese Factory

CAMPBELLFORD, — A fire, drawing water from a nearby creek, succeeded in bringing the blaze under control.

Several thousand pounds of various types of Swiss cheese were lost in the blaze. Much of this was being aged for the tourist business next summer. Mr. Joss is handling the loss; mostly because he will have to dispose of the tourists, who come regularly to the spot to purchase cheese. Damage has not yet been accurately estimated, but it will run into several thousand dollars. It is partly covered by insurance.

A CONSPICUOUS SUCCESS

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent is home from his 20,000 mile, six-week, round-the-world goodwill tour. All Canadians undoubtedly will rejoice at the conspicuous success of Mr. St. Laurent's tour.

The Prime Minister, in Europe and in Asia, accomplished an immense amount of good for Canada and Canada's allies. His visit to Asia, particularly, will be come more and more significant in the months ahead in the tug-of-war currently being waged over India and Pakistan by the Comintern and the Western alliance.

That Prime Minister St. Laurent could tell the Indian government the United States is serving the cause of peace with a genuine selflessness generally understood and that his pronouncement as the leader of a neighboring country that has unparalleled opportunities to evaluate the true motives of the United States, is in itself an invaluable aid to American prestige in Asia and consequently to the prestige of the Western alliance. That this forthright declaration to the Indian press should be greeted, with cheers by newspapers in the country of the United States, is a remarkable achievement. Indeed, it is unlikely that any leader in the West, other than Mr. St. Laurent, could have made such a declaration so successfully.

His agreement that the Nehru plan calling for a ceasefire in Indo-China should be implemented was loudly acclaimed in the Indian press and by Indian leaders. Having just come from visits with high ranking leaders in London, Paris and Rome, this pronouncement was doubly important because it gave an indication that other Western leaders were prepared to negotiate a ceasefire—a fact subsequently borne out by the Berlin agreement for a conference in Geneva next month.

It is recognized that settlement of the seven-year war in Indo-China which has drained the military and economic resources of France, poses one of the most perplexing problems to the stability of France in the Western alliance, despite the fact that the United States is paying more than 80 per cent of the cost of the war. Elimination of this war as an Asian trouble spot and its adverse effects on France would be a major diplomatic triumph. For Mr. St. Laurent to support the Indian proposal for settlement was therefore a high order of well, tying India more firmly to the West.

However, much as Mr. St. Laurent accomplished for others with leading world leaders, he did much for Canadians, too. His appearances in Germany, France and Italy were greeted by enthusiastic demonstrations of respect and goodwill. These demonstrations should serve to remind Canadians of the prestige which Canada enjoys abroad, a prestige that has advanced steadily for several decades until now Canada enjoys an unrivalled position in the admiration and respect of millions of people the world over.

Canadians are indebted to Mr. St. Laurent not only because his visit provided an expression of this respect, but because his visit enhanced it.

DOT IS RIGHT, DASH IT ALL!

A news report from Oxford, England, states that a group of students is looking for a girl with a quick blush to become "the cheek of modest innocence" in a lighthearted organization to commemorate Dr. Thomas Bowdler, the prude who cleaned up the naughty words in Shakespeare by substituting asterisks for them. The group plans to line up co-ed contestants to tell them carefully selected stories. The first girl to raise a blush wins the title.

We are reluctant to point out to members of this unique group the many trials and tribulations to which they are leaving themselves open. It will not be difficult to discover any number of co-ed contestants as co-eds in almost unlimited numbers are available in almost all university centres. Even all-male universities are usually located across the street from girls' schools, or vice versa, so the personnel problem, initially, should not be too great. However, finding a co-ed who can raise a quick blush is something else again and the Bowdler group, unwittingly enough, may be launching a search as exhaustive as Diogenes' search for an honest man.

However, we shall suppose for the sake of argument, that such contestants are available. Would they be willing to have carefully selected stories assigned to them to express purpose of raising a quick blush? And pray tell, what would the Bowdler group tell them?

Would the group is to be true to the ideals of its founder, any carefully selected story will necessarily be replete with asterisks. After all if Lady MacBeth sleep-walks in the Bowdler editions in the tune of, "Out, out, damned spot," or the popular song deteriorates to the point of "Dash, dash, dash hath do fury like a woman scorned," how will one tell the carefully selected story of the dot dot dash, and the dash dash asterisk?

One New Jersey theatre owner has come up with an answer to television and its effect on the box office. He has banished the box office. Last week hundreds of people stood in line for free admission to "From Here to Eternity" and after two such showings hundreds more viewers had to be turned away. It is not an idea that is likely to sweep the country, but no one mentioned what the canny manager netted from sales of popcorn and soft drinks.

Chick Evans, an all-time amateur golfing great, stated recently that there were 30,000 effective ways to hit a golf ball. We would settle for just one.

FAULT FINDING

I sometimes wonder why at first
Our heads at trifling faults we nurse
In others plain is what is worst,
When it we'd take the time we should
See just as plainly what is good.

We're very quick offense to take,
But not so quick of eye and mind
To tell with equal candor the
Some careless act, some thoughtless word
Immediately are seen and heard,
But what is best appears to be
More difficult to hear or see.

So little time on earth to stay,
So little time allowed to play,
It seems too bad fault finding
should
Destroy the splendor of the good.

Used Wooden Curling Stones

(London Free Press).

How many people in Western Ontario know that in the early days curling stones were made in an effort to keep alive the roaring game used wooden "stones"?

There is a wooden "stone" in the museum at Wrexham, Ontario which we obtained from an old home in Bayfield. In the pioneer days they curled on the Bayfield River. It was impossible to secure stones from Scotland. And so, the blacksmiths of Bayfield made wooden "stones" which were properly weighted with lead or iron. A ring of iron held the wood together and gave the stones the proper bounce in curling.

Bayfield has long since dropped curling and cricket which the early settlers played, but there are still to be found wooden "stones" and cricket bats in some of the attics of the pioneers.

Spring Fever—New Style

(By Iris Allan in the Edmonton Journal.)

They say "in spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." This may be true, but nowadays, come spring, both young and old men turn briefly, fancies to a new car.

Men who are sane citizens at any other time of the year, who laugh at their wives' window-shopping, can be seen at any hour of the day or night with their faces glued to the shop windows behind which new cars are displayed, dreaming with chrome, plastic and fresh paint, they act like a teenager in males of all ages from a pre-school child to a grandfather.

In most homes the wife is well aware of the new cars and fever that will grips her husband regularly at this time of year.

He begins subtly, he thinks, to point out, the age of the old car. After all, it's getting up in years. It will really cost more, up from now on. Soon it will need new tires. It will begin to use oil. It's a shame to buy a car in its last legs. He guesses it's just good business to buy a new one.

When there is little or no response from his wife he sighs, "Sure is too bad I can't get a new car right now."

He then settles to herself; she has been through all this before. She knows that if her husband can't have a new car he'll buy a new car he'll talk both himself and her into it. And for some reason he feels he must get around to the subject in a devious manner.

Finally, he comes right out and asks if she would like to go down and have a look at them. After all, there's no harm in looking around, looking "super" ones that have just arrived; she should look, too.

She agrees; it won't hurt to look. She is delighted at the idea. With a complete lack of finesse he asks, "Are you going to get a new hat, too?"

Dad flinches; he hadn't meant to bring her hat in for some reason he feels he must get around to the subject in a devious manner.

Finally, he comes right out and asks if she would like to go down and have a look at them. After all, there's no harm in looking around, looking "super" ones that have just arrived; she should look, too.

She agrees; it won't hurt to look. She is delighted at the idea. With a complete lack of finesse he asks, "Are you going to get a new hat, too?"

Dad flinches; he hadn't meant to bring her hat in for some reason he feels he must get around to the subject in a devious manner.

"Well, perhaps not this year, but it is, unless I can get a darned good price for the old one. After all, it's in good miles in that car yet. I've looked after it; it's good shape. I could touch up the paint. We'll hardly say!" Then with a sidelong look at his wife, "Just the one place where your mother scraped it on the fence." Silence.

So they look at the new cars. The salesman is very helpful. Yes sir, this is the best buy on the market, and sparkling new. Look at the increased visibility of this year's cars. Why, they make the old ones seem practically suicidal to drive! The upholstery has been greatly improved and this year's models have two-tone colors to match the exterior. This last is directed to Mother.

The shopper of the family looks at the interior. "Very light!"

"Well, no, not on this model, but the darker ones are said to look a look at this one, it has everything, lighter, radio, all the extras for just a little bit more. It's a matter of just two or three hundred dollars."

Mother frowns. That question was a tactical error. Dad knows the trade-in price for the other car!

"Well now, we'll have a look. They move to the old one. "This is yours?"

A little shamefaced Mother and Dad admit it! In the last ten miles since the driftin' Dad has come to have aged more than a decade. Then, the salesman gets thought you feel as though it were a miracle you've got it to run at all, and to drive down here. After a little humming and hawing he names a figure. Dad's eyes pop out. Isn't that all?

The salesman smiles indulgently. Well now, it's four years old. Second-hand cars — and of that vintage!

As gracefully as possible Father drags junior out of the shiny new car. He remembers something about thinking it over; then the family climbs into the decrepit car and dolefully drive home. There is a silence between husband and wife. Finally, mother speaks, "Well, what do you think?"

"What do I think?" he explodes. "We just can't afford it. Why they'll give you practically nothing for your old—don't—for the one you have now. It's a crime."

"If sure is a lot to money all right," Father agrees." Sure is a terrible high, isn't it? You know you just can't keep a car too long; it isn't good business." She knows the rest by heart; it's the same argument he gave four years ago. He goes on with the old patter and eventually Mother gives in.

It sure is a "honey" to drive.

Sissy-Boys Proved Brave

(Stratford Beacon-Herald).

It is not quite 30 years since Mrs. Hodgins Burnett died, and almost all her novels are unknown to the present generation. Yet one book she is still remembered — "Little Lord Fauntleroy" — the story of which has been filmed and not long ago was produced in New York as a play.

Little Lord Fauntleroy, who was said to be modelled on one boy, wore a velvet suit with lace collar and cuffs, and he had a mass of long, fair curls which fell down the back of his neck. He was always immaculately clean, and he was the perfect little gentleman. During the height of his fame Buffalo Bill, Teddy Roosevelt and also American boys suffered untold humiliation when they were robbed dressed them and fixed their hair and they would look like the real Lord Fauntleroy.

If ever there was a boy who looked a sissy he was likely to be one when he grew up it was Little Lord Fauntleroy. But the young man who knew him in manhood reports that Fauntleroy, when he actually died a hero's death when he was over 60 years of age, was the engineer on the tender of a river when he saw a boy struggling in the water. Notwithstanding his age, he plunged in and brought them to the shore, but the shock caused him to collapse and he died on the spot.

There was another boy of the sissified type who was famous about the same time as Little Lord Fauntleroy. He was a picture of a golden-haired darling in knicker suit and a velvet blouse who sat blowing soap bubbles. In fact "Bubbles" was his name; the only name the public ever knew, and he advertised Pears soap. So successful was this advertisement that the picture was sold in vast quantities and hung in thousands of homes.

The original stay-looking "Bubbles" was an officer in the Royal Navy during the First World War, and was decorated for bravery.

Light Touch For Sewers

(Milwaukee Journal).

Paris is experimenting these days with a new type of traffic control manhole cover.

The purpose, authorities hasten to explain, is to allow sewer workers to get light when doing cleaning or repair jobs while keeping pedestrians from falling in. The purpose is not to allow passers-by to get down into sewers.

But this gives us an idea. Why not transparent tiles installed in busy motorists to see the countryside? Or transparent ball park tiles for baseball fans who can't afford tickets and transparent tiles for the person who sit in front of us in theatres?

Delinquency In Red Schools

(Hamilton Spectator).

". . . the shameful crimes of individual students combine to provoke necessary reproach either in the schools or in the family. As a result, order is not established in the schools, and the students are demoralized.

"This mamby-pamby education-al policy accuses students of no responsibility and freedom from punishment.

"The most important step—carefull inculcation of discipline in the school programs as the basis of all education — is ignored!"

What, Hindu sadism, Boy, with his tirades?

Or Hilda Neatby, who won't bow to the slick prophets of "progressive" education?

Or some disgruntled Tory reactionary who doesn't sense the trend of the times?

No, just a quote from Moscow's official Russian government newspaper Izvestia, lamenting the lack of discipline in education and blaming it for the wave of juvenile delinquency sweeping the nation.

Cost of Slums

(St. Catharines Standard)

It has taken a long time to make the discovery, but slums in any city are a heavy cost. In money, paid out in fire, police, welfare and other services, they take seven times more than the revenue they provide in taxes.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

MILK AGAINST THE RHEUMATIC.

Dr. Brady

One of the characteristic signs of aging as observed by Dr. Nathan W. Shock and his team of experts in the U.S. Public Health Service's study of the aging process in some 2,000 persons in Baltimore City Hospital in the last seven years, is the tendency to retain water like dead wood. We can't help it if a lot of old geezers resist and reject the idea that consumption of a quart of milk every day will prevent the development of rheumatic.

We can't guarantee this. I conceived the idea only a few years ago and it has one great drawback, namely, that people who have, not developed any serious signs of the rheumatic, are not interested in prophylaxis. By the time they become interested in it their joints have already degenerated, even if they are still capable of securing a new lease.

Doctors are people.

One reason I believe the liberal use of milk in the everyday diet will stave off the rheumatic is because obvious when or if you read the pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatic.

First there's Sherman's dictum that the diet of Americans is usually more often deficient in calcium than in any other chemical element.

Readers have sent me hundreds of reports of their relief from chronic rheumatis, in some instances enough to enable them to resume work they had been compelled to give up, by (a) high calcium diet and (b) supplementing the diet with an optimal daily ration of Ca and D, as advised in the pamphlet.

Here it may be well to remind you doctors and folks that up to a point it is always possible to arrest degeneration and reverse the process—bring about regeneration of cells and tissues and restoration of health. Up to a point, I say.

If you think your joint disability is a more fashionable or exclusive ailment than that of the washerwoman or day-laborer below the tracks you may derive some satisfaction from calling it arthritis. Arth (joint) itis (inflammation) does not, from infection or joint lining by Streptococcus, Staphylococcus, Pneumococcus, Gonococcus, tuberculosis, syphilis, etc., but it is usually a matter of months in duration. If the joint trouble continues for a year or more it is probably just plain rheumatis — degeneration and not inflammation.

As a "point" the calcium deficiency of the ordinary American adult is a comparatively long-continued . . . depletion through the years, their bones and joints being poor in calcium and—more fragile . . . osteoporosis (Boss).

The best source for calcium is MILK.

Have you had your 1½ pints (three large glassfuls) of milk today, or are you training for the rheumatis?

TODAY'S TALK

THE WASTE OF NOISE

Every year I look forward to the time when I may withdraw from it to my summer island retreat for rest and relaxation, where the noises are the gentle ones from the wash of waves along the lake shore, the lullabying of the wind in the trees, the soothing swish of the pines, and only the distant whistle of the trains on the mainland.

Out there on that blessed island live for a short period in the forgetfulness of traffic and confused noises that the city has learned to give. No honks or rumblings. No hurrying of feet or cars. Healthful peace. There is experienced the healing of the wind and the glory of the dancing stars and the calm face of the water.

Elbert Hubbard once wrote: "All of noise is waste. So cultivate quietness in your speech. Think in moderation. Let your conclusions be habitually low. Wait for attention and then your words will be well charged with dynamite." The noisy talker is as great a pest as a bunch of noise is a waste. A good and considerate driver of an automobile never uses his horn except for emergencies, and then lightly. I once left my car standing for one far above the street in my city to get rid of the eternal honking of horns and I was shouted upon them, and hear nothing!

Sometimes I like to hear the music of a great printing press, running off thousands or copies of a big edition of a newspaper owner once told me that he would rather be listed to the sound of the press than the grandest of grand opera! I like the noise of the wind, and the noise of rain upon the roof of my home. I like to listen to the waves that break upon the sandy shore. I like the noise of a good brass band, but I like but as delightful now as in my youth. I like the noise of cheering baseball fans. I like the noise of a train, bringing in a person, merely shift your eyes a-lilew a couple of degrees, and with a sudden expression of interest, stare at the person behind him. There is most confusing to the snubbee, for he or she sees you looking at him and the familiar light of interest in your eyes, perhaps with a slight smile, and he turns instead of the confused, dowicast or averted eyes that are likely as not, flatters them into thinking you are aware of them.

You will, however, another category of people you have to pass on the street those whom you are not sure you know or not. Maybe he or she is a person you should recognize and who will be hurt if you fail to.

This trick of looking with interest at the next one behind them saves the day for you. They will feel you just missed seeing them. They will take no offence. And after you have passed on a block you will suddenly recollect who the person was you decided not to know. It was a distant cousin, or the chap you hand your income tax forms in to.

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most of us have somebody in our family who likes to walk to speak to the street. It may be someone, we had a friend with a wife, in bed a year, or ten years ago. How to pass these people without losing face is a problem. Occasionally the person is one whom we take pains to avoid, and deliberately so by staring straight at them with a frozen face, or by averting our eyes haughtily.

But most of us are the kind who wish to let bygones be bygones, and it is a hard thing suddenly, in a crowded street, to come face to face with one of these you do not care any more to know. You have a split second in which to act. If you act wrongly, if you look confused, if you walk by merely downcast eyes, you feel like kicking yourself for the next half hour, and the impression of having lost face, of humiliation, lingers for days.

The best trick is to look, with lively interest, at the person who mediately behind the one you wish to snub. The instant you see that

Tongues of Fire

"Peter gave them the first fruits ... of the inspiration that now flooded his soul."

CHAPTER 15.

The day Christians call Pentecost was a great feast among the Jews. In Hebrew it was called Shabuoth, the second of the major annual feasts, falling fifty days after the Passover, at the end of the grain harvest. In the year of Christ's death and resurrection, as always, Jews came traveling from many parts of the world to worship in the Jerusalem Temple at that feast, to offer to God as He commanded: "the first fruits of your labors, which you saw in the field."

On that festival of the First Fruits, as all the apostles and disciples sat together in the Cenacle suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a mighty, rushing wind. It was noise of it could be heard through all the house where they were sitting.

"And there appeared to them parted tongues as if were of fire, and it sat upon every one of them. "And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost . . ."

The promise of the Saviour was kept. The Holy Ghost, in the form of cloven tongues of fire, descended upon them. Go spread the living word, wherever man is found —the Comforter is come! The Paraclete is here. The third person of the Godhead, the completion of the Trinity, the Holy Spirit from heaven is here on earth, here to remain until Judgment Day for the consolation and guidance of men.

The miraculous power of the Holy Ghost was instantly apparent, visible in the cloven tongues of fire, and audible in their own voices, the voices of unschooled and untraveled men which suddenly burst forth in a clamor of foreign speech. They "began to speak with divers tongues according as the Holy Ghost gave them to speak."

It was as if, here in the hallowed room of the Last Supper and the first communion, the punishment of Babel was reversed. Men who had not learned foreign languages suddenly understood them. They could go anywhere now and preach the truth to all nations, as the Lord had commanded.

And in amazement, the apostles ran into the streets, to speak with their new gift of tongues.

Soon a multitude surrounded them, and in the crowds were travelers from Europe and the Far East, men of many strains, speakers of all dialects. Yet when they called out questions to the apostles, they were answered in their own tongues. For every speech that was uttered that day, there was a Pentecostal apostle, baptized in a tongue of fire, and ready to answer in the same speech.

"What!" they cried. "Behold these fellows. Are not all of these who speak Galileans? Nothing more. What has happened to them, then? How can we hear from these fishermen, every man the tongue he was born to?"

To them Peter was to preach the first sermon of the Church, one of the greatest speeches of all time.

In a fine, discriminating, and definite statement Peter gave them the first fruits, not only of his inner searchings of recent days, but of the inspiration that now flooded his soul.

As he stood before the multitude, the wind blowing through his tawny hair and beard, his hand raised to command attention, Peter was a startling, arresting sight. In his eyes burned a mystical ardor that even the dullest eye could not miss. The other apostles and disciples crowded near, behind him, their eyes lifted to heaven as they whispered their prayers. This was not like the ordinary behavior of ordinary men.

"These man are full of new wine", said many in the crowd. But they were intoxicated only with the wine of the Holy Spirit that warmed and strengthened them all.

Hear Peter speak: "Ye men of Judaea, and all you that dwell in Jerusalem, be this known to you, and with your ears receive my words. For these are not drunk, as you suppose, seeing it is but the third hour of the day!

"But this is that which was spoken of by the prophet Joel: 'And it shall come to pass, in the last days (saith the Lord), I will pour out of My Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams. And upon my servants indeed, and upon My handmaids will I pour out in those days of My Spirit, and they shall prophesy. And I will show wonders in the heaven above, and signs on the earth beneath; blood and fire, and vapor of smoke. The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and manifest day of the Lord come. And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved.'

And every man, from every country, in that crowd understood Peter's words, as if they were uttered in his own tongue.

When they heard these things, they had compunction in their heart," and said to Peter, and to the rest of the apostles, 'What shall we do, men and brethren?'

And Peter said to them: 'Do penance, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of your sins: and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. For the promise is to you, and to your children, and to all that are far off, whomsoever the Lord our God shall call."

They heard Peter's discourse with amazement, on this Whitsunday, as was an unparalleled spectacle; this huge man of Galilean accent, so unmistakably a fisherman from a long line of boatmen; so humble and even a slundering man, yet now full of fire and light, as wisdom and prophecy seemed to leap into words from his mouth.

"Save yourselves from this perverse generation," Peter pleaded with them. And in the multiplying scores of years since that day, was a Pentecostal apostle, baptized in a tongue of fire, and ready to answer in the same speech.

"What!" they cried. "Behold these fellows. Are not all of these who speak Galileans? Nothing

CTV NEWS

by Gene Hitchon

The night before the American TV show Bride and Groom was to go on the air, program officials held a conference with a couple who were to be married on the show. The bride, in the usual manner, had sent out invitations to all her friends to be at their TV sets at the appointed hour.

They would win a mountain of gifts for their new home and the program people explained, and would get an expense-paid honeymoon to Fridoodoo, Cal.

What the prospective bridegroom exploded. New Jersey! that's just across the river from New York. To the groom, Fridoodoo, California, is the way to California on some honeymoon.

The bride said Bride and Groom sounded all right to her, but her future husband "doesn't get out of a bicycle, he walks. That did it. The bride-to-be, from Jersey, said she would take Reading.

The show ended in a scene that sounded like a French short story. The bride and groom, after the return of the night, tripped into his fiancee's apartment to drop into her bedroom. But the bride had changed beds with her father, the father jumped up from under the sheets, grabbed the helpless young man and they packed him off on the opposite of a bicycle, he went.

All of which proves that when it isn't tugging at your heart strings, television is handing you a laugh a minute. If you're not in the fortunate minority of TV owners, you can see the show in the vicinity of our store drop in and let's get acquainted. We'll show you the full range of models and sizes and gladly answer any questions you may have. We'd like you to meet Bride and Groom, too. We've room enough in the window to see them better yet made and it's free! Finally, we'll install, tune up the service we provide. HITCHON RADIO and TELEVISION 4 Bridge Street East, phone 854.

A WILDLY INAPPROPRIATE MARRIAGE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am very much in love with a married man of 40. He loves me so much that he has left his wife for me. We plan to marry just as soon as I am 18.

Don't you think I have a better chance of happiness with an older man who has some money and can take good care of me? We have been in love for over two years, and he is so good to me and has given me so many nice clothes and presents. My mother approves of our marriage because he can take care of me.

Please tell me what you think.

M.J.

Dear M.J.:

I don't think is that I don't know which of you three is the craziest, the married man, the girl or yourself. You, I would say, are the least at fault, since you are obviously so young and have had no judgment at all and no doubt feel toward this man as you would feel toward a father who would protect and foster you. But what kind of man would he be, at 35, would want a 16-year-old girl for a wife is beyond comprehension, and he is also the kind of mother who would want such a marriage for her teen-age daughter.

I am virtually certain that nothing I can say against this proposed marriage of yours would carry the weight that your mother against the persuasion of this man himself as well as that of your mother, plus your own wishes. But because I sense in the fact that you have asked my advice a real decision, however faint, on your part, I hesitate to write you bluntly as I can, not to ruin your whole life by the wildly inappropriate marriage. For if you do, you are likely senseless as to go ahead with it, there is almost certain to come a time, and sooner than you think, when you will be one of the saddest and most pitiful girls in the world, longing for the people, the good times and the friendships that normally belong to your own age group, and cut off from them all.

HAS THIS WOMAN LOST ANY-THING BUT A LIABILITY?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

In October, 1949, I married my second husband with whom I have lived a hard life, as he has been a heavy drinker. He is the father of ten grown children, and I have no children of my own.

Last September my husband went to the hospital with a heart attack. He expects to go back to work eventually but was told that he would never be able to do the work any more, so he left me the rent to pay and both his children. I cannot work, as I have a heart condition myself and also diabetes, which is why I would like to know is, are his children due any right by helping to make his marriage vows? — Mrs. F.

Dear Mrs. F.

You speak of your husband's children "helping him to break his marriage vows," but I am not sure I quite understand what you mean. If you mean that by taking him to live with them they have broken up your marriage, I can't see that they have deprived you of anything but a liability, since you say he was not going to be able to work anyhow and also that he has been a problem ever since you married him. In view of all the circumstances, it seems to me that you are far better off without this man than you were with him. There is nothing in your letter that suggests you have any love for him. If that is the case, and since he is not able of support you and you evidently are unable to support him, I would say that his children have done you a favor in taking a heavy burden off your shoulders.

What I would suggest that you do is to consult a social welfare organization in your community and ask them to advise you on your own future. If you really are unable to work because of your physical condition, possibly this organization can get medical attention for you that would put you in sufficiently good health so that you could contribute in some degree at least to your own support. Or possibly they would feel it advisable to seek some support for you from your husband's family. In any event, they would study your case carefully and help you work out the problem.

If you do not know the name and address of such a welfare organization near you, let me know and I will suggest one.

YOU CAN GET HELP IF YOU REALLY WANT IT: NOT OTHER-WISE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Last summer, at a beach resort, I met a fellow named Jake and fell in love with him immediately. The feeling was mutual between us until I started to enjoy drinking.

Now, Jake will have nothing to do with me and, as a result, I can't eat or sleep. All I can do is to try and drown my sorrows in liquor. I can't go on like this because, in addition to losing Jake, I have now lost all my self-respect and I'm in desperate need of help. Please try to help me. — Ann G.

Dear Ann:

It is tragic enough when an older person tries to forget his problems by drinking, but it is even worse for a young person of your age to try and escape them in this way.

Right now, it would be impossible for me to suggest to you that you should pull yourself together, stop drinking and recognize your life by facing whatever your problems may be in a mature and dependable sort way, because if you were the sort of person who could do that you would not have turned to liquor in the first place.

The very best suggestion I can give you is that you get in touch with the nearest Alcoholics Anonymous group and ask help in straightening yourself out. If you sincerely want this sort of help these people will come promptly to your aid. If you are not deeply sincere, however, they will not bother with you. So you had better make up your mind definitely in advance whether or not you seriously want to stop drinking and make a new start in life.

I repeat, if you truly want help, you can get it through this organization. And depend upon it, only yourself. As you know already, drinking solves no problems; it only creates them.

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Would you please help me with a few of my baking problems? Now that we have a propane stove my cakes raise very high, but when they are three-quarters done they drop about an inch. My angel food drops about 1 1-2 inches, also my chiffon cakes: I have the glass in from an old oven and I never open it until it is in the right time and then I usually have to bake it about 10 to 15 minutes overtime. . . . could you please send me an angel cake recipe, which I could bake on a propane stove without dropping, and a very light, fine grain fruit cake, and could I use cake flour for fruit cake? —Mrs. G. T.

ANSWER:

Because you said you had to leave the cakes in overtime that you have a clue, for whether your fuel is electricity or natural or manufactured gas or propane does not figure. It is the temperature that does. Your oven temperature is too high for angel-ing-low. Try setting the control 25 deg. higher than you have been. Then, if only 10 min bake the cakes overtime boost the temperature a little higher. I have mailed you the recipe for white fruit cake which appeared on this page a few weeks ago and readers wrote to me saying it was delicious.

ANGEL FOOD (16-inch tube)

(Please do exactly as recipe says if you want your cake to be tender and light.)

Sift cake flour and measure 1 cup; sift it three times with 7-8 cup granulated sugar. Whip to stiff froth 1 measuring cup less 2 level tablespoons) from a large mixing platter or into a large mixing bowl measure 1 1-2 cups egg whites (about 12). 1-2 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon almond flavoring, and beat these with wire whip until very foamy. Add sugar and stiff, then begin adding, 2 tablespoons sprinkled over at a time, an additional 3-4 cup granulated sugar (making 1 1-2 cups sugar in all). Beat until thin meringue-like mixture will stand up in stiff peaks. Then sift over it in about three siftings the sifted-together flour and sugar mixture, folding gently until flour-sugar mixture disappears. Push this batter into your ungreased tube pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 45 minutes. In your case, Mrs. G. T. I would raise the temperature to 375 deg. Fahr. to see if it is the thermometer on your propane stove that is regulating the low. If it will bake more time than 45 minutes at 375 raise to 400 and I'll bet your propane stove thermostat may need re-calibrating.

Let me know how you make out.

QUESTION:

I would like to have a few ideas for a Sunday breakfast and would like to have some suggestions from you as to what would be nice to serve, apart from the usual grapefruit, bacon, eggs, toast and coffee. This is for between services.

ANSWER:

Why not have a mixed grill? Grilled lambs' kidneys, a fluffy scrambled eggs with bits of crisp bacon, fresh mushrooms and boneless smoked kippers. Then there are popovers or hot cornmeal gems, or warm freshly made coffee cake. Buy some unusual marmalade such as lemon or ginger. Serve cafe au lait, French style—that is half double-strength coffee and half boiling hot whole milk. A fruit that we found popular at a breakfast party was ice cold canned fancy figs. If you decide on grapefruit you could section them in the half-skins by cutting out with scissors the membrane after it is loosened from the pulp, with a knife, and insert wafer-thin slices of banana, between the pulp pieces, and a cherry—green—at top.

I've mailed the Six in One cookie recipe.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

SHORT GIRLS CAN LOOK TALLER

Compared to the extra tall girl, the short one has the best of the beauty bargain. Tall ones are embarrassed when dancing with men not as tall as themselves, must always be on their dignity, can't go in for ruffs'n'fluff when selecting their clothes. "Shorty" can wear cute frocks, be proud of her tiny hands and small feet. Whether her boy friends are short, tall or in between makes little or no doesn't matter.

Girls in their teens can promote growth by drinking plenty of milk which contains calcium, bone-forming material. They should have outdoor exercise which helps the circulatory system to distribute nourishment to every cell of the body, the bones, sinews, muscles and sleep they should have nine hours of slumber every night.

Keeping the spine column fully extended is not only as said to promote appearance but aids the functioning of the internal organs which need room to work in order to enjoy a sense of well-being. The healthy, vital, highly-energized girl is the beauty. To attain normal weight and measurements than the one whose eating habits are unusual or all wrong. Getting a teen-ager to eat properly is a problem in many homes and is one reason why some mothers almost lose their minds.

The short girl who has progressed into young womanhood can make herself appear taller by the manner in which she dresses. Fabrics of solid color are more flattering than figured ones though small, delicate patterns are acceptable. Heavy materials, like brocades and velvets, are not as expensive of height as those that are light in weight or sheer. It is wise to avoid cross lines, like flounces on skirts, wide belts, square-cut neck lines.

The short hair cut is her beauty dish. If she has a bushy arrangement or wears her hair shoulder length it is likely that her head will look out of proportion to her petite silhouette.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

MEMORABLE TOASTS AT WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please give me some information about the toasts at a wedding reception? What toasts are proposed? Who proposes the toast to the bride, and who responds to this toast? Who proposes to the toast to the Bridesmaids, and who responds to that? — E.

There are a gay happy, memorable part of the wedding reception! Usually there is no absolutely definite procedure. . . . unless, as in some communities, it is the custom to have a master of ceremonies who follows a prescribed pattern.

There may be only one toast, that so-important toast "To the Bride and Groom," proposed by the best man, and responded to by the groom, or the father of the bride in behalf of his bride and himself. Or the clergyman who performed the ceremony may propose a toast to the bride, the groom responding to this toast. Then either the groom or groom may propose a toast to The Bride's Attendants (maid of honor and bridesmaids) and the head usher may respond to this. The groom may propose a toast to his best man and ushers.

I think there should always be a toast "to the Bride's Mother and Father, the hosts of the occasion, and to her Father, Mother and Father, the guests of honor of the wedding. The groom proposes a toast to his bride; and the bride proposes a toast to her groom. There is a delightful festive toast to the couple when "The Bride Cuts the Cake," the groom holding his right hand over her right hand. Other toasts may be proposed as the spirit inspired to "say a few words."

SOUP AT LUNCHEONS IS SERVED IN CUPS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As wedding presents I received a set of bouillon cups and a set of soup plates, medium-size. A question of the service of soup, please. I don't know how often I ever serve a clear soup (consomme for example) when I give a luncheon party. I should use the bouillon cups. But when I serve a thick soup at luncheon (vichyssoise, for example), should I use my soup plates?

A New Hostess

No. No matter what kind of soup you serve at luncheon, clear or thick or even chowder, you should serve it in cups.

NOT IN GOOD SOCIAL STANDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've always used the word "highball" for a long drink (scotch, rye, bourbon, and so forth) and I'm sure my friends did too. But now my husband twe were married two months ago tells me I should not use the word "highball," that it is not, as he says, "in good social standing." The question came up a few days ago when I asked some guests if they "would like a highball." What about this, Mrs. Beeckman, is my husband right about this usage? M—Joan S.

Yes, your husband is right about this. . . the word "highball" is not "in good social standing." (Your husband says it perfectly.) You ask a guest "Will you have scotch or rye, gin or what's your choice or water?" Or, instead of giving your order as a "highball," you say, "Scotch and soda, please," or whatever is your wish.

SEATING THE LADIES IN A RESTAURANT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In a restaurant where there are booths seats against the wall (they seem to be called by various names) how are a group of women and men seated?

Virginia M.

Since these booths (or "sofa seats" (or banquettes" or whatever-name-given-them) are considered more desirable than chairs are given these seats, with the men facing them, seated in the easier chairs.

A BELATED THANKS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Today we received a Christmas present from my widow of a man my husband worked for several years ago. The delay was due to the fact that we had moved, and the card was re-addressed incorrectly. My husband died last summer, and since I hadn't her new address I did not send our usual Christmas card. We have never met this lady, did not hear of her husband's death until some time afterward, and I sent no note of sympathy. (He was not married when my husband worked for him.) However, now I feel that I should write her the card. Do you think I should just thank her for it explaining it had just arrived, or should I, as late, express my sympathy? Perhaps you would suggest a form of note. — H.K.

Your husband's former employer apparently did not feel friendly remembrance of your husband that he passed away this autumnal to his wife, and apparently too she wanted to keep this bond with you and your husband. So I'm sure she would find special comfort if you would write her something like this:

Dear Mrs. Davis:

Norman and I have just received your card (it was delayed because we had moved, and the card was re-addressed incorrectly), and we both thank you deeply for your kind thought of us.

We do want to tell you too, dear Mrs. Davis, of our sympathy for you in the passing on of such a splendid friend as your husband was. We were devoted to him, were so proud of his friendship. We know how difficult must be the readjustment for you to living without his dear companionship. You have been most thoughtful to keep in touch with us, we are very grateful for this, and we hope that sometime we will have the happiness of knowing you. Do let us know if you ever come our way.

Every good wish to you, always.

Sincerely

Mrs. St. Laurent Appears Anxious During Greetings Obviously Tired Husband

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. Jeanne St. Laurent tried hard to smile.

But it was obvious that she was anxious. She hardly took her eyes off her husband.

Prime Minister St. Laurent came down the aircraft ramp after his world flight and he looked tired. His face was drawn. As one member of the RCAF crew said: "Everybody tired. It was a long haul."

Mrs. St. Laurent, dressed in a smart purple velvet hat and mink coat, was at Rockcliffe airport 20 minutes before the big C-5 plane was scheduled to land.

She chatted with members of her family and cabinet ministers and their wives. But her eyes kept going to the nearby sky. She showed her anxiety when she declined to talk to reporters, saying to say that she was happy. As a rule at public functions, Mrs. St. Laurent is animated with newspaper men.

After the plane came in and rolled to a stop in front of the terminal and the prime minister stood at the top of the ramp, Mrs. St. Laurent seemed to be saying a little prayer. When he left she had said: "I am putting everything in God's hands."

GIRL HE LEFT BEHIND

Mr. St. Laurent carried a Hawaiian lei and he draped around his wife's neck. Then he kissed her. The RCAF band played "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

After that, the happy throng out front of the terminal swarmed around them, sweeping Mr. St. Laurent away on a tide of backslaking and shouts of "hi, Louie."

Mrs. St. Laurent remained in the background, smiling happily sometimes but more often looking at her husband anxiously.

In the terminal, the prime minister remained standing while he talked for several minutes with reporters. Mrs. St. Laurent sat beside him, looking anxiously into his face.

As the press conference broke up and the prime minister walked out to a waiting car, Mrs. St. Laurent looked happier than she had all evening.

Russian Knowledge of Canada Vague Says Writer Bill Boss

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP)—The best way to describe Canada to a Russian seems to be as a republic.

Ivan Sergeyitch is so full of "capitalism," "imperialism" and "colonialism," and his knowledge of Canada is so vague that that seems the simplest way of making clear the difference of both the United States and Britain.

It's no good saying that the positions of both the Queen and her governor-general in Canada are merely symbolic or that American investments in Canada are subject to Canadian law. He just doesn't believe it.

"Republics," however, is a term he understands. But in his view Canada won't really qualify as an independent country until it is a "people's republic," that is, a Communistan state.

USUALLY RESERVED

Occasions on which Russians overcome their diffidence about speaking with foreigners are rare. But they occur, especially with taxi-drivers and in restaurants.

Most who approach our table or invite you to theirs (a rare thing) are students.

Three students joined the table in succession, attracted by my green magnolead lapel button, emblem of the Canadian War Correspondents Association. They were keen to know about Canada.

"Do you have things as well in Canada as we do here? Is Canada as advanced as the Soviet Union? Is your system as good as ours? Does every one receive an education? What do you pay your universally students? Do you really have to pay for medical attention?"

To their disbelief I gave reply that the average living standard is unquestionably higher now there than in the U.S.S.R. In some respects Canada is 50 years ahead of the U.S.S.R. In others the countries seem approximately abreast.

CANADIAN EDUCATION

Education, you say, is compulsory in most provinces to the age of 16. We don't pay your students anything. Some earn scholarships but most who want to can work their way through college. Medical care is paid for by the individual but we have health insurance plans.

As students they are enthusiastical for the Russian system which gives those with good marks a monthly stipend, drawn by an estimated 80 to 90 per cent.

A university student with a cousin in the United States said he'd like to write to him and compare notes. "But I'm afraid that if I do I'll get him into trouble with the authorities there."

Talks about "world tension," "peace" and "disarmament" are tricky because the local mind is so convinced by available accounts of the genesis of NATO and the periphery of bases.

"We are very disappointed in our wartime allies," they say.

HOPES DASHED

"We all hoped, when the war against Germany ended in 1945, that the era of peace would open. Instead you have dashed our hopes."

"But really," you reply, "you are in no position to say that. You know only one-half the picture—know only one-half the picture—what your press has thought you ought to know. We are disappointed and we think that a good part of the responsibility is yours."

The answer:

"It is easily seen that you have a prejudiced mind. Our press looks at world events with one collective mind and interprets them to us in terms of our collective interests. Our press keeps us fully informed."

The Voice of America doesn't often reach Moscow but the BBC does. Do people listen? I've spoken with university students who do.

"In our discussion groups we openly say that the BBC has distortion and such a line on a given point. It is interesting to know what the other side is saying. But it is still the voice of the imperialists."

FOUND JOB

STRATFORD (CP) — A youth who appeared in court Thursday was fined a job by police and told to keep out of the company of his step-father, Sullivan Sullivan, 17, of St. Pauls, was given a two-year suspended sentence on charges of stealing chain saws. His step-father, George Leversage, was given an adjournment until March 25 on a charge of theft of a chain saw.

Brigade Members No Saints But Many 'Get Religion'

By JACK BRAYLEY

IN KOREA (CP) — Canada's forty 25th Brigade tining the demilitarized zone are no saints, but many have "got religion".

Both Roman Catholic and Protestant voluntary spiritual training courses have capacity attendance and waiting lists.

Maj. J. R. Beaupariant of Montreal, senior Roman Catholic padre, says the courses are appealing to the "real tough guys" who have the courage to improve their minds.

Jack Brayley

NO SISSIES

"We don't get sissies on these courses," he said. "The sissies are the guys who go around boasting of what they think are he-man instincts but are actually grave weaknesses in their character."

Maj. Jack Anderson of London, Ont., who won two Military Crosses serving with the Highland Light Infantry of Galt, Ont., is senior Protestant padre. He's a Presbyterian but has representatives of all denominations on his staff.

"The keen and serious interest shown in spiritual values has been a terrific inspiration in our program," he said. "The lads have come forward voluntarily and after serious study and acceptance of the Christian concepts have gone back to their units, better soldiers and better Canadians."

Both Maj. Beaupariant and Maj. Anderson say they'd like to see the voluntary religious courses extended to army formations in Canada and Europe.

Focal point of the training centre is a green and white church on top of a hill. The church is actually a quonset hut with a steeple.

MILITARY TOUCHES

The altar is carpeted, a decorative flower vase is made out of an empty shell case emblazoned with a cross, and the hymn books are stored in an ammunition box.

The Roman Catholics have three-day courses every two weeks while the Protestants have one-week courses every five weeks. The volunteers come from the compulsory "padre's hour" which is held weekly in each unit. The instruction at the religious centre or retreat leads in most cases to confirmation or joining the church.

For instance, in a week in mid-February about 40 each from the Roman Catholic and Protestant schools became church members.

All the courses touch on religious history, doctrine, ethics and morals.

"These courses are one of the most important phases of our training program and we've had real practical results from them in making good soldiers and good Canadians," Brig. Jean Allard, brigade commander, said. "We find they contribute tremendously to developing leadership."

All ranks and all units are represented in each course and the men on the waiting list eventually are accommodated in the restricted facilities of the retreat at brigade headquarters.

The program also includes sports periods and sing-songs and each class does a little choir practice to the accompaniment of a battered foot-organ.

Port Colborne Man Now Turned Into Woman

WELLAND (CP) — Dr. Stuart Wilson said today he recently completed the final step of transforming a young Port Colborne man into a woman. So far as is known, the case was the first in which the medical transformation was finished in Canada. Name of the patient was not disclosed.

He said his patient left Port Colborne about a year ago and, somewhere in the United States, underwent the initial operations to change his sex.

The youth had been born with the sex characteristics of both male and female and was brought up as a male.

"But there was no doubt that the patient was mostly a woman," said the doctor.

Train Fails In Errand of Mercy In Northland

NORTH BAY (CP)—A locomotive roaring down the single line of Ontario Northland Railway track that connects the isolated area south of James Bay with medical assistance at Cochrane, failed Thursday in an errand of mercy.

Raymond McDonald, about 30, his leg severed below the knee, died before he could be brought to Cochrane hospital.

Officials of the railway said McDonald apparently slipped and fell under the wheels of their "Polar Bear Express" at Island Falls, 42 miles north of Cochrane.

There were no witnesses to the accident.

Railway officials said McDonald was travelling on the northbound train to meet relatives at Island Falls. His daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Chenoski, were on the platform to meet him.

Hit by Two Cars, Sarnia Man Dies

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A 55-year-old Sarnia man, James Benson, was killed Thursday night on highway 2 near Lesperance road. A Welland man received slight injuries.

Stephen Toth, 46, Welland, was treated for minor injuries at hospital, then released in custody of provincial police.

Benson, a veteran driver for Overland Transport was headed for Windsor when he ran out of fuel just west of Lesperance and set out on foot to find a telephone.

Laurie Allison Barkhouse of Picton, N. S., driving a pickup truck, stopped to give Benson a lift. Benson had reached the rear of Barkhouse's truck when Toth's car approached.

Police said Toth jammed on his brakes and skidded 75 feet into the rear of the pickup, throwing Benson across the highway.

Benson landed on the pavement, police said, and was struck by another car which ran over and dragged a further 25 feet along the road.

The front of the Toth car was wrecked, police said, Barkhouse's light truck was tossed across a narrow ditch into a field, 200 feet from the point of impact.

Cecil McCarthy's Shannonville Home is Gutted

SHANNONVILLE — In a second blaze at the home this week, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McCarthy, Shannonville, was almost completely gutted by fire early this afternoon.

The blaze started in the attic of the home during the noon hour," Mr. McCarthy had come home for dinner when, as he was eating his dinner, he heard what he thought was hail on the roof. Further investigation revealed the entire upstairs of the home was ablaze.

Some of the downstairs furnishings were saved, but the entire upstairs was gutted and the roof caved in before firemen from Belleville were able to extinguish the fire. The home had been built only a few years.

Belleville firemen were called to the McCarthy home on Tuesday morning when a small garage almost adjoining the McCarthy home was destroyed by fire. Only fast work by firemen saved the home at that time.

Labor Leaders Dissatisfied With Legislation

TORONTO (CP) — Some labor leaders today expressed disappointment with Labor Relations Act amendments introduced Thursday in the Ontario legislature by Labor Minister Daley.

Under the amendments, the labor minister would have power to refuse to appoint a conciliation board in a labor dispute, pre-conciliation time would be cut from 70 to 50 days, and employees would have more say in determining the size of a bargaining unit.

A. F. MacArthur, president of the 200,000-member Ontario Federation of Labor (AFL - TLC), called the changes "definitely inadequate." He expressed regret the government had not introduced the voluntary revocable checkoff and he said the amendments are "far removed from the constructive amendments proposed by labor."

Said Eamon Park, legislative director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL): "Mr. Daley's proposals will introduce a political element into collective bargaining because pressure will undoubtedly be applied when the minister has to appoint a board or to refuse."

James Robertson of the Street Railway Union (AFL-TLC) said if the conciliation amendment means a union can go on strike without going through the delays of conciliation, "it's a good one."

Miner is Killed And Six Hurt

ASBESTOS, Que. (CP) — One miner was killed and six others were slightly injured Thursday when they fell from a holes which tilted while carrying them up a shaft of the Johns-Manville asbestos mine here.

Emmett Proulx, 32, Danville, Que., was killed.

The men were employees of the J. McIsaac construction firm of Sudbury, digging a new level in the mine about 1,200 feet underground.

Labor Congress Repeats Demands For Govt. Lottery

OTTAWA (CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada Thursday repeated demands for a government-sponsored lottery.

The 580,000-member labor organization suggested an amendment to the Criminal Code allowing the federal government to set up a national lottery. The proceeds, after prizes and administration, should be placed in government coffers instead of being used for a specific purpose, the brief added.

The TLC also recommended that labor organizations and service clubs be permitted to hold raffles and draws up to any amount which in the opinion of provincial attorneys-general are reasonable. The criminal law limits to $50 the value of raffle prizes.

The recommendations were made in a 1,500-word brief prepared for presentation to the Commons-Senate committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries.

On lotteries, the TLC said they find favor with many Canadians who participate in lotteries sponsored in other countries.

Its two reasons for proposing a government-sponsored national lottery:

"First, we believe that the widely expressed desire of Canadians to participate in lotteries should be recognized and steps taken will make it possible for our people to participate in lotteries legally, and secondly, we believe that this form of raising revenues is sound and proper, if administered efficiently and objectively."

Essex County Becomes Scene of Oil Lease Battle

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Essex county has become the scene of an all-issue battle between two Canadian oil companies.

During the past few months Imperial Oil and the Calvan Consolidated Oil and Gas Company have been buying almost every available acre's of rights.

Two big oil lease deals were reported Thursday.

An Imperial Oil spokesman in Toronto said one deal, involving over 15,000 acres, was "only peanuts." In another deal, the Elgin Oil and Gas Prospecting Company signed over a total of about 365 oil leases to the Calvan Oil Company.

In all, the farmers who have sold leases on their farms are spread across eight townships.

The spokesman said Imperial may start "drilling a few holes" this year but added that plans were vague.

Gave Truck Driver A Ride To Murder Victim

HAMILTON (CP) — Provincial police have launched an extensive search in this area for the driver of a transport truck they are convinced gave Windsor murder victim Fern Heskell a ride from here early Saturday.

Inspector J. L. Needham of the Ontario provincial police said it has been established that a semi-trailer truck slowed down where the girl was standing at the junction of highways 2 and 8 about 1:35 a. m. He said police have a description of the truck.

It was the first break since local taxi driver Vern Kopp told police he drove the young woman to the junction. She told him she was going to hitchhike to Windsor.

The girl's battered, half-clothed body was found in a ditch near Windsor Saturday afternoon.

Proposed Drew Make Journey Around World

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has been asked to make it possible for Opposition Leader Drew to make a trip around the world.

The proposal was made Thursday in the Commons by J. H. Ferguson (PC—Simcoe North) after leaders of opposition groups had welcomed Prime Minister St. Laurent back to Ottawa after his six weeks' tour of Europe and Asia.

Mr. Ferguson said such a trip would enable the leader of the opposition to see world conditions with his own eyes and speak with greater authority on international affairs and conditions affecting Canada. He said he was confident his proposal would be supported by the Commons as a sensible and sane move.

Well-Head Blast Ruins Oil Well Near Edmonton

LEGAL, Alta. (CP) — Dense black smoke—partly by flames reaching 150 feet in the air marks the site of a well-head explosion and fire early today in a new Imperial Oil well in this district, about 35 miles north of Edmonton. There was no immediate report of injuries.

Imperial Oil officials, who identified the well as the Volmer in the Fairyhill district, arrived on the scene shortly after the blaze broke out at 2:30 a.m. Member of the drilling crew said the flames have crumpled the rig and that the fire will have to burn itself out.

More Excavations For Yonge Street

TORONTO (CP)—Reprieve was in sight, but now the prayers of Torontonians have been dashed to the ground—just under the ground in fact. The city is going to dig up Yonge street again. With the new subway scheduled to begin operation March 1 the city engineer's department announced Thursday that the street may be completely blocked while they tear up the street car tracks.

Jebb Wants China In UN As Soon As Aggression Ends

LONDON (AP) — Britain's former United Nations delegate, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, thinks the Communist Chinese should be admitted to the United Nations as soon as most UN members believe the Reds "have purged themselves of their aggressive spirit and are not likely to engage in a further one."

He spoke Thursday night at the annual dinner of the Pilgrims, a society for promoting British-American understanding, a few hours after Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., United States delegate to the UN, told a press conference in New York that he would use the veto if necessary to bar the Chinese Reds.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the UN, another guest at the Pilgrims dinner, backed up Jebb's statements, saying: "If the world organization is a 'sheer necessity' in President Eisenhower's words and a 'heart' desire' in Sir Winston Churchill's, then the representation of all the main centres of power in the world must be there."

Jebb, now ambassador to Paris after four years at the UN, also said he felt the Security Council "is useless as an instrument of dealing with any serious aggression" until the UN becomes "in effect a world state, and that will be a long time yet."

Deny Princess Smokes Cigars

LONDON (Reuters) — "No, no," gasped the indignant Buckingham Palace official, "the Princess does not smoke cheroots."

And up in smoke went the rosy dreams of makers of the baby cigars, who had hoped for spiraling sales after word got about that Princess Margaret puffed an occasional cheroot.

The official added: "We don't know how such a rumor was started. No one has ever seen the princess smoke one."

Report Fred Clarke Slightly Improved

Church Wants Sport Vote Issue Clarified

TORONTO (CP) — A group of church officials Thursday asked Premier-Frost to make it clear that commercial public games and sports are not of the types when Sunday sports votes are held.

The deputation, whose views were presented by Toronto's Canon W. W. Judd of the Church of England in Canada, asked that the Lord's Day Act be changed with that in mind. The act was passed in 1950.

The deputation asked that the word "commercial" be inserted before the words "public games and sports" to the question submitted to voters.

McCarthy Has Laryngitis But Still Intends to Speak

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Senator McCarthy today was confined to bed with virus laryngitis and a temperature of 103, but the Republican said he still plans tonight's reply to speech by Adlai E. Stevenson, 1952 Democratic presidential nominee.

McCarthy's doctor, however, advised a day or two of rest.

Stevenson, in a recent address to a Democratic party gathering in Miami, said the chief objectives of McCarthy and his supporters include "not only the intimidation and silencing of all independent institutions and opinions in our society but the capture of one of our great instruments of political action—the Republican party."

"The end result, in short," said Stevenson, "is a malign and fatal totalitarianism."

Dr. Ralph Hanson, who examined McCarthy Thursday night at his hotel, said his condition was brought on by overwork, excessive fatigue and exposure.

McCarthy announced after the Stevenson speech that he would demand free and equal time for a reply from the radio and television networks (CBS and NBC) that had carried it.

BEATEN TO DRAW

But the Republican national committee beat him to the draw, chairman Leonard Hall saying the speech called for an answer from the party rather than any individual.

With Eisenhower's approval, Vice President Richard Nixon was selected for the assignment and in a nationally televised address Saturday night said that Eisenhower is "the unquestioned leader of the Republican party."

This was in reply to Stevenson's charge that the Republican party was "divided against itself, half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

Blocked in that effort, McCarthy picked an address here tonight to the Milwaukee County Young Republican Club to make his reply. The Chicago Tribune radio station, WGN, announced they would broadcast his speech, and offered to let other stations carry it if they wished.

PM Says Asian Democracies Feel Canada is Growing More Important in World Affairs

EXILED CHINESE CALLS FORMOSA A "POLICE STATE".

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says the Asian democracies feel that Canada is "taking on increasing importance in world affairs" and that her influence is "always apt to be helpful for stability and peace."

That was one of the main points brought out by Mr. St. Laurent Thursday in his report to the Commons on his world tour. He answered many Wednesday night.

The prime minister, who returned from an parties to be entered in the chamber for the first time in six weeks, confined himself to general remarks and did not go into his talks with world leaders. He said he would have later opportunities for that.

In discussing the Asian part of his tour, Mr. St. Laurent remarked: "I got the impression that these countries welcomed the development of this new Canadian nation as an element that was going to serve more in the world in its intercourse in the family of nations."

". . . They felt that this is a new country that is developing and that requires good relations with the whole world, and that its growth and strength will be an element of stability that will be helpful to us all."

MAY BE BLUFFING

The prime minister indicated he thinks President Syngman Rhee of South Korea was bluffing when he recently threatened to attack North Korea if the armistice is not signed.

Mr. St. Laurent said he had dinner with Rhee, "which is not too firmly convinced that the (U.S.) state department is always right, but I did not get the impression that he was going to do very much about it."

Dealing with Germany and Japan, the prime minister said he believes the leaders of those countries are striving sincerely to get along peacefully with their neighbors and have no intention of trying to overthrow them.

In Italy, Premier Scelba and his government are making friendly with the Communists and they were quite confident they can keep the upper hand.

The prime minister's conversations with Prime Minister Nehru of India were "very frank." Mr. Nehru had explained the "results of the ferments that are now taking place among those hundreds of millions of people."

Mr. St. Laurent described the attitude of Canadian servicemen in Europe and Korea as very high and splendid.

STOLEN GOODS DANGEROUS

RUSSIA MAY GET SHIPS

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain can supply Russia with 10,000-ton cargo ships "within certain security limits," J. P. L. Thomas, first lord of the admiralty, told the House of Commons Thursday night. A Russian trade delegation now in London has been informed of this, he said.

Worst Beginning For Navigation In Years Likely

MONTREAL (CP) — A spokesman for the Great Lakes shipping industry said the "worst beginning" in Great Lakes navigation in 15 years is likely.

He predicted that two weeks after-opening of navigation half the bulk carriers will be idle. The Great Lakes fleets, including tankers, total around 225.

The spokesman said 12 grain-laden ships wintered in Montreal Harbor authorities have said they will be discharged by the start of the season. But there are 30 other ships reported between Montreal and Kingston all without Montreal with their loads of grain and for which there is no space here.

Shipping companies have been advised that the St. Lawrence canals—Lachine, Soulanges, Cornwall, Morrisburg and Cardinal—will be drained this week-end and kept closed 30 days for repairs and cleaning. Last year the canals opened April 8 and grain ships moved down through the lakes to this port.

Ship owners have indicated they are little concerned about the late opening of canals in view of the current situation. They also foresee unemployment among lake seamen.

Two Canadians Found Reds Just Curious

SEOUL (AP) — Two Canadian soldiers captured and later released by the Reds in Korea's neutral zone said today that they were questioned but not harmed or threatened.

The two were returned to the United Nations command Wednesday following 29 hours of captivity in the Panmunjom neutral area.

Pte. Douglas Grant Phillips of Kitchener and Pte. James Andrew Chiang of Toronto, both of the Black Watch Regiment, told Canadian officers the Chinese Reds apparently were more curious than determined to get military information.

The two were taken prisoner while patrolling in the neutral zone. The Communists claimed they were in the Communist half of the zone, but the UN command says they were in the southern half.

Piercey and Phillips said they were marched to a bunker, where the questioning started.

"They asked us what books we had read lately," Phillips said "but all we told them was our names, ranks and official number."

Phillips said a Chinese officer told them: "What is the leader of New China?"

"I couldn't care less!", Phillips said he answered. The two said they were given three meals and three hours of sleep.

MAY STRIKE

NEWMARKET (CP) — Employees of one of Canada's largest calf leather-tanning companies Thursday night voted to strike if the company fails to negotiate a contract under recent recommendations of a conciliation board. ## Senator Promises to Reveal All of Army's Memorandum

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Stuart Symington (Dem., Mo.) pledged today that the public will "get all the facts" that were censored out of a United States Army memorandum critical of Senator McCarthy and his staff, if the defense department still has them.

Publication of the memorandum was part of a roaring exchange between Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and the Wisconsin Republican senator and his chief aides. Symington established Thursday that parts of it had been deleted. The memorandum detailed incidents in which McCarthy and his chief counsel of his sub-committee, Roy Cohn, allegedly sought special treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, a former committee aide.

Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson and other department officials promised the Senate armed services committee Thursday that three missing parts, together with stenographers' transcripts of telephone conversations in the disputed affair, would be handed to any congressional committee asking them.

Wilson said officials have said some profanity was struck out of the memorandum.

HAS NO COMMENT

In Chicago Thursday, McCarthy had no comment on Wilson's testimony, but said "we'll have all the story complete before we get through."

Wilson said, among other things, that he has full confidence in the truthfulness of Stevens and the army report.

Chairman Leverett Saltonstall (Rep, Mass.), who failed in attempts to stave off a armed services committee away from the dispute, said in an interview that he would "like" the previously omitted material.

Informed of this, Symington, the only senator serving on both groups, said:

"I'm promising that if the armed services committee does not ask for them I will make them available that the investigations group will."

Treats Handicap As A Challenge Not Drawback

TORONTO (CP) — Crippled by polio in his youth, George Ferguson, 30-year-old Toronto lawyer has treated his handicap as a challenge rather than a drawback.

The young Montreal-born barrister has not only built up a successful law practice here but has found time to serve on the executive of the Ontario labor relations board and as president of the Society for Crippled Civilians. He is also active in the Toronto Progressive Conservative Association.

One of his most recent enterprises is a $1,500,000 housing project at Brooklin, near Oshawa, which Mr. Ferguson will head with a Toronto engineer. Work on the 200 home development, known as a group of Canadian and American business men, will start this June.

Closer to his own interests is heart is the work of the Society for Crippled Civilians. "We feel it is of the greatest importance that the dignity should accept the fact that crippled persons can do good work and be useful citizens," he said.

He added that the society employs 175 crippled persons last year ,but had to turn away 300 others who applied for work. A $750,000 building to accommodate the ever-increasing number of handicapped is planned.

George Ferguson was stricken himself with polio at the age of 12 just when he was beginning to show promise of becoming a fine skater and rugby player in Toronto schools where he was educated.

Despite his physical handicap he kept his way through Osgoode Hall and qualified as a lawyer in 1948.

Queen Endures Grit in Her Eye During Welcome

ADELAIDE, Australia (CP) — Queen Elizabeth got a speck of grit in her eye today as she drove through Adelaide to the Town Hall for a civic welcome.

A cool, strong southeasterly breeze blew the grit into her eye and it appeared to cause her considerable pain.

The Queen stood a few yards in the rear of Lord Mayor A. C. Seaman as he read the address of welcome, and opened her handbag to take out a small mirror. Then she wiped it frequently, but allowed the ceremony to go on. She received a large number of presentations, then left her seat and in the back of the car.

It was not until all the formalities were over that she asked the Lord Mayor if he could retire and have the grit removed.

FAIN EASED

Her medical officer, Surgeon-Capt. D. D. Scott-Fardin, was unable to remove it then, but eased the pain and the Queen continued the procession through the city.

The 20,000 people outside the hall heard of the Queen's plight and gave her a rousing welcome as she came out of the hall. The grit was taken out of her eye when she drove over.

Later the royal couple attended a race meeting and then went to a cricket match on the oval a few hundred yards from government house.

Great Slave Lake Again Will Yield Big Fish Catch

EDMONTON (CP)—The winter fishing season is nearing an end at Great Slave Lake, Northwest Territories, and officials expect another high yield—about 4,000,000 pounds of whitefish and lake trout.

Since large-scale commercial fishing opened on the lake in the 1944-45 season, it has graduated to the largest single producer of whitefish and lake trout in North America. The annual yield is estimated at 9,000,000 pounds, with an annual market value of $3,000,000.

The expansion has been due largely to construction of a 400-mile, all-weather highway from Grimshaw in northern Alberta to the lake itself.

Transportation has always been the major drawback. Each of the seven major companies operating in the district contribute at least one plane to the all-season airlift, and snowmobiles are used in addition to large trailer-trucks doing most of the hauling down the Mackenzie highway to the railhead.

About 50 per cent of the annual yield is marketed in the United States.

Smoke lake, with an area of more than 11,000 square miles, has been sectioned off by the federal fisheries department. Only each direction a limited amount of fish is caught each season. Crews are continually on the move, eliminating the threat that one part of the lake will be fished out.

From Dec. 1 to March 31, the fishermen live in camps many miles out on the lake ice. The camps are mostly caboose shanties.

Few of the fishermen come to town during the winter. Their supplies are transported to camps by snowmobiles, planes and "tractor" trains.

The camps, from 50 to 150 miles out from shore, usually are built to house four or five men. At some the fishermen use gloves to lift their nets but for the most part they empty them with bare hands.

Travel over the lake is difficult. There are many pressure ridges 20 to 30 feet high and the crews must also circle the sometimes 20-foot open "leads" in the ice.

Dozens of truck drivers play an important role in quick transportation. The wintertime highway is a lonely route. For the last 300 miles it cuts through a virtual wilderness after the Battle river district is passed.

End Sales Tax On Essentials Is Suggestion

ST. THOMAS (CP)—John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Prince Albert, Thursday night called for an end to the federal sales tax on essential purchases.

"It is about time the open season on the taxpayer be closed," he said in a speech prepared for delivery at an election meeting here.

Th 10-per-cent sales tax should be removed from clothing, furniture, tea, coffee, footwear and other necessities, he said.

"There must be an investigation into the spread between low farm prices and "the unreasonably high prices that you and I have to pay."

CNR, Aided by Cut in Debt, Accumulates Small Profit In '53 For Second Year in Row

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's government-owned railway, aided by a cut in its debt, accumulated a small profit in 1953 for the second year in a row. .

Transport Minister Chevrier announced Thursday the CNR made a profit of about $244,000 and expects another good year in 1954.

He told the Commons he expects the CNR's budget this year will be "an optimistic one." The system, largest on the continent, today united its volume of business will be "not much more than one per cent less than last year."

The 1953 surplus follows a $143,-385 profit in 1952. The two profits were made possible largely by Parliament's action two years ago in slicing the heavy load of debt owed the government. The CNR had six successive deficits following the war, with a $15,000,000 deficit in 1951.

Mr. Chevrier gave no further details on the CNR's financial position for 1953 and said he expects to give the House the company's annual report Monday.

TO REVIEW RAILWAYS

Mr. Chevrier spoke on a resolution, approved by the house, to set up the sessional committee that reviews operations of government-owned railways, shipping, air services and telegraphs.

J. M. Macdonnell, Progressive Conservative financial critic, expressed surprise at the optimistic forecast for 1954.

"I had felt that the railways, like many people, were perhaps having a rather difficult time," he said. "Considerable do not show a very glowing picture at the moment."

Mr. Chevrier said the effect of CNR layoffs has not been nearly as serious as some members believed.

Layoffs in the system totalled 6,400 Jan. 31, but this included 2,200 track maintenance workers most of whom had since been rehired. The layoffs were a small percentage of the total employment from year, and were due to a decline in traffic and the changeover from steam locomotives to diesel engines.

At the start of the day's sitting members gave a desk-thumping welcome to Prime Minister St. Laurent as he returned to the Commons following his six-week world tour.

BUDGET APRIL 6

Finance Minister Abbott said he will present his annual budget message to Parliament Tuesday, April 6. His message will announce any tax changes and the government's estimates of total spending and expenditure for the 1954-55 fiscal year.

A debate on export-import controls raised the issue of trade with Communist countries.

John Dickey, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, said government policy is "to give every assistance to Canadian business men in seeking business in Russia or behind the Iron Curtain that is consistent with security."

The House gave second reading, approval in principle, to a bill controlling the flow of government controls over exports and imports, especially shipments of strategic materials to Communist countries.

Three Geraldton Men Turned 'Sunday Prospectors' Made Millions by One Big Find

GERALDTON, Ont. (CP)—Three Geraldton men—an auto dealer, a construction worker and a carpenter—turned "Sunday prospectors" and became millionaires with one of the biggest base-metal finds in Canadian history.

Nearly a year ago they went into the wilderness of the Lake Manitouwadge area, 55 miles southwest of Hornepayne, a divisional point on the main line of Canadian National Railways through northwestern Ontario.

The three, auto dealer Jack Foster, carpenter Roy Barker and Bill Dawidowich, a former CNR employee now a lumber-camp foreman, staked claims that made them rich and started a mining rush to rival Klondike days.

WORTH A MILLION

The cash and stock that each received from Geco mines for the claims total more than $1,000,000.

The story of Geco contains all the elements of the best mining ballads, ranging from the triumphant note of golden wealth and the joy of a major discovery to the mournful dirge of the prospector who turned his back on a fortune without knowing it. Roy Barker tells the story:

"Bill Dawidowich and I have been Sunday prospectors for years. We used to go out week-ends and look around for something worth developing. We had been a geologist's map of the Manitouwadge area five or six years ago. It showed sulphides and seemed worth a look, but it was too hard to get at.

"We figured it would cost at least $200 each to charter a plane from Nakina to take us in there and neither of us had that kind of money to spare, so we did nothing about it. Then last year we thought of Jack (Forster). He had a little two-seater plane of his own. We asked him if he'd join us and contribute his flying time and the plane's expenses in return for a third interest. He thought it over for a few days and agreed.

GOOD COPPER SHOWING

"On May 16 last year we flew into the area and the rock looked pretty good. Nothing was staked at that time, so we just got ourselves a few samples and sent them in for assay. The assays showed one to 1¼ per cent copper so we went back June 22 to stake it. Then we found someone else had been there ahead of us and staked the very section from which we had taken our samples."

That was a blow for the three men but they set about prospecting in earnest. They stayed on the job until they had staked a total of 36 claims.

The discovery zone had been staked by two men, Windy Sam Petiluk and Fred Bergquist, employed by Consolidated Mosher to look for nickel.

A check with the mining recorder's office revealed the Consolidated claim had not yet been recorded so the three Geraldton men decided to delay recording their own. Prospectors are allowed 30 days from the date of staking (which must be noted on the staking posts) in which to register their claims.

Then fate stepped in. Petiluk and Bergquist sent samples in for assay, too. The report came back, showing not a trace of nickel. In their disappointment they overlooked the copper indication, and lost interest in the property. The 30-day deadline passed and the claims were still unrecorded.

JUMPED RIGHT IN

The Geraldton trio were watching like hawks. They flew back to Manitouwadge at once to restake the Petiluk-Bergquist claims. Then they recorded the whole batch.

The action caused a slight ripple among other prospectors but no spectacular response. The area was still hard to get at and nobody in the Geraldton gold-mining camp considered the prospects for a copper mine as being anything better than a wild gamble.

But good copper showings persisted as Dawidowich and Barker developed the property and the length they were convinced they had enough to put before some mining group.

On Aug. 18, after many discussions, a syndicate composed of General Engineering Corporation, Consolidated Mosher Gold Mines and Toronto financier Harry Knight reached an agreement with the three Geraldton men and took over a portion of their claims.

WEALTHY TRIO

The box score of their complicated transaction now looks like this:

The three have each received $30,000 in cash and 102,000 shares of stock currently quoted at more than $9 a share. In addition, if and when Geco reaches production, they will receive a royalty of 15 cents a ton on all ore mined from four claims. As these claims represent an area half-a-mile square, this section alone could conceivably produce millions of tons before it is mined out.

By November Geco drill cores began showing good results at depth. Another property, Lun-Echo, had promising copper indications to offer and then the rush to Manitouwadge began.

Prospectors are still pouring into the area. Every CNR train carries groups of men and supplies to Geraldton, Stevens and Caramat. Then those three planes plus a truck, helicopter and airplane they are debouching on to the much-trodden snow with dreams of wealth.

Among the happiest people in the area are the Indians who make snowshoes and the hardware stores that sell them. The gold rush of the 1930s in this same part of the country was almost exclusively a spring, summer and fall prospecting problem. Today everybody wants snowshoes.

COSTLY SNOWSHOES

The experience of Fergus Christie, a former mayor of Geraldton and currently an avid prospector, is typical but illustrative. After staking 36 claims for his syndicate in the Lake Manitouwadge area last week he trucked to Stevens to board a train for his home in Geraldton. A new group of prospectors was getting off the train.

As he climbed on the step, one of the new arrivals grabbed the snowshoes from under Christie's arm.

"How much?" he yelled, as the train began to move.

"Thirty bucks," said Christie.

The man ran alongside the train, peeling off three 10s from his roll, and handed them to the departing prospector.

Next day, in a hardware store at Geraldton, he sold a new pair of snowshoes for $19.75, Christie said disgustedly:

"Hell, if I'd known he had a roll that size I would have said fifty."

He'd have got it just as easily.

Mr. St. Laurent waved his hat enthusiastically when he stepped off the plane—right on schedule—after his world tour. He appeared well rested, and stopped to answer questions after greeting his wife.—Central Press Canadian.

Sawchuk Slips In Trophy Race But Gets Assist In Wings-Bruins Game

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THAT BROWN BOY!

It is not too many years ago that a youngster seeing confidence and giving promise of plenty of hockey ability skated out on the ice in the Marmora Arena to the cheers of a large crowd of village fans.

Had future events been available through the fabled crystal ball, the good burghers of Marmora would have gasped in amazement.

Bringing events to date, they would have seen a proud youngster, now a hockey veteran, standing by awaiting a call to play with a National Hockey League club.

He is Wayne Brown, known around his native district in earlier days as "Winner." According to a Boston Bruins announcement the other day, Brown with team-mates Gayle Fuller and Marcel Pelletier will be "on call" for the Beantowners in the forthcoming playoffs.

Brown, who cut his hockey teeth in and around Marmora, first drew outside attention when he played with the village champions in St. Catharines. The St. Kitts crowd was quick to note his potentialities and they grabbed him on the spot. He played with the St. Kitts Lions juveniles for a year then went up to the Teepees Junior "A" squad.

He starred with the Teepe for three seasons and then took his first step toward the big time. Tacoma had his services for two years and this year he is one of the outstanding stars of the Seattle team in the Western Hockey League and the loop's highest scoring forward.

Along with Fuller, Brown makes up the most prolific pair of scoring forwards in the league. Brown has scored more goals than any other player in the loop and is nudging Doug Adams' seasonal record of 53 goals. The pair rates one-two in the scoring with Fuller leading in assists and total points and Brown in goals.

"Brownie's success," writes a Seattle sports writer, "can be attributed to three things: his tremendously powerful shot. 2—his great skating speed and 3—Gayle Fellder."

"Brown," he goes on, "who was a favorite in Tacoma before it withdrew from the league, now has a tremendous following in Seattle. Always a hustling performer the Hibbs demon has developed a shot which now causes them to shiver when he lays his stick on the puck anywhere inside the blueline.

"Along with playing coach Bud Poile, of Edmonton, and Gordy Fashoway, Brownie is credited with having the most powerful drive in the league."

Brown's pace has been little short of sensational since January. His average of 2.1 per game, plus three hat tricks will be hard to overlook. Both he and Fellder have been named for the league all-star team but the fact that Seattle is the cellar-dwelling team of the league may have some bearing on the selection.

The fleet winger is twenty-three years of age and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, of Delora. "Winner" (as reported, would like to play with a team closer to his home. However that is beside the point at the moment. The Seattle star's future might depend on his showing with the Boston Bruins if and when he is called to bolster the team in the forthcoming playdowns. If he does the Beantowners should add a lot of supporters from out Marmora and Delora way.

What the Memos could do with a couple of Wayne Browns next year.

RAILWAY BOWLING

Keglers of the CNRAA, Belleville branch, will get the opportunity to match their alleys ability with that of brother organizations all over Canada in a week-long tournament starting March 22. All leagues will bowl in their regular schedules but the scores will be forwarded to the CNR personnel department in Montreal. The team bowling the highest three-string will be declared the winners and presented with a handsome trophy. The tournament is the first of annual competitions.

The Belleville branch will enter 17 teams, eight from the Morning and Evening loops and the Major "A" entry. Supervision will be made by H. J. Pointer, George Clapper, Bill Michaud and "Cy" Young.

DUKES - FLYERS

Another torrid saw-off hockey battle should take place tonight when the Wellington Dukes and Trenton RCAF Flyers clash in the third and deciding game of their best-of-three series. Previous games have been close and hard-fought and tonight's tilt should see both squads go all out to grab the series honors and the right to meet Point Anne in the sectional finals. Game at 8.30 in Memorial Arena.

Now Five Goals Behind Lumley With Two Games Left To Play; Howe Shines in Three-All Tie

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Labine . . . Godfrey. . . Martin. Three distinguished names in Boston Bruins' Stanley Cup assault and ones Terry Sawchuk would rather forget.

Those three Bruin players scored Thursday night as the Bruins and the league-leading Detroit Red Wings fought to a 3-3 National Hockey League tie. They shoved Terrible Terry behind the eight ball in his race for the Vezina trophy and hockey's prized goalkeeping award.

Sawchuk, winner of the Vezina for the last two seasons, was only two goals behind Harry Lumley of Toronto Maple Leafs before the game. Leo Labine made it three, Frank Martin four and Warren Godfrey five.

Sawchuk was the only fellow that had anything at stake and he was put in a hopeless spot. There are only two games left for each club in the regular 70-game schedule. Sawchuk and Lumley face each other at Detroit Sunday night.

The Red Wings, in a slump for the last week, had to come from behind to gain the tie at Detroit Olympia. It was too late as far as Sawchuk was concerned.

FIRST-PERIOD LEAD

It was the only game of the night and Gordie Howe, Detroit Wings' ace into a lead in the first period before the fourth-place Bruins could get over. Other Detroit scorers on netminder Sugar Jim Henry were Bill Dineen and Ted Lindsay.

Sawchuk has been scored on 125 times and is having the toughest Vezina race of his four-year career in the big-league.

Sawchuk had trouble with other players besides Labine, Godfrey and Martin. He has been scored on 14 times in the last four games, as compared to six goals against Lumley.

Sawchuk picked up one of the game's oddities Thursday night. He got an assist when he stopped a Boston shot and deflected the puck to Howe, who went in alone on Henry for the first Detroit goal. The last time a goalie got credited an assist was in the 1950-51 season when Ulf Dunan of Montreal Canadiens turned the trick.

Only one game is scheduled for tonight. The Bruins take on the last-place Black Hawks at Chicago.

Marmora Meets Waterford In Next Playdowns

MARMORA—Marmora eliminated Vandorf in the intermediate "C" play-offs as they took their fourth straight win at Newmarket on Tuesday evening in scoring 10 goals against 7. Lavender excelled as sniper in getting five of his teams goals, Brown and Loveless each got a pair and Jones the other goal.

Wings did not look well for the Millionaires at the end of the first as Vandorf led 6-0.

There was a better chance for victory seen at the end of the second when they lowered the margin to 6-5. Their spurge came in the third to turn the tables on their opposition.

In winning four games in five nights the Marmora team accomplished a new feat.

They meet Waterford in the next round playing on the local arena on Saturday night. Waterford's home games are being played on Simcoe ice.

American Skaters 'Anxious to Meet' Russ Champions

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—American speed skaters served notice Thursday that they are only too willing to meet the world championship Russian team—and "on their own ice" at that.

Dick Shearman, president of the Amateur Skating Union of the United States, said he had written Russian skating team manager to explain that expenses kept the American skaters, from travelling to Japan for the 1953 meet, which the Russians won.

The letter added:

"We are very anxious to skate against your athletes and on your own ice. We will do everything in our power to aid you in your quest for the next world meet."

McNeil needed four stitches to close the wound but returned to action after medical attention. He has been out of action for a month with an ankle injury.

The Canadiens had planned to send Plante back to Buffalo for the American League playoffs. Now, he is expected to play the last two games of the NHL schedule with the team.

Canadians Rude, Can't Stand Tempo' So Says Russian 'World Champions'

By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP) — The Soviet press is crowing over Russia's best-yet sports achievement in 1954 —capture of the world amateur hockey championship.

It takes special pride in defeating Canada.

The Soviet victory in Canadian style hockey (with puck) occurred in Sweden. The 7-2 score even surprised Russian fans.

Russian hockey, called "bandy," is played with a rubber ball, curvet sticks resembling those used in field hockey, and with 11 from each team on the ice at a time.

An article in Soviet Sport said the victory was the more significant since the Canadian were defeated in their own national game, introduced here only seven years ago.

The article also said Canadian "rudeness" didn't get the defeated team anywhere.

Of the greatest importance is the victory over the Canadians, who won the world title 14 times and whose hockey is the national sport.

"The Soviet team decided to establish all the Canadians' weaknesses and to create on the ice situations which the Canadians were not used to.

"Canadians cannot stand a high tempo of play.

"Therefore, the Soviet team decided to play at very high speeds and use very accurate passes to throw the Canadians off balance.

"The surprised Canadians could not repel the Soviet hockeyists' attacks. Canadian defence, too, is not very well played. They just knock the puck anywhere.

"The Canadian defencemen often merely meet Soviet wings and pushed them onto the boards. But this rudeness did not help them."

Marlies Trounce Kitchener 6-1; Lead Series 2-0

KITCHENER (CP) — Toronto Marlboros clamped a stranglehold on the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A best-of-five quarter-final here Thursday night by whipping Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 6-1 before 2,303 fans. They lead the series 2-0 with the third game scheduled for Toronto Saturday afternoon.

The Greenshirts, who lost the opener 4-2, were never in the game. They trailed 3-1 at the end of the first and 4-1 at the close of the second period.

Wally Maxwell and Dave Reid paced the winners with a pair of goals apiece.

Marlies took the edge in the first period on a pair of goals by Wally Maxwell and another by Reid. Doug Vaughan scored for the Greenshirts.

Maxwell, Marlboros captain, played with both wrists "frozen" before he took the ice.

The Marlies controlled the play 90 per cent of the time in the second period, but it was an unproductive frame. Lack of accuracy was only one goal scored by Jerry James and Bobby Orr.

"Hinky" Harris.

Bobby Orr tallied and Reid each scored on rink-length solo efforts for Marlies in the third although Wally Maxwell added the visitors' 7-0.

Lee Binkley handed a total of 30 shots while Johnny Albani stopped 23.

Sport in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Brownell said Thursday he is actually not engaged in any investigation look into reports that Bradley Collins, Miami, Fla., Wednesday ordered seven Negro baseball players out of town.

The group is training in Florida with the Milwaukee team of the Washington Nationals of the American League.

In a last-minute revision of an address before the 44th annual conference on civil liberties here Brownell quoted a story appearing in Washington newspapers headed "Town evicts seven Negro Ball players." He made no specific details at Winter Garden were reported to have told the seven Negroes to "get out of town by sundown."

The story implies a possible violation of civil rights," he said. "Now, we don't know whether federal law actually was violated. But the FBI has started a preliminary investigation into the criminal division of the department to determine if a full investigation should be ordered."

MONTREAL (CP) — Bobby Locke, internationally famous golfer, has accepted an invitation to play as a member of the Canadian team in the third annual Hopkins Trophy matches, it was announced Thursday.

The matches are between teams representing the Canadian Professional Golfers Association and the PGA of the United States. The two previous matches, with Locke playing on the Canadian team, were held at the Montreal Beaconsfield course and won by the American pros.

The tournament this year will be held June 10-12 at the Toronto Mississauga Club. It is a 72-hole match play event between six-man teams.

TORONTO (CP)—Charlie Snelling, 19-year-old Toronto student who figure-skates at least four hours a day the year round, could be a big man for Canada in the 1956 Olympics, his coach says.

Charlie, who weighs only 130 pounds, won the Canadian senior men's championship in Calgary last week-end. His coach, Marcus Nikkanen who was Finnish figure-skating champion for 10 years, says he's "the most talented pupil I ever had."

Cornwall Colts Lead Series

CORNWALL (CP)—Moe Savard rapped home two goals in the last minute of play Thursday night as Cornwall Colts came from behind to edge Ottawa Red Rocks, 3-2, and take a 1-0 lead in the eastern Canada Allan Cup quarter-finals. The first game of the series was tied.

Trailing 2-1 with a little more than a minute to play, the Colts pulled their goalie in favor of a sixth forward. Savard responded by taking passes from Mort Belcourt and Clint Connally to tie the Count with 5 seconds left to play.

The Colts then put the goalie back in the nets and Savard sailed in alone to score the winner.

Belmore scored the first goal of the game early in the second period. Matane, the lower - St. Lawrence champions, took advantage of a penalty to Norm Gui mond four minutes later to tie the count, Jim Bartlett scoring on a pass from Roger Leclos.

Leclos made it 2-1 for Matane midway through the second period when he took Belmore's Hodd's pass and the Red Rocks appeared on their way to victory until Savard went on his scoring spree.

The series now shifts to Matane for games Saturday and Sunday.

'Dusty' Blair Shapes Up As Trophy Winner

By CECIL SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A speedy centre with Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Hockey League shapes up as the choice for the Byng of Vimy award presented annually to the player who best combines high play with value to his club.

With only two games left in the schedule, Dusty Blair, 185-pounder on loan to Ottawa from Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, has a penalty-free record and 72 points—28 goals and 44 assists—to place him among the first 10 in the scoring race.

The Byng of Vimy award commemorates the name of the former governor-general of Canada and the courageous deeds of the Lady Byng displayed by his wife to the fullest.

T. P. (Tommy) Gorman, owner of the Senators, calls the 24-year-old native of South Porcupine the "best centre in the league and the fastest."

GOOD PLAYMAKER

Blair doesn't play the thumping type of hockey, but he is fast, can stick-handle and is a good playmaker.

"That's the type of hockey I have always played," he said in an interview. "This is the first year I've gone into the season without a penalty, but I've never had very many, three or four a year maybe."

Blair came to Ottawa at the start of the 1952 season, but was farmed out to Smiths Falls Rideaus, Cup semi-finalists last year, of the now-defunct Eastern Canada League. He came back to Ottawa this season.

Blair started his hockey career with South Porcupine juniors, was signed by Detroit Red Wings of the NHL and then went to Oshawa Generals of the OHA Junior A circuit. Toronto took over his option, and he went to Oshawa Monarchs in 1949-50 finishing that season with Pittsburgh.

He regained his amateur status the following year and went to Toronto St. Mikes of the OHA Senior series, then played with Saint John Braves of the Maritime Major League before coming to Ottawa.

OBA Annual Starts Today

CHATHAM (CP)—Baseball talk buzzed through the William Pitt Hotel here today as delegates from many parts of Ontario registered for the 37th annual convention of the Ontario Baseball Association.

Some stiff regulations will be up for discussion at the two-day convention.

The executive has asked approval for an amendment that would allow the OBA to suspend any team that does not send to the association's share of gate receipts within seven days. Another amendment would allow a chairman in charge of playdowns to suspend any team for failing to play when ordered.

The executive has also asked that each team be required to pay for its own umpire instead of having the OBA pay for them. The Norfolk Baseball Association has suggested the association allow the OBA to draw up a list of umpires, charge each umpire $2 for a crest and a registration card and allow only those umpires to be used for OBA playdowns games.

Any team wanting to protest a decision may find the cost increased from $25 to $50 if another suggested change is approved.

Heavy penalties are laid down for any player found playing while under the influence of the particular team. The proposed amendment would punish player and the manager. Any play-off game ejected with the over-age player would be awarded to the opposing team.

The meeting of Chatham has been nominated for another term as president.

MEETING PLACE

VANCOUVER (CP) — An old army hut, remodelled, has been set up on the campus of the University of British Columbia as the first "international house" in Canada. It will be a meeting place for Canadian and foreign students to talk and work together.

Report Heath Signs With Stampeders Blows Up in Furious Word Battle

TORONTO (CP)—A report that quarter Stan Heath has signed with Calgary Stampeders for the 1954 football season has led to a battle of words Thursday. It will be aired at the Canadian Rugby Union annual meeting here March 26-27.

The Telegram said in a sports-page story that Heath signed with the western conference club for as possible, estimated $11,000—base salary of $7,000 and $4,000 in bonuses depending on whether the Stampeders make the western playoffs. In Calgary, Stampeder manager Bob Robinett said the club sent Heath a contract but has not yet received it back.

Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four got Jake the Snake from Ottawa Clair contended that Heath is technically the property of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four and can not sign with any western club until the first obligation waivers on him from the other Big Four teams—Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

Clair said he would claim Heath when Hamilton asks for waivers.

Also in Toronto, secretary Harry McBrien of the Big Four said the Big Four has requested clarification of Heath's status and that his name would be considered at the CRU annual meeting.

Heath was released by Hamilton last year after one game. His release led to a lawsuit which went to court recently but was resolved when the player accepted a cash settlement out of court estimated at $4,300 and expenses.

Al Sarrail, Ira Perry, CRU president, said he didn't know Heath's status and that it probably will require a meeting of CRU officials to establish where he belongs.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

An expert often breaks his pitch. But players must agree, quite often will he take a trick that no one else can see.

Look at what you can see here:

NORTH

♦ J 4 3
♣ A 5

WEST
♠ None
♥ None
♦ 8 7
♣ K J

EAST

♥ J 5 4

SOUTH
♠ None
♥ K Q 7
♦ None
♣ 8 4

These are not chicken tracks. They are the remnants of a deal. What you see are the final five cards in each unit after eight tricks are gone. An interesting problem develops.

South is declarer. He was in a heart contract and took the first eight tricks. His dummy north had a row in the lead. He has planned it so that he can take all the tricks.

Dummy leads the diamond jack right there. East must play next and has a choice of ruffing or shifting. With the threat of south's cards hovering over him, what will east do first?

If east shifts a club, so will south. Dummy will then cash the club ace which will clean the clubs out of south as well as east. The next dummy lead will let south take the rest with trumps.

So, when dummy led the diamond jack, east ruffed and hoped west could get a club trick. South overruffed the east ruff and cashed another trump which west and dummy each sluffed a diamond.

This left south with a trump top and two clubs. East clung to a lowly trump and two clubs. West hung onto a good diamond and king with lack of clubs. South now led his last trump.

West is squeezed. If he gives up his diamond, dummy will chuck the small club from there. This will give dummy the last two tricks with the club ace and his diamond club.

Instead of giving up his diamond should east fling a club? If he does, dummy sheds the diamond. The last two tricks will then go to dummy's club and south's eight spot of clubs.

Defenders fear geezers who learn to be squeezers.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—With women who know dating best, it's homely men 2 to 1. That's the claim of Patricia Medina, one of Hollywood's most beautiful actresses.

"You can have the pretty boys," says Miss Medina. "I'd rather have homely men for dates. They are more attentive. They are not conceited. They listen to what you have to say. They appreciate what they have, since they haven't relied on their looks.

"Homely men have a sense of humor about themselves, and that's important in a man. They are inclined to be more old-fashioned in their courting; you get more flowers from them. They put more effort in their courting of a girl.

On the other hand, she added reluctantly, there is the handsome Harry.

"He spends half his time looking in mirrors to see if his hair is combed properly. He over-dresses and tries to steal the spotlight from the woman. He considers his date fortunate to be out with him. He expects her to hold up the conversation. He is forever making entrances. I'm sick of entrances!"

10 ATTRACTIVE MEN

She threw caution to the winds and offered to name the 10 most attractive homely men she knows.

"Humphrey Bogart is one of the sexiest men on the screen, but even the kindest person wouldn't call him handsome. Jack Palance has a tremendous appeal in a menacing sort of way. Frank Sinatra certainly made hearts flip.

Little Benny's Note Book

This morning at breakfast ma said to pop, William for last takes smile, you look as if you were bent over by the wait of the world.

That's how I feel, pop said. I cant get the poor chap out of my mind, he said, and ma said, Goodness, who do you mean?

I never heard a man so wrought up and excited, pop said. There was no need for him to be so emotional. I was perfectly willing to listen to what he had to say if he would only relax and keep calm, but the unfortunate devil seemed hardly able to breethe, pop said, My, when was this!

He was just a mass of quivering nerves, pop said. It was all he could do to get the words out in paneful gasps. Something he would actually scream, and then he'd get all choked up again and go off into hysterical babble, he said, and ma said, But William, what was the matter with him?

He was simply overwrought, as far as I could make out, pop said. I wanted to tell him to was just as upsetting to me as it was to him, and for Feet sake to pull himself together, but how could I make any impression on him under the circumstances? All I could do was suffer with him, he said, and ma said, For land sakes who was he?

Why, that poor devil that I just termed off the air in desperation in the mist of his passionate and anguished appeal to buy his land cars, pop said. He is still a wreck. I wouldn't be surprised if I'd need an ester or coffee, he said, and ma said, Oh, eat your breakfist.

Which he did still shaking his head sad.

ELUSIVE HERRING

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The winter herring fishery in the Bay of Islands has been described as a failure, and herring ships shifted to Port au Port bay farther up the west coast. Cold weather was blamed for the poor catches.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 20, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Not a particularly stimulating day. Good humor, a wholesome attitude (and helping to engender the same in others) could be the solution now. Tone down aggressiveness.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You are usually there with the answer, but see that it's the right one today! Others may be out of sorts. A prayer, a kind deed at the day's start will put you in the right groove.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Less stimulating for untried ventures than for routine activities. Don't measure your effort or set a time limit on your work. It doesn't pay to do less than your best.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — If you are rich in blessings and enjoy loved ones, children, think of others less fortunate. When you go wrong don't blame others.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Don't arouse antipathy by insistence on your own way or disregard for others' feelings. A diplomatic, congenial attitude is needed to attain goals, top desires.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Aspects indicate a need for caution now. Don't take risks in money, business matters. Avoid extremes.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Notations to other Zodiacal natives are also applicable to you. Each day need not be a whizbang affair or high in achievement. Rest and quiet reflection are also essentials in life.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — The less you strain and worry about things, the better off you will be mentally and physically. Today may tax temper, but self-control will be rewarding.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Really excellent influences. Be wise, smile, and others will smile with you, and new plans will be achieved. Business trading, selling, real estate, sound investments favored.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Clearer thinking than usual is needed now—particularly about financial, business affairs. Give each matter careful consideration. Be duly concerned about civic, federal affairs.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — It is right and proper to relax, rest and seek diversion but some good work can be done also. Look around you. Is there some one in need? Someone you can help?

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — You industrious, strong, imaginative folk can make this day pretty much what you will. Take time to plan and go on to success.

"YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with ambition tempered with quiet calmness—a combination with great prospects. Any impulsiveness is modified by a caution that restrains you from going too far in any one direction. Usually original in thought, you enthuse over new ideas, as note the discoverers born in your Sign! But you seldom go farther than is reasonable in action." Build proper self-esteem, have due confidence and curb oversensitiveness. Birthdate of: Henrik Ibsen, famous Norwegian dramatist, poet.

Lions Club Seeks Safety Patrol For Schools

CAMPBELLFORD — The Lions Club held its regular meeting on Wednesday at the Oddfellows Hall, with a good attendance.

A stag-song of Irish airs was led by Pete Wilson with Marshall Sills at the piano.

President Vern Rose informed members that Charles Macoun, who has been treasurer of the club, is being transferred from this district and that the club would suffer a great loss on his departure.

Bruce Wallace introduced Constable Don. MacKay of the Peterborough Police Department, who is head of the school patrol, as the evening's speaker for the evening.

Constable MacKay spoke on school patrol, stating that he felt that it was needed more to-day than ever before, that traffic was getting heavier and that we should do something in our town about it.

He stated that school patrol has been an active project for 23 years and has been getting better every year.

He stated that a school patrol would mean guarding our crossings about five days a week and four times a day.

Constable MacKay said that school children make the best patrol officers and that such a child must be reliable, in good health, a responsible type and well trained.

School patrol had been carried out in Canada for eight years without an accident.

School patrols work in pairs. Members wear white belts and they sign up in their right hand. Any person who breaks through a patrol is committing a serious offence, and the speaker said he knew of cases where a driver had lost his licence and been heavily fined for a violation.

The speaker was thanked by Tom LaMarsh and councillor Linton.

Councillor Linton said that he felt that the Police Commission and the police department would do all in their power to help the club with this worthy project.

Chief of Police, George Rose, reported that a school patrol was needed in this town and that while on the local force a little over a year ago that three children had been hit and some have come close to being hit.

Three Candidates To Be in Field For Peel Seat

TORONTO (CP)—Three men under 40 will contest Monday the federal seat that Gordon Graydon, one of the Progressive Conservative party's outstanding members, held for 18 years before his death last October at the age of 56.

They will wage a three-way fight in Peel a few miles west of Toronto, in one of four federal by-elections in central Canada Monday. The others are in Elgin in southwestern Ontario and in Gaspesia and Montreal Verdun in Quebec.

Elgin was left vacant in January by the death of Charles D. Coyle, a tobacco farmer who held it for the Progressive Conservatives since 1945.

PEEL TORY 34 YEARS

In Peel, which has sent Progressive Conservative representatives to Ottawa for the last 50 years, the Liberal candidate is A. J. C. O'Marra, 33, a lawyer in Port Credit village who was defeated by Mr. Graydon last year. Mr. Graydon polled 13,467 votes, Mr. O'Marra 9,281 and James Adams, CCF 2,501.

Progressive Conservative candidate is John Pallett, also 33, and like Mr. O'Marra, a lawyer. Mr. Pallett is a fourth-generation native of Peel county.

CCF candidate is Lloyd Gane, 39, a dairy cattle breeder, a past secretary of the riding's federation of agriculture.

TWO-WAY ELGIN FIGHT

In Elgin, on the north shore of Lake Erie, Mr. Quelch was returned in the 1953 election with 12,312 votes—a majority of 1,782 over Liberal candidate Jack Peterson.

The constituency, which includes the city of St. Thomas and fishing villages of Port Stanley and Port Burwell, is primarily an agricultural district. Its Ottawa representation since 1904 has been fairly evenly split by Liberals and Progressive Conservatives.

These two parties are contesting the seat Monday. Liberal candidate is Rev. Harry Rodney, 39, of Knox Presbyterian church, St. Thomas. He is a former moderator of the church's London presbytery.

Progressive Conservative candidate is James McBain, 43, a St. Thomas area farmer and former warden of Elgin county. He has been prominent for many years in agricultural organizations in the district.

NO MARRIAGE PLANS

PANAMA (AP) — Actor Fred MacMurray said Thursday night he and screen star June Haver will leave by plane for Hollywood Sunday but added they have no definite plans for marriage.

MacMurray said a statement attributed to actress Joan Fontaine that he and Miss Haver, 27, planned to fly to Kingston, Jamaica, for a fourth-generation ceremony "probably was Miss Fontaine's idea of a joke."

Ontario Mining Production Sets New Record

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's mining industry reached record levels in 1953, the department of mines preliminary report shows.

Total production was valued at $400,676,113, the highest in the province's history and well above 1952's $344,493,433. Previous records stated 29,013 claims; the previous record was 23,783 in 1946.

One of the department's biggest recent projects, construction of mining access roads, is now in full swing and almost 200 miles were completed or under construction at the year's end.

The report cited development of several resources as follows:

Gold—The "one dark spot in an otherwise extremely bright mining picture" as construction and mining costs continue to mount although the price of monetary gold remains fixed by international agreement.

Natural Gas Reserves—At their highest point in Ontario. Drilling during the next two or three years has known reserves.

Iron—Assuming an increasingly important role in the mining industry with eastern Ontario centre attracting attention after 150 years of disuse.

Asbestos—Until now almost exclusively mined in Quebec, is being produced in greater amounts, particularly in the northwestern part of the province.

Dead is Giselle Brunet. In hospital were her 53-year-old mother, Mrs. Joseph Brunet, her 26-year-old sister, Georgette, and Gerard Leveille and Armand Gregoire. Hospital authorities said the condition of the wounded is not critical.

Police said they were holding Eddie Lavigne, a brother-in-law of Joseph Brunet, for questioning in connection with the shooting.

Police said Lavigne spent the evening drinking with a brother of the dead girl.

Police Detective Hall police he was asleep on the third floor of the building at the time of the shooting. When he got downstairs he found his daughter dead, another daughter shot in the mouth and his wife and two friends also suffering bullet wounds.

Lavigne was held in the Montreal Jail. In Quebec no charges are laid until after an inquest has been held.

Saskatchewan Plans to Jail 'Jacklighters'

(By THE CANADIAN PRESS)

A Conservative plan to jail hunters convicted of shooting big game often blinding the animals with lights.

Offenders will get an automatic jail term of 30-day intensities the present fine of $200 and $500 on a first offence for "jacklighting".

A bill amending the province's game act to this effect was given third reading in the legislature Friday.

The bill also reduces the hour of hunting, lopping a half-hour from the one hour before dawn and after dusk limitation.

TEACHER SHORTAGE

In Alberta, the legislature's committee on education urged the Social Credit government to expand its correspondence school training to relieve the teacher shortage. It also urged consideration of increased school construction grants to rural areas.

In the Manitoba legislature, Agriculture Minister R. D. Robertson told Brandon Liberals he wants to make low-interest loans available to farmers who say they haven't been able to get grain to elevators.

HEADS AIR FORCE

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Maj-Gen. Axel Ljungdahl, 57, Friday was appointed commander-in-chief of the Royal Swedish Air Force, fourth largest in the world. The appointment to date to the post, 1,500 planes, most of them jets.

Royal Couple Will Fly Back To Adelaide

ADELAIDE, Australia (Reuters) Crowds clustered around Government House today as see Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh drive to the airport for a tour of two South Australian country towns, Whyall and Port Pirie.

The royal couple will fly back to Adelaide late today and will before until Monday except for a wine service at St. Peter's Anglican Cathedral then.

Meanwhile, further talks about possible changes in the royal itinerary for West Australia because of the polio epidemic there were discussed Friday night.

More than 250 persons have been stricken with infantile Colis in West Australia, where the Queen and the duke are due March 26.

Australian law requires that no one should come nearer to her than six feet that her food should be brought from other states or the royal liner Gothic, and that she and the duke should live on the Gothic during their tour.

TEARS OF JOY

Friday the Queen, with a sharp piece of grit in one eye, smiled through tears of pain as she stood on a dais outside Adelaide Town Hall.

The grit lodged in her eye as she and the duke were driving in the crowded streets in an open touring car.

Later, after the grit was removed, she and the duke watched a cricket match at the oval and met Sir Donald Bradman, batting star of many test matches on the famous Adelaide ground.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: A centre of low pressure from the central states moving eastward along the lower lakes is causing a mixture of rain and snow in southern Ontario this Saturday morning. As it migrates eastward out of the province almost northerly winds will bring wetter branch of winter to all of the province today and Sunday.

CANADA PLANS TO CONSTRUCT MANY PIPELINES

Gas Reserves Increasing At Unprecedent Rate

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is headed for a period of large pipeline construction to the east from southern Alberta and to the Pacific coast from the new river area.

Mines Minister Prudham forecast the construction program Friday night as the Commons launched consideration of his department's estimates. The study got under way after the government's bill to condition the years the life of its export-import controls reached its final stage in the Commons.

Mr. Prudham said natural gas reserves have been increasing at an unprecedented rate in the last year. Enough has been proved little doubt that the next two or three years "should witness a very large pipeline building program with gas eventually moving eastward from northern Alberta to supply central Canada and gas moving from the Peace river area to supply Vancouver and the Pacific coast area in British Columbia.

Rodney Adamson, a mining engineer and Progressive Conservative member for Hastings-Frontenac, that a start be made as quickly as possible on the pipelines so that the great gas reserves would have to be burned off to conserve oil. For a year he would have to find outlets in industry and in the development of new industry before Canada's needs were fulfilled, it would have to find a market elsewhere on the continent.

KEY RESOURCES

Mr. Prudham listed natural gas with oil, coal, electricity and perhaps atomic energy as the keys to developing national resources. He expressed the hope that the United States tariff policy will favor continued import of Canadian base metals of which Canada is a major exporter.

He outlined government plans for a $1,500,000 survey of the north to chart Arctic waters, particularly two new ice-free harbor sites for transporting iron ore from the arctic. Biggest known ore reserves in the world are there. An aerial geological reconnaissance is planned of the area north of Hudson bay and east of Great Slave lake.

TROOPS KOREA BOUND

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

TORONTO (CP) — George A. Mitchell, 50, Toronto building owner and harbor commissioner Friday was committed for trial on a charge of assaulting a woman who said she visited his home wife with a man. ## Vast Meteorite May Have Struck Quebec Millions of Years Ago

QUEBEC (CP)—A vast meteorite plunging from outer space hundreds of millions of years ago may have ripped a 30-mile-wide hole in what now is northern Quebec.

This year, government experts are going to try to find out if a circular oddity in the region's geography — spotted from aerial photographs — really is a meteorite formation.

If it is, it will dwarf any known ones on earth. For the largest known crater is the Arizona crater, also in northern Quebec, which is a relatively small two miles across.

Existence of the possible record meteorite was announced last night when Mines Minister Prudham told the Quebec Legislature it measures four miles in diameter.

Circles in the landscape, often only visible from the air, are a good clue to meteorites, usually buried well below the surface and covered with water or the accumulated debris of eons of time.

While Mr. Prudham gave no details of Quebec's possible meteorite whopper, Dr. C. S. Beals, Dominion astronomer, said it has been under study for some time in an area about 100 miles west of Sept Iles, Que.

Mr. Prudham also told the House of discovery of a possible meteorite crater near Breen in Algonquin National Park that would be a mile in diameter and 500 feet roughly the same diameter.

"This is one of our most interesting finds," Dr. Beals said.

Like the big Quebec one, it goes back millions of years to the past. And like it also, it can only be identified by aerial photographs that show up distinctions in topography not visible to the eye.

Dr. Beals described the Ontario formation as a "perfect circle," as symmetrical as a doughnut.

The circle is at the top of a hill about 1,000 feet above surrounding lakes by investigators. But as to what is at the bottom, he could not say. The tests will be continued this year—the second year's investigation since the circle was discovered in 1952.

Britain's Bullion Market Throws Doors Open Again Monday For Gold Trading

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH

LONDON (AP) — Six wealthy bankers Monday morning will throw open the doors for deals in gold at Britain's bullion market—up to the Second World War the largest and busiest in the world—which has been closed for 15 years.

The government also announced Friday night that it will simultaneously reveal a relaxation of minor restrictions on sterling deals in order that Britain can get the biggest steps toward sterling convertibility in years.

But a treasury announcement made clear, there will be no lowering of the ban on the dollar area during and since the war to sterling convertibility—the ban on the conversion of pounds into United States or Canadian dollars.

The bullion market will reopen in temporary offices in Rothschilds, London bankers. The house of Rothschilds and five other London bankers will be the only bullion brokers, and they will issue their own regulations for running the market. No other banks or private persons now permitted to deal in gold for exchanges automatically will be recognized as dealers in gold.

Since the London gold market was closed in 1939, the nationalized Bank of England has run the only body permitted to deal in gold in Britain.

NO PRICE FIXING

A qualified source said today neither the bank nor anybody in the government will attempt to fix maximum or minimum prices of gold.

The source said the government committee of U.S. authorities before reopening the market, and that Washington raised no objections. It thought it understood that if buying pressure develops the London price may rise above the $35 an ounce.

Official prices will be free to move as they like, the resumed London gold market will operate under heavy restrictions.

Britons themselves will continue to be forbidden from speculating bullion—so that sterling-area traders will be able to sell, but not buy gold. The source said Commonwealth producers as well as the United States are expected to make use of the London market to dispose of their newly-mined gold.

Trading in the market will be in sterling—instead of dollars—and sterling. Only buyers who have purchased their sterling funds for U.S. or Canadian dollars or gold in the first place will be allowed to use their money for buying here.

The central banks of other European countries and holders of sterling or Canadian dollars who need gold thus will be almost the only persons likely to buy for the time being in London.

But the government clearly hopes that the move will help restore London's position as a centre of world bullion trading, and enable the market to swing into top gear if and when the barrier between sterling and dollars can be knocked down.

WITHDRAWN RESTRICTIONS

The treasury also announced it is sweeping the existing payments agreements and restrictions on sterling in countries within the U.S. dollar-gold area.

There will be no change in restrictions on direct sterling-dollar convertibility by traders inside the dollar area.

Hilberto, hosts of separate restrictions have governed payments transactions with almost every country in the world. Now, with few exceptions, governments and traders outside both the sterling and dollar areas will be allowed to transfer their cash where they like, and even convert it into dollars.

Only three non-dollar countries are excluded from the new "transferable sterling" area. They are Hungary, Iran and Turkey.

McCarthy Accuses Democrats Of '20 Deeds of Betrayal'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Senator McCarthy has accused the Democratic party of "20 deeds of treason" on 20 counts, and casting Adlai Stevenson in the role of "attorney for the defence," called on him to plead guilty or not guilty.

In leading up to his charges against the Democrats, McCarthy said Friday night:

"I shall place before the greatest jury of all—the American people—an indictment of 20 counts, picked at random, which at best constitutes gross negligence, and at worst constitutes 20 deeds of treason.

"Twenty years of treason—20 deeds of betrayal."

The Wisconsin Republican senator, making a rebuttal to a March 6 speech of Stevenson's, accused the Democratic administration of "protecting" members of the Communist movement of attacking him and the Republican party.

HAD NO COMMENT

Stevenson, in Cambridge, Mass., said through a spokesman that he had "no comment."

Stevenson had told a Democratic rally in Miami that the Republicans "have set out in his speech against itself, half McCarthy and half Eisenhower, to destroy Mc-Carthy as a sowing "slander and disunion."

McCarthy, who quickly accused Stevenson of a "vicious" personal attack on him, said in his speech Friday night that "Adlai turned some fine phrases at Miami." But, he said, he has "apparently Adlai would rather turn a clever phrase than be President."

The senator charged that Stevenson, at Miami, "protected" Communists and defence lawyer for the Democratic party, used the office of the top law officer to protect Communist method of attacking him and the Republican party."

He said "the main report" to the national conference of the American Communist Party last September instructed party members to stir up fights between McCarthy and Eisenhower and between the heaviest fire at the senator.

LISTS CHARGES

Scattered cries of "guilty," and "hang him" came from the audience at a Milwaukee Republican banquet as McCarthy went through his charges.

The 20 deeds ranged from U.S. recognition of Russia in 1933 to the wartime Yalta agreement, events which he linked to the fall of China to the Communists and Truman and the administration's handling of the Korean war.

MORE THAN SCORE DIE IN TWO U.S. PLANE CRASHES

Bodies Litter Field Near Annapolis, Md.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Wreckage and parachute-draped bodies littered a cornfield where a big United States Air Force plane crashed in flames Friday night, killing all 4 aboard.

The plane, a C-119 flying boxcar which had left Bolling air force base a few minutes earlier, was a sheet of flame in the air moments before it plunged to earth on a farm 8 miles south of here.

It grazed the edge of a wooded area and exploded at or shortly before the crash, scattering its victims over several acres of the rain-soaked field.

The C-119 crash was one of two involving USAF planes Friday night. At Amelia, Va., an air force B-26 crashed into a mountain and exploded, and police reports indicated all aboard were killed.

NUMBER UNKNOWN

The exact number on the plane, en route from Vance air force base, Enid, Okla., to Andrews air base near Washington, could not be determined.

Virtually all the victims of the C-119 crash appeared to have been military personnel. Pieces of uniform were found on the fringes of the crash scene. There were no civilian clothes or chevrons of a marine corporal.

For a radius of 1,000 yards pieces of the plane, bodies and parts of bodies lay under the harsh glare of a mobile floodlight. Red-and-white striped parachutes had been spread over some of the victims.

Defence Planners Considering Use Of Vertical Take-Off Fighter Plane

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's defence planners are considering the possibility of building a new type of vertical-takeoff fighter plane.

They also are mulling over whether RCAF's 12 squadrons in Europe are being re-equipped with the latest in fighter planes, whether aircraft will eventually replace the Sabre.

The CRAF is playing two fighter roles and consequently two types of aircraft, Defence Minister Claxton said in the commons. It needs, and now has, a long-range plane to cover Canada's vast distances in a comparatively short time. It also needs a short-range high-powered fighter in Europe.

The air division in Europe might eventually be re-equipped with the CF-105, the Avro delta-wing all-weather jet now being produced in Canada for home defence. But Avro also has on the drawing boards the CF105, a plane with delta-shaped wings and capable of speeds up to 1,000 miles an hour.

Two Men Perish As Glace Bay Mine Is Swept by Fire

Flames Are Out of Control In Tunnel of Coal Mine

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—Fire fanned by air from the ventilating system raged out of control through a coal tunnel far beneath the ground here today and two miners were known to have perished in the gas-filled shaft.

Another was missing and feared dead.

Emergencies, veteran mine rescue workers, toiled in the smoke and darkness all night trying to bring the menacing blaze in No. 26 colliery under control. They were repulsed many times by the searing heat.

The dead men were identified as Donald MacLellan, about 50, and Malcie O'Hanley, about 35. MacLellan rose to the stature of a hero some years ago by leading trapped miners to safety when an explosion tore through No. 25 colliery.

CHARGE FIRED

The entire night shift of several hundred men was working Friday night at 11 p.m. when the fire sputtered out of control.

All except MacLellan and O'Hanley believed to have escaped unhurt.

The colliery employs 1,000 men altogether.

The fire started when an explosive charge was fired into the coal face to loosen the coal. This caused a cave-in and the men on the one Friday night got out of control.

It turned the tunnel, which runs laterally between No. 25 and No. 26 shafts, into an inferno. Company officials tried again and again to seal off the tunnel for inspection but smoke and flames beat them back.

A fourth dragerman relief squad went below ground early today in an attempt to deal off the tunnel and pump in water to put out the fire. Previous attempts failed.

Company officials said the fire was on an "air intake" line which feeds fresh air drawn organized by the ventilating system.

No Steps Taken To Detain Chief Engineer Nelson

TORONTO (CP) — Highways Minister Doucett said Friday the government took no steps to detain C. R. Nelson, chief engineer of the highways department, until his retirement last fall because it isn't think anyone knew he was going away."

Mr. Doucett was replying to a question in the legislature put by opposition leader Farquhar Oliver.

The highways minister announced in the house Thursday that Nelson was suspended for failure to cooperate with the provincial auditor and other officials in answering questions relating to alleged irregularities in the department. Nelson, although felled from the department, was still considered an employee of the government and was drawing sick leave pay.

Appointed chief engineer in 1951, he became ill last year and landed in his resignation. Mr. Nelson has been given sick leave pay but no superannuation. The announcement by Mr. Doucett cancelled the sick leave pay. It is understood Mr. Nelson is in Florida.

Mr. Doucett, replying to another question by Mr. Oliver, as to why and on what grounds' Mr. Nelson was suspended, said that he was not present at the examination but I understood from the provincial auditor and the solicitor that he would not answer questions, put to him."

BRANDWASHING CHARGED

Outside the House, Allan Wren (Lib.-Lab.—Kenora) claimed in an interview that departmental personnel "is being brainwashed" by investigators.

Approached by reporters on the Wren interview following the session, Mr. Doucett said: "Why doesn't he get up and make that statement in the House?"

"I don't think there is any intimidation involved. They just want to get the facts."

He said the personnel were being frank with their answers.

Mr. Doucett said he did not know when the select committee to be appointed to investigate the alleged irregularities would hold its first meeting.

Two Thousand Youngsters Enjoy Children's School Fair

Excited children's voices greeted the visitors to Queen Victoria School on Friday evening when an estimated two thousand youngsters with their parents, grandparents and friends converged on the school to enjoy the annual Children's Fair.

A large sketch of a tiny Irish colleen knocking at a door was posted on the front entrance. Her hand she held a bunch o' shamrock, and over her head was a "Top o' the Morning" greeting. Colored balloons hung in a cluster over the entrance to the auditorium, where a crowd of interested people watch television.

While and green, carrying out the St. Patrick motif was used in all the rooms with green shirts and medallions, stove-pipe hats with green bands, and green aprons decorating the walls. It was a scene of great activity with everything selling for prices ranging from one cent to ten for children's treats. The general convener for the fair was Mrs. Robert Dongan, assisted by Mrs. Ross Lent.

The workers at the candy booth were kept busy dispensing their sweet wares and here Mrs Stanley Else was assisted by Mrs. St. Pierre, Mrs. Gilroy, Mrs. McAllister, Mrs. Gulla and Mrs Hoskin.

When the other activities ended the audience congregated in the auditorium to watch the magic tricks of Mr. Lee Foard, who entertained with his popular sleight-of-hand mystery.

The father, his mother, father and eight children are living in conditions described by A. M. Bresil, Medical Officer of Health, in a letter to Mr. Drury as "overcrowded". There are no conditions existing in this family's present accommodation that the health department could consider to be a health hazard but Mr. Drury feels that adequate accommodation is urgently needed.

He stressed the fact that their present accommodation presents a safety hazard in that the stove is placed at the only exit.

The father is a veteran who served with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment from 1939 to 1945. At present he is earning $62.50 a week and the family is receiving approximately $44 per week in family allowances, said Mr. Drury pointing out that the family is in a position to pay for adequate accommodation.

Mr. Drury, who is representing the Belleville A.F. Veterans, the Canadian Legion, and the Women's Amalgamated Welfare Association, states that the Poppy Fund will pay the first month's rent for the family if proper home is available.

IN MEMORIAM

LATCHFORD.—In loving memory of a dear mother, Carrie Latchford, who passed away March 20th, 1953. Upright and just in her ways,
Kind in heart and true to the end of her days.
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
—Always remembered by the family.

CARSWELL.—In loving memory of a wonderful mother, who was called to rest March 21st, 1952.
Sweet were the words he uttered,
Sad were the hearts he clasped,
So many times I look at you
And wonder what you asked.
Fate failed to tell me why you
Have been left to stay,
We cannot bring old days back,
Your hands rest upon the bench,
But we still have wonderful memories
Of a mother dear to each.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter and son-in-law Olive and Jim Rose, grandchildren Paul, Patsy and Jeffrey.

DAWSON.—In loving memory of a kind, thoughtful dear friend, Margaret Dawson, who passed away a year ago today.
Life's pathway left a year alpne by,
But memories of you will never die,
Your memory remembered by
Mabel and Jo Palmer, Montreal.

DAWSON.—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Margaret Dawson, who passed away March 20th, 1953.
With loving memories of you standing,
We watched you pass away,
Our hearts you left loving care,
But could not make you stay.
Sweet memories linger beside
Each heart that holds a pain,
And how our hearts were broken
When God took you from our lane.
You have left a beautiful memory,
Dear mother, that we hold so true,
But to us who have loved and lost
You
Were wonderful never our dad.
—Lovingly remembered by husband Clarence and families. M30

THE MARK OF A REALLY SMART PERSON
The mark of a really smart person is not necessarily a college diploma or a Phi Beta Kappa key. It might be simply a record of carefully-considered actions.
To "know it all" would be wonderful — if we humans could absorb that much knowledge in a lifetime. Next best is to seek and accept the advice of experts, particularly your lawyer.
Visit him frequently. Follow his directions carefully. Bring your prescriptions to us to be filled, and take the medicine he prescribes regularly.
Such cooperation is the best course possible for preservation of your health, and it marks you as a really smart person.

A Lift for Living

Undoing Ourselves

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

My career as a minister began during World War I, and I spoke in a number of army camps. Frequently I asked the chaplain if they had any suggestions which I might guide me in my messages.

Several replied to this effect "No, we have one special suggestion, except that we think it better to avoid the Parable of the Prodigal Son. It has been overworked around here."

Perhaps that experience prefigured me against the use of our Lord's most familiar, and probably most forceful, parable. We assume that nothing new can be said about it. We assume that it is needed only where temptations are lurid and life is rough.

But is there not another version of it which comes home to us in our comfortable lives? Do prodigals always fit the pattern of profligacy and feeding on rags among the swineherds?

Let's begin by giving the younger son the benefit of the doubt as to his motives. Maybe he was not just a se'er-do-well.

LIVE OWN LIFE

Maybe he left his father's house because he reasoned something like this:"I cannot live my own life around here. My elder brother is different. He fits this settled, conventional life. But I want to be myself and live my own life."

This longing is not limited to prodigals. No doubt many of us have felt that our home environments kept us from being ourselves. I can understand how many young people become impatient to get out from under the parental rooftree.

I understand too how young people often desire to get away from the conventional living into which we adults tend to settle, with its round of repetitious trifles, its sometimes stuffy traditions, its sometimes stuffy traditions, its polite insincerities. The healthy young person wants to be real. Sometimes he feels he must get out on his own in order to do so.

WASTE LIVES

Why must we think of the prodigal only as one who spends his life in riotous living? Men waste the substance of their lives without becoming drunkards and down-and-outs.

Once there is a man who has allowed the fine strong body of his youth to become soft and flabby through easy and indulgent living. He may be rich, but nevertheless he has been prodigal and wasteful with his body.

Yonder is a person who began life with a fine clear mind and has trifled with it so that he no longer comes to grips with stern truth. He no longer has the perseverance to think things through or the courage to face unpleasant facts.

Edith Wharton once depicted a society woman who so frittered her mind away that she could not be alone with herself. She had to keep rushing about because she had become too poor company for herself.

Such persons are not in rags or vice. Nevertheless, they are prodigals who have wasted the substance of their minds.

Or I think of a man who came to the city from a godly home where his parents had cultivated in him a consciences as sensitive as a fine camera. It could take a snapshot of even the most subtle moral wrong. Now he has become so dull of moral vision that he can take a time exposure of the most flagrant evils and register only a dull impression.

He is not a social down-and-out. Quite the contrary, he is up-and-in. He thinks he is getting on in the world, but what is happening is that the world is getting too much into him. He is a prodigal who has wasted that God-given substance called conscience.

Maybe our Heavenly Father would count many of us His prodigal sons. At this Lenten season isn't it time for us to come to ourselves and say, like the Prodigal of old, "I will arise and go to my Father?"

Junior Is Convalescing

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Junior's prescription is two weeks in bed. Keep the small patient happy! He's out of danger now, so you don't, have to worry," the doctor says heartily as he makes his departure.

You feel relieved. . . and very weary. What plans can you make for your child during 14 long days in bed?

At the first place it is well for a mother to realize that her own attitude is of tremendous importance.

His recovery will be a lot more pleasant and quicker too, if he does not suspect that mother is worrying about him.

The doctor's orders should be implicitly followed. A mother should make sure she understands clearly his instructions and then follow them to the letter. Friends and neighbours, and relatives too, may think they have much wiser ways of treating this particular illness.

You may have to listen politely to their ideas, but hold fast to the resolution that the doctor is the person who is in full command of your child's recovery.

FOLLOW ROUTINE

Map out your child's day so that there is a routine which is followed with time to wash, breakfast, tidying up his patient's room, free time for Junior to amuse himself, a fruit drink, more free time, dinner with a rest after his meal and definite things to do during the remainder of the day. If Junior can write he may enjoy working out with you his own schedule, and tacking his own copy up on the wall. A day broken into different hours of purposeful activity does not seem to stretch out endlessly.

A patient, even a young one, must learn to spend part of his time happily by himself. A mother must be careful that her child's eyes are not strained by reading or handiwork during a convalescent stretch. Listening to the radio, singing favorite songs, making up and telling a story are all activities which are "easy on the eyes."

One of the most enjoyable occupations during a lying-in-bed stretch is reading. The librarian always has good suggestions about books. On the bookshelf of new books by Canadian authors there are two recent ones published by Ryerson Press which help a school child with history and science. These are, Brasspitale and Buckskin by George E. Tait, and, Peter the Sea Trout, by Mel Thistle.

Children love handicraft and a small patient should have crayons if he likes to color, blunt scissors for cutting out pictures or designs, and other play material. Simple sewing, sewing or knitting are other possible occupations. If there is a portable phonograph in the house, a child can have many happy hours playing it himself. A big calendar on the wall, with each day strofed off at night time, makes a child feel that his time in bed is passing.

A sick child needs more attention than a healthy one, but parents must not allow him to become a small dictator. If he is an only child, or if his illness has been serious and they have been very anxious about him, this can easily happen. Nor should the parent, in his zeal to get the child better, assume the dictator's role. There is no point in trying to force a sick-a-bed child to eat large meals or sleep a certain number of hours. Appetite is apt to be fickle and sleep broken during sickness. But with returning health, these will right themselves. If the doctor says the child's progress is satisfactory, parents can rejoice and get through the convalescence days as happily as possible for everyone in the family.

PHOOEY ON FOOEY

Pooey! Why all the excitement over a pet skunk? We refer to the plea of an Ottawa family, which was carried by the Canadian Press, for a home for Pooey, an odorless pet, and a reward of $50 if a home since last fall. A story released this week by the news service indicates the skunk has found a home in Kingston.

The head on the local story read: "Local Bid Late, Kingston Gets Pooey The Skunk." Apparently someone in this city submitted a bid for Pooey. Skunks, (the tame variety, we mean), are not rare in Belleville. There are at least three homes in the city which brag of a pet skunk and one lady owns two. The fourteen-year-old girl in Kingston may not now what she has let herself in for by accepting Pooey. If she has not, she will have discovered some interesting facts about skunks as pets. First of all she must be prepared to attend to the wants of a lazy fellow who sleeps most of the day, gets up around dusk and prowls all night. She must be prepared to dig him out of all the inaccessible spots in her home the following morning. Skunks are able to squeeze through openings apparently only one quarter the size of themselves. The girl must stand by and watch him grow fatter and lazier day-by-day. If she should take him unawares at any time, she is going to receive a high compliment when surprised or annoyed bring both front feet down on terra firma with such force as to shake the rafters, and to damage the nervous system.

The teen-age girl may find that some of her friends don't call around any longer. (Believe it or not, the weasel-like skunk, despite its attractive coloring, repels some people.) But, on the other hand, since Pooey is a pet, the girl may find that in the mating season, a few of Pooey's friends drop around to the back door now and then. This, of course, should be adequate compensation for many troubles.

MOSCOW NELLY

Editorial policy is always a problem.

Critics are always with us, however, but there are days on which the milk of human kindness curdles in the editorial sanctum and it becomes imperative that some of the venom in the very atmosphere of the room be drained off onto the editor's page.

Most newspapers have a ready-made rule for solving this recurring crisis.

It is an understood fact that they detest man-eating sharks.

In recent years Communists have become an acceptable and welcome substitute for man-eating sharks. The shark has its limitations. You cannot blame it for high taxes, parking tickets, women's styles or bad weather. The Communist comes in more territory.

But even a Communist has his limitations. We are not too sure that the Ottawa Citizen did not swerve over the borders in a recent amusing editorial diatribe.

The editor of the Citizen received information about the exemplary conduct of little Nelly from Moscow, who censured her school chum Masha for using her name on a part stating discussing the whole matter at the next meeting of Soviet Pioneers. Nelly refused to help another girl crib an exam but generously helped her get the faithfully at that she could pass the test examination honestly. Her exploits are recorded in a Russian textbook. "In a decadent capitalist country, Nelly probably would not have many friends, which is not to say that outside Russia cheating and the marking of park statues are widely condoned," says the Citizen. "It is a question of the way of the world. Depending on the point of view, Nelly is an embryo heroine or an insufferable little sneak."

Know something? We would take a small bet that, in Moscow as in Ottawa, Nelly would be considered an insufferable little sneak by her fellow pupils.

Nor, in this case, is there such a profound gulf between adult attitudes on either side of the Iron Curtain. Nelly would have to be too far to discover western books in which Mary or Tom have the same offensive taste in ethics as Moscow Nelly.

THIS IS BAD?

A newspaper feature says that it is true that "many college graduates have less ability than uneducated persons."

That is encouraging.

Yes, encouraging. For it is possible to reword that statement in a positive fashion, to read that some "uneducated persons have more ability than many college graduates."

There are many tasks which, for some reason or other, colleges graduates dislike intensely. Many of these tasks are essential and demand of the person who performs them considerable ability. If all able persons were college graduates, where would we obtain our plumbers, mechanics, Hydro linemen, truck drivers, linotype operators, molders, stenographers, store clerks, reporters and editors?

Many good mechanics, linemen, truck drivers, linotype operators, molders, stenographers and store clerks would never make good doctors, lawyers or college professors, even if they studied at the best universities in the land. But to limit the meaning of the word "ability" to refer only to a talent for undertaking work requiring university training is to abuse the word's meaning. All of us have some ability and to maintain that a man who is a good lawyer is more able than a man who is a good farmer, or that a good chemist must possess more ability than a good machinist is to make an assertion which it would be extremely difficult to prove.

MARCH 20

We're getting into spring again
The birds are on the wing again,
The melting snowdrop whistle
The ice has broken through.
And, though it still may snow
again
And bitter north winds blow
again,
It's plain to see
The tulips and the daffodils
Will blossom soon anew.

The robins tread the lawn again,
The thrushes sing at dawn again
The trees are bursting into leaf
And April's drawing near.

And whether soon or whether
Winter his throne will abdicate
And all his troops of ice and snow
With him will disappear.

Beneath the mantle sun and rain
Soil-washing will be done again
Busy about her tasks all day
With Mother Nature be.
She'll lovely make the world
again
Set lilac blossoms at the door
And leave a beautiful bouquet
On every apple tree.

Father Time's Children

(New York Times)

Father Time is familiar to everyone as he has been picturized for centuries in alphanets and elsewhere, and most of us are acquainted with at least a few members of the family. Greenwich time is the British uncle of our Central, Eastern, Mountain and Pacific time, all cousins to a less-widely known relative from the north provinces of Canada called Atlantic time. Navigators of airlines by and air, railroad dispatchers and other specialists work with the more exacting relatives called Real time, Apparent time, Local and Civil time, Solar time and Mean time. It is difficult to think of anyone in this whole clan as ever having a birthday, or even being conscious of his age, but the records seem an important anniversary for the most popular of all the children of Father Time, the useful and sensible friend, Standard time, around the world in twenty-four timezones and ten years ago on March 13, 1884. It is highly unlikely that Standard time's long career of useful service will be celebrated with Biblical pageant or the statistical averages of the Prime Ministers, but on reaching seventy years of age everyone receives some sort of recognition, even though he be no more than the incorporeal child of an imaginary personification.

A brilliant and distinguished company of godfathers helped to sponsor Standard time, a company which included seventy-five of the great universities, three or four dozen Presidents of several of the ranking Navy men, a number of civilian experts in astronomy and meteorology and at least one leader of the railroad industry. The actual banquet took place in Washington, D.C., in the presence of an important group of International scholars assembled for the occasion on the invitation of the United States Navy. For the years shipowners, navigators, and physicists had been working toward a time system which would eliminate the chaos and confusion then existing in business transactions, scientific observations and pleasure trips whenever such operations happened to involve distances east or west.

The man who stirred up the reform movement at this point was a New Yorker by birth, Cleveland Abbe, who had learned astronomy and meteorology under Mitchel in Cincinnati and then helped set up the federal weather service. He talked with the great of California, Frederick A. P. Barnard, who happened at the time to be also president of the American Meteorological Society and made Abbe head of a committee to investigate plans for a new system. Quite independently, the railroads had a joint committee at work on almost an identical project under the direction of W. F. Allen. By 1879 it was agreed that a new method of reckoning time should be given plenty of publicity before its adoption, and then put into practical use through the establishment of a sub-division of the country based on the location of principle terminal stations already established.

* * *

Five years more were consumed in getting public opinion conditioned to the idea behind the proposed change. Then, in October, the astronomers and railroad men who had been giving free time service to the commercial telegraph companies, which had established a specially built with controlled temperature room for the purpose, split-minute telegrams were exchanged between Harvard's President Charles William Eliot and the Naval Observatory to avoid any awkward hitch in the relationship between federal bureaus and the academic world, and the first of Standard time's series of astrophysical anxieties of its sponsors. Many cities and railroads made adjustments to conform to their new zones; New York City will be the last important one to check exactly with time reckoned from the meridian that runs through Greenwich, which cuts across county about five miles east of Camden, New Jersey. Washington's time is a younger brother of Standard time, although Benjamin Franklin was born about a hundred and fifty years before it first became a fact of American life in 1918. ()

Was it Wise To Bowdlerize?

(Windsor Star).

Dr. Thomas Bowdler, the purist who gave that little used verb, "to bowdlerize" to the English language, was born 200 years ago. Oxford University's modern quest of diversion have noted this anniversary and in their own way are paying homage to him.

"To bowdlerize" means "to expurgate, by omitting words or passages considered indelicate." That is exactly what Dr. Bowdler did. Early in the 19th century he published "The Family Shakespeare," a 10-volume work, "in which," he said, "nothing has the littlest text, but those words or expressions are omitted which cannot with propriety be read aloud in a family."

Dr. Bowdler, English-born, Edinburgh-educated doctor might be described as a moralist and an enemy of free speech; but he persisted in his work of expurgation, and during his lifetime saw it abridged to suit his standard of respectability by the title "Dr. Bolbons' Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," and even in the same treatment.

Omission of certain indelicate words and passages in the revised text was indicated by asterisks or dots, and Dr. Bowdler's work lessened the inquisitive into searching unexpurgated edition of Dr. Johnson's. Thus worried Dr. Bowdler he gave no sign of it.

Indeed he was not until 1836, 11 years after his death, that his sister Harriet Bowdler had to subscribe the expurgation process. Yet he has not been an object of scorn all those years, despite the jostling his memory sometimes receives.

The point is important, for it is that "no man ever did better service to Shakespeare," as one of his friends said, "and no man would have appreciated that tribute, had he lived to read it.

Women Do Not Need to Reason

(Hamilton Spectator)

We feel more than somewhat sorry for Dr. Edward J. Sweeney, the psychologist at Stanford University, who has climaxed two years of research with the finding that women reason less than men.

His must have been a lonely, sterile life if he had to study so long to reach so shatteringly obvious a conclusion.

Furthermore, who cares? Woman gloriously transcends reason.

Psychologists a century ago might 50-odd years ago when he called woman "the unreasoning sex" (that's about as far back as the top"—and indeed Dr. Sweeney says he's not original in this: "A James was "partly right." But every husband has experienced, and been annoyed by, the wife's poking routine. He, the reasoning male, comes home from the household prods the obdurate thing logicality at the bottom and elicits from with a poker, and a merry blaze the thing that gives household roars out. fireplaces there is an alternative drill—the hubby can comfort, warmth and cheer, usually lifts the hood, checks the fuel thing else in sight, and still the the driver's seat, turns on the blamed thing won't go; his unreasoning wife blows the horn, and the engine starts.

We would suggest to Dr. Sweeney that he study the energy from every town and meet a few women who feel that find out only do they not reason, but there is no earthly need for them to reason. We get along fine as we are, bless their illogical little hearts.

MY PA AND HAMMER HORSES

Ohio reader says I should award her a prize because she has found a "group of two or three poor specimens," although I have yet to hear from two or more of the doctors who, she says, approve on my teachings.

Illinois reader claims a free set of the complete course of Little Lessons for catching me contradicting myself. He says that the first time I stated here that my father was a blacksmith, and another time I said my father was a railroad crossing guard or a flagman for the Illinois reader is right, and so am I.

But how old I was I must try to ascertain but it seems I could not have been over four or five years old when my pa was hammering Horses in Mr. Kinkle's blacksmith shop on Main Street, near the corner of Chapel Street in Canadaigua, although I have long been in doubt whether I really remember anything that occurred before I was six years old or whether things I think I remember are just memories of oft-told recitals of such occurrences by my parents and others. How about that? Are you quite certain you remember incidents in your early childhood?

Three years ago I received a letter from a former neighbor, wife of a medical colleague of mine back in the days when I was still trying to be an honest doctor. The lady reminded me that it was anniversary of the birth of the son I had brought her.

Oh, the years that had gone off her rocker, I thought. She must be badly mixed up, for not only I had never attended her....

I replied in her letter, breaking it as gently as I could, that she had confused me with the doctor who had attended the birth of her son....

Whereupon the lady procured a certified copy of the birth certificate and sent it to me. I had filled the certificate and signed it as the attending physician.

Later I visited the lady and met her son and obtained all the particulars I could, and finally I explained that birth certificate I'd still swear I never wouldn't mind so much if it had been an ordinary case, but it irks me no end that I recall having delivered a doctor's wife.

But I'm not dropping the matter here. The central project of our next visit to Canadaigua, Van, Dundee, Watkins, my boss permitting, will be a reexamination of all the evidence. I still hope to unearth some one or something that will clicks, and bring it all back.

Always until the doctor's wife interfered I remembered — or thought I did — how I tried to follow the pa who was on a excursion a few miles out of town, got lost, and was found by a farm hand wandering through a field. The farm people asked me my name which was of course Willie, and where I lived, a silly question, for I lived with ma and pa. Well, what did my pa do? He hammered horses. Oh, sure, the farm hand said, I must be one of Andy blacksmith.

A good detective, that farm hand. Mr pa was a blacksmith then. He suffered multiple fractures in a fall into an excavation and had to take a job as railroad crossing guard or flagman for the period of June to August at a monthly pay of $35 for 7 twelve-hour days a week.

Now I'm not so sure I remember actually getting lost after one of those four years. Perhaps I remember only hearing my parents relate it.

Now I hope I may be spared lots of supercilious psychology but it would be gratifying to regain the confidence I had in my memory of childhood events before the doctor's wife discombobulated me with that birth certificate. Perhaps some kind reader can prove he or she remembers things that happened when he or she was only three or four years old.

Scientists Going Too Far

(London Free Press).

Atlantic City police officers have been ordered to wear neckties so are in constant touch with headquarters. They cannot call the captain but they can receive orders. The set, hidden in the peak of the cap, is about the size of a match. It has a small aerial and a 20-mile radius.

Shades of Buck Rogers! Soon the salesman will be similarly tethered to the home office — day and night. No doubt there would be a stiff penalty for disconnecting the set. Then there would be sets for home consumption so some of them would call on hubby hour by hour.

Where will we thought! Science is fine but there are limits.

PENCIL SECRETARY

I never tire of paying tribute to the lowly lead pencil. I feel lost without one in my pocket, or beside me as I read or write. I only regret that I can't use it in my bath tub, as I sometimes do in less in me in my dreams!

Bacon once said this: "A man would do well to carry a pencil in his pocket, and write down the thoughts of the moment. Those that come unsought for are commonly the best and most valuable which are secured, because they seldom return."

I like to have a pencil handy while I read a book, as I like to mark passages that greatly impress me. Then later, when I take up the book, I re-read those marked passages and get a renewed joy in making the thoughts in that book more completely my own. I always imagine the secret pride that a scholar must have in reading the records something that he wants to remember, and so writes it down with his own hand, using his own pencil.

Whenever I go for a long vacation I never fail to carry with me several pencils—a whole handful of them—for I like hem around when most wanted. I like a few colored ones to use in sketching little drawings to amuse my correspondents if others are not within reach of pencils. I think of the great manuscripts that have been written with them. I have a few in my literary treasures. I recall that Robert Louis Stevenson used pencil books in lead pencil.

I am also reminded that Thoreau used to carry a part of his living by making pencils! How I would like to be convinced that he made once paid a tribute to the pencil and a eulogy on the pencil. All honor to those who make and use them! They have blessed all mankind.

THAT HEAVY LOAD

Recently I asked a friend why a man who had taken his own life did not promise had committed suicide. "Because," he said, "this man had a bad conscience."

Then my friend went on to relate how, years before when this suicide was a young man, he had counseled bills in the community in which they lived and had left town without paying. He became very wealthy, but he would never pay those bills. He did not deny that he owed them. And my friend's comment was that the way to be humble is to have a conscience.

Of course this last act was his conscience and his folly. Bad conscience can always be cured by repentance and restitution; it certainly cannot be cured by suicide. Nor can anything else, for that matter.

If you have a bad conscience, get rid of your bad conscience and not of your life. The suicide spoils everything by throwing away everything by which One might make good. He puts a period at the end of his destiny. God insists that the period be placed where that period. But no living soul ever has to carry that break down under a bad conscience.

Student Personalities At Albert College

A weekly feature of interesting facts revealed in interviews with those young undergradsat a who hail from countries beyond the seas.

By GEORGE H. CARVER

VERNON ASHTON

When Vincent Pizmoe, a friend of Columbus discovered, what is now known as Brazil in 1500, he took a look at the huge country, didn't like it and made no settlement. A little later in the year a Portuguese sea captain was stormbound and driven ashore. He immediately claimed the land for Portugal and thus Spain was deprived of what is now the fourth largest country in the world.

The captain noted the flaming red dyewood trees that were abundant in the jungles. They reminded him of "brasa" the Portugese word for burning coal, and thus Brazil came by its name.

From this glamorous land comes a representative to Albert College. He is 19-year-old Vernon Ashton whose family lives in Cubatao a small settlement nestling in the shadow of the Serra Do Mar mountain range in southern Brazil.

Vernon who was born in Manitoba went with his family to Brazil when he was eleven years of age. His father is George Ashton a welding engineer with the Brazilian Traction Construction Company.

Vernon is a handsome lad with a definite athletic build. He received his early education in a Brazilian school in Santos a coastal city of more than one million inhabitants. He specializes in track and field, tennis, soccer and Canadian football. He was a member of the college squad, although he said "I spent a lot of the time on the bench."

It is a far cry from the prairie town of Flin-Flon, Manitoba where Vernon was born to the sun-drenched jungles of Cubatao, but Vernon smiled when he was asked where he preferred to live.

"Both countries have their fine points, and I would not care to say which one I prefer" he said.

Contrary to the general impression Brazilian warm weather does not get as hot as a typical Canadian mid-summer, said Vernon. "Right now" he added, they are undergoing a heat wave of 110 degrees according to a letter from the family."

But Canada does not experience the dry and rainy seasons that are evident in Brazil.

"Brazil," said Vernon, "is the second rainiest spot in the world from June until September with an annual rainfall of 100 inches."

Brazilian rain like the Burmese dawn "comes up like thunder". Vernon recalled one evening when the sky was a cloudless void. Stars glittered and a red Brazilian moon poked its tip over the Serra Do Mar. Suddenly the rain began to fall in torrents.

Within the next four hours 16 (correct) inches of rain fell causing inestimable damage to property, highways etc. Huge landslides roared down from the mountains burying houses and completely ruining a large section of the main highway from Santos to Sao Paulo.

Incidentally you pronounce Sao Paulo "now Powlo". That is the Portuguese pronunciation and Vernon should know. He speaks Portuguese and Spanish fluently.

Cubatao is situated near the largest banana growing area in Brazil. Near the edge of the Brazilian Traction Company property a large paper mill is being erected. The first oil-refinery in Brazil, a huge project is under construction a mile or so away.

Brazil is synonymous with coffee, with both making the headlines recently because of upsurge. Unprecedent frost ruined a large part of the country's tremendous output last year, but the new crop thus far has been unaffected, said Vernon.

Coffee-growing has dominated Brazilian agriculture since 1833 with the climate and rich red soil of the province of Sao Paulo where Vernon lives, being particularly suited to the growth of the coffee tree.

The world's greatest exporter and producer, Brazil furnished 85 per cent of the total world crop in 1897 and since the end of the second world war production has been 62 and 77.4 per cent. The peak production came in 1934 with 29,610,000 bags. Since that time it has remained steady, between 2,000,000 and 26,000,000 bags. The crop is cultivated in all the Brazilian states but two-thirds of all production comes from Sao Paulo.

Life is more or less serene in this languid South American country except when political rivals contest the reins of government. In the smaller communities of the hinterland such as Cubatao, people take life easy. They play soccer, the national sport and tennis, but the most popular pastime, believe it or not, is ping-pong. Or if you want a spot of British recreation you can drop in the English club at Santos and indulge in a bit of cricket or badminton.

CAMPBELLFORD

Students Provide Rotary Program

CAMPBELLFORD. — Campbellford High School pupils provided the program at the Monday meeting of the Rotary Club. This annual event, when the students' council of the high school meet at noon for luncheon with the club, has proven in the past to be one of the most enjoyable of the year.

At the commencement of the meeting, president-elect, W. M. McComb handed the gavel to Miss Joan McCulloch, who took charge of the meeting. Paul Hendricks, vice-president of the Students' council, had charge of the program. Darlene Johnston, in an address on "Barbara Ann Scott," told of this great Canadian girl's rise to fame in spite of many obstacles and difficulties.

Grade XII band, comprising Mary Ann Moran, Bob Cowell, Jim Loucks, Ron Pierce, Jack Collette and David Thompson played several numbers. Gayle Meyers sang two solos, and dances by Harriet and Janet Houlihan, completed this portion of the program. Mr. Darling and Miss McCulloch thanked Rotarians for their hospitality.

Miss G. Meyers acted as the song leader.

FOCAL POINT

LONDON (CP)—Defence of the north pole is "just as serious, if not a more serious, problem than the defence of western Europe," Brig. G. L. Price-Palmer told the House of Commons. The Conservative MP for Worthing said the north pole "now is the Piccadilly Circus of the defence of the world . . . It is no wonder the Canadians have their faces turned in that direction."

Vernon has not decided on what he wants to make his life work. He rather likes the idea of being a professional photographer, but also has a yen to become a civil engineer. If the engineering wins he will attend Queen's University.

He does not go home during the summer, but gets a job somewhere until college opens. Vernon's parents will visit him in the summer of 1955.

Canadian NCO School Run For Division Popular Place

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Other formations of the Commonwealth Division look upon the 25th Brigade as original and enterprising. That's probably why the Canadian NCOs school, run for the division, is so popular.

Its six-week courses originally attracted fewer than 100 NCO prospects from British, Australian, New Zealand and Canadian formations. The last class numbered almost 200.

Jack Brayley

An Australian staff officer put it this way:

"The contagious enthusiasm of Brig. Allard (Canadian Korea commander) for originality and enterprise in soldiering encourages the broadest and most flexible program in training NCO's and that's why the rest of us support it so fully."

STRESSES INITIATIVE

A former New Brunswick basketball player, Maj. A. T. E. Fairweather of Rothesay, Royal Canadian Regiment, is head of the school.

"We try to get away as much as possible from the handbook routine in our common - to - all - arms training," said Maj. Fairweather. "And we try to turn out leaders who are commanders and not leaders as in follow-the-leader. We want NCOs who can retain command and control in the field and to do this we stress the encouragement of originality and individual initiative. Our results are very well received generally."

Maj. Fairweather is soon giving over his command to Maj. Gordon Donaldson, Black Watch officer from Calgary, and returning to Canada with the RCRs.

Seventy per cent of the school's instructional staff is Canadian but the students are fairly evenly divided among all Commonwealth formations.

FINE SUBSTITUTE

An Australian, Cpl. Ronald Plimcott, 27, of the Royal Australian Regiment, led the latest graduating class which was also the biggest. He lost his voice on the day before the passing-out ceremonies and the second-place student, Cpl. Clifford Moriang, 19, a Vancouver lad with the Black Watch, substituted.

Moriang boomed out parade-square commands without a quiver and the inspection and march past went with guardsmanlike precision.

"I was actually scared to death" Cpl. Moriang said, "If anybody had dropped a rifle I think I would have fainted. At 19, it's pretty tough to boss around that bunch of NCO material and I'm glad its over."

St. Patrick's Tea and Sale Successful

A highly successful St. Patrick's Day tea and home bake and candy sale was held in St. Joseph's school hall on Wednesday afternoon. It was sponsored by the C.W.L. of that parish.

The hall was adorned with green and white streamers and large and small shamrocks galore giving the real Irish spirit to the occasion. Mrs. P. J. Lynch, assisted at the door, Mrs. R. Lynch, 1st vice-president, received the guests.

The tea room was in charge of Mrs. J. F. Pointer, assisted by Mrs. T. Kelly and Mrs. A. Gibbons. The tea table, beautifully appointed with a lace cloth over green, was centred with an appropriate potted shamrock. Tri-branched silver candelabra with tall green tapers and the gleaming silver tea service added a pleasing effect.

Each guest table had its colorful tablecloth and was centred with a plate of delicious sandwiches separated by the tiny cakes by a lacy doily, St. Patrick's serviettes added the finishing touch. Mrs. T. Kelly was tea room hostess. Those who presided at the silver services were Mrs. D. Whalen, Mrs. P. Mercier, Mrs. C. Ward and Mrs. J. Lawn.

Those who served and replenished the tea table were Mrs. M. Collins, Mrs. J. Tatham, Mrs. H. Emerson, Mrs. L. Kennedy, Mrs. C. Murphy, Mrs. W. Sweet, Mrs. F. Maund, Mrs. H. O'Neill and Mrs. T. Cannon. The attractively decorated candy booth was in charge of Mrs. K. Cooper, Mrs. J. D. McKenzie and Mrs. B. Lynch. There were assorted boxes of tempting fudges and fancy baskets of yellow and green filled with goodies, and an extra attraction was a raffle on a lb. box of assorted fudge done up prettily in fancy paper in a smartly decorated container. This raffle was won by Mrs. B. Blankley.

The home bake table, with its enticing variety of pies, tarts, cup cakes, fruit loaves, date squares Chinese chews, macaroons, shortbread, angel cakes and numerous white and chocolate cakes decorated in the appropriate green, was convened by Mrs. A. Uens, assisted by Mrs. L. Hopkins and Mrs. E. Latimer.

Mrs. H. Taylor presided at a little table in charge of the raffle on a decorated hamper of groceries, which was won by Miss Alice Dolan. There was also a raffle on a beautifully matched set of towels which was won by Miss Bess Dolan.

The centre of attraction for the younger set was the ever popular fish pond, where they fished for numerous treasures. Mrs. B. Park was in charge, assisted by Mrs. R. Kennedy, Mrs. J. Murphy, Mrs. F. Dolan and Mrs. D. Downey.

Mrs. A. M. Lawn was in charge of the decorating of the hall.

Lady Fletcher Believes Mau Mau Get Foreign Aid

"There is definite evidence that the Mau Mau terrorist organization in East Africa is financed from abroad." This statement was made by Lady Fletcher, Russian-born wife of Sir Lionel Fletcher, when she addressed a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club on the topic "Africa in Trial" last night in the auditorium of Queen Alexandra School. Lady Fletcher has recently returned from Africa where she spent three years.

Within Mau Mau territory, the natives have built many modern schools for their children. Lady Fletcher said the "Blackman" in Africa is not well paid and yet he builds and maintains fine schools. "How does he do it and where does the money come from if not from abroad?" she asked.

In an hour long address, Lady Fletcher, who has been described as a "born adventurer and keen observer," recalled the history and events which lead up to the formation of the Mau Mau or Super Nationalist Party. She said that the Kikuyu tribe was a very religious peaceful tribe known as the Kikuyu. They taught their children loyally within the tribe. They believed in the stability of marriage and according to Lady Fletcher, the men of the tribe thought long and hard before marrying. She described them as an "extremely religious group, who believed in one god, Ngirita and oath-taking."

TRIBAL LIFE CHANGED

The British noblewoman discussed the part played by missionaries in the deterioration of the tribe. "When the first missionaries arrived among the Kikuyu they upset the tribe's past way of life. Schools were opened and the children were taught to read and to write as well as given religious instruction." She said that from that point on tribal life underwent a drastic change. Children became disobedient to their parents and unmanageable. They ignored the tribal rites of the old way of life. "They became Christians," Lady Fletcher declared," but they did not become good citizens." Her views on marriage previously held by members of the Kikuyu changed as well and in 25 years the tribe doubled its population.

Lady Fletcher said that many natives attempted to follow in the footsteps of the white man. They studied in British universities and in those of Africa.

"When the Kikuyu returned from abroad with his university degree and discovered the white man still would not accept him as an equal, he was puzzled. Later he became bitter and frustrated, torn between his nostalgic longings for the old barbarian way of life and the new desire to be on a par with the white people," Lady Fletcher declared.

Failing to gain acceptance, the Kikuyu formed the Super Nationalist Party, dedicated to either chasing the white man from the shores of Africa or exterminating him."

RENOUNCED CHRISTIANITY

Lady Fletcher revealed that a personal survey of missionaries indicated that 80 per cent of the Kikuyu renounced their Christian beliefs and became members of the Mau Mau. She said that the remaining 20 per cent have become "real Christian martyrs." This latter group, because they travel into the camps and settlements of the Mau Mau to preach Christianity are rapidly being killed off. She said that the threat of death is no apparent deterrent to this minority and they go right on with their ministry work.

The speaker recorded a number of her own experiences in relation to the Mau Mau revolt. She said that although the attitude the British must remain one of alertness, they had no motive to leave the country. "The Englishman is too stubborn to leave," she said, "and he will not be pushed around."

Lady Fletcher said that it is not known how many Mau Mau members there are. She said however, that three are three millions Africans of different tribes who are "just itching for a chance to get the Mau Mau." According to the speaker the British will not permit them to attack the Mau Mau.

The speaker also told of "the other danger lurking in Africa." She was referring to two countries of Northern Rhodesia and Southern Rhodesia. Both are plagued by intolerance and racial discrimination. The white man refuses to accept the blacks and in Northern Rhodesia the relationship is one of violent hatred between the two factions.

In conclusion, Lady Fletcher stated, "the white man and the black man should be able to live in harmony and share the riches of Africa equally. They both must learn that this harmony will only come through mutual respect." She said that the white man must learn to understand the native, to think and feel. He must also learn to be tolerant. She said that the black man must remember he would not have had the educational opportunities he has had if not been for the white man's influence into Africa.

"But what is more important," the speaker concluded, "the black man must learn the native is a most essential and necessary virtue."

Prince Edward Club Hears Safety Talk

A warm welcome was given to a record attendance of 53 members and guests, when the Prince Edward club met at the Y.M.C.A. for its March meeting. The president, Mrs. Wennaker opened the meeting with prayer.

Reports were read by the secretary and treasurer and Mrs. McDerment reported on cookies to sick and bereaved. A letter was read from the Humane Society describing conditions in lumber camps and the result of efforts made to lessen cruelty and starvation among the horses.

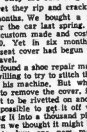
Miss C. Anderson, with co-convener Mrs. Ray Fox, presented a splendid program.

In keeping with "St. Patrick's Day an Irish song was sung. A solo was given by Miss Sandra Green, with Mrs. K. Green at the piano.

Mrs. Sidney Fox gave a humorous reading and Mrs. W. Howell played a piano solo.

The guest speaker, Dr. Dempsey, of Rednerville, was introduced by Mrs. H. Cunningham.

Dr. Dempsey chose a timely topic "Accidents and Emergencies in the Home."



Care and prevention are much more economical than a cure. She recommended that every home should have a small well equipped first aid kit, not only in the bathroom, but also in the kitchen. She said that each member of the family should be familiar with its contents and use. All poisons, lyes and strong medicines should be labelled and kept out of reach of children. Broken chairs, steps or walks are grave hazards and often cause serious accidents.

Miss Anderson thanked all who assisted in the program.

A social time was spent with the "St. Patrick" color in evidence.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

We've often thought school art classes could help the homemaker by giving the children more practical instruction in sign card lettering. There are numerous little signs which, would be most helpful around the home. Window tickets which read No Bread Today. Lawn signs to protect the grass could be done by young sisters. For Sale signs, Garage for Rent, Emergency Furnace Switch, Watch Your Step, House numbers too, could be improved. By making such signs, children can be taught to respect property and to put order into a home. Labelling important items and giving directions in case of emergencies would do much to make the home a safer place.

SLIP COVERS

There is something wrong with the way car slip covers are made today. They are said to give long life, yet they rip and crack in a few months. We bought a plastic set for the car last spring. They were custom made and cost close to $20. Yet in six months, the front seat cover had begun to rip and tear.

We found a shoe repair man who was willing to try to stitch the cover on his machine. But when we went to remove the cover, it turned out to be rivetted on and next to impossible to get it off without tearing it into a thousand pieces.

Then we thought it might be possible to buy one new matching cover for the worn front seat, as the rear was still usable. But, what do you know? The manufacturer has changed the patterns this year; so there is no way of matching the rear seat cover.

We are beginning to realize more and more that industry is being geared to replacement rather than to repairs and making do. Even the bodies of cars today are made with metal so thin that it will rust out in three years, making it necessary to buy a whole new car.

Broken and worn articles are being scrapped for new whole replacements. It is indeed a costly way to live.

FRESH FISH

Both inexpensive and asty from the fish line this time of the year are smelts. You can buy them for about 25c a pound all cleaned and ready for the pan. Toss them into a brown paper bag. Add a heaping tablespoon of flour and shake the bag. Then place the little fishes in an iron frying pan with some bacon grease and cook until crisp.

If you've never cooked smelts before, you will find them a delicious treat. The bones are so small that they can usually be eaten right along with the fish, or the back bone can be served easily and removed while eating the fish.

Uncle Frontenac says If Aunt Thesia's flowers turn out as grand as they are shown in the seed catalogue, their garden will be the finest in the block.

Holy Rosary CWL Holds Tea And Successful Bake Sale

The Catholic Women's League of Holy Rosary sub-division held a most successful tea and bake sale in the Knights of Columbus Hall on Wednesday afternoon under the convenership of Mrs. H. Glenn and co-convener, Mrs. T. Morrison.

Mrs. A. Eves, president of the Catholic Women's League, assisted by Mrs. H. Glenn, received the guests. Mrs. D. Huffman was treasurer and ticket convener for the tea.

The home-cooking table first to catch the eye with its ropes of green and white and centred with a huge pot of shamrocks was convened by Mrs. R. Lovelace, assisted by Mrs. J. Fobert and Mrs. M. Thompson. The booth was full of attractive articles which were soon purchased. There were prettily decorated St. Patrick's cakes, tea, rich squares, fruit loaves, tea biscuits, cookies and a variety of all kinds and delicious maple creams.

The daintily appointed tea table with its damask cloth, its centrepiece of gay daffodils, sweet peas of various hues, snow white tulips and tall green fern in a green pottery bowl, was flanked by silver candelabra holding aloft three spiral pale green candles and at either end the glistening silver service.

PRESIDING AT SERVICES

Those presiding at the services were Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. W. Smith, Mrs. J. Barrett, Mrs. E. Schrieder, Mrs. W. Laporte and Mrs. J. Reader.

The tea room hostess was Mrs. T. Morrison whose gracious welcome added much to the afternoon's enjoyment. Round about the room were guest tables covered with dainty white cloths and centred with a cut-out shamrock.

Those serving included Miss A. Glenn and Meadames H. Hillman, P. Melchior, J. Snider, E. McGuigan, D. Eves, L. Farrell, G. Tugnett, D. Windsor, R. Rolston and J. Reader.

In charge of replenishing was Mrs. F. Daley assisted by Meadames G. Tugnett, S. Haley, R. Rolston, B. Thompson, V. Baker; kitchen convener, Mrs. L. Donovan assisted by Meadames R. Mossman, J. Connell and Mrs. Bashall while Mrs. M. Walsh made the tea.

Mrs. P. Brennan was in charge of the tickets on a delicious angel food cake, a novelty of frosting and St. Patrick's trimmings which was won by Mrs. J. A. Hugh.

Mrs. J. McHugh was in charge of the tickets on the pretty centrepiece which was won by Mrs. F. Daley.

It was a most pleasingly arranged sale and successful one. Appreciation was tendered to the conveners, Mrs. H. Glenn and Mrs. T. Morrison and to all willing helpers and to the merchants for donations.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

AN IRRITATING MOTHER-IN-LAW MAY BE THE LESSER OF TWO EVILS

It's not always easy to know when to put up with an irritating situation and when to refuse point blank to do so.

To narrow this broad statement down to a specific type of situation, let's take the mother-in-law problem. Sometimes, when a man is obviously too much attached to his mother, it's necessary for his wife to bring things to a showdown. On the other hand, there are times when she had better leave it alone and try to make the best of it.

I wonder how many readers will agree with me that the latter course is probably the wisest in the case described in the following letter:

"My mother-in-law is a practical nurse and lives in an institution in a town not far from where my husband and I live.

"My problem is that she wants me to entertain her one afternoon a week, every week in the year, and she insists that every holiday must be spent with us. On the afternoons she is with me, I have to get supper for her as well as for my husband when he comes home from work. After supper, after hardly a visit with her son, and filled up with my cooking, which she always says is good, she immediately gets her things and proceeds to leave.

"Sometimes my husband walks her to the bus, sometimes he doesn't. But he has such a strong attachment for her that after she leaves, he either helps me clean around or he snubs me. He's so attached to her that he won't even listen to me when I try to explain what a strain it is for me to entertain his mother every week in the year, especially since she is a very tactless woman. She recently went so far as to tell me that I need a psychiatrist and that I have a queer strain in me, and although I've never had a breakdown in my life she insists that I must have had. She herself has had two breakdowns.

"I have been hurt many times at the way my husband puts his mother ahead of me, and I am always unhappy for a few days after her visits. I think my husband loves his mother more than he does me. He thinks everything she does is right, and he wants her to live with us when we get a house of our own. He is affectionate with me, but he is tender with her.

"I have thought of writing her a letter and asking her to come to see us in the evenings instead of the daytime, when I have to be alone with her, but I am afraid if I did this my husband would leave me. My husband formerly was an alcoholic, but has given up drinking for and intends to lead a good life now, but this trouble with my mother-in-law is making me very nervous.

To repeat what I've already said, I feel that this woman would be far more sensible to try and better her own attitude than to force the issue with either her husband or her mother-in-law. If she objects to her husband showing his attachment for his mother so obviously, he wouldn't it be much more difficult for her to have her mother-in-law there only when her son was around, instead of having her there, as now, in the afternoon while he is at work, especially since she leaves immediately after supper? Moreover, couldn't she make the afternoons of her mother-in-law's visits less wearing if she tried to plan something definite for them to do together on these afternoons? If she made it a habit to take her mother-in-law to a movie, or to the theatre, or to visit friends, it would leave no opportunity for her to indulge in the kind of remarks that annoy her so much, and it would also make the time pass more quickly and interestingly. Moreover, if her mother-in-law saw that she was really trying to give her a good time, it might alter the whole relationship for the better.

Altogether, I think it highly desirable that she stop concentrating on the negative and destructive side of the picture, brooding over how much she hates these visits, and, instead, put her attention in a positive and constructive way on forming the visits into something they both might enjoy.

Already this woman has much for which to be thankful in the fact that her husband has stopped drinking. To my way of thinking, she would be extremely wise right now to devote herself to keeping their home life smooth and happy instead of allowing friction to creep in which easily might throw him back into his former bad habit.

Putting up with a mother-in-law one afternoon a week and on holidays should not, in this instance, I think, be too high a price to pay for peace in the home.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

BLACKHEADS AND PIMPLES

Acne is just about the heaviest beauty burden that a young girl can bear. It not only makes the victim unhappy but she is likely to be self-conscious, live a restricted social life. The mother of such a child should be understanding, sympathetic—and helpful. If home treatment does not overcome the trouble, medical attention is in order.

Diet plays an important part in the treatment. Because fats stimulate the functions of the sebaceous glands the intake of cream, butter and pastries must be limited. The patient should have a quart of milk a day because of the varied food contents, but the cream should be removed. Chocolate is forbidden.

The daily bath, with brisk friction with a brush, is necessary to help the skin function as an organ of elimination. Several glasses of water should be taken each day. Fruits and vegetables are required because of their vitamin content and their favorable effect upon the digestive motions.

At bedtime the face washing should be thorough and, as young persons are pretty casual about that ritual, a complicated brush should be used. The brush should have bristles so firm they will not mat when moistened but not so firm that they irritate the delicate skin. Soap should be bland, must lather quickly. Some doctors have their young patients use shaving lather and insist that it be friction-ed into the flesh with the finger tips.

The rinsing should be done with warm water, after which hot moist compresses are to be applied. Moist heat softens the waxy skin plugs, frees pimples from a head.

One definite rule for the child: hand off. Blackheads should not be pressed out with the fingers, but removed with a comedone extractor that can be bought at the drug store. This is a little instrument with an open circle that is placed over the black point and pressure exerted. After the hot compresses are used and the skin dried, it is a good plan to apply a boric acid solution.

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Would you please help me by giving me a list of nutritious foods that are soft? My husband is having all his teeth extracted and will not be able to eat his usual meat and potatoes. How are souffles made and served—Mrs. V. W.

ANSWER:

My brother, being a dentist, told me to say the average time that soft diet is essential is from 10 days to four weeks, but some patients who have little or no infection can eat meat loaf after 24 hours. However a soft diet is probably what you will have to serve so here are some suggestions: milk shakes, malted milks with eggs in them, split pea soup with ground cured ham, and other pureed soups with meat stock, stews. Vary your ways of making meat loaves, and serve eggs in all forms and use liver paste and ground chicken for sandwiches. To make up for loss of blood, my brother suggests extra portions of orange juice or tomato juice, as your husband's dentist will doubtless tell him.

CHEESE SOUFFLE

Make a thick white sauce by melting 3 tablespoons butter, stirring in 3 tablespoons flour, then 1 cup milk until thick. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt, and a shake of cayenne. Remove from heat and add 3 well-beaten egg yolks stirring constantly, then 1 cup grated cheddar cheese or cut up process cheese. Cool. Beat 3 egg whites until stiff and fold them in. Turn into buttered baking dish and bake at 275 deg. Fahr. (having baking dish standing in larger dish containing 1 inch of warm water), for 20 minutes, then increase heat to 325 for 20 or 25 minutes or until well puffed and attractively flecked with gold. This souffle must be served at once. All souffles fall. Same method may be used for chicken souffle using ground chicken instead of cheese and extra seasonings.

LETTER:

I have wanted to write to you ever since I came to this city. I am so curious about you wondering where you live. . . your column is always a delight and one of these days I shall write a real letter and turn your head with compliments. . . I am enclosing a recipe which I modified and like very much. My assistant minister and I wrote 1737 of these for a recent Valentine Tea and had many requests to sell the recipe to the other W.A. members for "Talent Money" for Lent. The original recipe had less jello and no almonds, and wasn't nearly so delicious if I do say so myself. I do hope I shall be able to help some other time in future and I shall certainly write for help when I need it. You are always so gracious and really anxious to fill requests for your readers.—Kae B.

MOCK MARZIPAN STRAWBERRIES

One can sweetened condensed milk, 2 packages strawberry jello (reserve one of these), 1 lb. sweetened cocoanut, 1-2 lb. shelled almonds. Blanch almonds and put through grinder. Put cocoanut through grinder. Combine condensed milk, 2 jello packages, almonds and cocoanut in bowl, adding a few drops of red coloring if desired. Mix well. Form into small balls, and shape like strawberries. Empty third jelly into a saucer and roll strawberries in it. Make a small amount of butter icing, tinted green (I use pistachio flavoring). Put a small dab on top of each strawberry, bringing it down in little points with the tip of knife to resemble a hull.

ANSWER:

Thanks Kae. Bless me, what you did say was enough to turn my head. Thanks so much for both recipes. The dainty wafers are like others I received from generous readers. You probably saw the one I printed from March 8. Thanks for the offer of more help. I'll doubtless need it.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

EARLY SPRING VOICES

How glad we all are to hear once again the voices of birds! There is some singing in the south throughout the winter; indeed, it is said that the meadowlark may be heard to some extent every month of the year!

But in fact, except for the twittering of English sparrows, whistles from the occasional flock of wandering grosbeaks, and a variety of sounds from the ever-present starlings, silence reigns in our cold season. True enough, a Crow may let us know that it has stayed with us, but a wintering robin says very little. Now our residents, joined by newcomers, are beginning to tune up.

And so people are talking about the first crow, the first robin, or the first red-winged blackbird. Males of most migrants arrive quite a while before the females and soon start to look around for a possible nesting site.

Having chosen a locality, they tell the world in song that they have an option on the property, and merely await the approval of the wife. Then city dwellers as well as country residents are awakened by the robin's "cheer-up, cheerily," and anyone living near a rattail marsh is roused by the red-wing's "konk-ker-ee".

Birds often have separate songs for different occasions.

TERRITORIAL SONG

This "territorial song" is given at the borders of his claimed property, and is both a challenge issued to other males and an invitation to a female to come and share a home with him.

Before March ends there is the possibility of hearing over a dozen bird voices, depending upon how well your ears are tuned to their calls, and where you are able to go. Early in the month you might have been attracted to a prairie horned lark by its weak, wiry twittering in some bleak, attractive location. The squeaky notes of a grackle or a cowbird may be penetrating enough to catch your notice. You cannot very well miss the exuberant song of the song sparrow.

The best place to listen for the sweet, sad tones of the meadowlark is on the outskirts of a town, beside a field that has a fence, some good rock, stump, or fence post upon which to perch. Watch for his black V on a bright yellow shirt-front.

A bluebird's voice resembles a robin's, but is infinitely more plaintive. The sweet, liquid call notes, given when the bird is in flight, are as pleasing as its song. Then when you hear the high, aerial twitterings of the tree swallow you may be sure that most early spring birds have arrived.

Madoc

MADOC — St. Peter's Women's Missionary Society held its March meeting at the home of Mrs. Samuel Rollins. "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus" was the opening hymn. Mrs. David Kernohan read the Scripture lesson, and Mrs. Percy Alvey led in prayer. A reading, "What Is It to Pray?" was given by Mrs David Blakely.

A missionary of the church was chosen to be remembered daily during the month in prayer by each member of the society. Miss Elizabeth Heslip gave an interesting and comprehensive paper on the work done by the churches among Canadian Indians. There are missionaries on seven Indian reserves, and the staff for two of the government residential schools is supplied by the church. One of these schools is at Birtle, Man., and because of the excellence of the work done there all the high school scholars from Manitoba and Saskatchewan are now being sent there. The enrollment this year is over 180. The Indians are showing a new interest in education. Mrs. Cecil Wood read a report on the work in a Sioux Indian village and Miss Cecilia Heslip told of her visit to the Indian school in Portage La Prairie. An appropriate duet, "Have You Been in the Garden With Jesus Alone in the Garden of Prayer," was beautifully rendered by two Scottish voices. The minutes were read and the roll call taken by Mrs. D. D. Blakely. The hymn "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and prayer by the president, Mrs. Field Allen, brought an interesting meeting to a close.

A dainty lunch was then served by Miss Vera Kleeck, assisted by Mrs. Kernohan and Mrs. Alan Johnston.

ENJOY SHOPPING

LONDON (CP)—Maj. E. K. Edwards, vice-president of the Wholesale Grocers' Federation, told a meeting that Britons are indulging in "impulse buying" now that rationing is ending. He said they are going from shop to shop, buying in small quantities, and added this could mean an increase in the domestic grocery bill.

Abundantly Able To Save

Whoever receiveth the Crucified One,
Whoever believeth on God's only Son;
A free and a perfect salvation shall have;
For He is abundantly able to save.

Whoever receiveth the message of God,
And opens his heart for the Lord to come in,
A present and perfect salvation shall have;
For Jesus is ready this moment to save.

Whoever repents and forsakes every sin,
And opens his heart for the Lord to come in,
A present and perfect salvation shall have;
For He is abundantly able to save."

Two of America's most beloved soul-winning song writers—Elisha Hoffmann and Philip Bliss—joined hands to turn out the words and music for this popular gospel hymn.

In the years when revivals were enjoying their greatest popularity, it was used again and again by evangelists to call men and women to Christ. Thousands answered its all-inclusive invitation and promise:

"Whoever repents and forsakes every sin,
And opens his heart for the Lord to come in,
A present and perfect salvation shall have;
For He is abundantly able to save."

Mr. Hoffmann was a prominent Congregational minister and served pastorates in Lebanon, Pennsylvania and other eastern cities but he is remembered best today for the gospel songs which he wrote, in some to be given song-wings at his own organ, others to be set to music by his evangelist friends. He wrote "What A Wonderful Savior!" a popular atonement hymn, and another title, "Is Your All On The Altar?", is taken from its chorus. The message of the latter hymn has become as precious to most Christians as its music:

"You have longed for sweet peace, and for faith to increase;
And have earnestly, fervently prayed;
But you cannot have rest, or be perfectly blest
Until all on the altar is laid.
Is your all on the altar of sacrifice laid?
Your heart, does the Spirit control?
You can only be blest and have peace and sweet rest,
As you yield Him your body and soul".

Beaver Industry in Quebec Highly Profitable Business

By ROMEO MAGERA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—A somewhat uncertain venture of the Quebec government 22 years ago, the province's beaver industry has blossomed into a highly profitable business.

In recent years the annual value of beaver pelts has ranged from $500,000 to more than $1,000,000.

In 1932, the first provincial beaver reserve was established officially at Rupert House on the east coast of James bay. Eight years later, 800 pelts were taken from the 7,200-square-mile reserve and auctioned off here.

Today, there are 11 reserves in northern Quebec, many of them much larger in territory than Rupert House and together covering 185,000 square miles. Nearly 20,000 beaver pelts are expected to be taken this trapping season.

NEW RESERVES

Three of the reserves—Manouane, Roberval and Bersimis—were started in 1951, but are not yet producing. It takes about eight years for the beaver population in a newly-established reserve to grow to a "profitable" size.

Between 200 and 250 beaver are transplanted annually to new reserves.

About this time each year, planes deliver supplies to trading posts and trapping grounds throughout the province, in turn picking up pelts. These pelts arrive almost daily at the beaver preserves and fur service headquarters here and are auctioned off for as much as $23 each.

J. M. Tremblay deserves much of the credit for the development of the Quebec fur industry. The 56-year-old former trapper is director of beaver preserves and fur service, a branch of the provincial fish and game department.

A native of La Tuque, Que., Mr. Tremblay has held the post for 14 years. He joined the government when the fur industry was just an infant. Prior to that, he was employed by the Hudson's Bay Company and was in the raw fur business for himself in Montreal.

INDIAN WORKERS

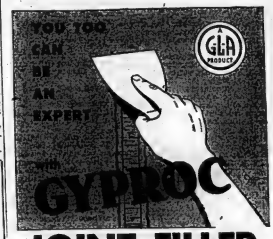
About 8,000 Indians, including women and children, work the reserves and co-operate closely in enforcing regulations governing the grounds.

The Indians, mostly Crees, are assured of enough food—they are food of beaver meat — and of enough money to purchase other needs. From sale of pelts, the provincial government gets royalties, much of which goes to developing the industry.

Mr. Tremblay predicts that some day Quebec beaver production will amount to 60,000 pelts annually valued at more than $1,000,000.

He adds that beaver aren't the only fur-bearing animal in Quebec. There also are mink, otter, muskrat and Canadian marten or sable. The latter currently is undergoing development in what is the beaver.



Mr. Tremblay's pet project is development of the 45,000-square-mile Lake Mistassini reserve, where he says some of the finest furs in the world can be had. The provincial government last year built a modern trading post at the reserve, about 300 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Indians in the area follow closely government suggestions on preparation of pelts.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

REST OF LUCK!

Stirling Juveniles took off bright and early for faraway Kincardine this morning where they will battle the Lake Huron kids in the first game of the OMHA Juvenile "C" finals tonight. It is a long hike, some 270 miles. The team is the second 'game of the home-and-home series in Memorial Arena here next Saturday night. OMHA secretary Jack Christie will be here to present the champions with the trophy and there is a possibility that genial "Mike" Welchel, of Elmira, OMHA prexy, will be on hand with other members of the executive.

BARIN' TO GO!

The Point Anne Trent Valley Hockey League crew is not selling their finals adversaries short. Earle Anderson and Lee Bradshaw told this department this morning that the Cr Painters are not taking any chances. "Too much can happen when it is least expected," smiled Earle. So the Cementmen will be at full strength and if they do lose the right to meet Marmora in the league finals it will be no fault of the management or players. The Point has a strong, well-balanced team with Patsy Green, in particular, playing the best hockey of his life. It should be a whale of a series and the next time we visit Willie in the Back Room we might wager a dewce on the Anderson team.

A NEW TREND!

According to a Canadian Press despatch yesterday, it looks as if Peterborough may at last get its long-awaited community centre. The despatch added that the Ontario legislature's private bills committee approved a bill empowering the trustees of the R. A. Morrow Memorial Park in Peterborough to turn over to the city part of the park site for the erection of a community centre.

So if looks as if the dream of the Lockey-playing Petes to play in a spacious, up-to-date arena will become a reality. (Don't forget to include a smack bar in the press box, Cec. m'lad).

It is quite likely the Peterborough interests will go all out in the dream building and probably erect one that will equal or nearly so the fine community centre in Kingston.

And if and when they do, it will put Belleville in the most spot in the arena sandwich. We will be strictly sandwiched in so to speak, but it is to be hoped that the powers-that-be won't be too long before they decide to keep up with the arena-building Jones'.

There has been much conjecture, guesswork, speculation and hot air the past two or three years about the construction of a new arena or the renovation and enlargement of the present one. There was plenty of talk at one time, or was it many times, regarding the removal of the steel posts in the building. But they are still there. These posts may have been the popular constructional verve in the days when the arena was built, but they are a decided deterrent to the box office in these modern days. A lot of people won't buy reserved seats if they are located back of the third row because of restricted vision caused by those steel uprights. And you can't blame them.

The fact remains that if Peterborough erects a modern community centre, and that is a foregone conclusion, this city will be definitely placed on the spot, if it is to be represented in Senior "B" hockey and must needs draw the crowd to pay for it.

Other opinions to the contrary, it must be conceded that the success of the Kingston Goodyears Senior "B" hockey project since the team played its games in the new community centre, is largely due to the fine accommodation offered Mr. and Mrs. John Fan.

During the present season, the Goodyears, and other Senior "B" clubs, which played in Kingston, rarely attracted crowds less than 3,000. If our information is correct the Goodyears averaged that number over their twenty-game home schedule. We do not believe for one minute, and with due respect to the structure's creaking bones, the Jack Harty Arena would have house one-third that number in a scheduled game, even with the fine brand of senior hockey which was offered fandom throughout the circuit.

By the same token, Belleville's Memco would have attracted twice or three times the number of people had they had an arena housing the accommodations of the Kingston Centre.

A friend of this department in Kingston told us shortly after the opening of the centre there, that people who seldom saw a hockey game, and some who had never seen one, were regular patrons. And it is not hard to guess why. People these modern days will not leave the comfort of home, radio and television to sit in a cold, drafty arena.

Hockey is an expensive sport. Many teams folded last season because of lack of public support. But if you look at some of the cases you will find that few, if any, teams which played in modern arenas, gave up the ghost.

We understand the City Arena Commission is holding its 1954 inaugural meeting on Monday evening. This commission sponsored the city Senior "B" entry last season. We do not know if we have we any idea as to what their plans are for the 1954-55 season.

But the handwriting is on the wall; dim though it may be, that this city should have an arena commensurate with those of Kingston and Peterborough.

The cold fact remains, as has been proven, that if a hockey club is to pay its way, and give some return to a sponsor, it must be housed in an arena the accommodation of which is such as to attract fandom in general.

Gentlemen of the Arena Commission! How about it?

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins' great defence trio of goalie Tiny Thompson and defencemin Eddie Shore and Babe Siebert were placed on the annual All-Star National Hockey League team 15 years ago today, the first time any team's rear-guard had received such unanimous acclaim. That team had Hooley Smith of Maroons, Charlie Conacher of Toronto and Dave Schriner of New York Americans on the front line.

Maple Leafs, Canadiens Clash For Coveted Second Position; Lumley Favored For Trophy

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The long, tough grind of the 70-game regular National Hockey League comes to an end Sunday night. That finish will provide the answers to the two questions that N.H.L. fans have been wondering about for days.

The answer to one of them, whether Montreal Canadiens or Toronto Maple Leafs will take second place, could possibly come tonight. The results of the windup games Saturday night will be necessary before it will be known whether Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings or Harry Lumley of the Leafs win the Vezina trophy in the goalies' race.

The Leafs, in second place over the Canadiens by a single point, can wrap up the runner-up spot tonight with a win over New York Rangers in Toronto should Detroit beat the Canadiens in Montreal.

Otherwise the issue won't be settled until Sunday night when the two Canadian clubs resume hostilities, the Leafs tangling with the Red Wings in Detroit and the Habitans meeting the Rangers in New York.

Taking into account tie games, the Leafs and Canadiens could finish with an equal number of points. In that event, second place would go to the team having the greater number of wins.

The second-place winner will meet Boston, which has clinched the fourth spot, in the Stanley Cup playoffs. The Bruins, who finished in third place will go against the NHL champion Red Wings.

THE DEFENCE

Lumley is in the drivers' seat in the goalies' race between him and Sawchuk. But Vezina Trophy, Lumley has had five fewer goals scored against him and the margin looks pretty big for Sawchuk to overcome in the final two games.

Goalie Gerry McNeil of the Canadiens, injured a month ago with torn ligaments, may return to help the Montrealers in their battle for second place. He is expected to pay the club to New York for its final game Sunday.

Boston and Chicago Black Hawks played their next-to-last game of the regular schedule Friday night. The Bruins, with their scoring punch clicking on every count, took things easily and the Hawks rode over them 6-0 victors.

Pete Conacher scored three goals to lead the Hawks' attack. Rookie Ken Wharram, centring a line with Conacher had four assists and a goal. Goalie Chicago tallies went to Jack Price, Jack McIntyre and Larry Wilson. Boston and Hawks wind up their regular schedule when they meet again in Boston Sunday night.

Sudbury Evens Series With Soo Greyhounds

SUDBURY (CP) — Sudbury Wolves, who had their backs to the wall after the first two games of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Seniors A southern group final, have bounced back into contention for the league title.

The Wolves, who dropped the first two games of the best-of-five series to Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds, have since taken two close decisions to square the set. Both Sudbury victories were by 3-2 margins. Their latest was clinched up Friday night when Addy Milne scored in the third period to break a 2-2 deadlock and send 6,666 Sudbury fans home happy. The attendance was an person under the limit allowed by fire regulations.

As in the first three games of the series the victory went to the team that scored the first goal. Bob Beaudry sent the Wolves into a 1-0 lead after 14 seconds of the second period on an assist by Milne.

Goalie Gerry McNeil of the Canadiens, injured a month ago with torn ligaments, may return to help the Montrealers in their battle for second place. He is expected to pay the club to New York for its final game Sunday.

Joey Giardello Gives Troy Savage Beating

NEW YORK (AP)—Joey Giardello, the world's second ranking middleweight contender from Philadelphia, Friday night scored dur-able Willie Troy three times and handed the young Washington tigress a savage beating to win on technical knockout in 29 seconds of the seventh round.

Giardello, a 13-to-10 favorite, weighed 159 to Troy's 156½.

The clever, hard-hitting Giardello dropped the 21-year-old Troy twice in the first round and once in the second round with right hand smashes. Each time the game youngster staggered to his feet at the count of three, but was given the mandatory eight count.

Troy, winner of his last seven fights by knockouts, took a brutal beating from then on but he wasn't floored again. Referee Al Berl finally stopped the slaughter after Joey walloped Willie with eight straight punches to the jaw.

The cocky Philadelphian hit the strong seventh-ranked contender with everything he had, but he never stopped Willie from moving in.

Even when he was obviously out on his feet, Troy gamely plodded forward as the crowd of 8,150 marvelled at his ability to absorb the fearful punishment. The gross gate was $31,225. The scheduled 10-rounder was broadcast and telecast nationally.

Before the fight, Giardello said "he's a sucker for a right." He was 100 per cent correct.

RCAF Flyers Eliminate Wellington, Meet Point Anne in Section Finals

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Scoring two goals in the last two minutes of the game, the second fired at an empty net, the Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers defeated Wellington 7-5 in the third and deciding game of the 70's southern section semi-finals played at the arena Friday night.

The Flyers will now meet the Point Anne Cementmen in a best of five series for the southern title with the first game here Monday night.

Trenton were never behind in the game but four times they went out front only to have the newcomers Dukes tie or take the decisive time running out on them the fourth time.

The third period opened with the teams even at 3-3 but the Flyers went to work with Bowman beating Letman at 8.02 after they had kept the puck in the Dukes zone for several minutes, blasting away at the net. Wellington's big chance came shortly after when Bowman and Rochon of Trenton were both off but the defence held until the two got back and Rochon took a pass from his penalty mate to make the score 5-3 with the period half over.

COUSINS STARTED IT

Cousins started Wellington on the comeback trail at 15.40 when he skated down ice with the puck on what looked like an ordinary play. When he reached the Flyers blueline he suddenly let go with a hard blast that caught everyone by surprise defencemen caught DuPaul off guard and Cousins let the blue line find the startled goalie.

Ray Carey added one of his specialties in tying goal near the end of the game) at 17.30 and the set pretty counter settled back for overtime.

Racicot was the marksman on the winning goal with Parnell and Vezina setting up the play. Letman was taken from the net with one minute left but the strategy backfired when Boucher lifted the puck into the open net as the seconds ticked by.

The Flyers jumped into a two goal lead in the first period with Boucher from Beatch at 5.36 and Bowman from Rochon and Boucher with the clock reading 17.40. Both teams played crowd-pleasing hockey with Letman's fine saves keeping the Dukes within striking distance.

Wellington got on the scoring line in the middle stanza with Hatfield getting one with Vezina off at 3.06 When Vezina's penalty was up he returned to the players' bench without touching the ice and was promptly given another sentence This time it was Bryan Mulvihill who took advantage of the extra man, putting the puck past Du-Paul after taking a short pass from Yourk for a 2-2 score.

Trenton went ahead again near the halfway mark with Parnell stickhandling in close before driving the disc by Letman, Cowwick assisting.

Carey and Mulvihill teamed up for one of the prettiest passing plays of the game at 15.37 when the former picked up a loose puck at centre ice. He laid a perfect pass on Brian's stick who passed back with Carey lighting the red light on a snap shot. The Dukes were shorthanded when they scored.

There was no further scoring in the period as both goaltenders came up with fine efforts in the nets.

Boucher and Bowman each had two goals and one assist for the winners while Rochon scored one and assisted on another.

Carey had two goals in a losing cause while Mulvihill claimed one and one and Yourk two assists.

Nine minor penalties were handed out all with the Flyers drawing six of them. Wellington scored three of their five goals with Trenton men in the penalty box, while all the Flyers' markers came with both teams at full strength.

Smythe, Irvin Want Junior Scoring Ace

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe, managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs and the National Hockey League, said he is "interested" in Brian Cullen, the centre for St. Catharines TeePees who set an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring record this season.

Smythe added, however, that he doubts the 170-pound native of Ottawa could move directly into the NHL from junior A hockey, "I think he might need a year in a minor league," Smythe said. "He's a pretty good hockey player. I think the thing that makes him great now is that he's a great fighter and that he keeps himself in top physical condition."

"But in the NHL he would be up against players who outweigh him by 20 pounds or so. Most of them are also great fighters and also in top condition. That could make a big difference."

Smythe said the Maple Leafs will try to have Cullen placed on their Ex. Montreal Canadiens are also reported to be after him. His record 161 points also included a record 68 goals—three more than the previous league mark.

Rudy Pilous, coach of the Tee-Pees, said Cullen is the property of Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League.

"Cullen signed a form with Buffalo before he came to St. Catharines," Pilous said. The Bisons are a farm club of Montreal Canadiens.

Stirling Resigns As OBA Prexy

CHATHAM (CP)—Archie Stirling, president of the Ontario Baseball Association, threw a bombshell into the association's 37th annual meeting by announcing his resignation after a year in office.

"One year is enough as president for any man," said Mr. Stirling. He added he was appreciative of the honor of being president but pressure of business and other duties made his resignation necessary.

Ordinarily the OBA president serves two years.

New Uses For Solunar Tables

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

When the Solunar Tables first were published, back in 1935, we had in mind only one thing—to tell the fishermen what time of each day of the year to expect to find the best fishing of any particular day. We knew then, as we know now, that fish are most active during the scheduled Solunar Periods.

Being fully occupied with the perfection of the Solunar schedule of feeding and activity periods of fish, as these periods manifested themselves, day after day, we paid little or no attention to the behavior of wildlife in general. That came later.

Any research worker will tell you that it is a tough assignment to work from a known result back to an unknown cause. We made mistakes and, all to frequently had to cancel all conclusions and start again from scratch.

This meant, of course, that countless hours were spent watching the behavior of trout in a stream or bass in a lake or river. To be sure, we did fish during some of those hours, but mostly they were spent in patient observation. Thus, we had time to observe other things as well.

Over the years we noticed that wildlife, particularly birds, responds to the Solunar Periods. Five years later, when we were sure of our ground, we made public the fact that the Solunar Tables are every bit as valuable to the hunter as they are to the fisherman.

SOURCE OF SURPRISE

—That started it. Then, in 1942, when our book, Moon Up-Moon Down, was published, the mail was constant source of surprises. There was no telling what would show up in letters from time to time.

One of the developments that has interested us greatly down through the years is the recurrence of reports of commercial uses to which the Solunar Tables lend themselves. The first of these was a New York pet shop which learned that feeding their little charges during Solunar Periods not only saved time and labor but kept the animals, birds and fish in better condition.

Then the owner of a collection of snakes on exhibit at the New York Aquarium on Coney Island told us that if she fed her reptiles during the Solunar Periods they fed more readily and stayed in better physical condition than had formerly.

In 1950 the personnel manager of a large metropolitan department store solved one of his recurring problems with the aid of the Solunar Tables. This store was open one evening a week. He noticed that on some evenings the store would be crowded whereas on others it would be almost empty.

REAL PROBLEM

This presented a real personnel problem. On a crowded evening, sometimes he would be understaffed. Conversely, on the poorattended evenings his staff was around with nothing to do. Studies of the weather showed no correlation. Rain or clear, his customers came or did not come, regardless.

Then he thought of the Solunar Tables. Now, if there is a major Solunar Period scheduled for the "opening evening," he has a full staff of clerks on hand. If that evening happens to be a quiet period, with no Solunar Period in progress, then he has only a skeleton crew. He tells us that the arrangement works out excellently.

Last year a man who raises and trains racing greyhounds wrote us that he found the Solunar Tables an invaluable aid in his business. These dogs, as you know, are highstrung, temperamental animals which require careful handling.

This gentleman says that not only does he train his dogs during Solunar Periods, also, he runs his breeding schedule in the same way. He reports that his success with this new system has been remarkable when compared with former years.

This man is so pleased with the results he has been enjoying with his dogs that he has interested another trainer and breeder, this one in Florida. Thus, two kennels of racing greyhounds are now being operated according to the Solunar Tables.

CHINCHILLAS TOO

Now, from our Canadian agents, Allcock, Laight and Westwood Company, publishers of the Canadian edition of the Solunar Tables, comes the copy of a letter to them from a man in Wickham, New Brunswick. This man raises Chinchillas. These are expensive little animals and, surprisingly, quite temperamental, although you would never suspect it to look at them. In past years our informant tells us that he had considerable difficulty now and then when mating season came along.

Sometimes, he says, when two of these animals are first introduced by being placed together in a cage, there is considerable fighting that often becomes serious, so that the animals must be separated. Thus, mating is lost and no youngsters are raised from that pair of breeders, etc.

Now, before introducing a male and female to each other, he consults his Solunar Tables. Then he places the two in a cage together during one of the quiet periods between Solunar Periods. Thus, the two become acquainted gradually, and with almost no fighting. The final statistics of his group has shown a sharp increase in the number of members of new arrivals since this expedient was adopted.

Moreover, when littering days come around, the litters arrive in this vale of tears "according to the book." During the past year he definitely owns the livers of two baby chinchillas to the fact he was present at the time the Solunar Tables indicated that he should be there.

And so it goes, down through the years. Actually, we have reached the point where we are no longer surprised when reports of this kind come in. It is part of human nature, no doubt that enables a man to become accustomed to almost anything.

Minor Hockey

The semi-finals were completed in the midget and bantam sections of the playoffs last night with the Brules advancing into the finals in bantam by gaining a 2-2 tie with the Black Hawks, thus taking the series 5-4. Robb Royals and Moose Lodge played a double-header with Robb's having little trouble eliminating the Lodge team, winning the first game 4-1 and the second 6-0.

The Brules carried a 3-2 lead into their game and before the first period was over Bill took a pass from Reeves to make it 4-2 on the round. The Hawks finally came to life in the middle stanza with Regent-from-Quinn and then Quinn-from-Vaughan to tie the series and give the Hawks a 3-1 lead in the game. The Brules battled hard and with seven minutes to play Gord Fuller carried the puck into the Hawks' territory and blasted one from close in that caught the short corner giving the Brules the series 5-4.

In the midget games the Moose Lodge team scored in the first goal with Jack Gill beating O'Neil on a pass from Al. Wright but from then on it was all Robb Royals for two counters each. Ferguson and Hagerman had one goal and one assist each in the first game while Bob Campbell and the other goals while Hagerman had two helpers and Cook and Ferguson one each.

The Brules meet the Maple Leafs for the bantam title while Robb Royals clash with Big "A" for their championship.

Let's Be Honest!!

If all alcoholic beverages, could be banished from the face of the earth, this might well be a better and safer world.

These beverages however have been with us since the dawn of civilization. The ease with which they can be manufactured, makes it a sure bet that they will be with us right to the end.

At one time we thought prohibition was the answer, what happened?

BOOTLEGGERS, RUM RUNNERS, ROTTEN AND POISONOUS LIQUOR, etc. So much money could be made by the underworld that they corrupted the Police, Politicians, etc.

We have since found out, that those who are determined to drink, will drink so we may as well have it out in the open where we can watch it and control it. When it is in the hands of bootleggers, there is NO CONTROL.

TO ALL RESIDENTS OF SIDNEY TOWNSHIP INCLUDING RCAF PERSONNEL:

On the 21st of April, provided you have resided 2 months in the area, you will be asked to vote on the question of whether you approve or not, of alcoholic beverages being served with meals in Sidney Township. This does not affect either Trenton or Belleville.)

In regards to the above, we would like to point out the following facts:

In the event of 60% of the voters voting "yes", alcoholic beverages can only be sold with meals. NO BEVERAGE ROOMS, NO LIQUOR STORES, NO COCKTAIL LOUNGES, NOTHING ELSE in the Township of Sidney.

Only places able to qualify as a hotel will be eligible to have a licence. TO THE BEST OF OUR KNOWLEDGE ONLY THE DUTCH MILL INN QUALIFIES IN THE ENTIRE TOWNSHIP.

Inasmuch as a meal must be bought before a drink may be purchased, who is there in the Township who will come to THE DUTCH MILL INN in preference to other hotels in Belleville and Trenton who are not affected by this vote? This new service will be used almost exclusively by Tourists and Travellers.

While Sidney Township is dry IN THEORY, who is there in the township who is more than a 15 or 20 minutes drive to the nearest beverage room or liquor store in Trenton or Belleville?

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Ethiteer

When an elephant bites a flea there may be some news value in it. But it teaches you nothing. Nor are you even sure it is true when you see it. So is it with the result to some bidding.

There once was the deal you see here:

| NORTH |
|---|
| ♠ None |
| ♥ 3 |
| ♦ A 9 4 |
| ♣ K Q 10 7 6 5 4 3 2 |

| WEST | EAST |
|---|---|
| ♠ A 9 8 4 3 | ♠ K Q J 5 2 |
| ♥ A 10 8 7 2 | ♥ K Q J 4 |
| ♦ Q 8 5 | ♦ 3 |
| ♣ A | ♣ J 9 8 |

| SOUTH |
|---|
| ♠ 10 7 6 |
| ♥ 9 6 5 3 |
| ♦ K J 10 8 7 3 2 |
| ♣ None |

Years ago it was that I saw these cards come out and heard the bids go like this:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1 Spade | 1 No Trump | 3 Hearts |
| 4 Diamonds | 4 Hearts | 5 Clubs | 5 Spades |
| Pass | Pass | 6 Clubs | Double |
| Pass | Pass | 6 Diamonds | Pass |
| Pass | Double | All Pass | |

I was there when it happened. Saw it with my own ears and heard it with my own eyes. And I still don't believe it should come to such a perfectly normal finality.

The north defensive bid of one no-trump intrigued me then as it no longer does. Experience since then has taken the surprise out of such tactics. But it was quite a stunt to me at that time.

Of course, north had no intention of playing it in no-trump when he stuck in that bid. His purpose was to coax the opponents into a double of that bid and then run to clubs.

There was always the danger that his partner in south might gum up the works for him. But this was the chance he was willing to take because he could repeatedly go back to clubs.

Notice now north gradually coaxed a double of his six club bid and landed in the right spot at six diamonds doubled. Which looked to opponents as if north was trying to crawl out of trouble.

Your suspicions bestow on the wiles of a foe.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 21, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A good disposition — or lack of — can help make this a happy, healthy day, or "break" it. It is up to you. Think before speaking; start right at church, and give others their due.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — God blesses those who help themselves, and also those who work to help others. The selfless way is the truly great one, and the most rewarding of all. In giving we get —in great measure.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — This day is for thought before action, for our best manners plus sincerity—no camouflaging—and for doing things, even little ones, to better another's lot. Back wishing with doing.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Habit is a remarkable thing. The right habits can build us into strong, influential, gracious persons. The wrong habits—well, need we explain? In little ways we form habits. Think!

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — If you feel like giving someone a verbal dig today, don't! You'll feel better for the restraint even though the dig may seem justified. Prayer, good deeds, happy thoughts will see you through.

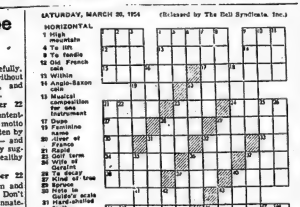
August 22 to September 23 (Virgo)—Mental strain is often your nemesis. But here you must be your own saviour—or suffer! You have a bright and practical mind, use it well every day but use it especially on the "off" ones.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—Speed doesn't always help—often hurts, as sensible Librans know. Direct carefully, don't bore; give opinions without overriding those of others, and enjoy the simple things of life.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—"A little with contentment is great gain" is a motto which could be used more often by you active ambitious folks — and to strong advantage, too. Day suggests calmness, prayer, healthy recreation.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Vanity, egotism and selfishness are great evils. Don't yield to any of these faults, lmmately you are noble, generous. Be true to yourself.

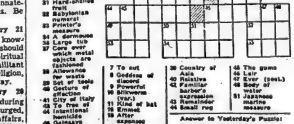
December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—The more our knowledge grows, the more we should recognize our need for spiritual nourishment and the more militant we should be in defending religion, family, free government. Pray.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Useful activity during the work-week is always urged, then rest, pleasant social affairs, family gatherings and religious services for the Lord's Day. Prayer at church gives you the right start.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—You could benefit by heeding advice to Sagittarius and Capricorn now. Necessary tasks and household duties are favored but do make time for spiritual devotions and needed rest.

YOU BORN TODAY have many interesting characteristics, but are sometimes a bit bold and restless. You are capable and talented but do not always cultivate your fine gifts; often are impractical in planning, too optionated for your advancement and eventual contentment. But you correct these and any other faults since you have determination and will power. God will help you in all things if you seek His aid. You have idealistic ambitions tempered with calmness and caution—a great combination for success when rightly exercised. Put good plans into action.



Birthdate Pasquale Amato, world-famous opera singer.

Garden Notes

All-American Selections

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

There are 21 trial gardens, or proving grounds scattered over the United States and Canada. These are maintained by seed trade growers. Here they conduct open trial grounds for the leading new introductions of vegetable and flower seeds. Many of the vegetables have been tested and the 1954, All-American Vegetable Selection is composed of the best vegetables originally chosen in the past years for their qualities. These vegetables are widely adaptable and most of them are the heaviest bearing main crop sorts. These can be depended upon wherever the season is long enough and the soil suitable to grow these kinds of vegetables. Sometimes these selections are not the leaders in your area, since it is common for locally adapted varieties to out performs some of the vegetables introduced in this list. You may use this list as a measurfor of merit, and add local favorites as additional crops.

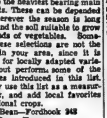
Lima Bean—Fordhook 242
Snap Bean—Topcrop
Beet—Perfected Detroit
Cabbage — Early Cheiftain; plain, Penn State
Cantaloupe—Honey Rock
Carrot—Spartan Pak
Cauliflower—Ideal Snowball
Corn, sweet—Golden Cross
Cucumber—Marketer, Bataviun
Endive—Full Heart, Bavarian
Lettuce, head—Great Lakes
Lettuce, leaf—Salad Bowl
Okra—Clemson Spineless
Onion—Sweet Spanish, Utah strain
Parsley—Parsmount
Pea—Freezonian
Pepper—Sweet Banana
Radish—Cherry Belle
Spinach—America
Squash—Early Prolific straightneck
Tomato—Pritchard
Watermelon — New Hampshire Midget

Here are a few local favorites with comments on their performance. Asparagus, Vineland, supermarket type. Bean, dependable Vineland experimental station. Broccoli Italian Early Sprouting. Local gardners are finding this is just as good as the expensive imported kind, and is easily grown if it gets an early start. Will give another crop in cool fall weather. Brussel Sprouts can be used as cooked greens and as a salad plant under favorable growing conditions. Cabbage, Early Jersey Wakefield, hardy can be used until hard frost. New Contender a green bush bean: we have found this a yellow wax beans stand the heat better than green varieties, and go on bearing producing long after the green beans have stopped bearing. Improved Golden Wax is a fine yellow.

A word about cabbage. If you have not tried it every year you have been missing a treat. very sweet, excellent for salads and cooked dishes. Chinese cabbage is good for salads and cooked also. It has a different flavor and planted now usually produces a good crop before the green beans have stopped bearing. Improved Golden Wax is a fine yellow.

It has a different flavor and planted now usually produces a good crop before the green beans have stopped bearing. Improved Golden Wax is a fine yellow.

Carrot, Spartan Pak, Cross between Nantes and Chantenays are hard to beat, either for table or market. Red-Cored. Cauliflower, Danish Giant, will stand dry weather better than any other strain. Plant a short row of celery for the leaves, cut for flavoring and add to salads and savory dishes, for flavor. Celery requires plenty of water to grow, grows on table but, a few plants used as herbs will please the cook, and the family palate.



Golden Bantam Cross corn, delicious flavor, large crop, disease resistant and hardy. Can be planted extra early. Marcross is also one of the best of the new yields, extra early. Hicrop is fine new cucumber developed at Guelph Agricultural College. Endive, green curled, a favorite salad addition. Black Beauty eggplant, compact bushy large heavy fruits ready 10 days to two weeks ahead of most varieties. Pemlake lettuce is smaller than Great Lakes, but this too, was an early selection and has a fine small compact head, heat resistant, as reported by the Ontario Agricultural College.

Locally Hearts of Gold is one of the outstanding contenders for early market and home gardens, very sweet and tender. Moss curled Parsley should be included. Used as a garnish it adds eye appeal, but most people overlook the fact that it is one of the few vegetables which is high in vitamin C that daily necessary we all need.

If you like yellow cooking onions plant the old favorite Atlas Cross, or hybrid Early Yellow Globe, or Yellow Globe Danvers. Early Walla Walch is the perennial onion for early table onions. Laxton Giant and Laxton Progress are top favorites in peas. French Breakfast is one of the top sellers in the vegetable market. It is a rosy red shading to white, crisp and tender.

Butternut Squash is increasingly popular. Fine flavor, disease and squash bug resistant. Excellent for keeping (in dry cool place) and for freezing. Table Queen, acorn type squash very popular as well. We have kept some until early March.

Tom Thumb Nasturtium and Easiest and Best are two of the top sellers in Tomatoes. Golden Queen is the best yellow tomato, very attractive for salads and slicing.

TO STOP BLEEDING.

The sight of blood is enough to throw many people into confusion.

Fortunately, most cuts are superficial and bleeding will stop quickly. It is when a deep wound causes a heavy flow of blood that first aid knowledge really comes in handy.

While not the recognized first aid method of stopping the flow of blood, the John Ambulance says these three steps will work in many cases and are the best procedure for anyone without a first aid or medicine:

First, the injured person should rest. He should be encouraged to lie down quietly and particularly to keep the wounded part still. This will make his blood pressure drop and the blood become slow, and less blood will flow from the wounded part. This will reduce the loss of blood.

Next, elevate the wounded part if possible. Blood flows still more quickly if the wounded part is down, as in the case of bleeding above the level of the heart.

FIRM PRESSURE.

The most important step of all is to apply firm pressure directly to the wound. This is by far the most effective first aid measure anyone can take. Ordinarily, pressure should be applied through a dressing which is bandaged firmly in place. A pad of cleansing should be thick and compressible so that it can be applied without even pressure over the whole wound area.

Pressure on a wound reduces bleeding because; it compresses all blood vessels entering into the wound and lessens blood flow, it retains shed blood in the wound until clotting occurs.

Rarely, in case of profuse bleeding and when a dressing is not immediately available, it is permissible to press with the bare hand directly on the bleeding point. The exact spot of maximum pressure can be altered until the most effective position is found.

If sufficient pressure is applied to the wound, bleeding will practically always be controlled.

Why "buy it installed" makes sense in plumbing or heating purchases

You wouldn't do as the man in the picture is doing. Neither would you buy a used motor car and then have your own tailor fit the plate where it is required.

Products which require installing skill, as which must fit existing dimensions, are best bought locally and as a ready-to-use basis. Otherwise, you are likely to get an expensive disappointment.

Plumbing and heating products belong in this class. A water closet, an oil burner or radiator is useless until connected to existing pipelines or heating systems. Every plumbing and heating item should be selected in the light of precise dimensions, capacities or special characteristics of the system in which it attaches. Only in that way can you avoid disappointment.

When you "buy it installed," you see what you get. If product has also the service that product gives—which, after all, is really what it is for.

In the long run, too, it's cheaper to buy it installed.*

Let us explain exactly why it's cheaper. And let us quote you our "installed price" on your next purchase of plumbing and heating products.

New Negotiations With Egypt Not Possible Says Eden

Conditions in Canal Zone Much Worse House Told

Wore Her Heart For All to See Through Dress

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mrs. Ralph H. Dolson took her eight-year-old daughter, Suzie, downtown to buy an Easter outfit.

"I don't want any just plain stuff," Suzie told her mother. "I want a dress like the dining room curtains. You know, with holes in what it's made out of."

They found only one dress—pale pink and lace—which made Suzie's eyes shine.

Her reason for a dress "with holes" were evident when she pranced out of the store's dressing room.

Four large red hearts drawn on her bare stomach showed clearly through the lace. Completing the picture were a child's arrow and the words, "Suzie loves Terry. Terry loves Suzie."

Later at home, Suzie dolefully watched her lipstick tattoo go down the bathtub drain, and repeated over:

"But that's what for I wanted the dress."

She has the dress, though.

London Gold Mart Reopens Staidly After 15 Years

By ADRIAN HALL

LONDON (Reuters)—The London gold market reopened today as quietly as if it had only been closed for a weekend instead of since 1939.

The reopening marked another step in Britain's bid to regain her pre-war eminence as a world trading and financial centre.

Closed at the outbreak of the Second World War, the market now will buy gold from any part of the world, but will only be able to sell for sterling.

Bullion dealers, bankers and refiners in striped trousers and black jackets this morning gathered in the market's traditional home, a richly-panelled board room in the historic Bullion Exchange, a 150-year-old private banking company of N. M. Rothschild and Sons.

At the meeting, representatives of Rothschild's, the London refining firms of Johnson and Matthey, and four leading bullion brokers "fixed" the price of gold at £12, eight shillings and sixpence ($33) an ounce.

HIGHER PRICE

This price is six pence (seven cents) higher than the price fixed at the last of the pre-war daily meeting in September, 1949, and which has remained in effect ever since.

In the first hour after the market reopened, only one dealing in gold was reported. The price range was one halfpenny on either side of the newly-fixed price.

Britain expects to gain substantial trading profits from the reopened market, and to attract a fresh flow of sterling from overseas. The country also hopes to benefit by commissions, insurance and carriage for gold dealings.

The unit for trading is a 400-ounce bar of gold worth roughly £5,000 at present quotations.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Sunny skies and fresh winds will combine to bring spring-like weather to most of Ontario today. However, a disturbance over western Minnesota will move northeastward and bring some cloud and light snow to northern Ontario today, and, in his wake, colder weather on Tuesday. Another weak low pressure area over Lake Superior will move eastward, and ahead of it, increasing cloudiness and snow will spread up the Mississippi valley toward southern Ontario on Tuesday.

LONDON (CP)—Britain today blamed Egypt for disorders in the Suez canal zone and said renewed negotiations for a canal settlement are impossible under present conditions.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declared it is "not possible" in present circumstances for Britain to reopen her discussions with Egypt on the evacuation of British troops from the canal zone.

Eden made the statement in the House of Commons in comment on deteriorating conditions in the strategic Middle East base. Four Britons were killed by Egyptian attackers there last week and others were wounded.

CONDITIONS WORSEN

Replying to questions, Eden said conditions of order and security in the canal zone had deteriorated "very seriously" in the last week.

He said Britain's aim in the canal regime "that in the present conditions which are open to their failure to take the necessary steps to maintain order, a resumption of discussions as to the future of the canal zone base is not possible."

Britain maintains a garrison of 80,000 troops in the canal zone. Egypt has demanded they be withdrawn but Britain refuses to remove them until adequate assurance is given that they would be made available to the Western powers in the event of war.

EGYPTIANS ACCUSE BRITISH

Eden's comment followed a charge by the Egyptian government radio that British planes in the Suez canal zone Sunday killed two Egyptians in "unprovoked" attacks.

It also asserted that British forces had cordoned off a village mosque, "manhandled people at prayer and stripped them of their clothes."

Eden's accusation was carried only in a dictation-speed broadcast aimed at providing information for people of Britain and abroad.

The broadcast charged the British forces with carrying out their attacks against peaceful inhabitants in the Suez canal zone."

U.S. Praised For Wise Leadership In Preservation of World's Freedom

LONDON (Reuters) — Two of Britain's most influential newspapers today hymned sharply on critics of America and gave praise to the United States for wise leadership which has preserved the Western world's freedom.

Both the Observer, Times and the Manchester Guardian have often indulged in frank criticism of U. S. policy in the past but today have joined in pointing out that, despite its failings, the United States had more than adequately filled its tremendous role in postwar history.

Speaking in the more general terms, The Times said: "It is difficult to imagine that any nation has ever come into the possession of such power for good or ill, for freedom or tyranny, for friendship or enmity among the peoples of the world, and that any nation in history has used those powers, by and large, with greater vision, restraint, responsibility and courage."

The Liberal Guardian, rebutting leftist criticism of American strategic policy, praised its fundamental soundness and added: "For that policy to succeed since our safety depends on it."

only that the United States maintain close liaison with her allies in framing future strategic decisions.

The Independent Conservative Times pegged its remarks on Sunday's conclusion over "McCarthyism" and American domestic strife, and acknowledged that the role of world leader was difficult. "Even the kindliest and most well-intentioned of giants causes a certain amount of nervousness and irritation to those who live on the giant," said The Times, "and it is inevitable that many people may well make the U. S. impatient.

The Guardian's editorial copy stated of a detailed reply to Jo Alsop's recent pro-Chiang policy voiced last week by the leftist London weekly, The New Statesman and Nation. It stressed the "urgent need to be sure that our strategy in the Far East rests on a sympathetic, fair and accurate, as The New Statesman's is not."

"The foremost point for criticism," the editorial said "is that we do not do enough together."

The Guardian called for some "joint policy, pruned its fundamental soundness and added "for that policy to succeed since our safety depends on it."

QUEEN TO LIVE ABOARD LINER DUE POLO THREAT

Handshaking is Banned On West Australia Tour

ADELAIDE, Australia (Reuters) — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced here tonight that the Queen will live aboard the royal liner Gothic instead of staying in hotels ashore during her visit to the polio-threatened state of Western Australia.

Menzies made the announcement after flying here from Tasmania to confer with the Queen on proposed changes in the royal tour.

Tight restrictions will be enforced, including a ban on handshaking, to prevent the Queen from catching polio. Anyone presenting a bouquet will not actually give the Queen the flowers, but place them near her Menzies said.

All meals the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and their suite of the royal household eat ashore will be prepared aboard the Gothic.

Menzies said some indoor functions—including a parliamentary dinner and a church service—will be cancelled.

The Gothic was due to sail from Adelaide for West Australia tonight instead of Thursday. The Queen and the duke are to fly to Perth, the state capital, Friday.

School children, instead of being massed to see the Queen, probably will be assembled in small groups.

The Queen has given approval to the changes.

SAYS EPIDEMIC MILD

Sunday the state's premier, Albert Hawks, said he was disgusted with reports that western Australia was "riddled" with polio. He said the epidemic was a mild one, and he understood the percentage of cases was lower than that in Canberra during the Queen's visit there.

Today the duke flew to the rocket-testing base at Woomera, Australia's top secret base of the world's top-secret weapons.

He and the Queen attended a church service Sunday at Adelaide's St. Peter's cathedral, and spent the rest of the day resting.

The Queen had an injection of the anti-polio serum (gamma globulin) in Canberra last month, which will last for six weeks.

SHIPPING STARTS

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The port of Buffalo's 1954 shipping season was opened Sunday when the Great Lakes freighter George Ingalls plowed through harbor ice to dock with a load of new automobiles from Detroit. The docking was earlier than usual but missed establishing a satisfactory ending a record for the earliest official navigation season on March 17, 1941.

Reinforcements Poured In As Red Attack Awaited

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — French Union troops braced themselves anew today for a still expected new mass assault against their Dien Bien Phu fortress by the Communist-led Vietminh.

Tank and infantry reinforcements bolstered the besieged defenders in northwest Indo-China.

From the air they poured a steady stream of fresh troops, war equipment, ammunition and provisions, parachuted from French transports and American Flying Boxcars piloted by American civilians of the Hong Kong-based Civil Air Transport Service.

French, Viet Namese, Senegalese, Moroccan and Algerian troops and the hardfighting German soldiers who dominate the French Foreign Legion were dug deep into trenches and bunkers behind mazes of barbed wire. The area there and around it on the approaches of a First World War battlefield, with the Vietminh also in hastily constructed trenches, some only 200 to 400 yards from the French lines.

FEEL RUSH COMING

The French at Dien Bien Phu still anticipate a sudden Vietminh rush in an attempt to overwhelm the fortress.

They would count on driving into troops.

the French entrenchments after a thunderous preliminary pelting network of barbed wire with mine-throwing grenades and hope to avoid losing another 3,000 killed and 9,000 wounded as they did last time.

The estimated 36,000 Vietminh for encircling the defenders probably three to one. But as the new power of the defenders cascaded from transport planes, their hopes and confidence of turning back every rebel assault mushroomed.

While opposing artillery again fought violent duels, the French air armada roared over the rebels in the hills in their most intensive attacks of the war.

The Vietminh, entrenched two miles from the heart of the fortress, were showered with incendiary bombs and napalm barrages.

Other squadrons blasted Vietminh bases with Commando Sinist China, from which the rebels are getting their war supplies.

Observers figure Vietminh chief Ho Chin Minh would be glad of a peace formula if he could get the northern half of Indo-China. A French Union flat rejection of such his demands when the big powers meet at Geneva April 26. Ho would then have to talk about if the French smash all his attacks upon the fortress and destroy his best troops.

Man Becomes Living Torch Saving Mother, 83, Children

MALLORYTOWN, Ont. (CP) — Francis Avery, 45-year-old farmer, became a living torch Sunday when he rushed into the flaming interior of his home to lead his 83-year-old mother and his two children to safety.

Avery is in hospital today suffering third degree burns to the head and body. His wife has been a patient in hospital for two weeks suffering from pneumonia.

The Avery farm is located about 10 miles west of Brockville. The fire, of unknown origin, had turned the downstairs of the home into an inferno when Avery, who was working in the barn, noticed it.

The flames set his clothes afire as he entered but he ran through the smoke and led his mother, Mrs. George Avery, and his two children, Wayne 9, and Elsie, 11, out of the front door.

Avery had to roll in the snow to put out his flaming clothing.

The house was burned to the ground.

Mallorytown is 15 miles southwest of Brockville.

Soviet Ministers Were Blasted By Party Chief

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet ministers responsible for Russia's food production drive were blasted by Nikita S. Khrushchev, the communist party chief, in a report published in the party paper Pravda.

Khrushchev, who has personally supervised the campaign to boost food output since launching it last September, in a long and outspoken and red tape for a "sorry state of affairs" in Soviet agriculture.

Though Khrushchev has consistently ridden herd on officials responsible for the campaign to step up food drive, this was the strongest public denunciation he has yet made of agricultural leaders.

Both Ivan Benediktov, agriculture minister, and Ivan Kazlov, minister of state farms, came under attack. Khrushchev was chided for his "incorrect behavior" in not spotting inefficiency in the Kazakhstan collective over "McCarthyism" and American domestic strife, and acknowledged that the role of world leader was difficult. "Even the kindliest and most well-intentioned of giants causes a certain amount of nervousness and irritation to those who live on the giant," said The Times, "and it is inevitable that many people may well make the U. S. impatient.

The Guardian's editorial copy stated of a detailed reply to Jo Alsop's recent pro-Chiang policy voiced last week by the leftist London weekly, The New Statesman and Nation. It stressed the "urgent need to be sure that our strategy in the Far East rests on a sympathetic, fair and accurate, as The New Statesman's is not."

"The foremost point for criticism," the editorial said "is that we do not do enough together."

The Guardian called for some "joint policy, pruned its fundamental soundness and added "for that policy to succeed since our safety depends on it."

Her Footwork Is Censored

The work is by Doris Ruddick, 28, a student at the Exeter art school. She is giving the show.

Miss Ruddick said, "I have always had flexible toes."

Declares Canada Is Considering Recognizing China

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times says today that Canada is seriously considering recognizing the government of Mao Tse-Tung for membership in the United Nations.

In a dispatch from Ottawa by Raymond Daniell, the Times says it must be assumed that during his recent trip around the world Prime Minister St. Laurent discussed the question of recognizing Communist China with Commonwealth countries.

The shift of Canada's attitude toward Red China, one on which there is a wide divergence of opinion between it and the United States, is believed to stem from Mr. St. Laurent's talks with Prime Minister Nehru, of India.

The Times adds that Canada's growing trade with recognition of Communist China is expected to be determined by the outcome of the forthcoming Geneva conference on Far East problems.

A conciliatory attitude on the part of the Chinese almost certainly would lead to recognition."

TRENTON MAN, J. H. VAN MEER, KILLED IN CRASH

Train Strikes Auto At Brighton Crossing

TRENTON (Special) — A man was killed and a woman miraculously escaped when a fast passenger train crashed a sedan car at the level C. P. R. Presqu'ile Road crossing at Brighton nine miles west of here early this morning.

Dead is J. Harold VanMeer, 56, of Trenton, in Trenton Memorial Hospital suffering a broken right arm, several fractured ribs and a slight concussion is Mrs. Roy Howe, 42, of Smithfield, a passenger in the car. VanMeer was thrown clear of the wreckage 75 yards west of where the train struck and Mrs. Howe, also thrown clear of the front seat of the car, was conscious when the first help arrived. The car in which she was being taken to a local hospital for treatment of her injuries was intercepted by the following ambulance. Garsegman Ted Hennessey of Brighton summoned the ambulance with his acetylene cutting torch said when he got there the car was jammed in the stretcher calling for something hot to drink. The car she had been riding in was caught under the front of the engine and had been dragged about 75 yards all way 400 yards from the crossing.

The train, en route eastbound on the Toronto to Ottawa run was nearing Brighton on time and was scheduled to stop at Trenton at 2.45 a.m. Police estimated the accident occurred at 1.30 a.m. It was 4.30 a.m. before the train got under way again. The engine could not proceed until the wreckage caught on the cow-catcher was removed and a towing truck arrived.

Police indicated that VanMeer was driving north toward Brighton. There is a possibility he figured he could get on the C.N.R. double tracks running parallel a few feet north of the C.P.R. single line. However, from the heavy damage to the left front of the car it is more likely that the driver never saw the train at all. In freezing rain and heavy fog early this morning it is more probable that the frosted windows obstructed his vision.

Don Jones, the C.N.R. station agent, dying in an office at the adjoined yards away heard nothing unusual at the time of the crash. He noticed something was wrong when he looked out the window and watched the train stop soon. When he ran out on the platform he could see the engine crew and he could see people crowded around the front of the engine. He rushed to investigate and the cattle light from red fuses. The somebody from the C.P.R. came to his office ing for a telephone to call an ambulance.

Identity of VanMeer was learned by a check of the licence plates on the car. Proof of the victim's was found on papers in her wallet.

Conductor in charge of the train was Jack Thompson of Toronto and the engineer was D. Sullivan, also of Toronto.

VanMeer worked at the Trent Cotlons Ltd. here as fireman and watchman for 17 years.

Vaccinations Instantly After Birth Save Many Babies From Death

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CLEVELAND (AP) — Vaccinating babies against smallpox at birth is safe, effective insurance against dangerous whooping cough and diphtheria, a family doctor finds.

The shots-in-the-arm against these diseases is really safer if started until babies are three months old instead of six months.

But Dr. Herbert D. Chamberlain, McArthur, Ohio, told today of good results from the earlier shots in 2,000 babies.

Of 717 babies treated this way since 1948, not one has had whooping cough or diphtheria; even when other children in the family contracted these diseases, he says in an exhibit for the American Academy of General Practice.

Between 1943 and 1948 in his rural practice in Vinton county, Ohio, there had been 440 cases of whooping cough and 10 deaths among babies less than a year old, he said.

These 1948 there has not been a single case of whooping cough, and in one baby not inoculated at birth, he said.

Dr. Chamberlain cited U.S. Government statistics which show whooping cough kills more babies from one to 12 months old than all other diseases combined.

He says the habies's standard vaccine combining protection against whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus, a main cause of blood poisoning.

The treatment consists of three shots. The second is given when the baby is one week old, when the mother receives a checkup for recovery from birth. The third is given when the baby is three months old. Three-fourths of all the babies have had the full series, he said.

Dr. Chamberlain said the instant birthday shots are especially useful in rural areas, where mothers often fail to bring in their babies for outline check-ups. Often the first visit to a doctor is when the baby is ill, and routine inoculations cannot be given then.

Police Cameraman Gives Extensive Evidence in Case

Courtroom Crowded Long Before Time of Hearing

The immediate future of a 48-year-old Belleville widow rested today in the hands of Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Magistrate Wills is presiding over the preliminary hearing of evidence in a murder charge laid against Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Bell, 222 Albert Street, in connection with the death of her husband, Percy Warner Bell, 52-year-old stationary engineer.

The hearing has attracted far-reaching interest. Jail officials said the courtroom was filled to capacity long before nine—an hour previous to the scheduled start. A large crowd milled around the corridors at 8.30 a.m. and grew as opening time approached. Northern sections of Hastings and Prontenac counties were well represented. One party of six from Eagle Lake was turned away.

Bell, it is stated, died an agonizing death at his home on January 2. Following intensive police investigation, Mrs. Bell was charged with the murder and arrested at her home on January 22.

Over forty-five witnesses have been summoned to give evidence in the case. These include several reporters, representatives of cosmopolitan and other daily newspapers.

Sec. Hall, Q.C., Oshawa, is the special crown prosecutor with Messrs. Ronald Cass and John Lennox, both of Belleville appearing for Mrs. Bell.

The hearing, which got under way in the county courthouse at ten o'clock today is expected to last two or four days, according to police officials.

MAGISTRATE READS CHARGE

Magistrate Wills read the charge to Mrs. Bell shortly after 10 a.m. She was dressed in a plain brown ensemble, and small dark hat. She appeared calm and showed interest in what was going on.

Ron Cass requested the bench in view of far-and wide publicity in the hearing that evidence not deemed admissible and all statements be not published. Especially in view of the fact potential jurors will read newspaper stories of the hearing.

Both the crown and defence counsel Ronald Cass spent considerable time in discussion regarding various kinds of evidence, and what should be admitted.

The crown told the court that six or seven witnesses were present reporters who had requested they be allowed to purchase their evidence.

Mr. Cass said he felt it important that any witness not be held incommunication with the accused be excluded from the court.

Magistrate Wills felt if reporters had such information they would not be permitted to be hearing reached certain points Mr. Cass requested the reporters be called after adjournment.

The two children were taken to hospital by William Gryce, driver of the delivery and car which was owned by Dr. Daniel. Gryce had noted the name on the side of the panel truck and Cox was later found at his home by police constables Parker and Balyn.

Slippery Roads Accountable For Two Accidents

Slippery roads were responsible for two highway accidents over the week-end which saw three men admitted to hospital following separate accidents.

Lennox Hall of Demorsville, and Maurice R. Brant, Shannonville, both about 25, suffered head injuries when the car in which they were riding went out of control on No. 2 Highway east of the Deseronto-Anne lane, struck a hydro pole and then overturned in the ditch.

BERT HARWELL

Mr. Harwell is well established throughout Ontario and America as an outstanding Audubon lecturer, who has contributed much to the cause of conservation. By combining a scientific and artistic approach he has been able to impart nature facts in a fascinating manner. His amazing whistling ability, alone, has made him a unique individual in his field.

Mr. Harwell holds a master's degree from the University of California and was a graduate student also at Columbia and Leland Stanford Universities. After serving as principal in the Berkeley, California, schools, he remarkable work in nature education attracted the attention of the U.S. Government. Here he served with distinction as Park Naturalist in Yosemite, where he directed the Yosemite Museum and the School of Field Naturalists. For eight years he has been one of the most popular and widely travelled of Audubon lecturers.

In his film "Canada West," Bert Halwell takes his audience on a trip through the more rugged areas of the west, from the Straits with their odd oceanic birds on to quaint Victoria and Vancouver, around the bend of the Columbia and over the Rockies. All along the route are magnificent views of mountain, countless abundant game and bird life, up views of beaver, moose, elk, mountain sheep, buffalo, rufous hummingbirds, a fascinating study of birds and many other species of the north country.

For those who have already seen Western Canada, this film will make them re-live some of their choice experiences. For those who have yet to see it, it will be rewarding entertainment.

Cubs and Scouts Hosts to Fathers

The Second Belleville Cubs and Scouts entertained their fathers at Christ Church Parish Hall. This is an annual affair and the boys go all-out to show what they have been doing in the year.

District Commissioner Arelie Lewis spoke on the importance of the fathers in the Scout movement. Mr. Middleton Gray made a pile on boys is more far-reaching than we realize and we should take a real interest in the social dealing with the youngsters, he said.

Chairman Gillie Green confined his remarks to the W.I.P.'s (Camp Committee) and then introduced the first chorus at the best table, A.D.C. Don Allan, District Scoutmaster; D. Middleton Gray, Cubchill, Scoutmaster B. Fox, Les Wilkin (secretary), Ted Bedford (treasurer). Commissioner Lewis presented members of the 2nd Scout Troop with their plan achievement award.

Scoutmaster Willis Jackson in a brief ceremony gave Ken Moore his two-year star. Two-year stars were given to Roger Wilkin, Bob Owen, Phil Stewart, Gerry Fuhrman and John Bedford.

Phil Stewart was invested as assistant patrol leader and Richard Bowbotham, Glen Stewart and Ronnie Galpin as patrol leaders.

This year the entire program was put on by the Mothers' Auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. Gander. The tables were decorated appropriately, and a very good dinner served.

Akela Kemp and her assistants are also to be congratulated on their Wolf Cub Pack. They show the result of careful and enjoyable training. The Cubs made the place look like a real den for the Commissioner.

The showing of the film "Jamboree 1953" completed one of the best evenings ever enjoyed by the troop.

MORE SPINACH

More than 1,800,000 cans of spinach were packed in Canada in 1953, compared with 643,000 in the preceding year.

Breeders' Association Shows Expansion Despite Fact Income Down Due to Lower Beef Prices

Despite the fact farm income was down considerably due to the lower prices for beef, dairy cattle and sheep farmers produces, the Quinte District Cattle Breeders' Association continued to expand during 1953.

This was shown to members attending the annual meeting here Saturday when Dr. J. M. McLean, association manager, reported the membership of the organization was now 2,492, an increase of 298 from 1952. The association also experienced an increase of 8.5 per cent in their year's income. Against this, however, operational costs increased 10.8 per cent.

Last year saw a total of 28,923 cows serviced by the association, compared to 26,625 in 1953. He estimated there will be a further increase of at least 2,000 services in 1954.

Dr. McLean pointed out there was still room for further expansion of the association in the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac and was served by the Quinte District Cattle Breeders.

SERVICED IT PER CENT.

Dr. McLean said 1951 agricultural census showed there was a total of 174,347 cattle of serviceable age in these counties, of which the association served but 17 per cent of this number.

"There is a big percentage of people who must be sold a good duct," Dr. McLean said, commenting on the policy of association directors that it be kept at a high level for the farmer to ask for service rather than approach him on the subject.

Logic of this policy is that if a farmer is not satisfied with returns then he could not blame the association, he pointed out, however, that six years of experience had shown that if a man is a satisfied customer he blames the association anyway.

"If we are going to give a service fit for a farmer to make use of on his initiative, then he must be willing it to sell to those who do not use it on their own suggestion," he said.

HIGHEST QUALITY OFFERED.

Mr. McLean said the success of the service offered by the association was on the basis that the average conception rate for the association last year was 70.6 per cent, with a rate of 71.8 per cent for Holsteins.

In addition, the Holstein service, service from Scotch Shorthorns, Guernsey, Jersey, Polled Herefords and Polled Aberdeen Shorthorns, was given by the association last year.

Northumberland county still continued to be the greatest source of business for the association last year with 7,781 cows in this county being bred. Cows bred in Hastings, totalled 6,041; 4,851 in Prince Edward, 3,012 in Durham, 2,672 in Lennox and Addington, and 2,366 in Frontenac.

A new sub-unit has been established in Frontenac county north of Verona for service commencing on March 17th. Forty-one farmers in that area have become members.

PLANS OUTLINED.

Plans for the 1954 program include selection of three or four dual purpose Shorthorn bulls for service. For the past year this group of breeders have been serviced with superb purebreds from the Hamilton district.

Mr. McLean stressed the value of the program to have daughters of unit sires graded under supervision of officials with the Holstein Friesian Association. He said this offer an immediate benefit to the cattle improvement program.

He also referred to the bonny won last year by Rockwood Rocket Tone, the association owned Holstein bull which, in all, has sired seven associated All-Canadian champions and which has won the grand championship at Chicago.

In its six years of operation the Quinte District Cattle Breeders' Association has seen the number of cows serviced increase from slightly over 4,000 in 1948 to 29,000 last year, while the total of association last year totalled $149,192.

Last year the association operated without grants but the service grant formerly paid by the government was retained, with the result that the profit on each cow serviced was but a few cents. Dr. McLean said that every effort would be made to keep the service fee at its present level of 50 cents.

It was noted that the Association would continue its program of paying 50c of the $1 charge for grading artificially bred purebred heifers.

NEW BUILDINGS ERECTED.

During the past year, a new office and laboratory building was erected by the Association at a cost of $60,048.31. The building was of sufficient size to satisfy their present expansion needs for years to come. The building, and all other assets of the Association are paid for. Assets of the Association are now valued at $115,-000.

Mr. McLean reviewed the research which has been done with respect to preservation of semen by low temperatures and said that as soon as the technique of long time storage of semen had been perfected, efficient and practical the Association would in all probability provide such service to its members. He said this procedure makes it possible to offer service from any sire at call times, even after the sire was no longer living.

IMPORTANCE UNDERSTATED

The importance of farmers realizing their goals of the June set-aside as a means of making money available for the advertising of dairy products was emphasized by Dr. J. Shugg, Dean of O. V. C. Shugg, director of public relations for The Dairy Farmers of Canada.

Mr. Shugg said if an improvement was shown in contributions from the provinces it is expected that about $400,000 would be raised annually.

He said that through the advertising campaign a new atmosphere had been created in the dairy industry. Consumption of dairy products had increased but at the same time only the surface of potential sales increase had been scratched.

Much more advertising of dairy products was needed.

Continued statistical work needed if the 33 per cent of Canada's population 15 years old and under were to be the increased consumers of dairy substitutes.

Bruce Dropp of Harwood was named the 1954 president of the Association. He succeeds Ross Stevens of Bowmanville. Breed representatives are: Ayrshire, Ross Ketchum, Moira; Jersey, Arthur McLaughlin, Bath; Guernsey, Roy Wilmot, Napanee; Dual Purpose Shorthorns, Leonard Trotter, Madoc; Hereford, Percy Hay, Roseneath, and Scotch Shorthorns, Russell Osborne, Newcastle.

Despair Grips Many Chinese Says Missionary

MONTREAL (CP) — Rev. Alphonse Caouette of the Foreign Missions Society, returning here after 17 years Roman Catholic Missionary work in China, said last Sunday many Chinese would prefer even the foreign yoke of Japan to the present Communist "Socialist state."

"There are many who go so far as looking to the atom bomb as the only remedy for all the present ills and evils," Father Caouette said in an interview.

"These people are profoundly conservative and justly proud of their past. They believe that no one may snatch from a people its beliefs, its philosophy, its habits of thousands of years to give them a new one. Despair grips the people.

"Bolshevism has become an everyday affair. Prisons and political camps have the biggest roles in China today."

Friends Honor 'Ike' Maracle On Retirement

A most enjoyable social evening was held Friday night at the Moose lodge rooms on Victoria Ave., the event marking the retirement of "Ike" Maracle, an employee of the Canadian National Railways for the past 41 years. A large turnout of fellow workers, relatives and friends which resulted in extra tables being pressed into service for cards, which preceded an evening of dancing and refreshments, testified to the esteem and popularity in which the genial "Ike" is held by his colleagues on the railroader.

Highlight of the event was the presentation ceremonies, featuring speeches by se veral officials and co-workers of the "Chief." Some interesting and "tall" tales of "Ike's" past were related and the large crowd really enjoyed this part of the proceedings. A purse of money and a tiffeme pass were among the gifts presented to the retiring railroader.

Square and round dancing were enjoyed and a mid-evening concert showed "Ike" to be still "young at heart." "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and three cheers thundered through the hall as the gathering honored their friend, who will spend his retirement in and around the city life does not intend being wholly idle. Besides liking a game of golf and watching the ponies, he is a small garden and there'll be some black bass which will with he had staged longer at railroading.

POLICE

Mr. Cass recalled the fact that a Toronto newspaper reported strychnine being found in the body. "This was merely a conclusion," he said.

"We are only concerned with inferences which will be here, and not conclusions," the lawyer said.

ARGUMENT DISPUTED

"I cannot see the defence argument at all. There is some merit in the suggestion of excluding these witnesses, but I cannot see it," Magistrate Wills said.

"If newspaper men know they are going to be excluded from this hearing, therefore, they would not want to co-operate in future as they have done in the past. There was a tidy one time when two newspapermen were present at one time in an interview," the crown pointed out.

Crown Prosecutor Hall told the bench he could not identify any reporters from half-way through the hearing.

"I do not want to put a newspaperman in a position where he cannot talk with his fellows," he added, with regard to the point of exclusion of witnesses.

ORDERED OUT OF COURT

The bench at this point ordered all newspaper and public men, others in direct association with the case to leave the court.

O.P.P. Inspector Roy Stackman, the first witness called, identified a photographs of official exhumation documents, those taken at a gravesside in Saganee cemetery and those of the body contained in the coffin.

Witness said a horizontal mark's reddish in color with a discolored border were on the chest of the body.

Rackman identified several pictures of the Bell home at 229 Albert Street, Belleville.

DESCRIBES ROOMS

The crown paid particular attention to photographic descriptions of the various bedrooms, and the cellar.

The witness identified a sketch made by himself of the upstairs and downstairs parts of the Bell residence. A separate sketch of the cellar of the residence showing articles in relative positions was produced. He also identified a violin in an upstairs bedroom.

He told the court that over the head of a bed was a section of wall that stretched to within two feet of the ceiling.

Inspector Kelly handed him a bottle marked "Carter's Little Liver Pills," which witness examined for finger-prints. There was indication the bottle had been handled although there were no fingerprints detith.

Another bottle labelled "Whisky" was examined and compared fingerprints on Mrs. Bell. These prints ran consistent in only four points. Two could are a positive identification. He could not say for sure if the prints were those of Mrs Bell.

Witness said he saw no signs of rats, or apples in the house.

"Did you look for any?"

"I did," replied witness

DID NOT CRAWL UP

Under cross examination by Mr Cass witness said he knew nothing of the age of the Bell house There was a part basement extending easterly and southerly, going to the foundation on the south, east and north sides.

He did not know if excavation had been made on the west side

"You did not crawl up in there because it was very dirty" suggested counsel. "There were sticks, stones and probably garbage up there. It looked as though nobody had been in there." Witness agreed.

Witness said tins of vegetables and fruits were piled up in the storage room of the house. Soap containers were in the laundry room. Odds and ends were piled under the stairway, pieces of wood, etc.

He had no experience of living in a rat-infested house, witness said.

Counsel suggested there were open drainholes in southwest and southeast corners of the cellar. Witness could not recall any pipes there.

DID NOT INCLUDE ALL

Witness admitted he did not include very small containers in his inventory at counsel's suggestion.

Referred by counsel to whisky bottle fingerprints, witness said he could not identify any marks other than the four which compared with those of Mrs. Bell. There was an inch of liquor in the bottle.

Constable Rackham said men's apparel was in one bedroom, lady's garb in a southeast room. A bedroom in the northwest corner contained no clothing as far as he could see. In the southeast bedroom, was men's clothing on a day bed and made up. All other beds in the house were made up.

He did not, witness added, look in furniture in rooms, nor in the kitchen, except refrigerator which contained groceries.

A faded portion of the wall in a bedroom mentioned before was the only difference to the color picture of flowered print. A slight fading was noticed on the south wall rising to nearly two feet of the ceiling from bed level.

BOTTLE SHAKEN

Referring to the "Carter's Little Liver Pills" container, witness said it was cylindrical in shape He could not say how many pills were in it. They were round and small. He did not open the bottle but shook it to ascertain its contents.

Magistrate Wills strongly objected to the defence counsel's request to seach the notebook of the witness, but gave him permission to make a brief reference.

A box of sleeping pills was labelled "Percy Bell," but it was not a regular prescription box. Witness could not recall if it bore a doctor's name.

The crown, on questioning, drew the information the sleeping pills were a part box and typewritten on it was "Percy Bell" The pills were in tablet form, not capsules.

The hearing adjourned until 1.15.

PHYSICIAN TESTIFIES

Dr. Reg. Anderson, Belleville physician, said he received a call 3 a.m., January 2, and went to the Bell home on Albert Street. He arrived approximately 15 minutes after receipt of the call and was met by Mrs. Mary Bell.

He recalled Mrs. Bell said the patient was extremely ill and she had repeated the call. He went upstairs to a bedroom and there was a man there he did not know. The patient was lying in the bed on his back. He was garbed in long winter underwear and was covered by a sheet to his waist. The underwear was open.

Dr. Anderson said he had learned the other man's name from the newspapers.

Mrs. Bell went upstairs with the witness, Asked Mr. Bell what was wrong and got no satisfactory answer. She (Mrs. Bell) said he had not been well long and was quite well on the preceding evening.

"The patient looked ill and was groaning. I thought at first he had a coronary attack. As I recall the man in the room said he had had severe pain.

"I listened to the heart. It was at a low rate. Had choice of two narcotics in pocket. I asked Mrs. Bell to go to the kitchen and help me get some water ready and to help with hypoderm mic.

"Before hypo was ready, the man upstairs called and said patient was having another fit. I hurried down to complete hypo. Before I could get upstairs the patient had taken a shock and was vomiting. It was a dark brown fluid which spilled over the bed and onto floor, also at left of the bed it had splattered the wall.

"I thought it was terminal vomiting. I gave him a hypodermic then took blood pressure of left arm which was quite normal. Listened to his heart and he immediately took another convulsion.

"He had difficulty in breathing. The other man sponged his face and suggested we get him to hospital.

"I told him it was too late."

"I felt that in view of the quickness of death, the cause of death was a ruptured blood vessel in brain."

"The witness said Mrs. Bell had better be told and the other man said he would do it. He heard him tell Mrs. Bell and she replied, "It was the normal thing to expect."

Mrs. Bell was sitting in the dining room when witness came downstairs. She stood up and said she felt faint. I gave her a sedative after she walked 12 feet to a chair.

Editor of Legendary Fame Dies in Sleep at Boston Home

BOSTON (AP) — Walter Crawford Howey, long-time Hearst newspaper executive and the real-life prototype of the colorful editor Walter Burns in the play "Front Page," died Sunday in his sleep at his Back Bay apartment. He was 72.

Death came to the veteran and almost legendary newspaper man only two months after his wife, Gloria, died from a bout of pneumonia while Howey lay in critical condition at a hospital of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

Howey's long newspaper career began as a reporter on the Fort Dodge (Iowa) Messenger in 1902. He was editor-in-chief of the Record-American - Sunday Advertiser, the Hearst newspapers in Boston, at the time of his death.

Between those times, he became a living legend as reporter, city editor and managing editor of four Hearst newspapers during a period when Windy City journalism was marked by hectic newspaper competition.

STUMBLED ON STORY

Howey got his first newspaper assignments after he joined the staff of the Chicago American came with astounding suddenness and in an incredible, accidental manner.

Dec. 30, 1903, he was walking along a quiet Chicago street when suddenly a man-hole popped open and a stream of wild-eyed, panic-stricken people stumbled out.

Howey had stumbled on first word of the Iroquois theatre fire in which 602 persons were killed. Hundreds more were injured in the crush through the sewer opening which led from the theatre cellar.

Howey just became one of the youngest city editors in the country when he assumed charge of the Chicago inter-ocean desk at 21. He retired from the Chicago Tribune before beginning a 37-year association with the Hearst newspapers in 1917.

While managing editor of the Chicago Herald Examiner he hired reporter Charles MacArthur who later, collaborating with Ben Hecht, added fictional fame to Howey's legendary real-life exploits in their play "The Front Page."

The play centered about the efforts of editor Walter Burns and one of his reporters to hide from other newspapers—and the police—an escaped criminal so they could get the exclusive story. Burns was generally believed to be patterned after Howey and neither the author nor Howey ever denied it.

DUST TO DUST

Twenty-three Japanese fishermen are being treated for atomic radiation burns.

They were showered with radioactive coral dust.

They were 80 miles from the explosion which pulverized this coral.

Obviously this blast was the biggest yet. But we should not conclude too hastily that this is the "best" bomb which man can devise. "Improvements" will probably be made.

That radioactive coral dust, falling 80 miles from its home base, is frightening.

Of course, we ought to remember that, throughout his history, man has been frequently dismayed by his increasing ability to destroy his fellow-man.

Nearly always his concern has been the result of a new-found ability to kill at greater distances.

A spear can be thrown farther than a club, an arrow out-distances the spear, gun-powder hurls the death-dealing bolt farther than does a bow-string and the plane is, in effect, just a gun with a much longer range.

Man has managed to survive all these extensions of his killing range. Perhaps a hydrogen bomb which is delivered by plane or rocket and then sprays out death over an appreciable radius will merely tax but not defeat man's ingenuity in evasion.

Still, we cannot help feeling that in his latest extension of his killing range, man is in danger of running into a new problem. The only way to be certain of avoiding death from a thrown club, a spear, an arrow, a bullet or a conventional-type bomb is to stay out of range. This demands putting a specified distance between yourself and your enemy. Once this was easy. But, on this world, there is just so much distance. If one backs away too far, one bumps into one's foe from the other side. During the last Great War man was already running out of space in which to manoeuvre. An explosion which knocks people located eighty miles from the point of detonation, and airplanes which can reach any part of the globe, considerably complicate man's problem.

Of course, it may be that space shipswill provide man with an escape from this earth in the nick of time and that he will be able to continue his age-old expansion of his killing ability on a new, and much larger, target range.

There, too, it is probably true that if man does find himself trapped on a dwindling earth which he is able and willing to blow to pieces, his ancestors will create too much inconvenience to any beings which may be inhabiting other planets.

It seems, though, rather a stupid ending to a tale which has been growing increasingly interesting as the centuries pass.

WILD LIFE WEEK

There is a wedding in the wall at the south end of the Ontario Intelligencer composing room.

The hard working boys of that sanctum maintain that the sound emanates from the throbbing threats of birds back generation after generation in the husband.

It was to be expected that the cynical editorial office would have a more prosaic explanation. Mice.

But whatever made the noise, the fact remains that the sounds must be interpreted as a sign of spring. Not a queasie issued from that wall during the winter months.

The forest and swamp, in meadow and on hill, there is a great stirring of life these days. It is appropriate, therefore, that, by act of Parliament, this season should have been declared the time for the observance of National Wildlife Week. Designated as a memorial to the late Jack Miner, noted Canadian naturalist, this is a week primarily intended to emphasize the need and value of conserving our wildlife for the enjoyment of future generations.

School teachers and preachers are being requested to observe this week by special messages in classrooms and from pulpits. But the most impressive wildlife message will be found along the shores of little creeks or in woodland glades.

If he will move circumspectly, man will be surprised at the number of living creatures with whom he shares this part of Ontario. Many of these have successfully resisted the white man's invasion of their domain for several of man's generations—and perhaps for hundreds of their generations. Timorous, surprisingly enough, followed man into new territory and are dependent upon him and his ways for the creation of the type of environment in which they thrive.

Even those birds and animals which follow man frequently have reason to fear him. He loves to fish and hunt. But this season of the year there is a truce between man and the finny and feathered tribes. It will do man no harm, and may do him much good, to make their acquaintance at a time when he sallies forth unarmed with either rod or gun.

A news report from Norfolk, England, states that nurseryman Francis Read was awarded £2,680 as compensation for losses in his mushroom growing business because a motor accident "affected his powers of concentration." Obviously a lot of concentration is required to grow mushrooms.

WOMAN ON A DIET

A woman vows that she will diet.
Sees chocolate cake and longs to try it.
Renounces angel food and pie,
But casts on them a hungry eye.
Henceforth where'er she takes a seat,
They serve her favorite things to eat.

Where'er her social duties lead
On calories they try to feed her
The doctor says, stop this and that
If you'd get rid of surplus fat.
So may the thing to say, 'tis true,
But not so easy thing to do.
Hunger provides a sauce that's biting.
And makes the plainest food inviting.
Foes, in the guise of friends, attempt
A different fare to tempt.
A little bit of this won't hurt.
They tempt her sometimes as a treat,
With dainties which she likes the best.

Most any woman told to diet
Smiles and decides that she will try it
But, tempted oft, her courage fails.
Up climbs the needle on the scales.
Few can the lure of food refuse:
Only the stoutest hearts can lose

Practically all the cattle which were stolen from the Woodley farm store last January have been recovered and the police are receiving all the Woodley store this morning. All the cattle were recovered, but a few skins may still be missing. The whereabouts of these skins are something of a mystery. Detective-Sergeant John M. Truscott, who has been in charge of the case, said that the Belleville Police Department is not relaxing its efforts in the pursuit of the $15,000 worth of stolen goods and hopes that before two months will return home from Montreal with a few skins. # Nations First Establishing Station in Space Will Win Absolute Control of Earth

By LEIF ERICKSON

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)— Dr. Lincoln La Paz, director of the University of New Mexico's Institute of meteoritics, says the nation first establishing a station in space will win absolute control of the earth.

Le Paz is an expert of meteory and meteorites. He has spent his scientific life searching for and studying the fragments which survive flight through the atmosphere and crash into the earth.

Le Paz brought Clyde Tombaugh, who in 1930 discovered Pluto, the ninth major planet, to the University of New Mexico in 1946 but soon lost him to the White Sands atomic proving ground.

At White Sands Tombaugh has since organized a search for small nearby moons which may be wheeling undetected about the earth.

If Tombaugh's search for a small nearby satellite—say 1,000 miles up—is successful, La Paz believes it can be manned as a station in space."

WOULD SAVE DOLLARS

"Flying such natural stations would save many billions of dollars of taxpayer's money which would otherwise have to be spent building an artificial satellite vehicle," he says.

Why would a space station mean military domination?

"First," La Paz answers, "by providing an ideal site from which to keep hostile areas under telescopic and radar scrutiny. Such a station would speed around the earth every few hours.

"Second, if retaliation becomes necessary, by completing the station in space as a site from which to launch and guide missiles armed with atomic or hydrogen warheads."

Dr. Ervin Bramhall, army ordnance research chief, in comment on Tombaugh's satellite search, said, "It's a little premature to be talking about space stations . . . although maybe we'll be thinking of such things in about five years."

La Paz says: "As long ago as the 1930s Hermann Oberth in Germany clearly pointed out the military potential of stations in space. Other nations have been thinking of occupying such stations for 25 years."

RUSSIA HAS EXPERTS

The United States, he said, got Wernher von Braun, under whom the V-2 rocket was developed at the Nazis' Peenemunde Centre. The Russians captured the great majority of the Peenemunde rocket experts and have long had control of the German rocket bases along the Baltic.

"We simply cannot safely discount the progress that German rocket and space scientists may have made," says La Paz.

"Also Russian study of meteoritics is much better systematized and far better financed than here.

At White Sands, which missile research makes the spot on earth closest to space, the acknowledged rocket altitude record is only 250 miles. This was achieved by a two-stage rocket—a V-2 from which a smaller one was launched near the peak of the V-2's straight-up flight.

MANY PROBLEMS SEEN

La Paz concedes there are many separate problems to solve before real space flight is possible.

Such hazards as space dust, meteorite impact, and cosmic ray bombardment must be overcome. The problems of mere existence in zero gravity must be solved.

Fuels producing necessary power and metals able to resist almost incredible temperatures must be produced.

La Paz contends that organized direction, as in the Manhattan project which produced the atom bomb, would achieve the step-by-step progress required.

Marmora Defeats Waterford 8-4 In First Game

MARMORA — The first game of the O.H.A. Intermediate "C" finals between Marmora and Waterford on the former's rink on Saturday evening went to the home team by the score of 8-4. That did not appear to be the likelihood in the first period, when a general sluggishness seemed to pourmeate local hockey. Iste, Mullin and Shewchuk had penetrated the Marmora defence with apparent ease to score unassisted with Lavender scoring in between on K. Trumble's assist.

The picture changed in the next period. Lavender tied the score in eight seconds of play driving in a hot goal on Maynes' assist and again before the first minute was up, the Marmora fans showed terrific applause when Maynes enabled his captain Trumble to put the team ahead. Five minutes later Gowing on Shewchuk's assist evened the score again. It was Leonard, who put Marmora in the lead again by scoring unassisted and passing to Jones 29 seconds later for that player to make the score read 3-3 in Marmora's favor at the end of the second.

Gowing for Waterford opened the scoring in the third on a fine single effort. For the third time in the game Marmora was to register twice within a minute. Parsnick sent Darrah through and Lavender did the hat trick as he was assisted by K. Trumble and Maynes. Mantle got the final goal for Marmora as Jones, who had received a pass from Brooks in turn assisted Mantle. Penalties all the minor offences most prolific in the first period were fourteen in all with Marmora getting six. As the battle waged in the third, it was seen that an attendance of about seven hundred were spectators. The series was agreed upon by the teams to be four out of seven and the second game will be at Simcoe on Wednesday evening.

Teams:

Marmora: Goal Killian; defence Gray and Leonard; centre, Maynes; wings Lavender, K. Trumble; alternates, Jones, Mantle. Brooks, Brown, Darrah, Parsnuk.

Waterford: Goal Fedyc; defence Shewchuk and VanWright; centre Gowing; wings Mullin, Dauby; alternates, Sutherland, Cook. La-Force, Duesling, Broadley; spare goalie, Hodnett.

Referee: W. Holway, Belleville; linesman, R. Moss, Marmora.

Holloway St. W.A.'s Enjoys Pictures Of Scotland, Ireland

The ladies of Holloway Street United Church afternoon and evening groups of the Women's Association met Thursday evening in the church parlors for their March meeting with the president, Mrs. C. Smith presiding.

Mrs. Smith opened the meeting with prayer and conducted the business period.

Mrs. C. Campbell, treasurer, reported on finances to date, Mrs. O. Denyes spoke on the work being done for the Children's Aid with the help of the evening group. Cards of thanks were read by the secretary, Mrs. Symons, from members during illness.

Mrs. Bailey, president of the evening group, took charge of the remainder of the program. Mrs. Dorland and Mrs. Joblin led in the meditation. Theme was "The way of the Cross." He who honors the cross, the Holy Spirit delights to bless. Mrs. Dorland read the Scriptures, Luke 9:20-27 and Mrs. Joblin gave the meditation basing her remarks on the 23 verse: "If any man will come after Me let him deny himself, take up his cross daily and follow Me."

"Although unworthy of death Jesus died for all of us to save us from our sins. It required the death of Jesus on the Cross to bring to men the spiritual and spiritual significance of this symbol to show men that the way of life is the way of the cross."

Helen McKibbon introduced the guest speaker of the evening Captain Brightwell of the Salvation Army.

Captain Brightwell gave a most educational and entertaining address showing pictures of his recent trip to Scotland and Ireland explaining each one and, interspersed with plenty of humor.

Miss Norma Arkles favored with two lovely solos, "The Bendemeer Stream" and "Green Pastures." Accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. Hubbs.

Gracious thanks was tendered to each of these artists.

The evening auxiliary proved itself an ideal location to the afternoon W.A. group.

Daintv refreshments were served by the evening group and a social half hour enjoyed.

Kinette Club Holds Past Presidents' Night

The regular meeting of the Kinette club was held recently in St. Thomas Parish House. The meeting was conducted by the four past presidents, Helen Wilbur, Marion Judson, Marg Hollins and Ruth Follwell. Each past president was presented with a beautiful corsage of rose-buds.

An Irish sing-song was much enjoyed and a Shamrock was won by Hazel Hunter, who held the lucky dinner ticket.

Two guests, Mickey Jones and Rose Archer were introduced by Kinette Mary Collins.

All business was discussed and several reports given. Kinette Betty Sullivan reported on the White Cane Club and Barbara Hollins gave a report on the Easter draw.

Ruth Follwell was appointed as representative to the Hospital Auxiliary and Judith Smith and Barbara Hollins will represent the Kinettes at the W.A.W.A.

The most interesting part of the evening as each past president gave a resume on her year as president and Ruth Follwell showed pictures of her trip to England and several interesting, fully illustrating to the Kinettes, because they included a meeting of the Kinette Club, now living in England.

All members agree that "past presidents' night" should be an annual affair.

ENERGETIC CLUB

The Energetic Club of Holloway St. United Church was host to the Redneersville Club and other visiting couples on Friday evening. The "wearin' of the green" was the order of the evening, as each couple was presented, on entering, with a shamrock name tag, and the room was gaily decorated with green streamers and shamrocks, for St. Patrick's Day.

President Lloyd Townsend greeted the visitors and opened the meeting with the call to worship.

Mrs. W. Anderson's group took piano selection was given by Betty Allen after the group sang "Bendemeer Stream." Neil Smith favored the group by singing two appropriate numbers "Bells of Shandon" and "Rose of Tralee."

Then Madame Frannie (Frank Wilson) presented her fashion show, giving a very latest in spring styles for ladies, modelled by winsome and intriguing-husbands. Needless to say, an event continued amid gales of laughter as beachwear, tennis costumes, street clothes, evening dress, were shown to advantage on these beautiful, built to measure models.

A game and refreshments followed, and the meeting closed with the friendship circle and benediction.

PLAINFIELD W.I.

Mrs. C. Platt was hostess for the March meeting of the Plainfield W.I., with an attendance of 16. The president, Mrs. C. Marsh, all opened the meeting. It was decided to give a donation to the Red Cross.

Mrs. S. Parks, Agriculture and Canadian Industry convener, gave a paper on the motto "Use Opportunity, it is the Gateway to Success."

An interesting paper on the history of the poem, Independence was given by Mrs. Parks with the assistance of Mrs. Clarence Hall and Mrs. Garfield Hall. Mrs. G. Swan gave a reading on natural resources and conservation. Mrs. C. Beatty and Mrs. G. Kerr gave an Irish number "Mother Machree."

The members enjoyed an Irish contest, the winners receiving a small prize.

The English paintings are to be drawn for at the May meeting. These were a gift from our Friendship Link Institute in England.

Several members demonstrated articles made during the winter.

The hostess and her committee served refreshments.

All conveners of standing committees were reminded to have their reports ready to hand in at the April meeting.

HOLY TRINITY W.G.

On Tuesday the Women's Guild of Holy Trinity Church, Shannonville, entertained a number of friends at the home of Mrs. John Kent. They were welcomed by the president, Mrs. Fitzgerald and the hostess, Mrs. Kent.

The event of the evening was a white elephant sale. Each article was auctioned off by Mrs. Fitzgerald to the highest bidder.

The bake sale table consisted of pies, cake, tarts, home-made bread, buns, an angel cake donated and made by Mrs. Jim Lazier was sold to the highest bidder, being Mrs. H. Wright, of Belleville. There were others and sales also made.

The Guild meeting that was to be held at Mrs. W. Wilson's, March 31st will be held at the home of Mrs. John Kent.

The Women's Guild served lunch Friday gave the Commons an example of a woman's prerogative—to argue one way and make up her mind the other way.

The only woman in the Liberal ranks, she said she will support equal-pay-for - women legislation sponsored by Agnes Macphail, Mrs. Ellen Fairclough.

Mrs. Shipley, member for Timiskaming, said the principle of equal pay for equal work is "of solid basic importance" that it should be made law.

Before she announced that decision, however, she supported arguments against the bill made two weeks ago by Labor Minister Gregg.

She said that little use has been made of similar legislation in Ontario and Saskatchewan, where it has been in effect for some time, nor in the 13 states of the United States which have similar laws.

LAW NOT USED

The Ontario legislation had been in effect for two years. Yet last December women working in Ontario had been refused equal pay with men teachers and none of them had taken the complaint.

"They had the law. They just weren't using it."

The proposed bill would cover only a limited number of women employees in "certain occupations and other interprovincial business."

Few women suffer from pay differences, Mrs. Shipley said. They were the problem with the lack of job opportunities and no legislation could help that.

The bill, sponsored by Mrs. Fairclough, Progressive Conservative member for Hamilton West, also was supported by CCF and Social Credit members. It did not come to a vote, however, before the conclusion of the hour devoted to private members' legislation.

bountious refreshments.

A vote of thanks was rendered Mrs. Kent for her kind hospitality.

St. John's Guild of St. Margaret's (Anglican) Church had a unique celebration on Thursday when, at the regular meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Exley, 302 Bridge Street East, they celebrated with them their host and hostess, their tenth wedding anniversary.

After the regular opening address, the Guild, of which Mrs. Russell Babcock is president, the guests, who included the rector, Rev. A. L. Page and Mrs. Page, wished their host and hostess all happiness and presented them with some charming gifts.

Mrs. Babcock and Miss Jennie Redner presided at the tea table and the hostess cut a beautiful St. Patrick's Day cake made and presented by Miss Redner. Dainty refreshments were served, also. The guests departed after again wishing Mr. and Mrs. Exley all happiness in the coming years.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ANY TEEN-AGER WHO MARRIES AN OLDER MAN HAS GREATER CHANCE AHEAD

Over and over again I wish that boys and girls in their teens who believe they are ready for marriage could go through my mail some 3s awhile, picking out the letters from young people who are married at 18, 16, 19, or even 13 or 14.

At rare long intervals, there does come one from some such with an old-fashioned telling of a teen age marriage which has worked out well. But such letters represent about one tenth of one per cent of the total. The rest are either sob stories of early marriages which broke up after a year or so, or else are despairing tales of marital heart-break and misery.

Here is one letter of the latter type.

"I was married at the age of 18 and am now 19.

"I have tried my best to be a loyal and loving wife to a man who is ten years older than I. I have come to the point where I feel I can't go on any longer, especially since I am expecting a child.

"My husband is very handsome and finds other women very enticing. He is making an excellent salary, plenty to take care of his family, but we live on borrowed money because of his extravagance. He's a tramp woman. He no longer has any interest in me and it has been worse since the baby is on the way. On several occasions when he has come in drunk he has struck me.

"I have no one to turn to, I don't know what to do and I am even afraid for the baby. I have just three short months to make a decision, and if no better solution is found, I am afraid I will be contemplating drastic. Please help me."

Now if this young woman had waited awhile before taking such a final step as marriage, the chances are she would not be in the deplorable situation in which she now finds herself. For, except under very unusual circumstances, the cards are stacked against age-teen age girl who marries a man much older than herself. Almost certainly, a man who, at the time of his appropriate marriage is going to him, being long, of his child bride, and, as this one puts it, "find other women very enticing."

All this, of course, is now just so much water under the bridge, and the question is, what is the wife to do?

What I think she should do is to tell the doctor who is taking care of her just exactly what her situation is, and let him get her in touch with whatever organization in her city is equipped to handle problems like hers. She should not, under any circumstance, stay with a man who only treats and abuses her, especially not while she is carrying a baby.

She will do as I suggest, and solve the problem up with a family advisory service, I am sure they will agree with me and help her work out a plan for getting herself out of this very bad situation.

If she prefers to get directly in touch with this organization, instead of getting her doctor to make the contacts for her, then she should call up her City Hall, or this newspaper, and ask for the name and address of her local welfare organization. The priest or minister of any church in her city could also tell her how to get in touch with the proper person.

I wish this young woman had given me her name and address so that, by being able to reach her directly, I could have got a reply

Mrs. Nye Bevan Youngest Woman to Sit in Commons

By ARGN MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Jennie Lee is 8 Scottish miner's daughter who manages to be both Mrs. Aneurin (Nye) Bevan and a Labor member of Parliament in her own right.

The 37-year-old redhead who once called herself the "polite member of the Bevan family" and she holds the distinctions of having been the youngest woman ever to sit in the House of Commons and the first working-class girl graduated in law from the University of Edinburgh.

Miss Lee hopes to make her second trip to Canada in May to address a Toronto meeting of the CCF. Miss Lee's visit will be short and typical of the global ramblings that have made her one of the best-traveled MP's in Britain.

And if she gives an indication or two in her forthright utterances of speaking on her left-wing approval she does so with justification. In view of her relationship with the British Labor party's Mr. Controversy whose faction has been divided, bloody and is called worse by some Labor and Tories.

AN MP AT 23

Yet it would be a mistake to underestimate Miss Lee's vivien spring solely from being Mrs. Nye Bevan. She has plenty of ability and inclination, she was headed that way long before she met the fiery Welshman on the boy benches of 1929-31 Parliament and found their thinking ranged them on a set of subjects.

The girl from Fifeshire, daughter and grand-daughter of a Scots miner-trade unionist and an ex-school teacher, entered the Commons in 1929 as a slip of a girl aged a young 23.

The News Chronicle, a Liberal newspaper, recalled recently: "With her Highland and Scottish eloquence, she was one of the most vivid back-benchers of the 1929-31 session. Members still talk of her brief, stinging, passionate interventions on anything dealing with the suffering of the masses."

Miss Lee—she prefers to be called—was not returned in 1931. She was kept out of the Commons until the Labor landslide of 1945, which rolled her back in the Staffordshire constituency of Cannock. At the last election, she received 32,000 votes and a majority of more than 18,000.

Now 48, she was married to Bevan in 1934. Her strong, handsome face, range from the rights of personal privacy—she once came to the defence of the royal family on that score—to the color bar, the future of the Labor party and the theory that guns and planes are not sufficient in themselves to achieve world peace unless "we can give to the world the ideas that will warm the hearts and win the loyalty of millions of mankind, colored or white."

RESTRAINING HAND

Although she is one of the staunchest Bevanites, she has dropped hints at times that she has attempted to act as a restraining influence on the fiery Welsh politician who once said Tories were "lower than vermin."

"Although I caution him not to air any criticism about Britain, he tells himself so with frank talks," she told Israel reporters while visiting that country early this year with Nye. He was under fire at the time for writing articles in an anti-British Egyptian newspaper.

TO VISIT CANADA

Jennie Lee, Scottish miner's daughter and wife of Aneurin (Nye) Bevan, a leader of the British Labor party, was the youngest woman ever to sit in the British House of Commons when she was elected to parliament in 1929 at 23. She hopes to make her way and trip to Canada in May to address a Toronto meeting of the CCF party. Miss Lee, as she prefers to be called, was married to Bevan in 1934.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A "TELEVISION" EVENING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have just bought a very nice television set, and we are planning to have a series of several Sunday evening buffet suppers. I am confused by watching television. I must admit that my husband is not so thrilled with television as I am, and he is of the opinion that we should tell our guests when we invite them that we plan to watch TV after the supper. He says that personally he'd be "much obliged" to be "warned" beforehand. However, I don't think that is necessary, and that it might give the impression that we're bragging about having the new set. Who is right?

Alicia H.

Your husband certainly has the right idea! It's a very wise rule that says that a guest should always be told in what form of entertainment he or she is being invited. Sunday evening is an important and valuable social evening for most people in today's busy life, and believe it or not, sometimes people just don't spend the evening watching television either at home or at a friend's house.

So it's fair and polite to give them the opportunity to accept the invitation or to "regret" it.

WHO SUGGESTS TIME TO LEAVE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a girl is out on a date—whether dancing or perhaps at a friend's house for the evening—who is to suggest leaving, the girl or her date, her host?

Ann S.

The girl is the one to suggest leaving.

REPLY TO INVITATION "IN KIND"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm always confused as to just how to word an invitation: that is, the form to use. Is there some definite rule that is a guide to this?

Beatrice T.

Yes. . . there is a perfect rule to remember: Reply "in kind." If the invitation is a formal one. . . that is, worded in the third person. . . your reply should be a formal one also worded in the third person. (The wording and spacing of the answer should correspond as nearly as possible to the form and spacing of the invitation). If the invitation is informal, one. . . for example, a note of invitation. . . your reply should be in the form of a note.

SHOULD SHE GIVE A BRIDAL SHOWER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be maid of honor, the only attendant, in the wedding of a very dear and close friend of mine in a few months. The wedding is to be very small, and the reception following is to be for the relatives only. I know it is customary for the maid of honor to give a bridal shower.

The bride's co-workers are giving to contribute to a joint wedding present, but since they are not to be invited to the reception, I feel it would be unfair to invite them to a shower which would mean each would be expected to give a shower present. Would it be wrong for me not to give a shower, and instead invite the bride-to-be for lunch and a show and explain the situation to her?

A.

It is not a "must" that you, the bride's maid of honor, give a shower for her. However, however, you think the bride-to-be would be delighted if you did plan a shower for her (particularly if no other showers are being planned) inviting some intimate friends of hers, and also inviting the group of her co-workers? The co-workers who are planning to give her a wedding present might make this wedding present their joint shower present . . . an electrical item, for example. Shower gifts should not be so simple and inexpensive that this shower would actually be far less expensive than your taking the bride to dinner and the theatre.

Are You Interested In 800 Calories Per Day?

By Mary Moore

A letter which ends ". . . please excuse this letter as I do not feel so good"—demands (my own term) a careful answer from me.

This reader is convalescing from an operation and on doctor's orders must lose 70 pounds. Her daily calorie intake is to be only 800. That is very low, but drastic as it may seem to some of you skinny sisters there are persons—many hundreds—of our readers who are aiming at 800 calories per day, so that they can buy a new spring suit, size 16, for Easter.

That is why my answer to Mabel G. is printed here. . . the Spartan souls among you may even eat only 800 calories, but the less determined reducers might need a bit more, and actually 1,000 calories, which would be pretty good, considering.

COWBOY SUED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Damages of $100,000 are demanded in a suit filed Friday by a clock salesman against cowboy singer Gene Autry. The suit alleges that Autry "wantonly, maliciously and outrageously" assaulted Harrison Willard last April 3 and beat him on the head after a traffic accident.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

EYE STRAIN DIMS FACIAL RADIANCE

If a friend tells you that she was so mad she saw red and that she was fairly blind with anger, she may be hitting close to the truth. The emotions have a powerful effect on vision. Many an individual has been worried about eye disturbances only to be told by a medical man that rest, release from worry, more sleep and outdoor life would restore the optic nerves to a normal condition.

Physical well-being and peace of mind are the great little eye-lights-by. The cheerful souls, the ones who love to laugh, the courageous are all bright-eyed. Nature's medicine is one of the most important elements of charm, sunniness, persistence, sunny cloud the eyes, make them uninteresting and expressionless.

One mustn't forget that the eyes are latte-tales, revealing character. Cold eyes—cold heart. A flame of anger in a woman's eyes can throw fear into the soul of the strongest man, just as a soft, tender glance can enslave him.

Thoughts and emotions are often caught by these little cameras.

The eyes alone can create an effect of beauty, which quality places them far above the other features of the face, so it is imperative that every glamour puss or give them the utmost care, see that they behave prettily, that they never show strain.

Operators in beauty shops give special attention to the eyes, using only patting and tapping the surrounding tissues to keep them, but analyzing the babies that provide lustre, arching the eyebrows, seeing that the forehead is free of frowns and furrows. You can follow the same program at home—with rewarding results.

Rumor Trying To Hustle P.M. Into Retirement

By FRASER WIGHTON.

LONDON (Reuters) — Rumor is trying to hustle Sir Winston Churchill into retirement—but he won't oblige.

A fresh spate of rumors about the 79-year-old prime minister burst forth, in Sunday's newspapers. The prophets—emboldened by the knowledge that Churchill never denies speculation—even reshuffled the Conservative party cabinet and discussed a national election this fall.

Some insist the prime minister will resign soon after the Queen returns in May from her Commonwealth tour, and that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will take over then.

What are the facts?

1. Sources closest to Churchill said that while he is admittedly unpredictable, they are convinced he has so far made no definite plans for retirement.

2. Conservative party quarters declared nobody in the party organization had been "alerted" to expect an election this year.

3. Definite plans are being made for Churchill — as leader of the party — to make his customary speech to a mass meeting of Conservatives at the end of their annual conference next October.

4. The prime minister has recently been fitter than at any time since his illness last summer and is still as anxious as ever to make some peaceful settlement the world's problems before he lays down his official burdens.

The Eskimos live on Flagstaff Island in Queen Maud gulf, six miles from the shore settlement of Perry River and about 100 miles inside the Arctic circle.

W.A. Sponsors Pie Social, Enjoys European Views

WHITE'S DISTRICT — A successful pie social was held at White's Church on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Women's Association. The parish hall was appropriately decorated in green and white tissue and green ferns in wall vases in honor of St. Patrick's Day. The tables also were tastefully decorated with shamrocks and potted daffodils and narcissi which added much to the enjoyment of the tasty sandwiches, pickles, celery, radishes, jellies and last but not least, about all the kinds of pies one could mention.

While the last table was being served, the Rev. R. W. F. Middleton and Mrs. Middleton aided a bit of old Ireland by singing "Father O'Flynn", "Killarney" and "Dear Little Shamrock" to Mrs. Middleton's accompaniment.

Mr. Middleton welcomed all and thanked one and all for their co-operation. He introduced Mrs. Bevers of Middleton Park who sang "Macushla" and "The Little Fairy Tale," accompanied by Mrs. Ireland.

Mr. Middleton moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Bevers and her accompanist and to Mr. Alyea and his daughter for their kindness in providing the evening's entertainment. The hearty applause showed how well it had been received.

JOHN NIAGARA Talks about: HOW TO GET A Friendly Loan

You know a lot of people the first time they come to Niagara Finance worry about whether or not it's the right thing to do. It's quite true that we don't make a loan every time anybody walks through our doors. Frankly we'd be out of business if we did. But you'd be surprised at the number of people who do get loans, and chances are good that if you need money, you can get it too. We've grown to be a big organization now but the men we have in our offices spread across Canada, we like to think, are pretty well trained. They're trained to understand how to solve your money problems in a friendly way. So if you need money, why don't you drop in? There are two good reasons why you should, you know. The first is that our rates are lower on many friendly loans . . . the second is that loans up to $1500, are life-insured, for you family's protection, at no extra cost to you. We think that those features make our loans a better deal than you get down the street. Inquire, won't you?

Pilot Training Keyed to Plane Developments.

Trenton, Ont.—Finishing touches are being put to the RCAF's pilot training programme, which over the last several years has been undergoing a gradual change. This has been necessitated by today's operational air force requirements, and by the general trend of the expanding RCAF for more pilots.

The changes, in addition to opening of numerous new flying training schools, have involved introduction of new training aircraft and a reorganization of the pattern of the schools themselves.

Today's airforce training programme sees the embryo flyer reporting first to the Officers' School at London, Ontario, where he is selected for training as a radio observer, navigator or pilot. Following preliminary ground training at London he then goes to a Flying Training School where he learns to fly on Harvards. Then comes an Advanced Flying School, where he flies T-33 Silver Star jets or swept-wing Mitchells, depending on the type of squadron for which he is destined. Next—for those eventually going to a fighter squadron—comes Air Weapons School. The final stage for all pilots, before joining an actual squadron, is an Operational Training Unit, where the pilot for the first time flies the type of aircraft flown by the squadron for which he is destined.

After OTU comes a squadron posting, and the beginning of the pilot's operational career. Training never ends, however, for most of the pilot's peacetime work is centered about readying himself for combat duties.

Pilot training in the RCAF is a demanding task, calling for the best. The man who wears the pilot wings of the RCAF, though, or those of the radio-officer or navigator, is stamped as one who is ready to defend our way of life.

Today's airforce trainees learn more than their service duties. Among other things they learn much about those from other lands, for they mingle with similar student aircrew from nine other NATO nations, all taking their flying training in Canada.

The RCAF will train you for Aircrew as a PILOT — NAVIGATION or RADIO OFFICER or as an expert technician in an important Groundcrew trade:

★AERO-ENGINE ★RADIO-RADAR ★AIRFRAME ★ELECTRICAL ★ARMAMENT ★INSTRUMENT

The Royal Canadian Air Force offers a life of interest, adventure, advancement, service and high reward.

Rough Seas Forgotten as Huron and Her Crew Greeted in Halifax

Relatives and friends line the jetty at Halifax as HMCS Huron returns home after nearly eight months in Korean waters and seven months away from Halifax. Rough seas dominated most of the return trip, which was by way of the Suez Canal and Gabrittar, and delayed the destroyer by more than 12 hours. From Azores the ship bucked gales almost continually. The veteran tribal class destroyer now is slated for a refit while her crew will enjoy long-awaited leaves. — Central Press Canadian.

War Ace Dies as Jet Crashes at Windsor

Investigators examine the battered wreckage of the T-33 Shooting Star which carried World War II veteran pilot FO P. C. "Paddy" Cadegan to his death when the U.S.-made jet trainer crashed and exploded in a Windsor district field. Two witnesses said the plane went into a steep dive a few miles after taking off from Windsor airport. The following explosion ripped a hole six feet deep in the field and threw wreckage more than 200 feet. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

Four New Representatives To Be Elected Today to House

OTTAWA (CP)—Voters in four constituencies in the central provinces today elect new representatives to the House of Commons.

The by-elections—in Verdun and Gatineau in Quebec; Peel and Elgin in Ontario—are the first tests of political strength since the general election last Aug. 10, won by the Liberals in a landslide victory.

Campaigning has been uneventful in the four ridings, which were divided evenly between the two main parties last year. The Liberal party then held the two Quebec constituencies with substantial majorities; the Progressive Conservatives held the Ontario ridings, but with smaller majorities.

The Liberals hope for a repetition of last summer's results, which gave them a commanding Commons majority. Standing in the 265-seat House: Liberal 171; Progressive Conservatives 49; CCF 25; Social Credit 15; Independent 3; Vacant 4.

Polls are open between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

LOCAL ISSUES

During the local questions, the campaign issues have been similar to those of the last election, in which Liberals ran on their government record and Progressive Conservatives offered lower taxes.

Largest slate of candidates—seven—is in Montreal's Dorval constituency of Verdun, which has elected Liberals since 1940. The Liberal party did not hold a nominating convention and four candidates seek party favor. Contenders are Yves Leduc, who has official Liberal backing; Roland Gadbois, running as a Liberal; Pierre Favreau, Liberal-Labor, and J. M. Hayes, Independent Liberal. The other candidates: Armand Dupuis, Progressive Conservative; William Dodge, CCF, and Ken Perry, Labor-Progressive.

Verdun's former member, Paul Emile Cote, was appointed to the Quebec bench Jan. 1.

Peel, traditionally a Conservative constituency, has returned that party's candidates since 1900.

The contest there is among two 33-year-old lawyers, Progressive Conservative John Balleti and Liberal A. J. C. O'Hara, and CCF candidate Lloyd Gane, 30, dairy cattle breeder.

Gordon Graydon held Peel from 1935 until his death last September. Results of the last election: Mr. Grayion, PC, 13,497; A.J.C. O'Hara, L, 9,383; James Adams, CCF, 2,501.

CLERGYMAN CANDIDATE

Elgin constituency has a two-way contest between Progressive Conservative James McBain, 43, farmer and former Elgin county warden, and Liberal Rev. Harry Rodney, 39, Presbyterian minister in St. Thomas.

Since Confederation the area has been fairly evenly divided between the two major parties. Progressive Conservative C. D. Coyle held the seat from 1945 until his death in January.

Results of the last election: Mr. Coyle, PC, 12,482; John F. Peterson, L, 10,765.

Gatineau constituency has a four way contest among Dr. Rodolphe Arbic, Liberal; Ernest A. St. Jean, Progressive Conservative; Roger Bourbeau, CCF, and Lucien Bonnier Independent. Dr. Leduc, a dentist, represented the riding from 1936.

Gatineau always has returned Liberals. Joseph C. Nadon held the seat from a 1949 by-election until his death last December.

Atom-Age Gives New Life To Mining Town of Cobalt As Cobalt Metal Now Needed

By BOB JOHNSTONE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

COBALT (CP)—Atom-age need for a hard, white metal once thought useless is putting Cobalt back on the map.

Cobalt, the town, is depending upon cobalt, the metal, to pull it out of its present status—that of the next thing to a ghost town. Its little community of scattered, frame buildings is the heart of the Timiskaming district has hope once more.

More than 40 years ago, 5,000 miners dug, blasted and scrapped away at the richest silver find in the Commonwealth. They threw away thousands of tons of ore bearing "useless cobalt."

Cobalt, the town, got along well without cobalt, the metal. It had five theatres with the prettiest girls in the north. Pay-days were so busy bankers opened their windows and cashed cheques for those in the street who couldn't wait until they got to the bank.

DEPRESSION HITS IN

Then the silver ran out. Bullion prices fell. By 1922, the 20-year boom was over. In the thirties the depression settled on what was left of the richest town in northern Ontario. The population last year wasn't much over 2,000.

Now cobalt, the metal, is one of the world's strategic commodities. Atom-age science and electrical equipment cannot resist modern speeds' heat and friction without it.

The annual consumption, mostly military, in the United States is more than 10,750,000 pounds; production in North America is less than 4,000,000 pounds.

Saturday, Mines Minister Kelly officially opened the Nipissing Cobalt Chemical Company's electrochemical-silver refinery, second of its kind in Canada. The other is at Deloro. The cobalt plant will produce 3,000,000 pounds of silver and 1,200,000 pounds of cobalt annually.

Along with various by-products from the area's 16 mines and six mills.

STOPPED IT UP

Cobalt was no ghost town Saturday night. All its citizens met the visitors' flying fleet of cars, and danced, talked and sang the "Cobalt Song" which tells the story of the town "where all the silver comes from."

A special train—first to roll into Cobalt since boom times—brought 300 delegates to the convention, dozens of financiers, miners and engineers from Toronto, Montreal and New York. Municipal officials tendered the visitors a reception and dinner. A corps of newspapermen from almost every major city in the North America covered the doings.

Sentiment Growing McCarthy Should Step Off Committee For Probe Into Army Feud

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sentiment appeared to be building up among Senate Republican leaders today that Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) should step all the way off the investigations subcommittee while it looks into his rousing quarrel with the army.

Prime McCarthy came announcement of a tentative decision not to do so and a suggestion that the committee employ lie electors to get at the truth of his controversy with Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens.

The sub-committee plans to meet Tuesday to discuss procedure for its hearings, no date for which has been fixed.

McCarthy, voicing "complete confidence in this scientific instrument when it is operated properly," said he will suggest the use of he detectors if all the witnesses agree. He plans to testify himself.

Senator William Knowland of California, the Republican floor leader, said in an interview he doesn't want to interfere in the committee's functions, but he thinks McCarthy should volunteer to question witnesses or to vote on issues before the group.

PLANS NOT TO VOTE

McCarthy has said he plans not to vote "on any final decisions or conclusions" of the subcommittee.

Knowland said in an interview: "Since the senator has agreed to sworn and to testify as a witness, I would think the procedure would be for him to voluntarily refrain from taking any action to participate in the questioning of whether witnesses."

Senator Charles Potter (Rep. Mich.), a member of McCarthy's sub-committee, said he isn't going to insist that McCarthy give up his place as a committee member, even temporarily, if the Wisconsin senator chooses another course. Besides McCarthy, the group includes three Republicans and three Democrats.

Potter's Michigan colleague, Senator Homer Ferguson, took a position similar to Knowland's.

McCarthy said in a statement Sunday he had agreed with Senator Karl Mundt (Rep. S. D.), who will preside over the hearings that he should not vote in any question pertaining to the investigation.

"I shall be a witness," he added, "and I do wish to cross examine other witnesses. In all fairness, I feel this right of cross examination should be extended to the army officials involved. . . .

"The decision to function as a Democratic suggestion that he step off the sub-committee, announced Saturday night by a sub-committee member, Senator Stuart Symington Dem., Mo.).

CLIMBER HONORED

NEW DELHI (CP)—Native guide Tensing Norkay, who with Sir Edmund Hillary reached the top of Mount Everest, received the Hubbard Medal at a function at Darjeeling. The Sherpa guide also received a token purse of about $100 from George V. Allen, American ambassador to India. The Hubbard Medal, highest award of the U.S. Geographic Society, had previously been given to Hillary and expedition leader Sir John Hunt.

Small Que. Town Has Best Fire Dept. in Province

SUTTON, Que. (CP)—Ask any of the 2,000 inhabitants of this town in the Vermont border, southeast of Montreal, what it takes to have the best fire department of its size in Quebec.

The answer is likely to be: "A little diplomatic savvy, and a lot of public spirit."

Sutton's 22-man volunteer fire brigade this month placed first in the provincial section of the annual efficiency contest organized by the Dominion Fire Prevention Association. It tied with Tadanac, B.C., for second place in country-wide competition. Capeville, N.S., was placed fourth in the association's 27-unit contest. The towns of less than 2,500 population.

BORDER CO-OPERATION

Fire chief Jack Shepard says the town owes its fire-fighting record to a mutual agreement signed with the fire departments in nearby United States towns of Enosburg Falls, Richford and East Berkshire all within 11 miles.

Jack, who also operates the town's gas and oil, claims when "a bad one" breaks out "we can get 120 men and five pumpers to work in 20 minutes.

"According to the agreement with the Vermont towns and Sutton, the other three come to the help of the one in trouble, and it doesn't cost anyone a cent."

But Sutton's fire chief says it took more than international co-operation to win the Quebec contest. It needed hard work and energetic fellows.

THEY COME RUNNING

"The boys work all over town and when the alarm goes we drop everything and come running."

Jack himself is the closest to the headquarters. His store is right across the street from the red-brick fire hall.

This year Sutton fire department "did things a little different," according to Jack.

"We sent an inspection team to every public place, schools and churches especially, to test them for fire prevention. We took great segregation of what we saw, showing the team right on the premises, and sent them off to the public meeting.

The town fire brigade is equipped with two trucks and all the latest fire-fighting equipment, right down to ultra-modern' respirators, the chief reported proudly.

Mayor Robert S. Millimore manager of the town's telephone office, says Sutton is "feeling pretty good" about winning the provincial contest.

"We've taken an interest in it and the chief and his men have worked pretty hard at it. People have a great deal of pride in things here, I guess."

TINNED REQUEST

Koreans Have Time of Lives With Their Own Time Zone

By ROBERT M. PROSSER

SEOUL, (AP) — South Koreas are finally free of Japanese control from the Japan time zone and you should see the confusion.

The national assembly, fiercely nationalistic, switched its official time zone an hour behind the Japan zone. It went into effect Saturday.

Now appointments are confirmed with the question: "Japan or Korea time?" The 4 o'clock plane for Japan leaves at 4:30. And the 8 o'clock plane arrives at 8:30. International commuters and telegraphers are losing the time of their lives making connections.

Fifty years ago Japan ordered Koreo to set its clocks to Japan time. It was done to simplify commerce, they said. The confusing course between the two countries often was rough. They operated smoothly as long as Japan was in command.

When the sun rose in Japan, it brightened the Korean hilltops and rice paddies, regardless of the facts of nature.

Now South Korea is back on its own time.

FALLS IN LINE

The U.S. state department was quick to fall in line. Into international etiquette, one diplomat explained. How can you keep appointments with Koreans when your clocks aren't in tune.

Then they said Korean Army transportation officials, less dispected to diplomacy, asked, "how in heck can we run a railroad when everyone has his own time?" But it fell in line.

The air force was last. For a while planes took off from Japan on time and arrived in South Korea an hour late. Finally the air force threw in its minute hand.

Expectation hangs on the wrists of the salesmen. They're happy because Koreo-Japan commuters are taking of buying wrist watches for the other arm—so they'll know what time it is in each country.

Predicted Electronic Organ Will Be Tops in 10 Years

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—In the dim days before the radio had a voice its musical instrument was the old-fashioned foot-pumped reed organ. It was popular only in churches and in nearly every rural church and most schoolhouses across the land my grandmother's heyday, many a girl practiced the hymn to have her quivering jelly by her masterly rendition of "Annie Laurie" on the old parlor organ.

Then the piano came into high fashion and the reed organ went out of favor. But today the organ is making a big comeback. It's a $75,000,000 business and growing rapidly.

In 10 years the electronic organ will be America's most popular home musical instrument," predicted Dana Minshall, 46, one of the leading manufacturers in the field.

SEES ON -MAN SYMPHONY

"By that time it will sound like a one-man symphony. In the past we can reproduce any known musical sound including those of the percussion instruments, such as drums, cymbals and castanets."

Minshall, who has had many revolutionize the industry, got into it by accident—to please his wife. He was a young radio repairman back in 1929 when his wife Madaline, expressed a desire for an old-type organ such as she had played as a girl in the home of her grandmother.

"We didn't have any money," Minshall recalled. "So I decided to take a crack at building one for her."

Ten years after he started on the project Minshall had perfected his wife with a successful home-made electronic organ, constructed largely out of old radio parts that he had collected.

"Some of our neighbors heard my wife playing the organ and they wanted to build one, make another one and sell it," Minshall said.

THIRTEEN WAS LUCKY

"So in 1940 I made a second model. Then I had to go into the funeral directors. Twelve said there was no market for an electronic organ—but the 13th bought one.

He built a third organ. He and his wife put it in a tiny shop and rowed from a friend and toured the funeral homes and churches in a 40-mile radius. Madaline played the organ, Minshall pitched and sold them.

Within a year the couple had sold 40 organs and business brought in $20,000. They were in business, and the business began doubling every year.

Today they have 200 employees, a factory in Toledo, Ohio, and a Brattleboro, Vt.—and in 1953 had $4,000,000 worth of business that has spread from the United States and Canada to 19 foreign countries.

CNSS SUCCESSFUL

TORONTO (CP) — Loyal M. Kelly, general manager of the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show, said Saturday as the eighth day show concluded here that it was the most successful in its history. Attendance, he said, though not yet counted, was up "considerably" over last year. Kelly also said the trophy for the all-round championship in fly and bait casting.

Soldier Given Ten Years For Manslaughter

CALGARY (CP) — Walter Cierpias, 21-year-old army private, was said to have a mental age of 10, was convicted of manslaughter Saturday and sentenced to 10 years' hard labor.

Cierpias, from Windsor, Ont., was tried for murder in the rifle slaying last Jan. 5 of Pte. Robert Gillow of Winchester, Ont., in a washroom at Currie barracks, Calgary. A jury deliberated one hour and 44 minutes before returning a verdict of not guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter.

Mr. Justice Boyd McBride told the jury it could return one of four verdicts: Guilty of murder as charged; not guilty; guilty of manslaughter or acquittal because of insanity at the time of the shooting. He said evidence that Cierpisz had unlawfully killed Blow was overwhelming.

In testimony earlier, a "psychiatrist said Cierpias was a mental defective with a mental age of 10. He said it was "quite conceivable" he was insane at the time of the shooting.

TEASED AND PESTERED

Several soldiers testified during the six-day trial that Cierpisz had been the victim of teasing; he had been pestered, pushed, trampled on and water thrown at him.

The court heard that Cierpisz confessed both before and after the shooting.

A note left in his barracks box said: "This day, Jan. 4, 1, Walter Cierpisz, being in my right mind killed this person who would not let me live."

After the shooting Jan. 5 Cierpisz told an NCO: "I shot Blow and I am not sorry."

A number of soldiers testified as eye-witnesses of the incident.

Blow was quoted as saying in the washroom: "I will put Cierpisz in hospital for six months."

Immediately afterwards, Cierpisz fired two shots from his rifle with his service rifle.

All the soldiers were members of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Mr. Justice McBride said: "I think I am justified in taking into account your obvious immaturity and the lack of opportunities accorded most other young men. I suggest to you that you are quite mature enough to understand you have received an opportunity from this jury to become a good citizen.

"The jury has been merciful to you."

Summerfield Casts Envious Eyes On Canada

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster-General Arthur Summerfield Sunday cast an envious eye toward Canada, noting that it will continue to operate its postal service on a pay-as-you-go basis with the actual users of the mails paying the cost.

Summerfield, who has been trying for the last year to get congress to approve an increase in U.S. postal rates, issued a statement comparing the financial situation of the services in the two countries. He described it as a "startling contrast."

In the U.S., Summerfield said, the postal service incurred a deficit of more than $4,000,000,000 since the Second World War.

Eskimo Children To Get Toys From Bishop

MONTREAL (CP)—Eskimo children in the snow-swept lands of Canada's north are in for a treat.

Rt. Rev. Donald B. Marsh, Anglican bishop of the Arctic, is visiting them soon, and he's taking the toys of scores of boys to be distributed among the youngsters.

Bishop Marsh, who can handle a dog team and speak fluent Eskimo, is flying from Montreal on the first leg of a 18,000-mile tour of his vast diocese.

The toys came from the Montreal Boy Scouts Association. He is taking just a few; the rest will arrive later by plane.

He said his tiny parishioners will be delighted with the playthings. He believes the toys will be better looked after by Eskimo children in this "more civilized" part of the world.

Entertainment and Recreation Program Best to Be Procured

By JACK BRADLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP) — The gay whoop-te-do of the Happy Gang radio broadcast is disturbing the weird-tal quiet of a bonfed 38th parallel hillside, marks the first time that Canadians and their impressive recreation and welfare facilities.

On a clear night the voice of Bert Pearl and his wacky crew may carry into the Chinese lines from the 25th Canadian brigade area across the demilitarized zone north of the Imjin river.

In fact, high - powered radio Maple Leaf can be picked up as easily by the Chinese as by neighboring allied formations who write it cordial fan letters. It's probably more popular than other armed forces broadcasts because it isn't always butting in with propaganda for safe driving and tips on what to do when stuck in a nice paddy.

Radio Maple Leaf is part of the entertainment and recreation program designed to keep the brigade busy playing when it's not busy working.

SPORT FACILITIES

There's an 800-seat theatre for films, live shows and music; a hockey rink; an outdoor arena for softball and baseball; a gym for badminton, basketball and boxing.

A 1,000-book bilingual library and reading room is stocked with hometown newspapers and magazines. Another big spender in the houses a hobby shop. One of its most popular functions is in photography classes, the idea of Maj. Bill Pearce of army public relations who watched the troops buy complicated Japanese cameras and then try to use them.

At a Nissi gift shop you can buy at reasonable prices fine and many Japanese and Korean gift goods. The shop said $2,500 worth of gifts the first day. A vet canteen has the look of a Canadian pub and the dry canteen serves all the drug-store favorites.

MEMORIAL THEATRE

The recreation plant is a practical memorial to the Canadians who have died in Korea. A monument of Canadian marble carries the dedication. The auditorium is called the Gilwell Theatre in memory of Lieut.-Col. Frank Gilwell of Montreal, a Royal Canadian Dragoons officer who died in January. He was on the recreation staff and had done most of the work on the theatre's plans.

Supervising the rec centre is Maj. Tony Condy of Springhill, N.S., and Vancouver, and his staff includes Lieut. Jack Hunter, associated with the brigade—Naomi Griffin of Kelowna, B.C., and Adele Roy of Ottawa, both of the Red Cross.

Nearly everybody in the brigade had a hand in constructing the facilities. At one time more than 600 men were digging to lay the ground system for the big aerials of the 1,000-watt transmitter.

The plant also houses welfare agencies like the gift cigaret organization whose supplies included two lots of 5,000,000 cigarets from the Canadian customs. The smokes were American brands intercepted in smuggling attempts across the Canadian border.

ELABORATE RADIO

A couple of "names" were largely responsible for the elaborate radio set-up. The commonwealth division station couldn't be beat because its programs were heavy on cricket and soccer, both Canadians have little interest in.

So Lieut.-Larry Cole of Winnipeg and Arthur Price, 42nd Bde. Baby of St. Fov, Que., were assigned to see what could be done. The result is a radio station that cost a third as much as it would in Canada. It occupies two six-ton vans and can move to a new location in half an hour.

Two-thirds of its programs are Canadian and some of its shows are live. For instance, there's a western string group composed of Edgar Christie of Regina, Sask., Rod White of Grand Falls, N.B., Ivan Biro of Abbotsford, B.C., Al McIsaac of New Waterford, N.S., Howie Kent of Saskatoon, Sask., and Jack Hall of Port Dick Arthur, harmonica.

The milled and carpeted interior of the studio is the work of Sgt. Jack Dickinson of Lake Village, Ont., who says he never had a lesson in interior decorating in his life but is "handy around the house."

Fifty per cent of the fan letters come from Canadian troops; 20 per cent from British troops and 10 per cent each from the Americans, New Zealanders and U.S. marines.

A favorite program is "Night Mail," a sentimental link with home through which relatives read dedication requests from Canada.

A regular standby is a church-of-the-air program by the brigade padres.

Lieut. Peter Churchill of London, Ont., is program director.

TO THE HILLS MEN!

MARMORA

Club Presents Three Act Comedy For 500 Patrons

MARMORA — A three act comedy in which each new character becomes intensely suspicious of the sanity of the others, kept an audience of 500 rocking with laughter at the Second Heart parish hall on Wednesday evening.

Every year for some years, the Dramatic Club of the Sacred Heart church has marked St. Patrick's Day with the presentation of a diverting play, generally with an Irish flavour.

Departing from the rule this year this group of amateur players again capably trained by Mrs. James Black, rose to new heights as they delineated the embarrassing situations of the Nutt family with almost professional ability.

Those in the cast were: William Meeker, Mrs. P. Brawley, Miss Varna Black, James Hughes, James Black, Miss Patricia Claiemont, Mrs. H. Brady, Mrs. C. Crawford, Mrs. C. Brady, Leonard Begley, Mrs. Mary Hughes, Mrs. Anne Clairmont, and Mrs. J. Loveless.

FORMER SANITARIUM

"Crestidale", in the rooms of which all the acts take place, is the name of a large summer home, formerly a sanitarium for folks suffering from nervous ailments, to which former patients return unaware of its change of identity to create complications which are really something to be amused over.

Preceding Act I, a quartet comprising Patrick Bertrand, James Terrion, Jack Grant and Fred Woodhouse as dunkies, sang various choruses with Jimmy Terrion also contributing a step dance.

Between Acts I and II, Dash H. J. Farrell and Patsy, believed to be pastor and "nun," "The Rose of Tralee," and "Galway Bay."

Between these same acts, in Irish fantasy presentation, all the players costumed to represent various characters in Irish lore, those taking part were Lucy Clemens, Mary Nicholson, Joanne Bertrand, Rosemary Brady, Kathleen Jones, Dianne Belanger, Barry Mantle and Susan Begley.

The portrayal concluded with the characters joining in the refrain "Did You Ever Hear the Story How Old Ireland Got Its Name."

IRISH JIG

Between Acts II and III, the cousins, Rosemary and Mary Louise Brady, performed an Irish jig to the delight of the audience.

Rev. W. P. Healey thanked the visiting priests, Dean H. J. Farrell, Perth; Rev. F. D. Ryland, Madoc; and Rev. J. L. Lamarche, Silicing, for their attendance; Mrs. James Black and the cast for undertaking the play and the children who participated in the specialties.

At the close of the play, Mrs. Black received a bouquet of red roses from little Kathleen Jones.

Lunch served by the ladies of the Catholic Women's League.

HEALTH INSURANCE

... how millions of Canadians are voluntarily protecting themselves and their families against the cost of illness and accidents

While giant strides have been made by medical science in the past half-century, the cost of serious illness remained a very real problem for many Canadian families until quite recently.

The most generally satisfactory method of meeting this problem — health insurance — has been in existence for many years. But few people had this protection until 1940. Since then, their numbers have increased at a truly amazing rate.

Today, 5½ million Canadians have voluntary insurance against the burden of hospital costs. Nearly 4 million enjoy protection against surgical expense. And about 3 million have the newest form of protection: medical expense insurance. And most of these people have acquired this protection in the last ten years!

Where did all these people obtain this much-needed help?

Mostly from insurance companies, Blue Cross plans, and medical care plans which are sponsored by the medical profession. Others acquired protection from insurance cooperatives, fraternal benefit societies, and employee benefit associations.

Keen competition among the various insuring agencies has brought a steady broadening of benefits and greater protection for an ever-increasing number of Canadians. Thus today most of the hazards of illness and accidental injury may be covered through the voluntary insurance plans offered by one or more of these agencies.

This striking record of achievement proves two facts: It proves that Canadians have foresight and initiative in helping themselves to meet the unpredictable costs of accidents and illness. And it demonstrates the ability of insuring agencies to provide service that meets the greatest needs of the greatest number of citizens.

The Life Insurance Companies in Canada are proud that they have been able to provide a large share of this vital service!

YOURS FOR THE ASKING — The new booklet: "Financing Health Services in Canada". This informative 31-page booklet outlines the advance of modern voluntary health insurance plans, and shows how they complement government health services in all parts of the country. ## Council Hires New Assessor, Assistant at Long Meeting

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton council hired a new assessor on Saturday night. The man they appointed is E. F. Hall, 36 of Cobourg who has had six years experience at the job. He is presently employed as Supervisor of Assessment for the engineering firm of Charles Warnock Co. He takes over here on April 1 at a salary of $5,000 per annum. Mr. Hall is a married man with three children. He will be bringing his family to Trenton.

The new assessor will have an assistant. The only applicant for the job Kenneth K. Kenny, a veteran of World War II, was employed at a yearly salary of $2,400. Mr. Kenny will commence work the same date as the assessor takes over office. He is presently employed by the Benedict Procter Co. of Trenton.

The motion to employ the assessor was proposed by councillor Reg. Armstrong. Chairman of the Court of Revision and seconded by councillor James MacDonald. Council was unanimous in its decision. The motion covering the assistant assessor's appointment was proposed by councillor Armstrong and seconded by councillor N. J. McNeil.

At the meeting council decided to request Senator W. A. Fraser and ex-Mayor Kenneth J. Couch to act as Industrial Commissioners of the Town of Trenton with powers to appoint other commissioners if they so desired. This motion was proposed by councillor Armstrong and seconded by councillor MacDonald.

At the meeting which broke up shortly after 10.30 p.m. Mayor Ross Hartt announced that council would bring down the 1954 budget at a meeting to be held this Friday night. A poll of council indicated councillors favored Friday night meetings instead of the customary Saturday night sessions.

Council's decision on the man considered capable of handling the assessment task in Trenton is the result of interviews with the former assessor and four-out-of-town applicants. Starting 10 other applications had been considered and eliminated.

UNBEARABLE HUMIDITY

One of the four young men from Trenton footloose in the British West Indies writes back home to describe the weather in Nassau. He disclosed that the temperature at the last reading was 84 degrees in the shade with unbearable humidity. As the report was being written the four-some started out for the Bahamas. They will return to New York by ship and thence to Trenton by car and train.

In the party are Fraser "Babe" James, Paul Phipp, Gordon Flynn and Doug Graham. They planned a three-weeks holiday in the south and experienced such. Now they are on the last leg of their unofficial junket.

AUDIT COMPLETED

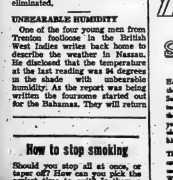
The Trenton Parks Board audit has been completed for the year ending December 31, 1953.



The total grant from the town amounted to $8,375.53. In actual cash the board received $7,800.00. The balance of $635.53 was recorded as spent by the town for the board.

A footnote to the auditor's statement reads: "In addition to the above transaction, which are recorded in the books of the Board, the sum of $435.53 in operating expenses was paid by the town directly during the year and charged to the Board as follows: wages, $53.50; water, $15; parks survey, $210; parks development, 946; maintenance of equipment, $129.

An additional comment notes: "These items are not recorded in the books of the Board, and along with the $7,800 received in cash by the Board, from the Town of Trenton, equals the total grant of $8,375.53 as recorded in the municipality's records."

PRESERVES SCENERY

ONE UP!

Oshawa's smooth-functioning Truckmen went one up in the Senior "B" group finals on Saturday night, edging the fast-travelling Peterborough Petes 3-2 in the second game of the best-of-seven series. The teams tied 5-all in the first clash. They meet in Kingston tonight in the third game, with the fourth tussle scheduled for Peterborough Wednesday night.

Incidentally Peterborough's Midget "A" team eliminated the Kingston youngsters on Saturday. The Petes won the game 4-3 and the round 15-4. They meet the winners of the Barrie-Toronto Marlboros series for the provincial title.

PROMISING FIGHTER!

Eddie Schamerhorn, one of the most promising fighters to come out of this city in some time, returns to the ring wars tonight after being forced out of action for the past three months with a broken hand.

The twenty-year-old welter, who is now fighting in the middleweight class through lack of opponents, meets Al Boyd, London middleweight, in a five-round match at the Palace Pier, Toronto.

Eddie has a record of ten wins, six of them by knockouts, and five losses. He is working under the management of Mark Storms, former well known Belleville fighter. The young boxer, an employee of the C.N.R. here, is highly regarded by Toronto boxing authorities.

NICE GESTURE!

President Mike Weichel of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, has announced that the OMHA sub-committee had decided to commemorate the memory of their late president, Otto A. Hardwick, who was killed in an automobile accident last week-end.

At the suggestion of Secretary J. L. Christie, the trophy emblematic of the Juvenile D Series (Mr. Hardwick's favorite series) will be renamed "The O. A. Hardwick Memorial Trophy." The trophy is currently known as the J. L. Christie trophy. A new trophy, for the runners-up in the same series will be placed in competition and bear the name of the secretary.

The late Mr. Hardwick, long a minor hockey worker, was president of the OMHA in 1948-50, the first season in which the OMHA surpassed the 300 team mark. He was particularly interested in the welfare of the smaller centres, and had urged the executive to inaugurate the "D" series for centres of 1,000 and under. The typically-rural series was formed and met with instant success. After serving one year as president, Mr. Hardwick resigned in order to enable him to continue coaching the Bolton youngsters, and last season his juvenile team won the championship and trophy which will now bear his name.

POINT ANNE-FLYERS TONIGHT

What should be an outstanding hockey series gets under way tonight in Memorial Arena when Earle Anderson's Point Anne squad tangles with the Trenton RCAF Flyers in the first game of their best-of-five series for the Trent Valley Hockey League southern section finals. The winners meet either Marmora or Havelock for the Thomas Bain Trophy and the league championship.

The Flyers, who have been getting some fine coaching from their mentor, Boucher, came up with some eye-pleasing hockey in their recent series with the Wellington Dukes. The passing plays of the Flyers were good to look at and contributed in no small measure to the ultimate ousting of the surging Dukes.

However, the Point Aners are hot and ready to go, and nothing would well be a pushover for the others. The One Petiters have been idle for the past two weeks awaiting the semi-finals winners, but have been practising hard and often in readiness for this week's series. Both squads will be at full strength and it looks like a dilly of a series.

THIS IS IT!

Stirling's pallant little team of Juvenile "C" pucksts travelled nearly 300 miles Saturday night to Kincardine for their first clash with the youngsters of the Lake Huron town and emerged on the short end of a 4-3 score. The second and deciding game will be played on the home ice Monday night. OMHA president Mike Weichel, of Elmira, and secretary Jack Christie are expected to be on hand to present the Jack Roxburgh Trophy to the winners.

Indications point to the Stirling youngsters claiming the trophy and title, for practically all the hazards will be in their favor. Kincardine must make the 300-mile safari, one that is sufficient to sap the strength of senior players. Stirling will be playing on their home ice—and they are down but not goal.

But they are not selling the western Ontario team short. The "Kincs" have a hard-checking, fast-skating organization and they know a lot of the hockey answers. It should be a heavy of battle with everything depending on the outcome. Fandom of the district will be pulling for Russ Fryer's hard-fighting crew to come through with a well-earned victory. If they should win, it will be the first time in three or four attempts when they reached the finals only to lose out to the opposition. This year should be Stirling's.

Red Wings Meet Maple Leafs, Bruins Clash With Montreal After Wacky Week-End Finish

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League's regular schedule ended Sunday night in a hectic flourish and Harry Lumley's battle to win the Vezina Trophy topped about as crazy a wind-up as could be dreamed up.

Montreal Canadiens finished in second place by three points over Toronto Maple Leafs and set the line-up for the Stanley Cup playoffs opening Tuesday night.

The first-place Detroit Red Wings will tangle with the Leafs in a best-of-seven series opening Tuesday in Detroit and the Canadiens will take on the fourth-place Boston Bruins in a similar series opening the same night in Montreal.

But the way Lumley nearly blew the Vezina trophy and the $1,000 bonus that goes with it overshadowed everything else on the final night. The Leafs' goalie went into the final week-end with a five-goal margin over Chicago Hawks' Al Sawchuk. He had a six-goal lead after Saturday night's games when New York Rangers beat the Leafs 5-3 in Toronto and the Canadiens trounced Detroit 6-1 in Montreal.

Sunday night the Wings whipped the Toronto club 6-2 and Lumley won the goaltenders' award by a single goal, the first time he has captured it in 11 years in the NHL.

The Canadiens, in third place a single point behind the Leafs before the final two games, clinched the runner-up spot by beating the Rangers 3-1 in New York. Boston and Chicago closed out their schedule with the Bruins beating the Black Hawks 9-5 at Boston.

FLURE GOAL

Lumley edged Sawchuk 132 goals to 131 and the single goal difference was a fluke, the only tally that the Leafs scored against the Detroit goalie Sunday night. It came from the stick of Jim Thomson and was a bouncing 80-foot shot which squirted through Sawchuk's legs.

The Leafs trailed the Red Wings 2-1 going into the third period. The Wings then scored three times to Bill Sandford's one goal of Lumley with seven minutes to play. The Wings missed several great chances to score again and Lumley rising to the occasion to make several stiffer stops.

Virtually lost in the wild finish were the 28 penalties handed out by Red Storey, plus the fact that Gordie Howe scored once and assisted in two other goals to win the scoring crown for the fourth straight year. He finished with 33 goals and 49 assists for 82 points.

The other Detroit scorers were Ted Lindsay with one and Johnny Wilson, Bill Dineen and Tony Leswick.

The Red Wings hardly seemed the same team which played the Canadiens the previous night. Marty Pavelich got their only goal. For Montreal Paul Ouellette counted twice and Lorne Davis, Bernie Geoffrion and Ken Mosdell once each.

MONTREAL SCORERS

Paul Masnick, Paul Meger and Maurice Richard scored the Montreal goals that beat the Rangers Sunday night. Richard's goal was his 37th of the season, the tops for that department. The Rangers' lone counter was racked up by Mickoski.

Against the Rangers Saturday night the Leafs were as powerless as they were against the Red Wings the following night.

Four goals were scored by defencemen, with Jack Evans getting two and Ivan Irwin and Leo Reise counting the others. The Rangers' first period goal was counted by Mickoski. George Armstrong matched that for the Leafs and Bill Smith counted their other goal in the second period.

Gus Bodnar and Cal Gardner led the Chicago attack with two goals each in the Bruins' win over Chicago. The other marksmen here were Ed Sandford, Fleming Mackell, Dave Creighton, Doug Mohns and Frank Martin. Pete Conacher fired two goals for Chicago. Lou Jankowski, Ed McIntyre and Al Dewsbury scored one each.

Toronto, Timmins Hamilton Win Bowling Crowns

The men's singles title went to Stan Battersby, Hamilton regional champion, who rolled 2,880. Bill Hoult was second with 2,524.

Timmins won the men's teams handicap championship with 3,540. Windsor was second with 3,432 and Kingston, who led throughout most of the tournament, third with 3,406. The winners received $1,000.

The Timmins team was composed of Bill Rusland, Don Kelly, Bill McGlynn, Bill Landry and Ned Reid.

Sudbury Ousts Soo Greyhounds In Big Comeback

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Sudbury Wolves completed the biggest comeback of this year's Ontario senior hockey playoffs Saturday when they eliminated Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds to win the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group championship.

The Wolves, last year's NOHA champions, won three consecutive games from the Greyhounds after dropping the first two games of the best-of-five set. Their finishing touch was the 2-1 sudden-death overtime victory they posted over the Greyhounds here Saturday. Sudbury finished the schedule in second place, below the Greyhounds.

Downing a scoreless tie in the first two periods Tatter McLellan sent Sudbury into a 1-0 lead at 16:40 of the third period. The Greyhounds sent the game into overtime when Johnny Offland scored in the last minute of regulation time.

KAUFFI GETS WINNER

Mauno Kauppi picked up a loose puck in the Soo end. Then zoom sed whipped a knee-high shot past goalie Gord Tom Desaschyr at 13:18 of the overtime period to score the winner. Kauppi's goal advanced the Wolves into the NOHA final against Abitibi Eskimos, winners of the Northern Group. The NOHA winner will meet the Ontario Hockey Association champion for the right to represent Ontario in the Allan Cup playoffs.

The fans in Sudbury gave the Wolves the greatest reception a hockey team has received there in 22 years when the Wolves came home Sunday. A crowd of more than 8,000 fans turned out at the airport to form the biggest welcome a Sudbury team has received since 1932 when the Cub Wolves returned from Winnipeg after winning the Memorial Cup.

Teeps, Dutchies Whip Marlies, Irish Hamilton Eliminates Guelph Bilts

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts are still in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoffs—which may be a credit to Ken Hassel's century.

Hassel, who made good in the National Hockey League with Montreal Canadiens for 19 years now is coach of the Greenshirts—the third one they have had this season. His team whipped a finished the season fifth, are in the middle of a best-of-five quarter-final with Toronto Marlboros, second-placers.

Marlboros took the first two games of the series by 4-2 and 6-4 scores. There was talk that the series might end with the third game in Toronto Saturday but there's where Hassel's speech making came in. The kitchener coach made no secret of what he thought of his team. He told them he was "ashamed" of them and said that only the fact that it was a poor man prevented him from giving the cash customers a refund.

Kitchener manager Curly Davis also blew in a couple of fuses. "They couldn't check their way out of a paper bag," he said. "The thing those guys are interested in" he added, "is their pay cheques. I may have to get a new team to put them Saturday when they drop around for their pay."

CAUGHT RENT

It is doubtful the Greenshirts received a "threatening note" because they went out Saturday, outchecked, outskated and outhustled the Marlboros for a 5-3 victory—and right in the Dukes' back yard.

St. Catharines Teepees must have heard from their coach Rudy Pilous after the favored Teefers lost the first game of their best-of-seven series to St. Michael's in St. Catharines. The Teefs then returned to beat the Collegians 6-4 on Toronto ice to square the series.

Pilous and other observers must've saw Hamilton Cubs defeat Guelph Biltmores 4-3 in overtime Friday and to win the best-of-five quarter final 3-0.

Reardon changed his time after the game in Toronto. "We'll be back here Monday for the next game," he said. Marlboro officials scratched their heads wondering if the resurgent Greenshirts.

Greig Hicks' paced the Green-shirts with five goals, Bud Horne, Doug Vaughan and Del Topgal notching the others. Goalie Ken Ullyot, Mike Ellis and Mike Nykoluk were the Toronto snipers.

GOOD CALLS

St. Michael's nearly took their second game of the series against the Toronto Marlboros in the past, apart when the TeePees scored three times in one minute and 30 seconds early in the third period.

Brian Cullen, Hugh Bolton, Ross Lowell, Barry Cullen, Winger Peterets and Chet Warchol each scored for the TeePees while Jim Morrison counted twice for St. Michael's, others going to Paul Knox and Bill Hunter.

Hamilton Cubs took their both games from the Bilts and counted when they eliminated the Biltmores in Guelph Thursday night to send them into the semi-finals against the winner of the Kitchener-Toronto set.

Joey Zorica scored twice for the Cubs, Bob Goldham and Bill Stewart were the other Hamilton marksmen. Bill Graham, John Mockler and Hilary Menard were

Ontario Baseball Association Ups 'Prices' At 37th Annual Convention

CHATHAM (CP)—The Ontario Baseball Association at its 37th annual meeting Saturday increased to $30 from $25 the charge a team pays for entry in the league as part of a decision.

The amendment to the OBA constitution was one of 20 resolutions and amendments before the meeting. Sixteen were approved.

It was decided the executive will appoint a chairman to handle each series playdowns, and that the chairman would have power to fine quality any team that refused or failed to play when ordered.

All players' certificates must be in the hands of the OBA secretary by July 1.

Delegates discussed at length the arranging of date on which league and association champion ships must be declared. It was decided that all series, junior, intermediate and senior, must start by the last Saturday in August.

INCREASE FEES

The association treasury showed a balance of $118. It was decided to increase league fees to $100 for each association operating in two or more clubs in their series leagues or groups.

Associations that operate 25 to 49 clubs will pay $50; senior, intermediate and junior leagues will pay $25; individual clubs in senior, intermediate and junior series who are granted direct OBA affiliation, $25; and juvenile, midget, bantam and pee-wee leagues granted affiliation, $10.

Under A, B, C and D championship games, it was agreed that the association take five per-cent of the gross receipts after government tax is deducted.

All umpires must affiliate with the OBA, for which they will get a registration card and OBA crest. Only registered umpires may be used for OBA playoff games.

Once a protest has been dealt with by the OBA or a committee delegated to act in such matters by the OBA, the ruling handed down must be considered final.

CERTIFICATE CHARGES

It was felt that through the lack of a senior ball series more than $1,000 in needed revenue was lost.

Players in all series must sign OBA certificates and the tax on senior and intermediate players' certificates was set at $1 each; junior, 50 cents and all minor players from juvenile down playing certificates, 10 cents. Lost single certificate duplicates, 50 cents; each lost complete team certificates, $3 a team.

Classification of leagues of clubs was changed to read: "Leagues and teams are classified by population and ages: Pee-wee A, B, C, D, ages 12 years; bantam A, B, C, D, 15 before May 1; Midget A, B, C, D, 17 before May 1; juvenile A, B, C, D, 19 before May 1 and Junior, 21 before May 1.

Football League Will Operate Minus 'Blessing'

TORONTO (CP)—The board of governors of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union has rejected the four-team intercollegiate football schedule for 1954, but a four-team schedule will operate just the same.

At a meeting here Saturday, the CIAU said it will not recognize the schedule involving University of Toronto, University of Western Ontario at London, McGill University at Montreal and Queen's University, Kingston, because Hamilton's McMaster University was excluded.".

McMaster, which competed in the league last season, was recently voted out by the other colleges. McGill was the sole dissenter to the majority vote.

The four-team college loop will continue to operate as in the past, but without the CIAU blessing. J.D. Lessemore, CIAU secretary, said in the meeting Saturday that members of the winning team will not be awarded CIAU crests. It is also considered likely that the CIAU's Yates Cup will not be awarded.

Ivor Wynne, McMaster's athletic director, said the CIAU decision "disappointed us but was a matter of victory and that the college's chief aim had been to establish a true principle.

"We knew weeks ago we wouldn't be in the league," he said "but it was the principle that mattered."

NOT WORRIED

Warren Stevens, director of athletics at the University of Toronto, wasn't worried that the Yates Cup will be removed from competition.

"It won't make any difference to us," he said. "Trophies aren't that important. We're simply going to play the people we want to play."

Frank Tindall, coach of Queen's Golden Gaels who have been in another CIAU decision Saturday—to increase the maximum number of players on a football squad to 26 from 24.

"I'm glad to hear it," he said. "We use more than 24 players in practice and it's tough on some boys to be left out of a game after practising as hard as the others.

The CIAU also ruled the students who have participated in professional sports may be eligible for eligible for amateur football after a lapse of one year.

The union decided men with professional ranking in one sport can take part in other amateur sports if they so desire.

The governors also decided to restrict the term of office of executive committee members to a maximum of six years. They will be eligible for re-election to the committee three years after the committee three years after the end of their six-year terms.

Dr. D. A. McLarty of the University of Western Ontario was elected president for 1954-55 and Dr. J. B. Kirkpatrick of McGill vice-president.

Mercs Defeat Indians in Overtime For Second Straight Playoffs Win

STRATFORD (CP) — Penalties will tell you in hockey. Just ask Stratford Indians.

The Indians, down 2-0 in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior A final with Owen Sound Mercurys, lost their second consecutive loss from the Mercurys Saturday when they dropped a 5-4 overtime decision.

Of the 13 goals scored against Stratford in the series, nine were counted while the Indians were short-handed.

Four of Owen Sound's five goals were scored while a Stratford player was in the penalty box Saturday. The only consolation was that the winning marker in overtime came while both teams were at full strength.

GAME SEE-SAWS

The lead changed hands four times. Owen Sound went ahead 2-1 in the first period but allowed the Indians a 3-2 edge in the second. The Mercurys tied the score 3-3 before the second period ended and went ahead 4-3 in the third before Stratford counted to send the game into overtime.

Doug Gillespie followed Roy Leckie's two goals and singles by Herb Carnegie and Ralph Hosking with the Cubs' Bob Roth and Johnny Muzzelli.

Third game of the series is in Owen Sound tonight.

Mayer, Bolt Win Tourney; Canadians Out

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Dick Mayer sank an 18-foot putt on the first hole of a "sudden death" playoff Sunday to win the $15,000 international four-ball golf tournament for himself and his partner, Tommy Bolt.

Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla., pro and Bolt, from Houston, finished the last 12-hole round in a fifty-three tie with Jollie Boros of Mid Pines (N.C.) and Fred (Dutch) Harrison of Ardmore, Okla.

Boros and Harrison had climbed out of third place into a tie for first and with a fast-paced score of 65, nine under par for the Normandy Shores Course. Mayer and Bolt took 65 and the two teams each posted a best ball score of 260 for the 72 holes, 20 under par.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., and Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener shot a four-under-par 272 to wind up out of the money.

Minor Hockey

The Bruins won the peewee championship in the arena on Saturday with a 3-2 victory over the Black Hawks, taking the round nine goals to seven. In the second game the Maple Leafs scored a close 2-1 win over the Bruins in the first game of two for the bantam title.

Jack Boulter had two of the goals for the Bruins in the game with Larry Westfall assisting on both. Wally Hartwig and Jack Jones scored with Bruce Gelsthorpe the set-up man.

Garry Duggan and Hubert Pulnier each had a goal for the Hawks while Gerald Ethier was credited with one assist.

The Maple Leafs built up a two-goal lead in their bantam win on goals by Garrison and Fitzgerald before Boomhower and Moreau teamed up for the Bruins with the latter getting the goal. The Bruins checked the Leafs into the ice most of the game with only the opposing several hard shots but they were unable to put the puck into the net. The next games will be played on Thursday night at six o'clock.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA (AP)—The committee of big league baseball executives studying revision of the present draft rule has considered its fifth meeting of the winter and spring without reporting any appreciable progress. One of its members, who prefers anonymity, says he seriously doubts that anything will come of it.

At the extremes of the two factions involved in the debate are Washington Senators, who have no farm system with which to stockpile and New York Yankees, whose farms are loaded with gifted youngsters who will be stars within a few years.

The Senators, as well as other clubs which are unable to maintain big league rosters, assembly lines, would like to have an unrestricted draft where all minor leaguers who are not being brought up by the parent team would be placed on the block at each winter draft meeting. As it is now, a club such as the Yankees stands to lose only one player each winter.

The "have" clubs, naturally, are fighting any such revision with claw and hoof, feeling that it virtually would wipe out their huge minor league investments. Commissioner Ford Frick was at one time reported favorable to some sort of stringent revision as an antidote for restricted aspects of the reserve clause, but is said now to have cooled off.

One of the happiest players encountered in any camp this spring is Ray Boone, Detroit's third-baseman. One year has made a wonderful difference in the career of the handsome young man from San Diego.

Last spring, out at Tucson, he was just preparing to do the best he could again at shortstop for the Cleveland Indians. Every time he picked up a paper he read that the Indians could not hope to overthrow the Yankees unless they found a better shortstop than Boone. It was not encouraging.

Soon after the campaign began, the Indians gave up and swapped him to Detroit for practically nothing. The Tigers, having a great shortstop tradition, Harvey Kuenn, planted their new man at third, and from there on what Boone did to opposing pitchers was one of the big stories of the year.

Among other things he blasted four home runs with the bases loaded, tying the big league record. In his last season in Cleveland he hit a dozen homers, but last year he jumped up the season with 26, leading all the Tigers.

the world is telling us!

BEING FIRST with big changes for the better is no new role for Studebaker. Times and wants do. Have had the satisfaction of seeing other makers come around to our ideas of what a modern car should look like.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The thickness of a flash may separate success from failure. It may not be so much what you have as how you use it. The evidence of this is quickly seen in a bridge deal like this:

NORTH
▲ None
♥ 5
♦ K 9 8 4
♣ K Q 10 7 6 3 4 2

WEST
♠ A 9 6 4 3
♥ A 10 8 7 2
♦ Q 8
♣ A

EAST
♠ K J 10 7 5 2
♥ K Q J 4
♦ 5
♣ J 9 8

SOUTH
♠ 10 7 6
♥ 9 6 3
♦ K J 10 8 7 3 2
♣ None

South became the declarer at a contract of six diamonds and was doubled by west. It did not reach there in a normal manner. There was a bit of manoeuvring going on the north player.

He had stuck in a phony defensive bid of one no-trump and then came in with a club bid at the level of five. Meantime his partner had shown the south diamond suit over a bid by east.

So, after coaxing opponents into doubling six clubs, north went to six diamonds as an assist of his partner's suit. West was under the impression that north had floundered into a bad contract.

With three aces, west did not think he would have much trouble defeating six diamonds. It was only a question of how much, he thought. So, he led his singleton ace of clubs to get a look at dummy's hand.

It so happens that six diamonds is easy to make no matter what lead comes first from either opponent. They can take their trick in hearts before anything else. But that is all.

A careful declarer can assure himself of two entries to dummy with trumps. He can finally establish clubs for ruffs no matter how he starts leading from the dummy clubs.

However, when west starts out with the lead of his lone ace of clubs, declarer can take all 13 tricks without effort. He would have to be a very poor player indeed if he grew up a trick therefore.

South ruffed the opening lead of the club ace and pulled opponent trumps in two rounds. On dummy's clubs were stuffed all the losers to be seen in the south hand; thus making an overtrick.

The most stalwart ace may fall to a trump however small.

Toronto Runner Wins

HAMILTON (CP)—George Norman of Toronto Gladstones showed the way to a field of 10 in the annual Guelph-to-Hamilton road race Saturday and established a new mark for the just under 30 miles.

Norman, who set the mark of 2.02.18 back in 1951, was clocked in 2.56.10 Saturday and he was all alone at the finish.

Buffalo Bisons Finish on Top In A.H.L. Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons finished the regular season at the head of the American Hockey League but lost their last encounter, Sunday, 3-2, to second-place Hershey Bears. On Saturday the teams played a 4-4 tie at Hershey.

Cleveland Barons, who finished third, closed the schedule with a 13-5 victory over Syracuse Warriors, cellar-dwellers. Pittsburgh Hornets, fourth, downed Providence Reds 5-3.

At Buffalo Sunday two AHL records fell.

Hershey's George (Red) Sullivan collected an assist to boost his season's total point total to 118—one better than the record set by Carl Liscombe of Providence, 1948-49.

Buffalo's line of Gaye Stewart, Don Marshall and Ed Slowinski set a goal record—also 119 and one point over the record established by Liscombe, Harvey Fraser and Roger Bedard for Providence in 1948-49.

At Cleveland, Eddie Olson and Ray Ross each scored three times for the Barons; Chuck Blair counted twice. Other Cleveland goals came from Fred Glover, Fred Shero, Ed Reigle, Andy Bathgate and Cal Stearns. Eric Pogue scored three for Syracuse.

Jack Leclair paced Pittsburgh over Providence with two of his team's five goals. Andy Barbe, Bob Solinger and Parker Macdonald scored singles. Providence goals were scored by Ken Davies, Paul Larivee and Tod Compeau.

Pittsburgh downed Syracuse 10-4 Saturday.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —This time of year I am usually busy calculating the movie awards that some pouring in from all parts of the globe. But now I have emancipated myself from that chore.

The reason is the deterioration of the award set-up. In the beginning there were the Academy Awards. For years they were virtually alone in the field. Then came other movie honors. Some of them here merit, notably the New York critics' selections and those of the National Board of Review.

Now everybody is in the act.

There are awards for everything, down to the best performance by an animal.

Most of the awards are strictly commercial, made not to reward artistic merit but to win publicity for the award maker. Various outfits will gold-plate some statuettes, then line up coast-to-cost TV shows on which to present them. Persons receiving awards are often chosen not because of their achievements but because of their availability for a telecast. If the honored person has a TV show of his own, so much the better.

AWARDS WIDELY SCATTERED

Another technique used by some award givers is the scatter-shot technique. A dozen or more awards are given in various fancy categories. Thus virtually all of the big pictures of the year and most of the studios get some kind of honor. So nobody gets mad at being slighted.

That's why I am presenting no awards this year. This honor formerly went to those winning the most awards. But now I just can't figure them all out.

Nor is the August Academy itself above reproach. Oscar will be on

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 23, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — With a certain flexibility exercised in your problems, and special care given in financial matters, you can make appreciable gains now. Don't hold to one pattern; change when necessary.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This may be a mediocre day so get your wits in action early and double your efforts to counteract dullness. Be neither discouraged nor overoptimistic and you can achieve.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You will work better, think more clearly if you maintain a happy mood and keep in harmony with co-workers. You might slacken the pace a little if it seems desirable.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — More stimulating rays than you suppose. Unless imperative, do not rush into several things at one time. Personal affairs, romance, family life can be most pleasant—with your help.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Similar to Cancer except that you will have to keep a tight rein on your words and deeds. You may be over-enthusiastic and spoil your chances. Always try to finish a job started before taking on another.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — No news is good news, they say. Stars indicate little either way now, so it looks as if you are on your own. Use your natural astuteness, fine mind and you can expect creditable results.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — This day may start slowly but it will grow better as it advances. Not by 5 p.m. things should be humming. Favorably. Heart interests are strictly up to you. It takes two to make happy moments.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Better realization from your work and business efforts now. Maintain a calm, reasonable attitude to counteract minor obstacles which may appear suddenly. Don't become confused, too anxious.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Friendly for home and private interests, artistic activities. Not too helpful, perhaps, for financial transactions, so consider carefully before entering into agreements.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — If you are conscientious and industrious, there's no need for you to lose out today, even in difficult matters. Keep in mind that anything worth doing is worth doing well. Romance rates now.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Those dealing in food products, mass sales, all essential commodities can expect good results from good efforts. Mind promises; be practical, accurate and all should go well.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Extra caution urged in all matters pertaining to money, contracts, agreements. Be cautious in travel, keep well around in traffic, congested areas. Don't force your opinions on others.

YOU BORN TODAY: Natives of Aries have many fine qualities and, of course, some faults. You have vitality, are remarkably quick at perceiving trends, possible spots to concentrate on for gain and, when you carry your ideas through, you achieve results. Overcome your restlessness, an occasionally selfish attitude, impetuousness. You have natural mechanical ability; make most headway when in congenial surroundings. You can be influenced but not driven or forced. Natives of Sagittarius, Gemini, Libra and Aquarius are congenial to the Arian nature.

Ma was reading her paper and pop was reeding his, saying, Here's something rare and rich. Listen to this item from Hollywood. Frawleen Partridge, glamorous siren of Under Eastern Moons and other romantic pictures, was granted a divorce today from Bandleen Gordon. Miss Partridge claimed extreme cruelty, informing Judge Hinky that Gordon was in the habit of stalking out of the room with his newspaper every time she started to read scripts on the radio. It took Judge Hinky only 5 minutes to separate the pair. Yes gods, what is marriage coming to? Where is Hollywood headed for? pop said.

That's ridiculus, ma said, and pop said, I agree with you.

Ah, when I think of the countless evenings I've waited and waited for you to come home with my head full of visions of dreadful accidents, only to see you strut smilingly in without a visible sine of an excuse, any judge would be fully justified in giving me a divorce, ma said, and pop said, I'm glad you dont know any judges.

If you had a spark of consideration you would at least of telefored, ma said, and pop said. The line must of been busy.

Some day I'm going to echoe home by star like without a word of warning, just to give you a bitter taist of your own medecine, and what then? ma said, and pop said, My dear, you would find my lifeless body dangling on the end of a necktie.

There, you see, the very thought given you the nervous shivers, so what do you think a Hollywood judge would do if I told him my story? ma said, and pop said, I think he would marry you himself, and you'd both be put in jale for bigamy.

And he laffed like anything making ma so mad he had to take her to a movie.

Quebec Hockey League is Won By Chicoutimi

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicoutimi Saguenaens became champions of the Quebec Hockey League Sunday evening with a 6-5 victory over Sherbrooke Saints.

Second-place Montreal Royals, in action twice, defeated Shawinigan Indians 4-1 Saturday and edged Ottawa Senators 3-2 Sunday.

Chicoutimi clinched third despite two week-end losses. Quebec Aces beat them Saturday.

The cellar-dwelling Springfield Indians redeemed themselves to some extent Sunday with a 7-4 verdict over Valleyfield Braves, who finished sixth.

Chicoutimi scorers were Fern Perreault (2), Norm Dussault, Georges Roy, Lou Smirke and Bucky Buchanan.

Orville Ricpelle's two-goal effort at Montreal was the Senator forward's first one-for-one match over Montreal's Skippy Burchell for the league scoring title. Burchell had a goal and an assist.

Sport in Brief

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Tribune quotes George Trafton, discharged coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, as saying the club will never win the Canadian championship with Indian Jack Jacobs as quarterback.

The Tribune, in a front-page interview by football writer Jack Matheson, said Trafton quoted Trafton as saying Joe Zilcaski would have won "all the games" if he had played it. "It's no secret how I feel about Jacobs. He's probably the greatest passer in Canadian football but he's no quarterback. If he was, he'd still be in the National League."

Trafton was fired as Bomber's coach three months ago after taking his club to the Grey Cup final. His successor is Al (Lefty) Sherman, former backfield coach of New York Giants of the NFL.

Trafton said the new coach will be in for "a lot of headaches." He could bring in another quarterback but his chances would be more than slim.

"Indian Jack can do no wrong in the eyes of the fans and the executive."

The former coach, who was fired at the end of his second year of a three-year contract, also had a few blasts for the Bomber executive.

"The coach doesn't run the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, the executive does."

TOKYO (AP)—Kenora Thistles, first Canadian hockey team to visit Japan since the war year, arrived at Yokohama Sunday for a series of games with Japanese teams.

The Thistles, 1953 western Canada intermediate hockey champions, planned on the Japanese liner Hikawa Maru from Vancouver.

Robert Mayhew, Canadian ambassador to Japan, and a large crowd of Japanese hockey fans met the team.

The Thistles will meet leading Japanese combinations in Tokyo, Kyoto, Osaka and Nagoya. They open the 10-game series Tuesday. The team is scheduled to leave for Canada.

TORONTO (CP)—Canada will be represented by 162 athletes at the British Empire Games at Vancouver, it was announced Saturday by Jack Davies of Montreal, president of the British Empire Games Association of Canada.

Davies said also 26 Canadian officials had been named.

The track and field team with 69 men and 13 women is the largest group. Others: Swimming, 26 men, 16 women; rowing, 21 men; boxing, 18; wrestling, 8; cycling, 16; weight lifting, 7; lawn bowling, 7; fencing, 12 men and two women.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.(AP)—Johnny Sain signed his New York Yankee baseball contract Saturday and took his first workout after ending his brief retirement.

The veteran righthanded pitcher said he had a lifelong friend to take over his newly-acquired automobile agency at Walnut Ridge, Ark., and said his main interest until October was to help the Yankees win their sixth straight pennant and world series.

Sain was reported to have received an $8,000 increase to boost his salary to $30,000.

Week-End Stars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordie Howe, Detroit, who ended the National Hockey League season the loop's top points-getter with 82, by scoring two goals and assisting in two other Sunday.

Maurice Richard, Montreal, who finished top goal-getter with a goal Sunday to make his total 37.

Paul Masnick and Fred Meyer, Montreal, who scored one goal each in the same game when Canadiens downed New York 3-1 to clinch second place in the league standings.

Jack Evans, New York, who scored two goals Saturday to pace the Rangers to a 5-2 win over Toronto Maple Leafs.

Seal Two Mines In Endeavor To Choke Fire

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—Two of Cape Breton's submarine coal mines were sealed Sunday in the last-ditch effort to choke a fire raging in a tunnel under the Atlantic where two miners died.

The Dominion Coal Company's No. 26 colliery, its newest and most promising mine, will be closed for three or four weeks and the adjoining No. 7-8 for at least a week. About 1,300 men were affected.

The fire started when an explosive charge was set off Friday night to loosen a coal face in No. 26. But this time the tongue of flame that licks from a dynamite blast did not flicker out.

The flames were soon out of control in a tunnel 2,000 feet underground.

Company officials believe there was a defect in the strata at No. 3 Deep, and that the "shot" flame ignited a small body of gas in the roof.

TWO FIREFIGHTERS DIED

Donald MacLennan, 52, and Malcolm O'Handley, 30, whom company manager Harold Gordon described as "two dagnged good men," went into the pit wearing steel helmets to help fight the fire—and died.

MacLennan, awarded a medal for heroism two years ago for leading trapped miners out of the nearby No. 20 colliery, was off duty but went down with the first crew of dragerman, expert rescue workers.

The heat was so searing that one of the men, Murdock Johnston, clasped his hands—the signal to go back. But O'Handley had surged ahead to appraise the situation, and when found he was groping, bewildered.

O'Handley, father of seven children, died of gas poisoning before he could be brought to the surface. It is believed MacLennan died of a heart attack.

After tons of water were sent cascading into the section without quelling the fire, the mines were sealed with timber and crushed stone to cut off the air supply.

To Test Salk Vaccine

NEW YORK (AP) — Enough commercially - manufactured trial vaccine to inoculate more than 370,000 children will be available for the polio field tests about April 12, it was announced today.

Dr. Hart E. van Riper, medical director of the U. S. National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, made the statement in a "status report" to all state health officers.

The vaccine will be that developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk.

1953 Council To Govern Whitby Until New Vote

WHITBY (CP) — A caretaker council made up of members of the 1953 council is administering Pickering township's affairs today following a judgment Friday invalidating the 1954 election.

The ruling, handed down by Ontario county Judge J. E. Pritchard, came at the end of a six-day hearing during which stockbroker Gerald Allman and Stephen Stephenson, unsuccessful candidate for reeve, charged 29 irregularities in the Dec. 7 election.

Judge Pritchard, in a 24-page judgment, directed that a new election be held in the town. Testimony was that voters had not cast ballots in secret, that a raffle had been held in a polling booth, and that the clerk did not seal ballot boxes with his own seal as required by law.

COUNCIL MAY APPEAL

Whether the 1954 council will appeal the judge's decision has not yet been decided. If new voters' lists are required, it will take six weeks to two months before another election can be held and court the township an estimated $500.

Function of the caretaker council, said township solicitor Terrance Moore, would be to deal with matters of immediate attention. No money by-laws could be passed nor could new projects be started.

McCarthy Probes Red Infiltration Of Press, Radio

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Senator Joseph McCarthy said Saturday night he is preparing for months on a report "on the aims of the Communist party to infiltrate and control every media of information, such as radio, newspapers and television."

He said in a political speech that the report he has been "painstakingly preparing" would go into "the extent to which they have succeeded and how some political clans are in mortal fear of and therefore to some extent guided by them."

McCarthy said the report was an "individual project" and not a product of the Senate investigations subcommittee which he heads.

Walls Gets Offer

LONDON (CP) — Earl Walls' British representative said today he has received "a good offer from a syndicate" for the Canadian heavyweight to fight the winner of the March 30 Roland La Starza-Don Cockell contest.

Harry Levene, British promoter and night club owner, declined to disclose details.

FBI Head Warns Against Enemy A-Bomb Smugglers

Gothic Stocked With Enough Food For Voyage Home

ADELAIDE, Australia (CP) — The royal liner Gothic has taken sufficient food aboard for the whole of the royal family of Australia by the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, and for the voyage back to England, it was revealed today.

The Queen and the duke are to fly across the country from Adelaide to meet the Gothic in Western Australia at the beginning of the tour of that state.

A food official reported today that the Queen's health adviser consulted Australian medical authorities before giving the royal couple their second anti-polio injection for their visit to Western Australia, where there is a polio epidemic.

During the tour of the state, as a precaution they will live aboard the Gothic, and the ship's cook will prepare all their meals.

Meanwhile, children, women and children rained when they were crowded behind barriers of 50-deep crowds waiting to see the Queen and Duke when here today.

OPENS PARLIAMENT

The crowd, 37,000 strong, had gathered on both sides of the 100-yard-long path from Government House to Parliament House, where the Queen later opened the South Australian state Parliament.

The Queen wore an evening gown of ice-blue satin and a diamond tiara, necklace, earrings and bracelets.

Five functions the Queen was to have attended during the tour of Western Australia were cancelled under the arrangements to protect her from polio and discourage the gathering of large crowds.

The Queen looked rather pale, but showed no other ill-effects from the post-polio injection she was given Sunday.

Five Soldiers Are Recaptured After Escaping

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Five soldiers who broke out of detention at Wolseley barracks here early Monday have been recaptured.

Three were taken in custody at North Bay, one in nearby Vaughan township and another at Cayuga.

Held in North Bay detention barracks for being absent without leave, are Marcel Cyre, 21, Cobalt; Ralph McKay, 18, Moncton, N.B., and Charles Wolford, 18, Red Deer, Alta.

Army officials haven't released the hometown of T. R. McGinnis, recaptured in Vaughan township, and R. W. Brown, held at Cayuga.

The five smashed their way out of a cell normally used for those charged with being absent without leave. They broke the cell lock, entered a store room and pulled wooden shutters to escape into the street.

Police here said Provost Corps members at Toronto will return the men to face a court martial charges. At North Bay, provincial police said the men taken there are wanted for questioning in the theft of two cars, two house breaks and the break-in of a church in the Toronto area.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Synopsis — A weak disturbance moving through the Great Lakes area Monday night was accompanied by a band of rain and scattered thundershowers now. As this trough of low pressure moves eastward it will be replaced over southern and central regions will end this morning, and cumulus will break through the clouds this afternoon.

Wednesday will be sunny over most of Ontario, and afternoon temperatures will range from 50 degrees in southwestern counties to the 30s north of Lake Superior, and down to the 20s around James Bay.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The justice department today made public a circular sent to the FBI and to enforcement officials by FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, requesting an alert against the possible smuggling of small atomic weapons into the United States by enemy agents.

The department said the letter was distributed in January. It followed a Dec. 15 statement by President Eisenhower in which he asked police authorities to be prepared promptly to the FBI all information relating to violations of the Atomic Energy Act.

To assist local police in recognizing atomic weapons which might be carried by an individual, Hoover gave a description of what such devices are likely to look like. He conceded at the same time that scientists are incapable to describe exactly what form a foreign atomic bomb might take.

EXPLAINS WARNING

Hoover said in his notice that it was necessary that police get such information together to form one piece of such material and that (2) a certain amount of fissionable material is quickly made more dense by squeezing it together, then important thing about each of these methods is that masses of fissionable material must be placed into rapid motion. We know that high explosives are capable of giving any material such necessary rapid motion.

"In the first case we would look for some kind of a gun barrel device using high explosive to blow one piece of fissionable material from the breech end of the gun down through the barrel into another piece of fissionable material already anchored in the muzzle end of the gun.

He said that the device would involve the principle of "implosion"—a bursting inward as contrasted with the bursting outward of an explosion.

HEAVY WEIGHT

The letter called attention to the fact that the fissionable material at either end would be plutonium, which weigh half again as much as lead. He said 50 pounds of such materials, in a spherical shape, would be about the size of a soft ball. He added:

"Since both of these materials can be coated with other metals which can be machined into all sorts of shapes, we should be particularly alert regarding any article that is extremely heavy for its size. Such an article might be smuggled would probably be of a size that could be carried on the back.

"The gun barrel type device will probably be made of steel. The diameter of the bore of such a gun barrel would probably not be less than 6 inches or more than 10 inches.

"It is possible of course that the gun tube and the two breech blocks may be carried as three separate pieces."

NO DECISION ON WHETHER TO RETAIN POWERS

Emergency Powers Act To Lapse on May 31

OTTAWA (CP)—The government says it has not decided formally what to do about its emergency powers.

The Emergency Powers Act lapses May 31 and Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday the government has made no formal decision on whether to ask for its extension. One reason was that the Geneva conference next month on Korea and Indo-China may ease world tension enough to allow the government to do without special powers.

Mr. St. Laurent spoke on a motion by Opposition Leader Drew. The motion described as "repugnant" to democracy the powers granted the government under the act to do as it sees fit to meet an emergency. The act was passed in 1951 and renewed by Parliament last year for a two-year period.

Mr. Drew's motion was supported by CCF and Social Credit members.

ABUSE OF POWER

He said an "outrageous" extension of the abuse of power occurred last year when, while Parliament was in session, it was adopted new laws, the government, by order-in-council, made a trade agreement with China by Canadian ships. This step should have been taken by the passage of legislation that no Parliament could debate it.

Mr. Drew's motion was the only motion to reaffirm the supremacy of Parliament and the right of people to be governed by laws which the making them were to be passed.

Mr. St. Laurent described the motion as an attempt by the opposition to decide government business before the government wants it decided. The Geneva conference might bring an easing of the tension which had engendered the emergency powers.

The Emergency Powers Act had not been used during the last year but it hardly seemed wise to be happy if it does not need to use them. It hadn't been decided whether to let the power lapse.

That question need not be decided until shortly before the date —May 31.

Social Leader Coldwell said the emergency conditions for which the powers were granted hardly exists no longer exists. The act was inconsistent with responsible parliamentary government.

Social Credit leader Lowe said the act should be kept in force if the powers are not used and the government cannot show valid reason for retaining them.

Churchill Says All Is Arranged For Consultation

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Churchill told the Commons today that "smooth and friendly arrangements" exist for consultation with the United States government about the use of atomic bombs.

Labor members had questioned him about machinery for consultation before the use of the weapons in the event of war involving both countries.

Quest For Drugs to Fight Malaria May Have Turned Up Foe For Cancer

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

BOSTON (AP) — The quest for drugs to fight malaria may have turned up some new foes for cancer, a Boston specialist says.

Dr. Sidney Farber of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation here said the experimental compounds originally produced in the form of drugs combatting malaria have yielded temporary benefits in cases of two children now suffering from "acute leukaemia and scattered other tumors."

Leukaemia is a cancer of the blood.

Dr. Farber said that while the benefits derived from the drugs were of short duration, they were sufficiently strong to warrant further investigation of compounds of this general type in connection with the battle against cancer.

The doctor told about it during a press conference with science writers looking into a number of developments being sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

British Launch Campaign Against Reds in Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Britain has embarked on an anti-Red drive in the West Indies colony after seizing documents in lightning raids Monday on two left-wing centres in this West Indies island capital.

Following crack-downs on alleged pro-Communists in British Guiana and British Honduras on the American continental mainland, authorities swooped down here on the home of a Jamaican labor leader, Ferdinand Christofer Smith, who is assistant secretary of the Communist - dominated World Federation of Trade Unions, and on the offices of the left-wing People's Educational Organization.

Police said documents they seized in Smith's home identified Communist organizers of the labor travellers in Jamaica. The files and papers taken in the raid on the Educational Organization are said by police to have been of a type banned by law as unduly subversive.

Announcements of the raids did not indicate that any action had been taken against Smith or the officers of the educational organization. Smith, president of the Red-tinged Jamaica Federation of Trade Unions, was purged in 1945 as a leader in the United States of the CIO National Maritime Union on the grounds of Communist activities.

He was permitted to leave the U.S. "voluntarily" in 1951 to avoid deportation on charges of subversion and being an undesirable alien, authorities said.

Colonial authorities have been taking steps against alleged Reds in their western hemisphere possessions, starting this year with the ouster of leftist prime minister Cheddi Jagan and his Communist-influenced Party government in British Guiana.

An investigation is under way in Honduras into claims that Communists in neighboring Guatemala have infiltrated the Progressive Union, the largest political faction in that colony.

Streamlined CNR Comes Up With Second Straight Surplus

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian National Railways, its unwieldy corporate structure streamlined, for the second year has come up with its second straight surplus since the new look went in.

But it just barely edged over the top in 1953, making a profit of $244,017 on a record-breaking gross of $698,000,000.

In the annual report tabled in the Commons Monday, president Donald Gordon called the surplus "disappointingly small." And he added that it was gained "despite cuts of employees which, the report said, could not be made without hurting them were to be passed.

Mr. St. Laurent described the motion as an attempt by the opposition to decide government business before the government wants it decided. The Geneva conference might bring an easing of the tension which had engendered the emergency powers.

The Emergency Powers Act had not been used during the last year but it hardly seemed wise to be happy if it does not need to use them. It hadn't been decided whether to let the power lapse.

That question need not be decided until shortly before the date —May 31.

Social Leader Coldwell said the emergency conditions for which the powers were granted hardly exists no longer exists. The act was inconsistent with responsible parliamentary government.

Social Credit leader Lowe said the act should be kept in force if the powers are not used and the government cannot show valid reason for retaining them.

French Repel New Assault On Fortress in Indo-China

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The French army garrison in Dienbienphu has beaten off a big new Vietminh attack on the besieged fortress at Dien Bien Phu. They claimed to have destroyed the company of the Communist-led rebels.

The headquarters announcement said 175 Vietminh were killed and nine captured.

The clash occurred on the road linking the heart of the fortress with its airstrip and supply point six miles away.

The airstrip is the only point on this road, the Vietminh tried to ambush the French as they opened the road Monday morning. French tanks and mobile units, infantry and artillery advanced behind the rebel assault, headquarters said.

FRENCH HAVE LOSSES

The French reported they had 36 men killed.

This was the biggest clash with the Vietminh since they launched their mass assaults on the fortress last week after losing 2,000 men and 6,000 wounded in frontal attacks.

The French air force today continued "massive" assaults on the Vietminh communications under bright, sunny skies.

The rebels meanwhile stepped up harassing guerrilla attacks on vital French lines of communication. The 37-mile route of Colin is an obvious effort to divert attention from their feverish preparations for the final assault on Dien Bien Phu.

But the French said the flow of ammunition, food and medical supplies continued moving steadily westward to Dien Bien Phu. They were being parachuted to fortress defenders, 10 miles west of Hanoi in the mountainous Thai country, from transport planes flying Boxcars manned by French and civilian American airmen.

VOTED FOR IKE

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Jacob Alsina, 105-year-old retired farmer from Ashland, W.Va., has died leaving 143 direct descendants. Alsina observed his 105th birthday March 16. He voted in 21 presidential elections, casting his last ballot for President Eisenhower at the age of 103.

Comet Airliners Back in Service

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's Comet jet airliners went back into the passenger-carrying business today after having been grounded 10 weeks because of a still-unexplained structural weakness, it announced, with 35 fatalities.

The screech of powerful engines at London airport and in Johannesburg signalled the reopening of Britain's Overseas Airways Comet service between Britain and South Africa. Other Comets will be put on Pakistan, Ceylon, Singapore and Japan will be resumed soon.

The Comets were withdrawn temporarily from service after the crash off the isle of Elba Jan. 10 with the loss of all on board. Before being allowed to fly passengers again they were given a boiling-tank test which revealed no structural weaknesses and no clue to the disaster.

VOTERS RE-AFFIRM CHOICES IN LAST YEAR'S ELECTIONS

Elgin, Peel Go P.C. Quebec Seats Liberal

OTTAWA (CP)—Voters in four federal constituencies have reaffirmed the political choices made in the general election seven months ago.

By-elections Monday returned Progressive Conservatives in the Quebec ridings of Peel and Elgin; Liberals in Verdun and Gatineau in Quebec.

Yvon Leboe, a Montreal lawyer, held Verdun for the Liberals in a seven-man contest. He succeeds Paul Emile Cote, former parliamentary assistant to Mr. Lapointe, who was appointed to the Quebec bench.

Dr. Rodolphe Leduc, a dentist, defeated three other candidates in Gatineau, which always has returned Liberal. The Elgin county member, J. C. Nadon, died last December.

SUCCEEDS GRATTON

John Pallett, 33-year-old lawyer, held Peel, which has elected Conservatives since 1900. He won by a wider margin than his predecessor, Gordon Lynch-Staunton, in a smaller turnout of voters. Mr. Graydon, member since 1935, died last December.

James McBain, 42 - year - old farmer and former township reeve, warden, retained Elgin for the Progressive Conservatives in a straight two-party fight. He succeeds C. D. Coyle, member since 1945, who died in January.

Standing in the 265-seat Commons: Liberals 170; Progressive Conservatives 51; CCF 23; Social Credit 15; Independents 3.

Commenting on the results Monday night, Prime Minister St. Laurent said he is "gratified" with the two Quebec by-elections and "not surprised" at the results in Ontario.

Opposition Leader Drew said the party members from Peel and Elgin "will be a great addition to the strength of our party in the House." His party's candidates in the Quebec contests had waged good campaigns but the Liberal party organization in preparation for the next general election.

When counting ended Monday in Verdun, Mr. Leboe had a lead of 1,778 votes over his Progressive Conservative opponent on the basis of returns from 145 of 213 polls.

At that point, the count was: Mr. Leboe, Lib., 5,251; Armand Dupuis, PC, 3,747; Roland Gadbois, Independent Liberal, 1,000; Independent Liberal, 1,000; J. H. Hayes, Independent, 1,000; Miss Herve Ferland, Liberal-Labor, 1,000; J. M. Hayes, Independent, 1,000; Miss Gaston Perry, Labor-Progressive, 155.

The Progressive Conservative, Dr. Leduc, 5,678; Ernest A. St. Jean, PC, 2,615; Marcel Bonnier, Independent, 1,000; Jean Lapointe, PC, 699.

In Elgin, 140 of 141 polls gave Mr. Pallett a lead of 4,791 votes over his Liberal opponent, J. C. McMartin, at that point: Mr. Pallett, 13,437; Mr. O'Marra, 8,646; Lloyd Jones, PC, 1,000.

In Elgin, Mr. McBain had a majority of 1,000 votes before against 10,628 for Mr. Rodsay.

MILK TOAST

CHESTER, Eng. (CP) — Mayor A. H. Charnley drank a toast in milk at a banquet given by the Cattle Herd Book Society, meeting quite Scotland for the first time in 50 years, to their president, Dudley Beck of nearby Dariand Hall.

Spokesman Describes as Baseless Report U.S. Has Flying Saucer Pieces

By WERN HAGLUND
WASHINGTON (AP)—A spokesman today termed without basis reports that the Air Force and Navy Air Force has recovered pieces of "flying saucers" and just isn't telling the public about them.

The air force position, he said, is that "given enough facts there's no such thing as flying saucers."

Nash was quoted as having reported sighting unidentified objects in the sky, but that he is not a believer.

The defence department officer said the landings, however, are baseless. He said that to date more than 90 per cent of the sightings, both visual and by radar, have been identified as of known objects. From 10 to 15 per cent had been outright hoaxes.

The others probably could be explained if our knowledge of physics was greater," he said. "There are many things in the sky that science still doesn't understand."

Autopsy Revealed No Natural Causes For Bell's Death

Dr. Hans Lucke, Pathologist, Gives Testimony at Hearing

Dr. Hans Lucke, Belleville General Hospital pathologist, the only witness called at the morning session of the preliminary hearing of evidence in the charge of murder laid against Mrs. Mary Bell, 222 Albert Street, being held in the county court, said he could find no natural causes of death following a post-mortem of the body of Percy Bell, husband of the accused.

Questioned by special crown prosecutor Leo Hall, Q.C., of Oshawa, Dr. Lucke testified that the coronary arteries failed to show any signs of disease. They were in exceptionally good condition and there was no trace of pulmonary disease.

An autopsy performed in county court there were no traces of foreign material on the face of the deceased, and no foreign material was discovered inside the mouth.

Dr. Lucke went under cross-examination by defence counsel Ron Case at 11:46 and was still on the stand at 1:15 when the session adjourned until 2:15 this afternoon.

In his testimony Dr. Lucke stated that internal examination of the face of Mr. Bell revealed no signs of brain hemorrhage. The large arteries showed little atherosclerosis (fatty).

MUSCLES WELL PRESERVED

The heart muscles were well preserved. He was of the opinion that the man had suffered from arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and that there were no obstructions in the passages leading from the brain to the spinal cord. Dr. Lucke told the court:

"He had found slight indications of bronchopneumonia in the lungs," the witness said.

Questioned by Hall, crown prosecutor Mrs. Hall, Q.C., Dr. Lucke detailed the symptoms of strychnine poisoning.

"Is vomiting a symptom?"

"Not a specific one, but it may occur. The length of time from the first symptom until death ap-pears varies," the witness said. "Some textbooks have it one to two hours, others one to three hours."

"Would three hours be exceptional?"

"Yes."

In theory any case in medical history where it took three and one-half hours for death to occur would be free of symptoms?"

"Not to my knowledge."

HALF-GRAIN FATAL DOSE

The minimum lethal dose of strychnine is one-half grain. A grain is the dose which definitely be lethal, the witness said. He would not say how much of a lethal dose. Under questioning he told the court how many grains are contained in two drams.

Strychnine, a common poison for suicides, is practical and absorbs rapidly. There is no problem in distinguishing it because it dissolves easily. It could easily be given in tea, cocoa, milk or water, the witness said.

"Of these choices, cocoa would be the best in disguising the bitter taste of strychnine for two reasons. Cocoa has a short bitterness, and I have never heard of people taking cocoa without sweetening it."

The brown material he saw in the body gave him little conclusion of being partially digested food, but closer examination revealed it to be of a more crumbly nature.

Chances of War Have Lessened Nehru Believes

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru today said he believes there is "less chance of war now than a year or two ago," but feels a peaceful future is no certainty.

He opened foreign affairs debate in the Lower House of India's Parliament with an expression of hope that the forthcoming Geneva conference on Korea and Indo-China would produce an easing of international tensions.

However, he said India—which hasn't been invited—has "no desire whatever to appear or participate in the conference."

Nehru described as "a good thing" the decision to have Red China represented at Geneva, as "it is far better to keep governments face each other on their problems."

Only Half of Canada's Inland Fleet Will Be Operating

MONTREAL (CP) — Only half Canada's 225-ship inland fleet will be operating when navigation opens on the Great Lakes April 19, a lakes shipping company official said today.

The official added that the forthcoming season may wind up "the worst on record" if there is not a sharp improvement in business conditions, especially in the movement of vast quantities of stored grain.

In the Commons Monday Trade Minister Howe said there is no cause for "undue apprehension" because grain movements at Montreal have reached a standstill. Mr. Howe said he is ready to questions, that full elevators during the winter months are a "normal situation."

The shipping official said between 650,000,000 and 700,000,000 bushels of grain are at present in elevators at Fort William, Port Arthur and Lakes ports, awaiting buyers.

LOSSES ON GRAIN

However shipments of coal, ore, newsprint and pulpwood should be normal this year and would help operators through the initial crisis. These freight movements would not cut the losses of a lack of grain movement.

"All movements of freight are dependent on another movement and if we take one item of freight up to the Lakehead we usually count on bringing grain back," he said.

"This season we can expect to lose on the return journey."

The official said operators hope "things may perk up" after the first month of the season. "By that time there should be a good flow of freight from overseas for transshipment as well as other seasonal cargoes."

Fall in cargo is expected to increase as representatives of Lakes shipowners for some restriction on the heavy traffic by foreign ships.

Canadian owners claim movements of British, Dutch, German and Polish ships between lake ports will force many Canadian flag-vessels off the route.

Longshoremen Stage Battles In Brooklyn

NEW YORK (AP) — Fights broke out again today between longshoremen of rival longshoremen's unions in the face of a plea by Mayor Robert F. Wagner that dock workers end their paralyzing port tieup, now in its 19th day.

The clashes were in Brooklyn where violence erupted last week as the result of the mayor to order stiff police reinforcements to guard the piers.

Shortly after daytime operations began at the Bull Steamship Line piers at 10th and 20th streets, there was a skirmish between striking and non-striking dockers.

Police quickly quieted the outbreak, with nobody arrested and no one injured.

A short while later police reported that a "battle royal" had broken out. Some arrests were reported.

A plea Monday night by the mayor for a general return to work was generally ignored on New York piers, sarty surveys indicated.

COUNSEL OBJECTS

Cross-examined by Mr. Cass, defence counsel, Dr. Lucke said quite a few people have similar symptoms to bitter and do not cave to know a lot about poisons.

"Would there be any advantage in using coffee if drunk with sugar?"

Witness was not sure.

Dr. Lucke admitted he had been asked if the use of cocoa had been a possibility.

Mr. Cass pointed out that exhibit No. 21 was not the post-mortem report and that Dr. Lucke was not giving testimony. He further stated that there were changes made from the original report of the post-mortem.

The coroner immediately presented the copy of the original Mr. Cass objected.

The witness admitted there were changes as the first was a preliminary report. He did not try to alter the meaning of anything, but had made some changes in minor findings.

MY OWN IDEA

"Was the change your own idea or was it suggested by some one else?"

"It was my idea."

"Changes had been made," he said, "after further examination of parts of the body in his possession."

Magistrate Wills said "he made a second draft like you or any other scientific man makes, because you think it sounds better."

If air passages leading from the lungs had been blocked by food, evidence of this would be easily apparent on the sides of tubes, the witness said in reply to counsel's question.

The witness said another change had been made with reference to no evidence of arsenic-arsenicals. The change had mentioned a man the age of Bell.

A large part of the morning was taken up with explanatory evidence given by Dr. Lucke on technical medical questioning by Mr. Cass.

DENIED HIS VIEWS

From the time Dr. Lucke signed his preliminary post-mortem report and the final one on March 31st, he had changed his views on the substance of certain darkish brown material found in Bell's body.

"It was your honest opinion at first this material was particularly stained blood, at that, time?"

"Yes."

"I suggest any doubts afterwards arose from certain conversations you had?"

"In part," said Dr. Lucke.

"With whom did you have these conversations?" asked Mr. Cass.

"I believe it was Inspector Kelly."

Mr. Cass' request that a copy of the original post-mortem be exhibited as an exhibit was protested by the crown, but Magistrate Wills overruled the objection.

Percy Bell's Death Throes Provided 'Textbook Picture' Of Strychnine Poisoning

The death of Percy Bell, 53-year-old stationary engineer, was "a textbook picture" of strychnine poisoning" Dr. Reg. Anderson, attending physician, testified at yesterday afternoon's session of the preliminary hearing of evidence in the murder charge laid against Mrs. Mary Bell, widow of the deceased.

"Comparing the jerking muscular contractions of the patient and textbooks symptoms, especially in the final seizure, it was a textbook picture" the physician told Alex. Hall, Q.C., Oshawa, special crown prosecutor.

"His eyeballs bulged and he died", the doctor said. He added there were only two or three things that could kill a man like that.

"It certainly was not his heart. It continued to beat two or three minutes after respiration ceased. I thought he had ruptured some important blood vessel in his brain."

Dr. Anderson examined by Ronald Cass, defence counsel, Dr. Anderson said breathing was normal when he first saw the patient. Later the breathing slowed—then stopped.

"Would strychnine poisoning cause that?"

"Yes."

There was nothing labored about the breathing between convulsions, Dr. Anderson told the court. There was a grimace of pain and agony on Bell's face during the last convulsion which ended in death.

During examination by the crown Dr. Anderson testified that it was not possible for a man to take strychnine at midnight and live until 8:30 a.m.

"Did you sign the death certificate?"

"Yes. I put down the cause as cerebral hemorrhage with my tongue in my cheek. It was an academic matter as I thought it was caused by the nature of a blood vessel in the brain."

Asked if there was a possibility of meningitis, Dr. Anderson pointed out there are no convulsions with this disease.

"No man with meningitis can sit and watch television until midnight, then die of convulsions," he said.

A lethal dose of strychnine is from one-half grain to one and one-half grains. The effects show in 15 minutes, with death occurring within one or two hours," the witness said.

Queried by the crown, Dr. Anderson said there were no signs of tetanus poisoning. Referring to lethal doses, the crown suggested a dose five times as much as that said to be lethal. He thought that by regurgitation would have little effect.

"That is possible," Dr. Anderson said.

THREE WITNESSES CALLED

Dr. Anderson was one of three witnesses called in the opening day of the preliminary hearing. Provincial police constable Reg. Rackham, 'official photographer, and George Rutledge, of Belleville Burial Company, were the others.

Mrs. Bell showed first signs of emotion when Rutledge was testifying. She broke into tears, and continuously wiped her eyes with a small pink handkerchief. She sat with bowed head looking at the table in front of her as witness gave evidence.

Dr. Anderson said outside of "marks on the chest" there was nothing abnormal about Bell.

"But," he added, "the arms showed that rigor mortis became sent as the convulsion progressed. The hands were strongly clenched."

The witness could not recall if Mrs. Bell wore shoes or stockings or if the other man in the room was there.

He repeated that Mrs. Bell said the patient was extremely ill" but that he had called again wolle on the way.

"Did Mrs. Bell appear to be normal or distraught?"

"No, except in ordinary ways people show when calling a doctor after midnight."

Who took the initiative in telling you of Bell's history?"

"The other man told me about the six or seven fits, but Mrs. Bell told me about the pain over the liver. The story I got over the phone was a very vague one."

Dr. Anderson asked one or two questions, but he never spoke to me directly. He said 'I feel awful.' He seemed to be rational."

"Did he say anything else?"

"He mentioned something about how terrible the spells were."

Heartbeat and pulse were normal when Dr. Anderson arrived at the Bell home. He said Bell did not appear ill, but that he had been through a physical disturbance.

Dr. Anderson did not think Bell was suffering unusual. He was downstairs with Mrs. Bell when "the other man shouted "He is having another fit."

SAW FINAL STAGE

The witness went upstairs in time to see the final stage of the convulsion.

"He was jerking, contracting and vomiting."

Mrs. Bell did not go up upstairs with the witness when he went up with a hypo.

Dr. Anderson said he had been told of previous convulsions of Bell. The impression he had was that Bell had been up until midnight, had gone to bed then Bell was taken ill.

"Was death due to asphyxia?" asked defence counsel.

"Yes," replied the witness.

"Did he cry out at any time?"

"No, he rolled out and cut with the rigid contraction of muscles."

He added he saw the terminal phase of one convulsion and saw other complete one.

Witness said there was evidence of "explosive vomit" in the room The 'other man" had been sprayed by it.

Dr. Anderson said death occurred "approximately 20 minutes after I arrived, or at 3.35 a.m."

TWO FORMS OF POISONING

Dr. Anderson'at the crown's request, told the court there are two forms of strychnine poisoning, chronic and acute. In the chronic form the patient is mentally upset and irritable. It gives a large dose he will develop a severe and terrific contraction of muscles, with extension muscles most severely affected. "The larger the dose the quicker the effect."

There is a time between first manifestations of symptoms and death in acute cases, he said

"Who else was present besides Mr. and Mrs. Bell and the other man" he was asked.

"I never saw anyone."

Witness had already told the Bells had been trying to get a doctor since 11 p.m. He said Dr. Kronk, the family doctor, was not available.

Neither other man' was dressed in trousers and shirt. His lower garments were bare, Dr. Anderson said.

Is there any evidence of any of the three having alcohol?"

"No."

There was a possibility the patient had been drinking.

Bell's breathing was normal when taken at first; a healthy situation for a man of Bell's stature."

Serious injury would lower blood pressure, Dr. Anderson said in reply to a query.

"Bell was conclusive and rational, but very sick. He didn't answer my questions."

ADMITTED BY EMBALMER

George Rutledge, Belleville Burial Company embalmer, said he was called by Dr. Ray Anderson at approximately 3.40 a.m. on January 3 to the home of Percy Bell, Dundas st.

Witness was admitted by one Rosena Bonnell, who was fully dressed but did not wear a tie.

He went to the bedroom which was in a bad state with vomit stains on the walls four feet above the floor. Mr. Bell was in bed, wearing long underwear open to the navel. His body, jaw and neck were discolored. He noticed scratches on Bell's chest with bleeding. The body was silent and fists strongly clenched

Mrs. Bell was present at this point. She wiped tears from her eyes with a small handkerchief, but kept her head bowed low on her chest. She nervously picked at threads hanging on her coat. These were her first signs of emotion, the witness said, in this attitude for ten minutes, finally sitting with hands shading her eyes.

When the stomach is perforated by an embalming needle, he said it would not draw off solid food but liquids or beverages, the witness said in answer to crown's query.

Previously the witness had described the method of embalming and the various fluids injected into the body.

BREAKS DOWN AGAIN

Mrs. Bell broke down and burst into tears. She recovered quickly and sat with eyes downcast, fingers locked on table.

Following the conclusion of the funeral arrangements, the witness said he drove Mrs. Bell, Zenners, her daughter and her daughter's husband to a flower shop The next day the family drove with the witness to Napanee Riverview cemetery where a plot was selected.

Witness told the court he visited the deceased on January 2 where he identified the grave and later identified the casket body of Bell in a Napanee funeral home.

Referring back to January 3 on his visit to the Bell home the witness said when he arrived at the home Mrs Bell was sitting at a table crying. She told him Mr. Bell had been taken ill at 2 o'clock that morning. She had tried to get the doctor before Dr. Anderson was called.

He said later that Mrs Bell said only one grave was necessary but the family insisted two be purchased when en route to Napanee.

DIED IN AGONY

"Do you find it difficult to unclench a hand after rigor mortis has set in?" asked the crown.

"No. Mr. Bell looked as if he had died in real agony."

Cross-examined by Mr. Cass

Dispute Between Board, Bus Operators Will Go to Courts

BANCROFT—A long drawnout conflict between the school board of Dungannon township and two of its school bus operators is to be decided in the civil courts. A writ served on school board chairman, Don Dunn, by counsel for the two operators, Mr. Arthur Fair, alleges breach of contract, arrears of pay and damages.

The dispute came to a head early in March, the two SPP officers were posted at L'Amable school to enforce operation of the new ruling on one occasion school children were taken home in taxis while four buses sat idle at the school.

According to one of the school bus operators the controversy is of fall, when school bus contracts awarded by a previous board were not ratified by the department of education. Notice of non-ratification was received by the board in November of last year and the township was thereby saddled with an additional cost of $1,800 annually which doubled the school bus costs. At this year the present school board decided that this amount was an unfair burden on the township and, at a special meeting, all school bus operators were asked to accept a new contract at rates approved by the department of education.

TREASURY REPORT

Three operators accepted the new contracts and two, Bob McGibbons operating a Bronson No. 3 school bus and Cecil Hoover operating Turiff No-1, stated that they could not accept the new rates. The board asked the two men to consider the matter and, when no agreement could be reached, voted that one month's notice terminating the two contracts be served. This action was taken at a special meeting held on June 1. Treasurer Hawkins, treasurer, H. Hawkins, was instructed to advertise for tenders for the two routes at 30 cents a mile.

McGibbons and Hoover both tendered again at this time, but the contracts were awarded to Bennett Bros. and Mrs. Ethel Adams.

On March 1, when the new contracts went into operation, young sters living on the two routes were somewhat bewildered to find two buses waiting for them. Picking up, McGibbons and Hoover having

TELLS OF FORCE OF HYDROGEN BOMB

A member of the U.S. congressional committee on atomic energy, Chet Holifield, who saw the recent H-bomb explosions in the Pacific, attempts to tell the force of one bomb blast. With a photo of an A-bomb explosion taking place, and a globe, he explains what would happen to unlimited atomic war. The Pacific test, he said, pulverized an island, sending the soil, rock, and coral high in the air as dust, and leaving a huge crater in the ocean. (Central Press Canadian).

Rutledge said he noticed no odor in the room, but saw stains on the floor and bed.

Recalling the night of January 3, witness couldn't remember whether Bell seemed worse after he wore braves or belt, or if he wore shoes.

Mrs. Bell told him they had been to see New Year's Eve, came home and wa'ched fights on television. Witness said he remembered her saying Bell had taken sick at 2 a.m. He gathered the family had been in bed and had got up when Bell was taken ill.

Mrs. denied anything had been said to him by Dr. Anderson regarding the case. During conversational witness said he did not notice anything on the dresser in the bedroom.

Witness did not recall what became of the long underwear worn by Bell, but he presumed it was destroyed because of its condition.

It seemed like a normal embalming operation with the exception of the marks on the chest witness said.

Rutledge said his embalming trochar would take most of the fluids from the stomach, but there could be some left in tiny pockets of the abdomen.

Th. casket selected was one that anyone would buy for a loved one?" asked Mr. Cass.

"Yes," witness replied.

Funeral costs revealed at the hearing amounted to $606

Re-examined by the crown, Rutledge stated that the body was embalmed so soon after death that no pulpe was necessary.

Still Consider Reward Claim For 'Time Pencil'

LONDON (CP)—A spokesman for the patent commission on awards to inventors said today that the Canadian Business man in Ottawa regarding the invention of a pencil-like bomb detonator, is not forgotten in England.

He was' commenting on a press report that a letter had been sent to Cmdr. A. J. G. Langley saying an award was justified and that the amount would be announced soon. Langley, 56, formerly of Sevenoaks, Kent, now lives in Ottawa.

Langley's counsel, A. D. Russell Clarke, told the commission that 15,500,000 flexible-tube detonators were produced during the Second World War at a cost of ta 6d each. The devices were widely used by commandos and underground movements.

The "time pencil" was set in operation by crushing between the fingers, releasing a solvent which ate through a wire and caused the detonation. Explosion could be delayed from 30 minutes to 30 hours

Graphic Word Picture Given Of Jamaica

Describing Jamaica as an island of vocabulum and superstitions, a graphic word picture of the political, economic and social life of this island in the Caribbean Sea was given Monday night, by Jack Trainer, engineer with the Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Co. here.

Speaking at the regular dinner meeting of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville, Mr. Trainer noted how superstitions ruled the lives of a larger percentage of the native Jamaican population. With the practice of a bit of witchcraft the native Jamaican could be convinced of almost anything.

Mr. Trainer as engineer with the local manufacturing firm was in Jamaica for six months last year in connection with the installation of conveying equipment to be used in the shipment of bauxite to the aluminum plant now being built at Kitimat, British Columbia. Bauxite was one of the leading natural resources of the island and its value far exceeded such agricultural products as sugar cane and bananas.

HOME RULE SINCE 1944

Although the island still has its British governor general, it has had home rule since 1944. The government set-up was described by Mr. Trainer as one of the queerest he had ever seen. Actually the island was ruled by two cabinets, one under the other's present government leader.

Although the Jamaican is highly organized, the present government finds it difficult to handle being at the head of two rival labor organizations. There was a strike in progress sometime while on the land all the time.

On the whole, however, Jamaicans were good workers. A good electrician or welder received the equivalent of about 80c an hour.

Although the Jamaican monetary system was tied to the pound sterling, the country was dollar hungry and the colony was anxious for greater trade with Canada and the United States.

The speaker was introduced by Frank Lang with thanks being expressed by W. Harry Rollins.

At the business session of the meeting club members decided to stage their annual automobile draw.

Says Dr. Neatby's Criticisms Not Worth Nickel

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario educationist said Monday night the criticisms of Dr. Hilda Neatby expressed in criticism of Canadian education are not worth a nickel apiece.

Dr. John Long, director of educational research at the Ontario College of Education, said Dr. Neatby's book "The Lamp and the Little For The Mind," "presents arguments which wouldn't be to quite unfair and she offers a picture of Canadian education which I think is unfair."

IMPLAUSIBLE ARGUMENTS

Speaking during a panel discussion at Forest Hill village junior high school, Dr. Long said:

"Dr. Neatby uses English especially well, a fact which to the poorly-informed tends to lend an aura of plausibility to her almost implausible arguments.

"She acquires a lot of 'sit-in' support for a lot of ideas which, if they were retailed at a nickel apiece, would seem pretty pretentious."

He said Dr. Neatby's book content shows she is an armchair critic who has had little first-hand contact with the schools.

MILK PRODUCTION IN CANADA

Milk production was up again this January, compared to figures for the same month in 1953. This is good news for Canadians.

Milk, in whatever form it may be consumed, is an excellent food.

Total milk production in Canada in 1953 was 16,425,000,000 pounds, compared to 15,735,000,000 pounds in 1952 and 15,310,000,000 pounds in 1950. This shows that milk production population is growing, but it appears that milk production is rising faster than the number of our inhabitants.

Unfortunately this is not necessarily an unmixed blessing. There was a day, in the distant past, when the cow led an uncomplicated life. She chewed her cud and produced milk only sporadically, when she had a calf which needed feeding. Man, however, converted her into a milk-producing machine. For a time this gave neither man nor the cow any troubles. Of late years things have been different. Man is faced with the task of consuming the milk which the cow produces—and if he fails the penalty has to be paid by the cow which is likely to be mustled from the stable to the table.

Not all the milk produced in Canada is consumed in Canada. A considerable portion of it is exported, in various forms, as butter, cheese, condensed milk, evaporated milk, whole milk powder, skim milk powder and casein. The National Council of Canada has issued a report listing some forty countries which import Canadian milk products.

Nevertheless, the home town boys and girls — and men and women—still have to face the task of handling most of that 16,425,000,000 pounds of milk. And the best task it is—with ice cream, cheese and butter all on the menu. Not to mention whipped cream on strawberry shortcake. Fluid milk sales accounted for 4,961,000,000 pounds in 1953. Cheese took 504,000,000 pounds of milk disappeared in the form of ice cream. "Domestic disappearance" of cheese in 1953 amounted to 86,659,000 pounds of cheddar. As for creamery butter, 285,561,000 pounds went onto Canadian dinner tables last year. Into the production of this creamery butter went 7,031,000,000 pounds of milk. And another 498,000,000 pounds of milk were used for farm butter.

Butter-making, incidentally, is an important industry in this district, as is clearly shown by figures provided to The Intelligencer by Mr. Mack Bowerman. We are apt to think of Hastings and Prince Edward counties as cheese-producing districts—and so they are. But they also manufacture a large quantity of butter. In 1953, 3,370,000 pounds of butter were made in Hastings. At 60 cents a pound this butter was worth $2,023,858.80. For comparison we must note that the 3,547,294 pounds of cheese made in Hastings last year, at a price of 31 cents a pound, would be valued at $1,099,692.14, or little more than half the value of the butter produced.

As has been said, there's life in the old butter yet yet.

So, says somebody, is there's life in margarine. Butter is priced too high. Is it? Figures seem to throw doubt on the validity of this oft-heard argument. One hundred pounds of milk will make only one pound of cheese, but the same amount of milk will make only four and one-half pounds of butter. But butter sells at less wholesale than twice the price of cheese. So the price of butter cannot be said to be out of line.

These figures, showing the quantity of butter produced in this area, and the fact that a large part of it is produced in this area, and the fact that it is sold at a price somewhat less than twice the price paid, will suggest to most readers that it is desirable that butter production be increased, if possible. But increased production requires increased population. Is there a possibility of raising the consumption of butter by Canadians? Well, as we said, in 1953 Canadians consumed 285,561,000 pounds of creamery butter. During the same year they consumed these Canadians also ate 105,995,000 pounds of margarine. Some of this margarine was unquestionably used for cooking purposes, as a substitute for other fats than butter. But some of it was spread on bread. So there is a possibility of expansion of the home butter market.

How this should be attempted is a major problem. It is of interest not only to butter manufacturers and their employees but also to all residents of the district. There is also another large group which, though it appears to be facing the problem clinically, yet has a basic interest in the whole affair. The cows.

You and I might ponder if we were told that we had a choice between eating our own grandmothers and more steak on the platter, but no cow would hesitate for a moment if faced with a choice of that nature.

NOTHING IS USELESS

There is a moral in the news that the Northern Ontario town of Cobalt may find itself thriving as the result of a demand for the metal from which its got its name—but not its original wealth.

Silver was what built Cobalt. Then the silver ran out and the demand for it dwindled. Cobalt approached ghost-town status.

To get at the silver, miners in the early days of this century discarded thousands of tons of ore containing cobalt, a hard white metal. Now that metal is in great demand because it is essential in the manufacture of alloys capable of resisting heat and friction in such atomic-age wonders as jet engines.

Silver, which was precious, is no longer coveted. Cobalt, which was useless, is now a necessity. Perhaps this should teach us there is nothing useless—only things for which we have not yet discovered a use.

MY COUNTRY

I'd like to give my country all my best;
To feel somehow that I have earned her smile;
That she has found my little life worth while,
That I have never failed her in the test;
Never held self above her interest
Or given ear to my traitor's smile.
But have been steadfast to the'
farthest mile

Just as a mother smiles upon her son
Who has not failed her teachings, and is glad When home he comes with all his victories won
That such a man was once her little lad.
I hope my country to the end may be Happy to own that she has mothered me.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We are once again, thank goodness, in a period of sweet, pleasant popular music. The tunes that float in the air of radio and television are "Stranger in Paradise." "Paradise." "Answer Me, My Love," "Changing Partners," "Secret Love," "O My Papa" and a half a dozen others that have this in common: they defy all those hooting and hollering singers to ever get them ruined. We are having a heavenly rest from those male singers who are under the impression that songs are made for the purpose of allowing them to make circus calliopes out of themselves, and those female singers who think their voices like megaphones to moo into.

We are being treated to some songs that are bigger than the singers. One or two of them, like "Changing Partners" and "Answer Me, My Love," stand a fair chance of becoming folk songs, and they might find themselves in anthologies as so few modern songs are, in the song sheets of service clubs.

Nothing can destroy a new song more quickly than to have it sung by one of those highly individualized popular singers who take what melody there may have been a kind-by-remembered tune and punch and chop it all over the place with their particularized style of yelling, chopping, off-beating and rhythmic trickery. We can imagine some of these stars at the juke box trying to grab hold of "Stranger in Paradise" or "Answer Me, My Love." We can picture their confusion when they discover that the lines have a measure and beauty that defies all their gargles and trade-marked whoops and howls. Reciting and panting, with their agents and accompanists standing about in growing dismay, they struggle to surmount, to get on top of something that can't be made hoydenish and plain in its charm and sweetness. Only nameless singers can sing it.

In recent weeks, on the wings of sheer song, some new singers have been introduced to us that for several years past.

Letter to the Editor

Says Dairy Industry Harmed by Margarine

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Before I say something else, let me congratulate you, Sir, on the editorials that appear in the "great Family Journal" from time to time. These editorials are always worth reading.

The purpose of this letter is to speak about your editorial on-by-titled "Guatemala Cheese Embargo."

We quite agree with you that it would be a good business and help export of cheese to Guatemala is reduced, the Dutch will endeavor to sell more to Britain, therefore we mourn with our cheese industry with you, but we believe that this would indicate more difficulty in our selling cheese to Britain.

As we said at the beginning, you write splendid editorials, but you show a real good editorial showing the loss of markets our dairy products are suffering from the commercials of clue margarine and similar products. We think the business that allow these pseudo products to be manufactured and sold by is that legislation because people just think it affects the butter market.

The inroads of these pseudo products affect the market of all dairy products. It is the butter business can't meet anyone who uses skim milk, whole milk products, yet the Dominion Bureau of Statistics tells us that over 190,000,000 pounds of butter are made in Canada.

Do you know, Sir, that if we didn't save these other spreads, (never mind in 1954 what we call them) our surplus butter on hand today, would be 190,000,000 pounds more, be using considerable of the fat that is now going into cheese, and that into cheese, and that we might not have to find a market, but we have just and sell our butter on the amount to any person. Perhaps it isn't because we said it. Some people think that we have one of the cheapest of all dairy products on the market, for the price of butter goes considerably more than a pound of cheese but one hundred pounds of milk will make 190 pounds of cheese; one hundred pounds of milk will make only four and one half pounds of butter; therefore, again I say butter is the cheapest of all dairy products on the market, today, and in the past always has been.

We live in a great cheese manufacturing area. Would you be surprised to learn that in 1953 Hastings County made 3,547,294 pounds of cheese which at a price of thirty-three cents would be $1,170,640.02. Would you be surprised to know we did further during the same year County made 3,373,086 pounds of butter which at sixty-one cents would be $2,023,858.80.

Mr. Editor, let us have an article about the great loss in market for our dairy products right here at home. Including the rest of surrounding territories in all the cities, towns, villages, lumber camps, mining centres, running into millions of millions of dollars of imported milk and milk by products are crowded out of our home market. Is this important?

Mack. Robertson.

Get Paid $10 For A Holiday

(Fort William Times-Journal.)

At Miami Beach, Florida, the Chamber of Commerce has inaugurated an interesting contest which high school students get a cross-section of experience in a business.

About 50 young people are given the opportunity to participate in business organizations. On a Saturday, each student reports to his place of employment and is paid for a full day. He does not undertake the duties of the owner or manager but moves him around from department to department so that he gains a well-rounded experience in each phase of the business.

That means that the student, in one day, may be a shipping clerk, work in the office, sell for awhile, handle stock for some department, help in making deliveries, learn something about advertising layout, and so forth.

At that point, the plan draws admiration. Then comes what seems to be a flaw in the scheme. At the end of the day, the young student is sent on his way with a friendly goodbye—and $10 in salary.

If the business world of today is falling in any particular, it lies in giving an impression to youths graduating from schools that the matter of earning a living is easy. Nothing could be further from the complaints of employees that the young fellows ask first what money there is in the job, think little of what service they are able to render for the pay.

The act of handing a $10 bill to a young person as "pay" for a day's sight-seeing can do nothing else but create a false first impression of the value of economic work and the reward of work.

Popularizing Siberia

(Winnipeg Free Press).

In the course of a recent celebrated international hockey tournament, Swedish onlookers are reported to have learned a Czech team which was completely eccentric in lackadaisical fashion, against the Russian entry. "Forget about Siberia," was the burden of taunts from the crowd.

Certainly for vast numbers of Europeans — and millions of Russians — Siberia is a region which has long held a dismal and terrifying significance. Even during the Malenkov Government which is of course building great industrial centres in Siberia and would like to supplement the usual MVD shipments to the eastern provinces with some voluntary migration, it has therefore become necessary to broadcast the place.

Obviously this presents a fascinating problem. Even to a large Party comrade, it must be difficult to describe Siberia as another Walkiki or Riviera. In the United States it has repeatedly proved impossible to persuade convicted Communists to emigrate to European Russia, which, under the MVD, despite its vast expansion, is doubly inconvenient as a custodial to undertake the role of tourist agency in the western sense of the word.

Fortunately there is a serious side to this. Soviet industry is not surprising in view of all the turgid Marxist verbiage which Russians who have been scurvily ignored by the United States. For example like I. I. Polzunov who invented the steam engine in Siberia in 1763, or Konstantin Zalesov who in 1806 — also in Siberia — invented the first steam turbine.

What is puzzling that Izvestia should stop with the Polzunovs and Zalesovs. For did not the Russian exiles of Czarist days spend much time in Siberia by their own will as high his arms were extended full length, and he rushed into the arms of his mother.

It is significant of course that when his arms were extended full length, the little fellow's body and arms took on the form of a cross. His extended arms described the width and fullness of his love, and his mother's embrace, her response. But when he grew older and thought about it, he always remembered the cross and not the affirmation.

When the Son of God died on a hill he was nailed on a cross. It was the intention of the crucifiers that this symbol would call forth scoffing hatred. It did on that day, but today on the same hill even today it still does on the part of a few; but the figure of Christ stirred up pity, humanity and showing forth God's perfect love for all people more and more causing humanity to bow and prostrate itself in the dust.

It never anticipated this when he said, "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto myself."

HOW TO BREAK IT GENTLY

For a long time I have been trying to tell you children one of the facts of life, but it seems I just haven't the courage to go through with it as I intended and at the last moment I back off in panic. Well, forgive me if I can't tell you, but the moment you reach the peak of growth and development we begin to . . . we don't just stand there at the peak . . . even though we like to believe we're as good at forty as we were at thirty, at fifty as we were at forty, we're not quite as good.

To change the subject I usually interpolate some remarks about physical degeneration, being careful to emphasize the physical, for just plain degeneration, would be impossible. It is difficult for such things leads to another and finally, in sociologistic concept, which, to put it gently irksome, I like the definition and call it a day. Degeneration, says Webster, is deterioration of a tissue or an organism in which its vitality is diminished. This is all right as far as it goes, but I think Redmond's is better than Webster's. He says that degeneration is a retrogressive pathological change in cells or tissues in consequence of which ieshe functioning powers is lost and the living substance becomes converted into an inert mass.

Sinclair Lewis more accurately say "the functioning power is impaired," for when the functioning power is lost you're dead.

I was shocking term for physical degeneration is aging.

Dr. Nathan W. Shock heading the United States Public Health Service's team studying the processes of aging, says "aging is not something that just starts 'Seeng' Aging apparently sets in as soon as one is growing.

Among the 2,000 patients in Baltimore City Hospital whose aging Dr. Shock and his team have studied in the last 7 years, a good set of teeth was rare. At the age of 60, at least half of the subjects had inadequate teeth. Well, I've been warning you since Tony was a pup that the best bet for SAVE YOUR TEETH. How important this is you may infer from the fact that SAVE YOUR TEETH is the first of THE 7 KEYS TO VITALITY.

Machines Now Are Insolent

(Hamilton Spectator)

A colleague complains of being insulted by a local vending machine. He was helping himself the other day he turned over the little piece of cardboard to find his "fortune" on the back and was astounded to find that it said he was "inclined to be domineering." This was a slap in the face as gentle as a kitten's caress compared—like being deceived by an old friend. Female acquaintances usually more polite than truthful in their character readings and their estimates of our customers' feelings can only be explained on the ground that the vending machine's flattery is the ultimate in sophistication of modern irresponsible. We're getting ready to take the next step on to the platform of a weighing machine certain that for the modest outlay of a penny we should be assured that he was a fine, upstanding citizen and a generous friend. This, apparently, is no longer so.

Weighing machine flatteries will carry no conviction if they do not confirm our private opinions of ourselves—these, of course, are always pleasant. Under the new character reading is enhanced by the small confidential card, already mentioned, which is circulated by young people, who do not object to the "domineering" aspect of their personality but would like to

Fact-Finding Board to Study Mining Industry

TORONTO (CP)—The plight of the gold mining industry in northern Ontario "has been of increasing concern to us," Premier Frost said Monday.

The premier, in announcing to the legislature the formation of a three-man fact-finding committee to study the industry, said it was hoped that from the group's work "will come a better understanding" of the factors causing the ailment and "that this will promote the industrial harmony which is so essential to the gold mining industry in this difficult period."

The legislature spent most of Monday's session considering and finally approving the agriculture department's estimates, calling for $6,245,000 ordinary and $7,150,000 capital expenditures.

Mr. Frost announced the House would hold its first night sitting tonight to consider further estimates.

Professor F. A. Knox, head of the department of political and economic science, Queen's University, will be chairman of the committee. Other members are Professor E. E. Reilly, professor of economics, University of Western Ontario, and Professor H. R. Rice, head of the department of mining engineering, University of Toronto.

PRIVATE MEETINGS

The committee, to meet in private, will examine the conditions affecting the industry, underlying trends in employment, wages, working conditions, profits, etc., and the effects of these developments on northern communities.

Replying to a question by J.B. Salsberg (Lab.-Prog.—Toronto St. Andrew), Mr. Frost said labor was not represented on the committee "because I don't think this House wants the committee to turn into an arbitration board."

During consideration of the agriculture department estimates Hon. G. H. Challies, the government's representative on the hydro-electric power commission, said hydro's rural program for this year calls for a total expenditure of $23,833,054.

The changing picture of power consumption indicates that rural customers now regard the supply of power as essential not only for lighting but for the maintenance of labor-saving equipment.

The average annual farm consumption has increased from 2,159 kilowatt-hours a year in 1945 to 3,886 kilowatt-hours. Rural customers' average increased from 2,026 in 1945 to 3,540 in 1953.

C. G. Wardrope (PC—Fort Arthur) called for further expansion and reduced consumer costs of hydro in northwestern Ontario.

Senate Committee Seeking Counsel For Army Probe

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate investigation sub - committee planned to meet today for another try at finding a special counsel for its investigation of the bitter fight between Senator McCarthy and the army.

William J. Jameson, president of the American Bar Association, on Monday rejected the hot - spot post on the grounds the ABA board of directors believed it would not be appropriate for him to serve. Jameson is a Republican as is McCarthy, the sub - committee chairman.

Senator Karl Mundt (Rep. S.D.) said the selection of someone else to direct the inquiry would have priority at today's session, which was closed to the public and press.

Mundt will preside at the public hearings planned for later. McCarthy having stepped aside to that extent.

WANTS HENSEL CALLED

Late Monday he said he will ask that one of the witnesses be H. Struve Hensel, newly named assistant secretary of defence.

McCarthy said he wants to ask Hensel, former general counsel to the defence department, why the army released a report alleging pressures from the sub-committee for special favors for Pte. G. David Schine, a rich New Yorker who was an unpaid member of the sub-committee staff until he was drafted last fall.

McCarthy and Roy Cohn, the sub - committee's chief counsel, have accused Stevens and John G. Adams, an army lawyer, of trying to use Schine "as a hostage" to force the sub-committee to abandon its investigations of the army.

The army disclosed Monday it has tightened up its lines against possible infiltration of subversives.

A new directive, among other steps, requires all commissioned and warrant officers to sign fresh loyalty certificates.

PRAYED FOR RAINS CAME

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—A soft, soaking rain fell on parched New Mexico Monday, starting a short time after prayers for rain were recited in churches throughout the state. Last Friday Archbishop Edwin V. Byrne ordered prayers for rain Sunday in all Catholic churches throughout the state. The rain began Sunday night in the western portion of the state and reached the east side, hardest hit by the drought, Monday night.

McCARTHY RANK CONFIRMED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Marine Corps Monday ended published speculation about the reserve rank of Senator McCarthy by stating that he is a lieutenant-colonel and has been for a year. Last March 27 the marine corps announced the selection of 184 marine reserve majors for promotion to lieutenant-colonel. Included on the promotion list was "McCarthy, Joseph Raymond."

FOUGHT MINE FIRE

This is a group of Draegermen — specially equipped mine-rescue workers and firefighters— who fought a blaze in a Glace Bay, N.S., colliery. Two other miners died fighting the blaze in a tunnel at Dominion Coal Company's No. 26 mine which runs under the Atlantic. The fire started from an explosive charge used to loosen coal. The fire soon was out of control and two mines, No. 26 and the adjoining No. 1-B pit, had to be sealed off. The mines will be closed for three or four weeks, affecting about 1200 miners. (CP Photo.)

Strike Threatens To Shut Down Movie Industry

LONDON (Reuters)—A British film labor dispute today threatened to shut down the industry in 16 days and log down production of movies starring Gregory Peck and Richard Coote, and a dozen other feature pictures.

The British Film Producers Association announced it will give 4,000 workers notice Friday, in answer to a strike begun Monday by 600 film laboratory workers protesting the firing of nearly 2,500 laboratory technicians last week.

The shut-down would halt work on some $3,000,000 worth of new pictures.

Contract stars will still be paid if the shut-down goes into effect but many free-lance artists will go without pay.

First effect will be felt in the newsreels, which are expected to end some time this week. In a few weeks, if the shut-down goes into effect, there will be no new movies at all.

The laboratories affected process most feature movies shown in Britain, including imported films.

The technicians were fired for what the studios called slowdown tactics brought on by a wage hour dispute.

TV RECEPTION GOOD

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—CHSJ-TV, first television station in the Maritime provinces, went on the air Monday night with test patterns.

The telecasting began at only half power but reports of reception were received from such widely separated places as Halifax, Summerside, P.E.I., Presque Isle, Me., and Eastport, Me.

Republicans 'Dragging Feet' On Seaway Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican leadership in the House of Representatives is "dragging its feet" on St. Lawrence seaway legislation, representative John Blatnik (Dem. Minn.) contended today.

Expressing bitter disappointment over failure of the House rules committee to complete action on the measure and send it to the House itself for debate, Blatnik said "We are getting a double shuffle by the House leadership."

Chairman Leo Allen (Rep. Ill.) of the rules committee said after Monday's session that there was no intention on the part of the House leadership to delay the bill. Allen predicted it will be out of the committee in time for passage this session.

SENATE APPROVED

But Blatnik told a reporter he could see no reason for the delay. He is a member of the House public works committee, which earlier this year by a 23-to-8 vote approved the controversial legislation. The Senate on Jan. 20 passed it, 31 to 33.

Tattoo Suggested To Show Allergy To Some Drugs

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Suppose you're one of the many people who become dangerously allergic to penicillin or some other drug.

And suppose you're hurt and knocked unconscious. Could a doctor unwittingly give you the drug which is bad for you?

A little tattoo—put in a place which even a bikini bathing suit wouldn't reveal—could be your vital protection, a physician suggested today.

The tattoo, perhaps the size of a penny, could be squares or triangles or other symbols or letters of the alphabet representing some specific drug or condition. The meaning of each symbol would be known, by prior agreement, to all doctors.

The tattoo system could be a more scientific way of carrying your medical warning against a drug or treatment which could give a bad reaction or might even cause death, said Dr. Hugh H. Hussey of Washington, medical editor of GP, magazine of the American Academy of General Practice.

Edmonton Police Dept. Shaken Up

EDMONTON (CP) — A major shake-up of the Edmonton police department, including acceptance of the resignation of chief constable Reg Jennings, was endorsed by city council Monday night.

Chief Jennings, 61, will receive his salary until the end of this year and then obtain full city pension benefits.

The chief submitted his resignation Friday, just before city commissioners and retired RCMP superintendent Frank B. Baxter of Calgary, engaged to make a broad survey of the department, made sweeping recommendations for a shake-up.

The reports told of high-level laxity and poor police morale. Mr. Baxter said the chief had "lost control" by not keeping "in close enough touch with conditions he must have known existed."

Britain Approves Russian Trade Worth 38 Million

LONDON (Reuters)—Trade Minister Peter Thorneycroft has told the House of Commons that Britain to date has approved $38,500,000 worth of new exports to Russia.

The Russian orders, placed with a group of British business men who recently visited Moscow, include those for 30 locomotives worth $16,800,000 and textile machinery worth $3,500,000, the minister said Monday night.

Derick Heathcoat - Amory, deputy trade minister, said later that discussions now are going on for a further Russian order for British trawlers.

MARKET "WIDE OPEN"

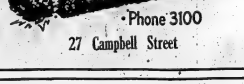
Heathcoat-Amory added that the British market is "wide open" to Russian grain, timber, metals and manganese ore.

He said in debate on East-West trade, he said it would be very helpful if larger quantities of grain could be made available."



He repeated Prime Minister Churchill's statement of last month that the government considers a "substantial relaxation" of present restrictions on trade with Russia would be beneficial.

Britain was "very anxious indeed" to get back to friendly trade relations with China.

Weddings

LANCASTER—MOTLEY

A pretty wedding was solemnized at Shiloh Church, Belleville, R.R. 5, by the Rev. M. Dorsey, on Sunday, March 21st, when Sylvia Lottie Motley and George Rae Lancaster were united in marriage.

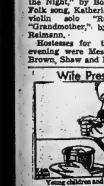
The bride was lovely in a ballerina length white silk damask dress with nylon net insets, fitted lilypoint sleeves, a Queen Anne headdress of lace and silk damask, accented with pearls, and shoulder-length silk tulle veil. She carried a white prayer book crested with white glamelias.

Her attendant was Mrs. Cyril Coulter, who wore a ballerina length nylon net and taffeta dress and carried a spray of yellow spring flowers.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Cyril Coulter.

After the ceremony, guests drove to the new home of the happy couple where a reception was held. Mr. Ross Lancaster proposed the health of the bride and bridegroom with wishes for every happiness in the future. A large three-tier wedding cake centred the appropriately decorated table.

The newlyweds left for a short honeymoon travelling by motor west, the bride wearing a mauve suit with navy accessories.



Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster will reside at Wallbridge.

Young children and those in their teens need a certain amount of protein in their every energy. However, it is better, as a rule, to serve them their protein meat or some other goodness for dessert rather than rich cakes or pies.

Girl Guide, Brownie News

On March 15th, the local Girl Guide Association held their annual general business meeting in the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Hall. The meeting was opened with the Girl Guide Prayer and after the routine business had been disposed of, Commissioner Scott brought a number of matters to the attention of the members, including the Guide Tea, the Church Parade and the Guiders' Training Day, which is to be held on April 3rd in Bridge Church United Church.

Brown Owl Adams, of the 5th Brownie Pack, then introduced Brownie Joanne Cherrie, who presented to the members what she planted a hyacinth bulb to gain her Nature Badge.

GUIDE COMPANY NO. 1—CAPT. GROOM

On February 22nd, Company No. 1 held a combined "Thinking Day Service" with the 1st Belleville Boy Scouts with their leaders, Scoutmaster England where he was associated with different musical and dramatic groups and orchestral groups. Raymond at present holds a five-year scholarship with the Toronto College of Music in London.

Mrs. Ralph Egerton Boyce at the piano, the Taylors' showing a fine knowing command of their instruments each of the numbers played. In the two Piper solos there was clear intonation was noted from each violin, which, together with perfect phrasing and wholesome quality of string tone, each instrument seeming to enhances the other in the smooth molding of the musical phrases into a concerted whole. In Mr. Taylor's arrangement of the Marriage of Figaro Overture for two violins without accompaniment every note of the original was retained in this very clever arrangement that gave the two soloists full scope to demonstrate their amazing co-ordination and individual facility on each violin.

Mr. Taylor chose the difficult Fantaisie-Ballet of De Beriot as a vehicle of display for his brilliant pyrotechnical accomplishments a number which exploited of the violin to its fullest in regard to virtuoso playing, which in the capable hands of Mr. Taylor passed no obstacle to overcome.

Raymond tackled the piano as he did the violin, in a manner that showed years of practice and devotion under the tutorship of his father. The Mozart Sonata and the Papillons of Grieg were both played with feeling and surety in the hands of this young musician. The Grieg fared a little better than the Mozart, owing to the overabundance of pedal in the forte cadential passages in the latter, thus detracting from the melodic line.

CHOIR SINGS 7 NUMBERS

The Albert College choir of about thirty-five members rendered seven selections, each being rendered in a most pleasing manner. The choir achieved good local balance in its vocal projections and the members seemed to be alive with a feeling of complete enjoyment in the singing of each of them. We hope to hear them again before the school year closes.

Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Boyce supplied very artistic background accompaniments to both chorus and violin-ists, further evidence of their talents as a piano and organ team.

Principal A. E. MacKenzie gave the announcements.

Belleville should have more musical evenings like this one in which local musical forces can participate and show their worth, as did Messrs. Taylor and all the other artists who assisted in last evening's very enjoyable musical program.

Albert College Concert Features Teacher, Son

(By EUGENE LANG)

The Albert College Memorial Chapel was crowded yesterday afternoon with a host of music lovers who were present to hear a recital of music for two violins and choral music. Barnett Taylor, R.M.T., teacher of violin at Albert College, and his son, Raymond Taylor, age 14, were the featured participants of the program, demonstrating their versatility and talents in composition, for two violins, solo violin, and solo piano, while the Albert College choir, directed by Mr. J. H. MacKay, B. Paed, balanced the musical entertainment with various selections, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Boyce at the organ and piano respectively.

Mr. Barnett Taylor has been on the teaching staff of musical department of Albert College since his arrival here last September His son, Raymond, is a newcomer to Belleville within the last few weeks. Both come from England. As a performer, ensemble player and teacher Mr. Taylor has had a long and successful career in England where he was associated with different

Nurse Fighting Mobile War Against Sickness

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mrs. Ruth Evans, a Red Cross nurse whose clinic is a converted railway sleeping car, is fighting a mobile war against sickness on Manitoba's northern frontier.

Though she serves in a lonely land, she has little time for loneliness. Not with 2,500 potential patients.

They live between the divisional points of Wekusko and Gillam on the Tundra Express line—the 50-mile Hudson Bay Railway from The Pas to the grain port of Churchill on Hudson Bay.

With so many people depending on her, Mrs. Evans is on call 24 hours a day. A sample from the weekly report sent to and output hospital headquarters in Winnipeg reads:

"Called at 3 a.m. Walked two miles in almost zero cut severely with bottle. Semi-conscious and two cuts over left eye. Treated for shock, cuts dressed. Back at 4:30 a.m."

Or:

"Called at 2 a.m. Patient suffering possible fractured vertebrae. Unable to move legs down. Extreme pain. . . Accompanied patient to The Pas by plane. Back by car at 3:30 a.m."

Two hundred miles separate the district nurse and the car is stationed alternately at each. The clinic began functioning last September, 1953, as a co-operative venture.

It is maintained and transported by Canadian National Railways, operators of the Hudson Bay Line and is staffed by the Red Cross.

WELL-EQUIPPED CAR

The car has been fitted with working and living quarters for the resident nurse. There is a treatment room, with a small waiting room, a bathroom complete with shower, a sitting room, bedroom and kitchen.

GOOD MANNERS

By: MRS. BEECKMAN

GOOD NEWS . . . LOVE BLOOMS AGAIN, AND THEY WILL MARRY SOON!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) These are the circumstances! Philip and I are both past fifty (he is 10 years my senior), and we are planning to be married in June. My husband passed away twelve years ago, and Philip's wife passed away two years ago. We each had happiness in our former marriages. His children and mine are all married: my children like him, and his like me. We're sure we love each other, and we're looking forward happily to sharing our future together. And of course we want to plan our wedding so that everything will be correct, nice and charming as we can make it. Our plan is to have a simple wedding in church in the afternoon. Right Mrs. Beeckman?

(2) We would like to invite approximately 275 guests, relatives and friends. Would it be correct for me to send out "formal" type of invitation, to his sisters and brothers and to mine, to his children and to mine, and to a few very close friends? If notes are correct, would this be a "formal" one?

Dear Anne,

Philip and I expect to be married on Tuesday, June eighth, at four o'clock, at—Church. We are planning a simple wedding, and we do hope you will come.

Sincerely,

(3) Do I have to wear a hat? I am going to wear an informal gray gown, with a pink bouquet.

S.

What an appealing and heartwarming story . . . all the circumstances seem perfect, and I'm sure you and your bridegroom are both to have a fine and happy life together! Good good wish to you both, for your happiness and well-being.

(1) Yes, your plans for a simple church wedding, in the afternoon as you wish, are in excellent taste. And you can, with gracious thought, keep everything on the quiet-wedding side, simple, informal, as well as charming and always to be happily remembered.

(2) Yes, correct to have this number of your relatives "of bride and bridegroom," and some intimate friends. It would be entirely correct to invite these relatives and friends by telephone: but notes are always correct, all to be invited by notes or only the ones not easily reached by telephone. The wording of the notes is very good . . . but I'd suggest you write "Philip and I are to be married on . . ." instead of "expect to be" Also, if you wish an answer, you might say, ". . . and we hope you will tell us that you will be with us."

(3) Yes.

HOSTESS OBSERVES OTHER HOSTESSES

Dr. Mrs. Beeckman:

I don't like to serve a lot of fussy foods, canapes and such, with cocktails (and tomato juice for the non-cocktail) before dinner. I always serve nuts, either allpecans or all-almonds, or assorted kinds of nuts; and a certain kind of small bland crackers. Should these nuts and crackers be heated just before they are served with the cocktails and so forth? I have never done this, but lately my husband and I have been invited with several friends who do heat the nuts, crackers, potato chips, and so forth. — Kate M.

Yes, it's best service to heat the nuts and crackers . . . as a matter of fact, the heating—procedure makes them extra-delicious. Your plan should be to put the nuts and crackers in the oven, to heat thoroughly, about fifteen minutes before you expect your guests to arrive. The hostess with the "mostest" know-how" is the one who serves heated all items that should be heated, just as she serves all items chilled that should be chilled.

A "SEMI-FORMAL DINNER"?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A club to which I belong is planning to give a dinner (the first we've ever given) in a private suite of a very fine local hotel. Our plans aren't very definite as yet, but the first question we'd like to have you answer, please, is about what term to use for the dinner. We feel it would be "too too" if we call it a "formal dinner" as we refer to it, or on the invitations. But we also don't exactly want to call it an "informal dinner," principally because we don't want our guests to come in tuxed dress, even though not in strictly formal evening dress. (I hope I've made myself clear, Mrs. Beeckman?)

(1) In these circumstances could we properly call it "semi-formal" with the idea that the girls would wear dinner dresses, perhaps so-called dance dresses, of cocktail length, and that the men would be expected to wear "black tie"?

(2) And, if "semi-formal dinner" is correct, how many courses would be expected to serve?

Marietta S.

"Semi-formal dinner" is, I am quite sure, just the term you should use for the type of dinner your club is planning to give. For this type of dinner you may invite the guests by note or, if you prefer (and this would probably be the best way for your club), by semi-engraved invitations. For convenience, you may also have place cards. The hour of the dinner depends on the custom of your locality, usually 7 or 7:15 or 7:30. If drinks are to be served before the dinner. The girls would correctly wear the type of dresses you describe; and the men would be expected to wear dinner jackets (they might write "Black tie" on the invitation).

(2) Usually a semi-formal dinner has three courses. The first course may be soup, or it might be oysters or clams or perhaps smoked salmon or a shrimp cocktail. The main course would be meat, with vegetables. The third course, dessert. (Sometimes four courses are served: a clear soup, the meat course, salad, dessert).

DON'T ADDRESS HIM AS "DOCTOR"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've forgotten what brought up the subject, but the other evening, at dinner in our house, my uncle, who is a doctor, said that when you speak to a doctor (or dentist) it is courteous, really "necessary politeness," to add the doctor's name after the title of "Doctor." In other words, he says that a courteous person doesn't address a doctor just as "Doctor," but always with the name also, "Doctor Davis." I've always thought it was all right to say just "Doctor." What about this, Mrs. Beeckman?

Dorothy S.

You are wrong about this . . . and your doctor-uncle is absolutely right. When you address a doctor or dentist, you should always add the name to his title. "Doctor Davis." You wouldn't address a Davis as "Mr." would you? So. . .

FIGURING OUT FIGURE PROBLEMS

Fashions, ever in a state of evolution, change with the seasons. And, strangely enough, feminine figures seem to change with them. Stylists who decide what women are to wear seem to take it for granted that all of us have ideal bodies with slipped-in waistline, normal bust, hips that are neatly under restraint, flat tummies.

Yet there are women with shoulder legs and plump torsos. There are others who overdevelop from above the waistline, gain adipose tissue below. Some have overdeveloped breasts and small hips while others have more hips than they need and flattened breasts It just doesn't seem fair. But that's the way it is.

The smart ones realize, however, that if they cannot afford the expert attention given in figure-remolding salons, they can camouflage disproportionate lines by wearing the right kind of clothes and choosing the right colors.

It is surprising what an expert corsetiere can do to fill out places where curves should be, to minimize unwanted ones. To be a well-dressed woman one must know how to use corsetry. The foundation is every bit as important to appearance as the outer garment. That is why the shopper should seek the services of a corsetiere of long experience.

Quite frequently the cultivation of correct posture will so strengthen slack abdominal muscles that the figure will flatten. If this happens to be your figure problem, draw the muscles upward and inward and keep them there. Bind them with a girdle or foundation that will be a constant reminder that you must keep your backbone straight, your head held balanced, chest high. Even though one may be a bit overweight, the figure can present a distinguished appearance.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE BRUSHED HER OFF—SHALL SHE TAKE HIM BACK AFTER FOUR YEARS?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Four years ago, when I was 18, I went steady with a boy. We thought we were very much in love, but I was very jealous and unreasonable, and finally he told me he no longer loved me and we broke up. Later, I found out that he had been interested in another girl before we broke up, and shortly after we did, he began to date her.

In the last few years, I have seen him only a few times, but he has never asked me for a date until recently. Now I do not know whether to date him or not.

Dear P.A.H.:

Why not? If you do not decide to date this young man again would depend, I would say, on how much you really want to do so. If you have lost all interest in him, then what would be the point? But if you still have a secret yen for him after four years, then it might be worthwhile.

If you do decide to start seeing him again, however, I suggest that you be casual about it, so he won't get any idea that you've been pining the past four years moondoing his loss. Don't appear to jump at the chance to have a date with him, and if you do date, and he asks you for another, don't make it too soon. Have a date with someone else, even if it's only a girl friend, so he will understand you aren't dependent on him for dates.

After all, he was the one who brushed you off, so you'd better be cautious about taking him back again. I hope, though, that you have changed your own attitude in the meantime so that you are so poised, gracious and personable. By this time you should know that a girl who has those qualities is not likely to find much competition.

MAYBE SHE WASN'T WISE IN WHAT SHE WROTE THESE BEAUMEMEN

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been writing to two boys in service, both of whom will be home soon.

One of these boys says he doesn't want me to go out with other boys, The other one says he doesn't care, but wants me to be free when he gets home. One is in the other 22, I am 15.

Both these boys will be getting out of service at the same time and I don't know what to do with them. Do you think you expect to go steady with me, I don't want to go with two boys at once because I would not be fair to the one.

What is your advice?

N.L.

Dear N.L.:

My advice is to tell both these young men that you are not going to "go steady" with either of them; then keep your head and don't let either one talk you into changing your mind.

In the first place, for a 15-year old girl who must still be in school to be the "steady" girl friend of any young man in his twenties would be most unsuitable for you socially, or at least you shouldn't possibly have the same interests. And in the second place, even if you and these young men were both the same age, then you would be a very foolish girl to go in for this "steady" business when you still have so much ahead that you like the best.

I am inclined to suspect that you have been leading both these young men on in your letters, and making each one believe that he is the big thing in your life. It's much too early for a girl to do something like that when writing to young men in service. Better get down to earth and straighten this out before these two get home.

3-Handed Bridge Romance

By Mary Moore

Three-handed bridge always seemed like a dopey game to me —until a couple of months ago.

For two months, when I was at this desk, I have devoted my entire time to three things: preparing meals, attending church, building committee meetings and playing three-handed bridge.

At the meals and bridge games there was always one certain lady dark and handsome young man (he's the orchid-bearer—remember?) and Marianne.

We've chortled, changed our bidding systems, consumed gallons of coffee and managed to swap our life histories between hands—and he was the victor. He won the bridge games (because Marianne and I are such eternal optimists about that turned-down hand). He won the girl. He won her mother's heart too. He is so gentle with my little treasure I have not one doubt in my maternal heart about her future happiness.

You know what this means, don't you?

I have to stage a wedding—next spring that is, for Marianne, of course, will finish her nurses' training.

So, when you write me letters, asking what to serve at your daughter's wedding and how much to prepare for twenty-five or three hundred, I'll be all interested—intensely!

To get my checkie myself to this desk this morning took all of the discipline and will power I have, for Marianne and her father telephone calling her aunts and friends, entertaining our neighbors and friends (Eleanor and Barb) over coffee while she spills the news. It happened last night after our usual three-handed bridge game. If I were in my usual facetious trim I'd say "She's lovely! She's engaged! She uses Bowlz! But I'm modestly restrained. For her beloved is a R.M.C. graduate army officer and that means one thing—we will not be living in the same cities.

Her happiness is inexpressible from mine and there are fast trains and planes and cars to bridge the gap.

A few moments ago I asked Marianne what I should write about today and she said "Tell your readers how to make cocoa and grilled cheese sandwiches. That's what Herbie likes."

Since I am almost completely useless here it is:

MARIANNE'S COCOA

(Guaranteed to catch a man.)

In top of double boiler put 4 cups whole milk, and heat covered, over boiling water, until scalding hot. (There is a rule in our house that all milk is to be heated in double boiler. My kids (and myself) are far too prone to wander off and practice their music lessons or play another hand of bridge while waiting for milk to heat—and only fly to the kitchen when they hear it boiling over.) Mix together dry 4 or 5 (2) tablespoons cocoa and sugar. Then stir into the until smooth 1-2 cup hot water. Stir this into the hot milk, add a shake of salt, cover, and let heat until scalding hot. Beat with rotary beater until foamy. This amount makes six cups but there is never enough.

High School Has Successful 'Drama Night'

MADOC—On Monday evening, March 15, Madoc High School presented a successful "Drama Night".

Before the plays began, the audience was entertained by several piano selections played by Miss Hendricks.

The play "Her Majesty, the King" a one-act skit, was presented by grade 11 and introduced by Shirley Founder, under the direction of Mrs. Jean Orlando.

During the intermission, the choir, under the direction of Miss Ann Nickel, rendered two selections.

The minorettes sold home-made candy following the choir's numbers.

Ted Burnside introduced the grade 12 play "Miss Malaprop". It was a delightful comedy in two acts. Mr. T. B. Nelson efficiently directed the grade 12 play.

Following the evening's entertainment, the casts were guests of members of the staff at a party.

"Drama Night" was the beginning of a new venture which it is hoped will be an annual event at Madoc High School.

Three Canadian Plots in U. N. Korean Cemetery

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PUSAN, Korea (CP)—On a quiet hillside scarred red with the dust of this city is the United Nations military cemetery with its three Canadian plots.

It is skilfully planned for and beautifully landscaped by hundreds of Korean stone workers who have wrought from the rocky slopes of honor above the graves of up to 36 selected dead from the United Nations armies. The national plots are marked by the flags of each country on white poles with the blue-and-white emblem of UN in the background. The graves have two markers—one being repainted for use when the other is dulled by weather.

Sgt. Jack Brayley

The Christian graves are marked by crosses, Jewish graves by the star of David, Turkish by the star-and-crescent, Korean by a triangular-shaped slab. One grave of a British atheist is marked by a T-shaped wooden sign.

CANADIAN DIRECTOR

Representing the imperial war graves commission for the Commonwealth Division at the cemetery is Sgt. Walter W. Heindrich, of Picture Butte, Alta., a member of Lord Strathcona's Horse. He looks after records and photography of all Commonwealth graves supervises care by Korean labor and makes all the arrangements for burials. He also handles correspondence from inquiring relatives.

On entering the cemetery you see a great floral design with the letters UNMC for United Nations military cemetery.

The Canadian crosses bear number, rank, unit and date of the man's death. Some crosses also bear the man's identification tags.

A beautiful little chapel is often visited by relatives and friends.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop had to go away for 2 days on bizness, and ma said, Now William it's such a short trip, I dont see why you cant pack your own bag.

I can, my dear, dont I always pack it to come home? pop said. And I bet I do it one tenth the time it takes you, he said, and ma said, That's exactly the way it looks, everything jumbled in a shapeless mass like a jigsaw puzzle after an atom bomb.

Now listen carefully while I tell you exactly how to go about it. Oh dear, by the time I told you, I could have it done, she said.

That's sensible, pop said, and ma packed his bag and he waved goodbye out the taxi window, and said, G, ma are you going to write him a letter to tell him you miss him?

For land sakes he would be reddy to start home again by the time he got the letter, even if I wrote this minute, ma said, and I dont see why dont you send him a telegram?

Why dont you write a letter and ma told me the address of the hotel and gave me a stamp, and I took it out and mailed it before I went to bed, being, Dear pop, Your taxi probably hasn't hardly got to the station yet, so it's too soon to write and tell you I miss you, but I'll be missing you by the time you get this letter, because even one day without you is worse than one day with you. Just to give you one reason why, for instance, we'll probably have a bum lib over meel tomorrow nite just to celebrate the occasion. So when you come back, be sure to let ma know you'll be in time for dinner, so she wont make it a habit. Your loving son Benny Potts.

They said they found cattle dead in their stalls, some partially covered with manure. The first animal was believed to have died two weeks ago.

Veterinarian Dr. K. M. MacLennan, said he performed an autopsy on one animal and found death due to malnutrition. Cattle were too weak to reach a nearby creek for water and grain stored on the floor above them was not thrown down for feed.

Blow Selves Up

MONTEPLASCONE, Italy (AP) —A young couple, thwarted by parents in their desire to marry, blew themselves up with a hand grenade Sunday in Montefiascone's public garden.
